Dolphins, Steelers Tops

2 Division Titles Clinched

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Miami Dolphins, shooting for their third straight Super Bowl crown, and Pittsburgh Steelers, looking for their first ever, won division championships Sunday in the National Football League.

And Detroit Lions didn't fold, as two of the four National Conference representatives for the playoffs in two weeks are still undecided—four teams remain in the running as the NFL moves into the final week of its regular-season play.

"It's been a strange year," said Dolphin coach Shula after Miami edged Baltimore Colts 17-16 to win its fourth straight American Football Conference East title.

"At one time we were in third place in our own division but never doubted we'd win it. I've always kept the faith."

Franco Harris ground out 136 yards against New England Patriots as the Steelers went 32-17 and captured the AFC Central crown.

Detroit, meanwhile, beat Cincinnati Bengals 23-19, winning in the final 26 seconds, and they have it left in playoff picture:

American Conference — Buffalo at Pittsburgh; Miami at Oakland.

National Conference — St. Louis or Washington at Minnesota; St. Louis or Washington or Dallas or Detroit at Los Angeles.

Dallas beat Cleveland Browns 41-17 and Minnesota Vikings whipped Atlanta Falcons 23-10 in Saturday games.

The Cardinals are in the playoffs, regardless of what the other three teams do. A win by Washington Redskins tonight at Los Angeles against the Rams eliminates both Detroit and Dallas.

St. Louis needs either a victory or a Washington loss to win the NFC East title and a trip to Minnesota on Dec. 21. Otherwise, the Cardinals go to Los Angeles as the NFC's wildcard team.

Washington has to lose both of its remaining games and Dallas must beat Oakland next Saturday to get the NFC wildcard. Detroit needs a victory over Philadelphia plus losses by both Washington and Dallas for a chance.

Two playoff-bound teams lost Sunday. New York Jets, who Joe Namath making what may be his last home appearance, upset Buffalo Bills 20-10 and New Orleans Saints shocked the Carolina 14-6.

In Sunday's other games, Oakland Raiders edged Kansas City Chiefs 7-6, Denver Broncos trounced Houston Oilers 37-14, San Diego Chargers downed Chicago Bears 38-21, San Francisco 49ers shaded Green Bay Packers 7-6 and Philadelphia Eagles downed New York Giants 20-10.

Drought Ends For the Kings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kansas City-Omaha Kings ended a long victory drought at Detroit's Cobo Arena Sunday as they beat the Pistons 96-91 in a National Basketball Association game.

It was the first win for the Kings at Cobo Arena since Dec. 29, 1972—21 games ago. Kansas City-Omaha moved to within a half-game of the first-place Pistons in the NBA's Midwest Division with the victory.

Jimmy Walker and Nate Archibald scored 18 points apiece to lead the balanced Kings' attack. Bob Lanier had 25 for Detroit, 18 of them in the final period.

In Sunday's other NBA games, Washington Capitals defeated Cleveland Cavaliers 86-76, Boston Celtics beat New Orleans Jazz 111-101, Los Angeles Lakers trounced Phoenix Suns 107-103 and Atlanta Hawks downed Seattle Supersonics 103-95.

San Diego Conquistadors downed San Antonio Spurs 104-98 in Sunday's lone American Basketball Association game.

In Saturday's NBA games, New York Knicks downed Portland Trail Blazers 111-98, Philadelphia 76ers beat Buffalo Braves 107-96, Houston Rockets stopped Detroit 94-89, Phoenix topped Los Angeles 93-83 and Golden State Warriors whipped Seattle 123-96.

In ABA action Saturday, Indiana Pacers trimmed San Diego 112-108, New York Nets defeated Virginia Squires 103-98, Kentucky Colonels stopped the Spirits of St. Louis 119-109, Utah Stars shaded San Antonio 111-110 and Denver Nuggets trounced Memphis Sounds 139-125.

Elvin Hayes pumped in 18 of his 28 points in the third quarter as Washington posted its sixth straight victory. Phil Chenier topped the winners with 26 while Jim Cleamons and Mitch Snyder had 14 each for Cleveland.

Jo Jo White scored 21 points and John Havlicek and Paul Westphal added 20 apiece for Boston. Jim Barnett netted 30 points for the Jazz, who lost for the 23rd time in 25 outings.

Leotis Allen tossed in 19 points, had 12 assists and made seven steals as Los Angeles rallied from a 10-point third-quarter deficit. Charles Scott led Phoenix with 28 points.

Rookie John Drew scored 37 points for Atlanta as Paul Dwight Jones added 18. Spencer Haywood led Seattle with 18 points.

Plans 'Stoppage'

OHHA Looking For New Deal

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Harness Horsemen's Association (OHHA) voted Saturday to close down the winter meeting at Greenwood Raceway unless the Ontario Jockey Club (OJC) agrees to renegotiate the three-year contract between the two groups.

"I don't like the word strike," OHHA president Frankie Ehrlick of Toronto told a membership meeting at the track following Saturday's racing program. "I prefer stoppage."

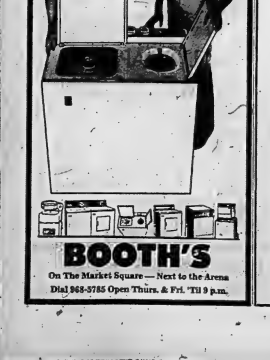
Following a two-week layoff beginning Dec. 17, the winter meeting is scheduled to resume New Year's Eve, but Ehrlick said the horsemen would withhold entries unless a new deal is reached.

The horsemen say the jockey club has violated the agreement, with the most contentious issue, being 1975 racing dates sought by the club.

"It's in our agreement that the jockey club would discuss any change of racing dates with us before applying to the Ontario racing commission for the dates," Ehrlick said.

He had learned that the OJC had applied to change the present structure of dates and he was opposed to a proposal that would extend the autumn meeting at Mohawk Raceway in Campbellville by two weeks, eliminating the present two-week autumn meeting at Greenwood.

"To keep us at Mohawk for those two weeks could cost the horsemen between $250,000 to $300 in purse money," Ehrlick said.



The horsemen receive 47 per cent of the jockey club's mutuel takeout on money handle. This autumn, Mohawk conducted a record average of $445,041 a card compared with the $385,500 average at Greenwood.

Stoke Determined to Stay on Top

LONDON (Reuter) — Stoke City's climb to the top of the English League First Division last week seems to have provided the soccer club with some added incentive.

Stoke displayed its determination to stay on top by routing three times in the first half Saturday, beating Birmingham 3-0 for Stoke's first away win in three months.

Two of the goals came from former Birmingham player Jimmy Greenhoff who was signed with a broken nose five minutes before half time.

Greenhoff opened the scoring in the 12th minute with a 25-yard shot and then passed to Ian Moores 13 minutes later to set up the second goal. Greenhoff then closed the scoring in the 38th minute with a header off a free kick by Alan Dodd.

Stoke now leads the First Division by one point over Everton and Manchester City. Everton scored a 3-0 rout at Leicester and Man City won 3-0 at home to Sheffield United.

Next with 25 points each are West Ham and Liverpool. Ipswich, in second place before Saturday's games, lost 3-0 to Middlesbrough.

"If we keep on playing like this, I don't see anybody stopping us," said Stoke manager Tony Waddington. "We have so many skilful players I can only see the team getting better."

Everton striker Martin Dobson with a leg injury in the 20th minute but won easily with goals from John Hurst and George Telfer.

Liverpool, without a win since the last week of October, rallied to force a 2-2 draw against Derby. Derby got the first goal from Jeff Bourne before Liverpool rallied with scores by Ray Kennedy and Steve Heighway. Roger Davies scored the tying goal for Derby.

West Ham moved into the top five for the first time by winning 3-1 at home to defending champion Leeds United.

Bobby Gould and Bill Jennings scored for West Ham before Duncan McKenzie got a late goal for Leeds.

Graham Souness scored twice in two minutes in Middlesbrough's win over Ipswich while Newcastle goalie Tony Bell allowed three goals in seven minutes to give Tottenham a 3-0 win.

Carlisle ended its string of six defeats by beating Arsenal 3-1 in a fight-marred match. The stretchers during the game.

Klammer Wins in Record Time

VAL D'ISERE, France (AP) — Franz Klammer, Austria's 20-year-old world ski champion, won the season's first World Cup downhill race in record time for the course and dropped up the combined title Sunday in the first Snow ski tournament.

Gustavo Caliombois of Switzerland, last year's downhill ace who beat Klammer in five of seven City events, bruised his spine in a fall and was expected to be out of action for at least a month.

The fast track caused a main assault on the course record set by Karl Schranz of Austria in 1972 when the first Habsburg in bettering the mark.

Klammer completed the 3.296-meter course, which drops 915 meters, in 2 minutes 1.19 seconds, more than 2½ seconds faster than Schranz's mark.

Klammer's team-mate, Werner Grissmann, was second in 2:04.01. A 17-year-old West German, Michael Veith, was a surprising third in 2:04.63, and Joseph Walcher of Austria was fourth in 2:04.98.

The top Canadian was Dave Murray of Vancouver, finishing 23rd in 2:07.70. He placed 11th in combined results with 61.29 points.

Jim Hunter of Calgary finished 24th in 2:08.31 while Dave Podhorsky of Toronto and Dave Irwin of Thunder Bay, Ont., tied for 31st in 2:09.11. Gary Aiken of Trail, B.C., was 37th in 2:09.57. In combined results, Podhorsky was 18th with 71.70 points.

Klammer won the combined with 8.13 points, followed by Norway's Eric Haker with 14.54 points and Italy's Piero Gros with 18.33. Haker was eighth in the downhill and third in Thursday's giant slalom. Gros, who won the giant slalom, was 34th in the downhill.

Klammer's victory was the second for the Austrian team on the weekend. Anne-Marie Proell-Moser won the women's giant slalom on Saturday, leading an Austrian sweep of the two places.

Mrs. Proell-Moser swept down the 2,771-foot course with a drop of 1,608 feet in a time of 1:32.32, beating team-mate Monika Kaserer by .32 seconds.

Fabienne Serrat of France was third in 1:32.82.

WHAT PRICE INCREASE?

The car you're now driving is worth more today. Why? Because the recent price changes have boosted the trade-in value of every car on the road. And since your old car is worth more, you may need less money to buy a new one. In fact, the actual cash difference between a new 1975 Chrysler produced and your old car is probably less today than it was a year ago. That's why Chrysler buyers tell their friends: "What price increase?"

In addition: With all the items that are standard features on 1975 Chrysler products — which a year ago you paid extra for — you'll be dollars ahead with a 1975 Chrysler product from Motorland Chrysler.

ROCKALL — In loving memory of a dear father Raymond George Rockall, passed away Dec. 9, 1973.
Dad, you left us very suddenly,
When a cure was not to be.
You suffered pain, but bore it well,
And whispered some home with me.
Dad, I'm glad I was there when you were called,
And as He gave you rest,
Dad's garden must be tended,
Flowers must be watered,
Sadly missed and always remembered by Mother, Ruth and Jean-84-1st Addn.

STAINFIELD (Ord) — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother Annie E. Ord, who passed away Dec. 9, 1973.

Someday when life's journey is over,
We shall be together again.
Lovingly remembered by her family.

Shadow Resides In Desert

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Who knows what lurks in the heart of Palm Springs? The Shadow knows.

Brett Morrison, who was the Shadow on radio from 1944 to 1954, is just one of many from radio's golden age who live in this desert resort.

In the heyday of network radio, this once-sleepy little desert village often figured in broadcasts. It has long been the entertainment industry's favorite watering hole and many have come to stay.

Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll broadcast their Amos 'n' Andy show from the tower of the El Mirador Hotel for six weeks in the early 1930s. Gosden lives in Palm Springs today. Correll died in 1957.

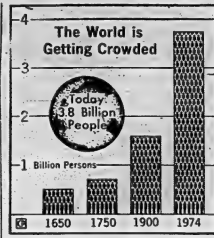
Other former radio personalities living here are Red Skelton; Norris Goff, who was the Abner half of Lum 'n' Abner; musical director Lud Gluskin; announcer Frank Barton; Irving Kaufman, who was Lazy Dan, the Minstrel Man; and writer Alyce Walker.



Many of the performers moved into television, but they still believe that radio was better.

"Radio was a theatre of the mind," Morrison said. "People became their own art directors, their own costume designers. In the old days of radio, every set was a color set.

"Radio gave listeners a chance to use their minds to imagine and create. It was like reading a good book."

GOOD PERFORMANCE

LONDON (CP) — During a five-week world tour, the Rolls-Royce-powered Lockheed Tri Star travelled more than 1,000 miles without a mechanical delay. It made nearly 80 flights and was in the air for 123 hours.

Crowded

At the time of Christ, it is estimated that the population of the globe totalled between 200 and 300 million. Today it stands at about 3.8 billion and is increasing at the rate of two persons per second. Experts have expressed hope that the world's population may level off in about 100 years at somewhere between 8 and 13 billion. A Pretty wide range.

In 1830, the world was inhabited by about 545 million people and by 1930 it had grown to 728 million, but the tempo increased and by 1968, the total was 1.6 billion. Today it has more than doubled. (CP Newsmap)

Harrison Draws Little Interest

TORONTO (CP) — George Harrison, the former Beatle, gave a pair of concerts Friday at Maple Leaf Gardens.

And those who held the greatest expectations, the ticket scalpers, were disappointed.

"People don't want to see George Harrison, man," said Abraham Khalil, who describes himself as a professional scalper. "He's losing his voice. He hasn't the voice and he hasn't the band. Man, he has nothing."

"I do this for a living and I've never seen such a flop."

Two other scalpers, who call themselves the Scalper Brothers, said they had $200 worth of tickets to the concerts. They said they would be lucky to get back their investment.

COFFEE BREAKS

WELLAND, Ont. (CP) — The Port Colborne Kinettes has donated 48 coffee mugs to ABC Industries workshop of the Port Colborne Association for the Mentally Retarded.

Showbiz Shorts

MONTREAL (CP) — "This song was written by some old friends of mine," George Harrison said. "Let's Send Our Love to John, Paul and Ringo."

And the band launched into Its My Life from those early Beatle days. But the former Beatle's two appearances at the Forum on Sunday aroused little Beatle nostalgia.

With noted musicians such as Billy Preston, Tom Scott and Jim Keltner playing alongside, in addition to a 16-man troupe of Indian musicians, the concerts presented a curious blend of music forms.

However, heeled-up verdicts of earlier Harrison hits like Something, While My Guitar Gently Weeps and My Sweet Lord, which he played as an encore, kept many of the 13,000 fans at each concert on their feet most of the time.

Preston sparked much of the excitement with throbbing versions of two of his big hits, Will Go Round in Circles and Nothing From Nothing while providing some spectacular keyboard work in other numbers.

Harrison, 31, looked relaxed, but the toll of his first concert tour in eight years was beginning to show. His voice, which has never been strong, failed in several times.

Your Horoscope

BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Tuesday, December 10

ARIES (March 21-April 20) You will come out well in any dealings that you have with older individuals, especially if it's a joint venture.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20) Rather than jump to conclusions where a friend is concerned, give her the benefit of the doubt. She won't let you down.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Conditions are favorable today regarding your career, although you may not get material benefits yet. Soon, you'll be rewarded monetarily.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You will be able to spot opportunity in situations today that aren't evident to others. Act on your own, if necessary.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 23) The timing is favorable to bring to a conclusion a matter that has been a source of irritation lately. Hold out for your terms.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't be hesitant about tackling big ideas today. If your approach is practical and well thought out, you'll turn quite well.

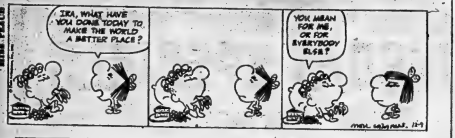
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Devote as much time as possible now to your most ambitious interests. You'll be compensated handsomely for well-directed efforts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Creative risks to promote you advance at this time in situations where you alone have absolute control or authority.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 21) You're fortunate today. Others will be looking out for your interests and doing a better job of it than you could yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 20) You'll find you're lucky in areas where you can deal with several people at the same time, rather than negotiating on a one-to-one basis.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In areas where you really focus your efforts, you'll find that achievement is now possible. Set definite goals.



PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Do more than feel dreamy about your plans. Small steps taken at this time will make larger strides possible in the near future.

Hard to Handle

PARIS (CP) — French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing was the backing of his Common Market partners today for a conference of oil-producing, oil-consuming and developing countries, informed sources said.

In exchange for support from the other eight European heads of government at their meeting here, Giscard d'Estaing agreed to preliminary consultations by the industrialized oil users in advance of the main conference.

France has hitherto been opposed to separate meetings among the consumer countries for fear of giving the impression of ganging up against the oil-producing states.

The sources said today's accord was a compromise between the positions of France and the United States, which has sought a common front of oil-consuming nations.

The other eight Common Market countries have accepted this policy and joined the U.S.-led International Energy Agency, but France has stayed out and seeks separate deals with the Arabs to insure the French oil supply.

Kissinger Seeks Pact On Cyprus

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger today becomes directly involved in solving the Cyprus problem.

After landing in Brussels, Kissinger was to meet separately with Mehl Sherif, Turkey's foreign minister, and Dimitri Bitsios of Greece.

All three will be attending the North Atlantic Treaty Organization foreign ministers' meeting starting on Wednesday.

Kissinger twice scheduled trips to Turkey and Greece since the Cyprus situation erupted last summer, but postponed them primarily because of the lack of a government in Ankara.

Giscard d'Estaing is meeting President Ford on the French Caribbean island of Martinique next Saturday.

The European chiefs met Monday for four hours and agreed that recession and unemployment are a greater danger to stability than inflation. They also agreed that the West's economic slump is "of exceptional seriousness," Belgian Premier Leo Tindemans reported.

They decided to favor economic expansion, co-ordinate their battle against inflation and avoid barriers to world trade, spokesmen said.

"Although no one mentioned the United States by name, it

United States would have to was clearly understood that the join this effort for it to succeed," said one source, and Japan, too, would have to be tied in with the European leaders' plans.

The leaders also agreed to meet three times a year to co-ordinate their actions more closely than in the past. But Prime Minister Harold Wilson, insisting Britain's bid to negotiate new terms of its membership in the community, blocked a French proposal to elect a European parliament by direct vote. And he reserved the right to veto the majority's decision on any matter deemed to be in Britain's vital interests.

U.S. Will Outline Accord's Meaning

BRUSSELS (AP) — U.S. Defence Secretary James Schlesinger today was to give North Atlantic Treaty Organization members the U.S. government's assessment of what the Vladivostok agreement between President Ford and Leonid Brezhnev will mean to the alliance.

Schlesinger was to spend twice today at the annual winter meeting of NATO—in the nuclear planning group, which works out guidelines for the tactical use of nuclear weapons, and in the defence planning committee, which is primarily concerned with conventional weapons.

The American defence chief said Monday he hopes the Ford-Brezhnev decision to draw up agreement limiting Soviet and U.S. strategic nuclear weapons launch delivery systems is the forerunner of a ceiling on forces stationed in Western Europe.

He said the future of "forward based systems"—planes that can carry nuclear weapons from Western Europe into the Soviet Union and vice versa—may be discussed in the East-West talks on force reductions that have been dragging on in Vienna for more than a year.

Schlesinger is under pressure from Congress to reassess the U.S. nuclear armory in Europe. Defence Minister Henk Vredeling of the Netherlands told reporters Monday his government will suggest later this week that the U.S. offer to remove some 7,000 tactical nuclear weapons it keeps in Europe, lis said in exchange the Soviets might be willing to reduce their huge superiority in tanks.

An MBFR meeting winds up with the foreign ministers' twoday session Thursday and Friday.

Mills Won't Seek To Keep Key Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representative Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.) will not seek reappointment as chairman of the House of Representatives ways and means committee, Speaker Carl Albert said today.

Albert told reporters he had received a call from Bethesda Naval Hospital, where Mills is under treatment, and "pointed going into details, Mr. Mills, due to his health and on the recommendation of his doctors, is not going to seek the chairmanship of the ways and means committee."

Albert said that any decisions as to whether Mills will wage to continue as a member of the committee will be made later and that there was no specific discussion of whether Mills might resign from Congress.

Albert said the call was made on Mills's behalf by another member of Congress who is a close friend of the ailing chairman. He declined to name this congressman.

Unemployment Rises Again in November

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment rose once more in November, primarily because of a drop in full-time employment of women, Statistics Canada reported today.

The November rate was 5.5 per cent. The figure is adjusted to discount for seasonal employment factors and compares with 5.4 per cent for October. The highest unemployment rate for the year to date was recorded in September, when 5.8 per cent of the labor force was jobless.

The higher unemployment last month was almost entirely among women. The rate for women over 25 increased to 5.2 per cent from three per cent and for women younger than 25 the rate went to 8.7 per cent from eight per cent in October. After increasing in each of the last three months, the unemployment rate for men over 25 stabilized in November at four per cent, the same rate as that recorded for October. The rate also was unchanged at 12.3 per cent for men under 25.

Unemployment rose in the three largest-populated provinces—Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia—and in New Brunswick and Manitoba. It was down in Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The actual unemployment rate—not counting those with seasonal jobs—was 693,000, or 5.1 per cent of the 6,882,000 in the labor force.

Comparative figures for November 1973 are 488,000 which was five per cent of the 9,397,000 in the labor force.

The figures for full-time employment underline the improved job situation for men in November, and the deterioration in jobs for women.

The number of men with full-time jobs rose to 5,871,000 from 5,857,000 in October. These figures discount those with seasonal jobs.

But for women, the seasonally-adjusted total for employment dropped to 2,283,000 last month from 2,412,000 in October. The November total is the same as that for September. This total has moved up and down for several months.

Provinces to Choose Sides Today in Battle Over Oil

OTTAWA (CP) Provincial governments will choose sides again today over the resource tax issue as the federal government continues campaigning for support in its fight with oil-producing provinces.

Finance ministers from the two levels of government were devoting a major share of their annual meeting to the question of sharing resource taxes after listening to the federal minister, John Turner, outline a plan for raising inflation.

Representatives of Alberta and Saskatchewan—the two oil-producing provinces—made their arguments before the Monday session ended.

Ministers from the other provinces were to make their statements today.

Raymond Garneau of Quebec said he intended to propose compromise and John White of Ontario said he was ready to help reconcile the differences. But both declined comment on prospects for a solution to the resource tax issue.

Mr. White said the fight over oil and gas revenue is hurting investor confidence. If governments "don't play fair with resource investment is the sector sectors of the economy might drop off.

Gordon Miniely of Alberta followed up on earlier government statements about maintaining a healthy petroleum industry.

"Your harsh measures have left Alberta with no choice out in take steps to bolster selectively the industry's position," he said referring to measures in Mr. Turner's Nov. 18 budget.

The budget steps corporations from claiming provincial royalties as a deductible expense in computing federal tax.

The three westernmost provinces previously had increased royalties. Mr. Turner considered royalties—a payment for depleting a non-renewable resource—to be a disguised tax.

The federal minister said the provinces should lower their rates and the corporations extended that the federal-provincial tax squeeze did not leave sufficient money for exploration.

Saskatchewan already has provided direct incentives for exploration.

The two producing provinces argue that federal officials have a distorted view of the tax spit because they do not count an export tax on crude oil sold to the United States. This tax is used to subsidize eastern refiners—and indirectly, consumers—which must import crude oil. The result is a two-price system with the Canadian domestic price of $6.50 a barrel being about $2 below the world price.

Mr. Miniely said the producing provinces gave up $3.8 billion this year by agreeing to the two-price system.

The agreement was made in March at a meeting between the premiers and Prime Minister Trudeau. There was no transcript of the private meeting held at Mr. Trudeau's residence.

Saskatchewan officials contend that federal budget measures violate the March agreement.

A Saskatchewan official said here Monday that if a new oil agreement is reached, "we'll want it signed in triplicate."

Fast Rise Predicted In U.S. Food Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The agriculture department says that despite a worsening recession, retail food prices in the United States may rise as fast during the first half of 1975 as they did this year.

Supermarket prices may go up at an annual rate of 15 per cent, "barring a sharp collapse in domestic and world demand," said J. DeWitt Ahalt, a staff economist presenting the department's analysis of the food price outlook.

Ellen Zavel, president of the National Consumers Congress, said in response to Ahalt's report that "The prospects of another 15 to 20 per cent increase in food prices is mindboggling." Food prices in the U.S. last year increased 14.5 per cent and have increased about another 18 per cent so far this year.

"If weather co-operates in the U.S. and around the world, and economic activity weakens more than expected, production increases relative to demand growth could be quite large, leading to significant slowing in price levels," Ahalt said.

Conversely, with world grain stocks at precariously low levels, another year of poor growing conditions, at a time when world food needs are expanding, could ignite a rapid pace of food price advances throughout 1975."

St. Nick

The jolly old gentleman himself was the centre of all attention Monday night in Picton. More than 65 underprivileged children were guests of the Picton Kinsmen and Kiwanis clubs at a Christmas party. Treats and gifts were distributed to the appreciative youngsters.

Santa Spreads Cheer To Needy Children

PICTON — More than 65 youngsters selected by the Children's Aid Society received a real Christmas cheer Monday night when Santa came to town to visit them at the Salvation Army Hall.

A party jointly organized by the Picton Kinsmen and Kiwanis Clubs here provided an enjoyable Christmas atmosphere for the tots living in the Prince Edward County.

"These kids really appreciate the Christmas parties," remarked Sheldon Whittaker, a spokesman for the Kinsmen Club.

"If you could see their faces when Santa Claus comes in, it makes us feel good inside, knowing that they're happy," added Raymond Smith, chairman of the Kiwanis Club.

The 12th annual Christmas party was made possible by the help of local merchants, who donated merchandise or food or sold it at low cost.

Local senior citizen knitted 125 pairs of mitts for the children, a project they undertake every year.

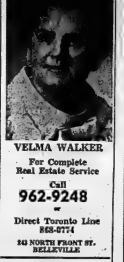
The ladies' auxiliary from both clubs helped to wrap the gifts and serve the meals for the youngsters.

During the party the children were entertained with films tickled by a couple of "crazy clowns", led in songs by Salvation Army Capt. Colin Lewery, and greeted by Santa.

Province Wants Dump Moved

PICTON — Picton town council has been cautioned by the ministry of the environment that its municipal dump site should be transferred to a more suitable location by the summer of 1975.

Senior environmental officer, J.W. Tooley stated in a letter to council he had inspected the waste disposal site in October, 1974. At the time of his inspection it was estimated refuse was being deposited "very close to the finishing edge of the required 100-foot buffer zone —".



Mr. Tooley added council has been told in the past the ministry is "not totally in agreement" with a landfill being operated in this location. Council should make efforts to acquire lands suitable for development into a waste disposal site that would be more acceptable than the present location.

It was suggested an alternative would be a contractual agreement with a waste collection and disposal firm.

"A waste-handling and disposal means acceptable to this ministry should be in effect by the summer of 1975," observed Mr. Tolley.

Chairman of council's public works committee, Russell Alexander said he and town engineer David Rickman have discussed the dump site and have "something in mind." No action has been taken, however, and with the end of council's term this month it would be difficult to proceed.

Council agreed to refer Mr. Tooley's letter to the public works committee for reply.

Heights Cancels Fire Protection

PICTON — Prince Edward Heights, the provincial government centre for the mentally retarded, has terminated its fire protection agreement with the town of Picton. The township of Hallowell and Picton will negotiate to provide continued fire protection coverage.

The decision was explained to council by town clerk Andrew Jarvis, who referred to a letter from provincial treasurer John White sent to Hallowell clerk John Mallory.

Mr. White noted the Prince Edward Heights centre is in Hallowell Township but fire-fighting equipment from Picton could arrive on the scene about 10 minutes faster in an emergency. Therefore, he has directed Hallowell Township to enter an Agreement with the town of Picton for fire protection at the Heights.

In an interview following Monday's council session Mr. Jarvis said the province pays a hospital bed grant to Hallowell and considers it a grant in lieu of taxes for Prince Edward Heights. The government feels cost of fire protection should be paid by the municipality receiving the grant.

Under a new agreement, Hallowell Township will pay Picton for protection for the Heights.

Terms of the old agreement required the ministry of government services to reimburse the town for fire protection services.

Council expressed concern about interim fire protection for the Heights.

Reeve Ross Cronkwright said the Picton fire department is standing by and will respond to any alarms although the protection agreement has expired.

Non-residents Face Recreation Surcharge

By AL ZARAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Non-residents of Trenton will be surcharged for participation in town recreation programs as Trenton's recreation committee makes an effort to end increasing operating deficits in its hockey, figure skating and swimming programs.

The surcharge — $5 for children, $10 for adults — will not apply to non-residents who pay taxes in the town.

Council learned of the committee's decision Monday.

The move comes after neighbouring councils did not respond with pledges to offset a proportionate percentage of Trenton's costs from municipal coffers.

In September, town council asked surrounding townships to pay a lump sum to the town to cover their residents use of Trenton facilities. As an alternative, out of town residents would be surcharged per program.

Percentage-wise, residents of Murray and Sidney Townships will be hardest hit by the surcharge.

In the minor hockey program, over 30 per cent of the participants are from Sidney, while 13 per cent come from Murray. Sidney has 18 per cent of the enrolment and Murray 11 per cent in the figure skating program.

Non-residents Take 3 -

In swimming programs, Brighton shows a 18 per cent usage by its residents.

Both Sidney and Murray Townships councils decided in October to hold back on any decision to pay out funds to Trenton. Murray is already committed to support Frankford and Brighton recreation programs. Sidney council wanted to discuss Trenton's levy with its recreation committee.

In speaking to council Monday, recreation director Deno Gatlas said special consideration will not be given to town residents for placement in town programs. He was responding to a question from councillor Harold Price who asked whether all program vacancies will first be filled with Trenton residents.

Mr. Gattas said surcharges will be refunded, in part or in full, if the municipality of an out-of-town resident agrees to pay Trenton's request in the future.

Five-dollar Increase For Crossing Guards

TRENTON — Trenton's 20 school crossing guards will receive a $54-week increase retroactive to Sept. 3 this year, council decided here Monday.

The raise increases the guards' weekly wage to $33, bringing their salaries —used primarily to supplement fixed incomes or pensions — in line with wages in Brighton and Belleville.

Councillors agreed to comply with a request made by several crossing guards in a letter to council.

The increase means an outlay by the town of approximately $1,000 this year. An additional $4000 will be spent over the school year in 1975.

In other council business Monday, councillors agreed to recind a bylaw which provided for council's inaugural meeting on Jan. 2 at 11 a.m. A new bylaw, proposed by Robert Wannamaker, and passed Monday calls for the inaugural meeting to be held on the first Monday of January at 6 p.m. This year it would be Jan. 6.

Council also approved by-law the $8,625 purchase of six additional pieces of property on Water St. To date, 21 small parcels of land have been bought for the widening of Water St. prior to redirecting traffic from Front St. north to Highway 33.

After 16 Years

The name of Kari Mallette may not be well known, but there was a lot about life and its ups and downs and courage in a recent Globe and Mail account of Mr. Mallette's fortunes, or rather misfortunes, in Toronto politics.

Mr. Mallette, who had inserted an election ad in Time magazine, is chairman of the Toronto Transit Commission. He had run for the Scarborough board of control — and finished last.

It was a sort of "how are the mighty fallen" scenario at next day's transit meeting; when The Globe's Christie Blatchford noted that Mr. Mallette "didn't look much like the tabby tiger of his controversial ad . . . but he played it."

There was silence, because: everyone sensed the drama of a man losing after 16 years in politics. But Metro chairman Paul Godfrey was equal to the occasion; he shook hands with Mallette and a retiring alderman presenting a brief told a story about John L. Sullivan. Knocked to the floor, and told by someone in the audience he was a "has-been," the boxer replied: "I'd much rather be a has-been than a never-was."

Perhaps the story was apocryphal, but it drew a smile from the man who had been defeated.

Afterwards, Mallette talked about the insecurity of politics, its temporal nature and — as his experience — worried about not being liked on an individual basis. A union hating you, well that was understandable, and he could handle it, but there had been the two TTC employees, directing newsmen to the meeting, and one had said: "This is where it's happening today, Mallette's out. Hey, don't forget to autograph that menu, you'll want to show him what he's going to do, eh?" And the two men laughed. (Mallette had quit a production job he had held for 22 years).

And there are the people who are "vilelanguaged" on the phone . . . and the 12 strikers sitting on his ex-wife's porch, intimidating her . . . and, "it's all right for me, I can fight back or set the record straight, but the children get picked on at school;" and one of his daughters working at a hospital, and his sister, both getting "flak." That sort of thing upset him.

A union man himself when he worked, a veteran of 19 consecutive labor parades, Mallette none the less said he didn't like "the mob psychology." An example: at a meeting, 98 per cent voted for a strike; two days later, in private session, 75 per cent voted for a return to work. As Irish author St. John Ervine once put it: when a mob is a weak and leaderless thing, subject to panic and emotion, and easily dominated by empty eloquence."

Perhaps Mr. Mallette and his family will have a quieter time now. But the silence could be deafening, the withdrawal from battle even more unnerving. (What to do — retire to a tropic isle, or take up the cudgels once more, in some other sphere)? First, there could be that little matter of a job.

Guarding Our Shores

What with the decommissioning of a number of destroyers, along with the reference cutbacks, our armed services these days are not receiving much encouragement.

Contrariwise, there is the spectacle, ironic in the circumstances, of advertisements being inserted encouraging young people to make a career in the services.

Where our naval arm is concerned, however, it appears a new role has been found for the destroyer. One of these is reported to be acting as a fisheries patrol vessel. In this capacity the unnamed vessel has been investigating Soviet fishing activities in the Atlantic. It sent boarding parties to five such ships, but found nothing amiss, before heading for another group.

Indeed, the presence of Soviet fishing fleets around our shores, and the inability of surveillance units to keep tabs on them all, has long been a source of anxiety here.

If naval vessels that otherwise would be placed in mothballs can be used for fishery protection, this is all to the good. They have the added merit of speed and extra clout should it be needed. From a security as well as a territorial standpoint, Ottawa can do no less.

Will Grits Weather Current Storms ?

Shades Of 1956 As The PCs Probe Government Defences

by RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA- The few who are still around Parliament Hill and remember it . . . yes . . would be surprised at the turnover of personnel in the press and politics — will suggest that there is just a hint of similarity between 1956 and 1974.

What sort of similarity?

Well, it has to be in the Commons - for the Senate never changes.

And it is a difficult-to-define similarity of atmosphere.

Just the faintest whiff in the political wind of what could be a rising storm.

Prime Minister Trudeau, being more specific — but not necessarily with the sort of a tempest in the Commons, in mind — has spoken of what he terms "the bad atmosphere."

And Conservative Leader Stanfield, clearly sensitive to what obviously is becoming an electric and swiftly-changing situation has referred to the Prime Minister's lack of personal control — plain for all to see and hear.

He has called it, in the Commons, with the Conservatives cheering, the New Democrats laughing, and the Liberals heeling, "black-mailing."

Or, in other words, Pierre Trudeau blowing his top.

You remember 1956 perhaps? The year the seemingly impregnable Liberal administration of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent lost its grip, let its control of the Commons crumble in chaos and confusion, and tottered towards its collapse in 1957?

It was the end of 22 until then, unbroken years of Liberal rule, first under Prime Minister Mackenzie King, and then with his personally-selected successor, the gentlemanly St. Laurent.

The Liberals in 1956 appeared to be in towering strength.

The count in the Commons, the plain political arithmetic told the story: Liberals, 178 — Conservatives 51.

The old Co-operative Commonwealth Federation had 23, Social Credit 13, and there were 10 Independents.

George Drew, the Conservative leader never a federal election winner, was under party pressure to resign and would be leaving.

Louis St. Laurent and his deputy, Trade Minister C. D. "Trader" Howe, fanned as "Minister of Everything," exhorted a rule so absolute that when asked how he figured to get away with buying a gold piano for every regiment in the Canadian Army if he felt like it, tough, old "C.D." grinned and said: there are.

"Gold pianos in those days of carefree federal spending were considered such extravagances that even "C. D." wasn't buying that.

He was only bidding — but his gesture, like his choice of flower, the power and Liberal glory.

Then came the issue of the gas pipeline from west to east — with the feds lending a few millions to what Conservatives called "mad Americans" to finance it — and the mighty Liberal establishment came apart.

There was wild disorder in the House.

George Hees and John Diefenbaker were born and had a hand in it.

They are still here, and starting to sniff the wind.

No, there is no pipeline issue. But there are issues with the potential for political explosion.

Spain's Political Never-Never Land

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Spain is in an inter-regnum whose end is nowhere in sight. Where Franco's state goes after his departure, no one can say for sure.

And with the examples of Greece and Portugal where right-wing regimes with strong military support were turned by quickly, changing events, the Spanish left made up of the still pre-civil war and civil-squabbling combination of Socialists, Anarchists and Communists, now anticipate a bigger chance for power when General Franco has gone.

This event, anticipated by restless Spaniards in politics and industry, is referred to discreetly in Spain this fall and winter as the time of his "disappearance."

Even if he lives for an indefinite period the "post-Franco era" has begun in Spain.

Every identifiable political element which the regime will permit to function, and the list gets longer yearly, is jockeying openly for position.

Technically there is only one party allowed in Spain, the "National Movement" of the Falange party which controls the trade unions (syndicates) through the new-tattered Fascist-style syndicalist structure of union and management.

Even though the Falange itself is showing new strength and mobilizing its followers for an uncertain future, the fabric of Spanish politicking has been shredded severely in the last decade by growing labor strikes, also technically illegal in Spain.

The area while Spain's economic recovery continues at an impressive rate, the resenting labor unrest threatens to unseat the regime more than any other political activities.

Throughout the industrial triangle of Bilbao, Barcelona and Madrid, companies are torn by strikes, France's big Renault auto plant in Spain was partially stroyed by a $10-million blaze which is a result of strikes against it.

The same fate was shared by the Leyland plant in bordering conservative and quiescent Pamplona in the north.

Within political groups identifiable as Monarchists, Christian Democrats, Social Democrats manoeuvre for some kind of future role and are permitted to make statements in public, the government makes more efforts at what it calls "liberalization."

Meantime, the Catholic church, a pillar of Francoism during and after the civil war, is is quiet revolt against General Franco and the apparatus which links church and state through a 1953 concordat giving it the authority to select Spain's new bishops.

The church has been speaking out more and more since the late 1960s against the many social grievances of the regime in Spain. And in contravention of the self-same concordat, hundreds of priests have been detained and arrested by the state political activities.

In the restless Basque province of the south, where separatism is growing, the association of the church with separatists and striking labor groups is open and well-known.

France's preparations for "Francoism beyond the grave," in the law of succession of 1947 which will make a member of the Spanish royal family king on his passing. Juan Carlos is his choice and the choice of a hierarchy immediately after Franco looks good.

For the long-term, the projection is anyone's guess. And as usual with Spain in an inter-regnum, the crazy, aloof and loyal to Franco, remains the big question mark.

Landowner Fights Takeover Bid

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

Almost anyone who has taken the trouble to think about the disappearance of farm land in southern Ontario will give you the same solution. Generally speaking, he will say, it is bad that good producing land should be turned into paved streets, bordered by brick and concrete structure. Future urban development should be on land that is poorly suited to growing crops.

Generally is the way people speak about it. In any particular case there seems to be some convincing argument for making an exception, and converting yet another farm to a housing development or a factory site.

Alan Auerbach is unusual. He owns three acres of land, zoned agricultural, in the middle of a 650 acre tract between Hallman Road and Erbsville Road, just south of Waterloo. There are proposals

"Because I live, ye shall live also." John 14:19

The life of Christ insured us of His dedication. His death assured us of our Salvation, and His resurrection assured all believers of eternal separation with Him in heaven.

Evidence Of Guerrilla Atrocities Revealed by Freedom Pamphlet

...The following is an extract from an article on Terrorism by Washington in The Toronto Sun. It surveys the spread of terrorism as a political weapon throughout the world — from Israeli not the Arab terror of recent years ago, to the Palestinian and African variety today. It indicates how terrorism has gained legitimacy even in the councils of United Nations, how, unwillingly or otherwise, it has gained access to the most widely-asserted sources as the Canadian government (and through it the Canadian public) and the World Council of Churches. The article further reveals should give us further pause when we are considering the political trends of the day. For as he points out, terrorism is a two-edged sword, either Fortunately, he suggests its recent successes started taking strong measures against terrorism.

A ghastly pamphlet called Anatomy of Terror has been sent to MPs, academics, editors, business leaders and libraries.

It is being distributed by a group called Friends of Rhodesia, and it documents various atrocities committed by guerrilla groups that seek to overthrow the government of Rhodesia.

There is no way for an outsider to know who committed the atrocities — pulling of a woman's upper lip with pliers, burning people to death with sticks, outright murder by gun, bayonet and club. But they fit the conventional mode of political terrorism in the name of freedom' and liberation. The document is enough to give pause to those who disagree with White Africa's views, and believe in justice, independence, majority rule. Most of the victims of 'freedom fighters' are not white governments, but ordinary people innocent of everything except being caught in the middle.

After citing the terror in Kenya, by the Germans in Yugoslavia (one of the few places where it failed to cow the population), or the Israeli prior to the birth of their nation in 1947, by black nationalists in the Belgian Congo, by the Communist Chinese, in the Portuguese territories, in Algeria, Vietnam, Algeria, Uganda, Northern Ireland and the Middle East, Northington concludes:"No blame to the Palestinians who have come up with a bloody formula that works. Terrorism has been persuaded' the United Nations to bring Palestine to the forum . . .

"There are even reports out of Cairo that some airlines pay 'insurance' — or blackmail — to terror groups, to ensure that their aircraft aren't hijacked. If true, it means a continuing source of funds and financing.

"As far as the mastery of Terror booklet is concerned, it would be interesting to know the reaction of the clergy and humanitarians whose conscience persuaded them to support terrorism in the name of liberation.

"The booklet suggests this is what Canada has bought through its military aid programs to Tanzania and Zambia; through CIDA's (Canadian International Agency) 'humanitarian' aid to Southern West Africa; through CUSO's (Canadian University Service Overseas) encouraging revolutionary movements in backward countries; through CUSO/Aid's concept of 'social change', and through the World Council of Churches active, albeit unwitting contribution to terrorism and human misery.

"Freedom for Rhodesia and South Africa are about the only countries of Africa which permit a change of government by vote — even if it's only the White minority that is permitted free choice. Most countries of Africa are in the grip of military dictators or one-party oligarchies.

"Peaceful change and civilization lets it succeed. What will happen to Terror if it succeeds is to all if the world doesn't come to its senses and defends itself."

Isolation Cell Grim Experience

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

It should come as no surprise that the federal government is getting some inmates in isolation cells for the full 15 days. However complaints as compiled by prison ombudsman Ron Hansen. Miss Hansen, appointed a year ago to handle inmate grievances, recently presented her first report to the House of Commons Justice Committee. She suggested that a study be undertaken to find the value - if any - of isolation cells.

The request is a valid one, not because it is a popular issue but inmate is not the only one left in the dark" with reduced diet and almost no exercise, to keep him from trouble - making himself trouble-maker, or to keep him from being harassed, whichever the case. If "the hole" is necessary to prevent form these two useful functions, then it should be retained.

Several inmates have already committed suicide while in "the hole". That's several too many.

Poland As A Place To Retire

Minneapolis Tribune

"In Poland, old people still command respect," a visitor from States, the so-called senior citizen is, in fact, a disadvantaged class. Those are the words of a retired American professor of law and sociology who has chosen to spend his retirement in Poland.

Professor Hall has chosen to spend his last years in Poland because of his living there is cheaper and he is better treated. About 1,500 American pensioners now live in Poland. Some of them have modest savings, but most are living entirely on their U.S. Social Security benefits — and much more comfortably than they could at home. Part of the reason is that American pensioners in Poland get a special kind of deal on the dollar; but part of it, too, is that living generally are much lower.

In the past almost all of the Americans - males especially - were retired to Poland have been Polish-Americans, but recently a growing number of Americans who are not of Polish origin have been applying for residence in Poland. The increase in the number of American pensioners who want to live in Poland is not an isolated trend. It is part of a larger trend, which in the last 15 years has seen a doubling of the number of retired Americans settling down over-seas. About 70,000 retired or disabled U.S. citizens now receive their benefits abroad, says the Social Security Administration. Many of these, apparently, left America because they no longer felt wanted at home.

Girls' Hockey Training Program

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

I am writing in answer to your editorial of November 19 concerning girls and sports.

The girls here have started a Hockey Training Program for girls from 9 to 16 years of age this year. We also have a Junior Girls Hockey Team from 12 to 16 and a Senior Hockey Team for girls over 16.

All girls play at the Dick Ellis Rink on Sundays.

Seniors - 12.15 p.m.
Juniors - 4.00 p.m.
Hockey Training Program 4.35 p.m.

We are still accepting registrations for both Junior leagues.

For the past two years girls have been playing house right along with the boys. The first year we only had one team in the bantam division. This past year we had eight little girls in the novice league also. They had a ball good playing, and I can ask their coach: one even came over to help coach girls hockey.

One of our girls won the most valuable Player of the Year in the Bantam Division. Her name is Janice Bennett.

The British battleship Prince of Wales and the battle-cruiser Repulse were sunk by Japanese bombs and torpedoes off the Malay coast 33 years ago today—in 1941. The Prince of Wales had been completed earlier the same year. The two warships were trapped by Japanese bombers as they sailed to intercept Japanese transports approaching Malaya. Some 2,300 of the 3,000 men were rescued after the sinkings.

Council Rejects Park Camping

TRENTON — A provision for picnic areas, but not for camping grounds, in the concept plan for Centennial Park will be recommended to Trenton consultants at work on plans to redesign Trenton's major waterfront park.

Inclusion of camping grounds in the park, town recreation director Dana Gettas told council Monday, is contrary to an existing parks board bylaw.

Barring any change in policy by council, the parks board recommendation will be forwarded to planning consultants Johnson Sustronk Weinstein and Associates Ltd.

Under questioning by councillor Ron Price, Mr. Gettas said development of camping grounds would cost between $45,000 a lot, the sum needed to install various services.

Campers, reasoned Councillor Price leaves dollars in Trenton. Fellow councillor Robert Wannamaker added many people come into town looking for overnight accommodation. There is none in Trenton, he said.

Other recommendations for inclusion in the Centennial Park plan are:

— A softball diamond, complete with bleachers and lights, located in an area soon to be developed.

— A plaza or meeting place in the centre of the park.

— Creation of three or four scenic pools along the course of the existing creek.

— Exclusion of a proposed land sculpture, or hill, officers. It was felt the proposal would block the view of the bay for Bay St. residents, was too much land, and would be better utilized as a picnic area. Several requests for picnic grounds, from groups as large as 300 people — have been received by the parks board.

—Four existing tennis courts relocated further south.

Several parking areas either eliminated or relocated.

During Monday's council meeting, it was suggested, that once council had agreed on immediate future work town service club be approached for possible participation in development.

Grand Finale

Jim McLeod, secretary-treasurer of the Moira River Conservation Authority since 1961, was the surprised recipient of a This-Is-Your-Life presentation and gift at Monday's general meeting of the authority. Authority members Harold Varty, Bert Frisk and Wesley McLaren made the presentation honoring Mr. McLeod's long association with the conservation group.

Authority to Proceed with Dam Projects

Ray Barris chairman of the Moira River Conservation Authority's water control advisory board, said Monday the authority will proceed with all possible speed to build the city's two ice control dams during the summer of 1976.

Mr. Barris told Monday's authority general meeting that delays in acquiring property at the dam sites had slowed the project but, "it is the intention of the board to complete the land acquisition as early as possible in 1976 and sign the necessary agreement with the province in time to proceed with the construction of the dams during the summer of 1976.

Detailed engineering has been started on the two dams — one at Reid and one at College streets. The engineering will be completed to the stage of calling tenders, Mr. Barris said, at a cost not to exceed $22,000.

The engineers have recommended the purchase of 21 riverbank properties, 13 at the Reid St. site and 10 at College St. Total purchase price will be in the neighborhood of $1 million, with the province covering the majority of the cost through a subsidy.

Pump Taken

HILLIER — Hillier road supervisor has reported the theft of an hydraulic pump valued at $500 from a township snowplow. Community services officer for the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police Donald Watt, says the plow was parked in front of the township garage when the pump was removed in mid-November. The equipment taken is suited only for use on a plow. The theft was reported to the OPP Monday night.

Opera Coming

Opera will come to Belleville and the surrounding Quinte district late in January through the efforts of the Quinte Arts Council.

The Canadian Opera Company will spend three days in Hastings county from Jan. 19 to 22. Total cost of the venture to be picked up by several organizations is $1,200. Because the opera company is working out an experimental program the price is well below the standard cost.

On Sunday Jan. 19 the company comprising vocal artists full orchestra and technical crew will participate in an ecumenical service at St. Michael's Church at 4:30 p.m. A choral workshop sponsored by Quinte Arts Council will follow at 7.30 p.m.

Monday Jan. 20 the opera company will move to Bancroft to present a program at 7.30 p.m. for elementary pupils. At 7 p.m. that night it will present a concert sponsored by the North Hastings Arts Council.

Tuesday Jan. 21 the company will give a concert for students at RCI. The Bata Shoe Company is picking up the tab for two appearances in Batawa the same day. At noon a mini-concert will be given for Bata Shoe employees by the Batawa Community Centre. At 1.30 p.m. the Grade 2 to 4 pupils of both the public and separate schools in the village will be treated to a program paid for by the shoe company.

Finally the opera La Boheme will be given at Centennial Secondary School under the sponsorship of Quinte Arts Council at 8.15 Jan. 21. Tickets for the poignant Puccini opera are now on sale.

Moira Secondary School will play for a special program and workshop for its music students at the school Jan. 22.

Jan Rubes outstanding Czech bass and Canadian opera entrepreneur is in charge of the program.

Salmon in Moira Gains Approval

Stu Meeks, chairman of the fish and wildlife committee of the Moira River Conservation Authority, in a presentation that included brandishing a frozen coho salmon taken from the Moira River, gained the authority's support Monday in his drive to stock the river with salmon.

The city alderman asked the authority agree with the city in its request to the ministry of natural resources to stock the river with 200,000 coho ——Chinook salmon smolts. If these varieties are not available, splake (speckled and lake trout crosses) are acceptable, he said. His motion carried.

Mr. Meeks also indicated at Monday's general meeting of the authority in Camilton that he would press for the establishment of a fish hatchery on the Moira next year.

Centre Reduces Cost

Consolidating five educational offices under one roof at the Ann St. Education Centre has saved the Hastings County board of education $59,200. This sum exceeds the original 1972 estimate of $33,600.

Taking into account inflationary trends the actual 1974 saving would be closer to $58,000, Kenneth Wormald, business manager said Monday.

The predicted saving was exceeded by reducing staff by six people. Other savings were incurred by not having to rent accommodation for meetings now held in the education centre. Printing of board literature can now be done at the education centre for a further saving.

Centralization has placed a bigger load on the administration centre said Mr. Wormald.

"We provide a lot more service than before" he said.

As a consequence two part-time switchboard operators have been employed to cover the period between 7.30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Pointers for Conversation

Readers are constantly looking for ways to make conversation and to fill in those embarrassing gaps. So I wrote to a young man named Jim who I was quite sure had it made when it came to carrying on a good stimulating discussion, and asked for his ideas.

In his reply he said that boys talk about girls and that its rather company conversation is appropriate to the people present.

Then he gave us three points:

1. Never talk down to anyone. Don't seem pompous — but preferably talk about the weather, if you are stuck.

2. Try asking an intelligent question. People love to give their opinion.

3. A person who is pleasant and obliging is going to be thought of as more charming than the one who is ready to bargain all night about the dates of Mozart.

Not bad, is it?

Dear Doris: I'm 32. It took years and a lot of persuasion from my family for me to take my first trip by air.

One day I had no choice. My son in Spain was seriously ill and begged me to come. I was scared, but more scared not to go. My daughter took me right up to the door at the airport and, believe me, I was shaking, even though I had accepted "proboarding."

Then Learn, my daughter, spoke to another person waiting to proboard the same CP Air plane. Would she walk over to the plane with me? She did more than that — she put my hand and, once on the plane, sat and talked with me.

I never knew when we left the ground. Believe it or not, I had expected the wings of the plane to flap up and down — like a bird — and to be shaken to bit. My new friend laughed. Then she laughed again when I said, "It's just like sitting in your own living room."

Please put in your column that flying is great fun.

Us Old Birds.

Dear U.O.B.: I was amazed to learn that only one per cent of people in North America had ever flown. Now you've joined the club!

Dear Doris: I read in your column where anyone would like song sheets for senior citizens. I am enclosing a copy of some The Tweens Sta' turned out some time ago. They were very generous with these song sheets. I was able to receive 20 of each of the enclosed ones for a group here in Cape Breton Island last year.

Maybe other newspapers do the same and it would be worth while asking.

Education Needs Female Leadership

TORONTO (CP) — The executive secretary of the Federation of Women Teachers' Association of Ontario says the educational system cannot afford to be without capable women in leadership positions.

Marlene Henderson told delegates at a conference Thursday, sponsored by the Ontario Council for Leadership in Education Administration, that industry has already recognized that the number of talented people in any organization is limited and there is a shortage of capable persons in management positions. She said the educational system has to recognize this problem too.

Deadling with the problem

Dear Ann: I was irritated by the secretary who resented having to prepare phony expense accounts for her boss. I'd like to point out that the word "secretary" is a derivative of the word "secret." It's her job to keep her mouth shut.

Certain expense account items must be phonied. They can't be handled any other way. For example: The government will not accept as a legitimate deduction payments made for "female companionship" for a client. Sometimes this item can run into $200 for an evening. So

Dear Vic: If providing clients with call girls and writing it off as "entertaining the Smiths of St. Louis" is your idea of "high-level business" you're a hopeless case, Bub. Please read on.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter you printed from the secretary who resented doing her boss's phony expense accounts may have helped make businessmen more honest. She said she balked at being an accomplice to his cheating and felt guilty because she knew darned well he was charging personal expenses to the business.

By printing that letter, Ann, you made thousands of men aware that their secretaries are on to them. These days when people are becoming more concerned with honesty and truthfulness (probably because there has been such an absence of these virtues at every level), such a letter can do a lot of good. Thank you for printing it.—Trying Harder to Measure Up

Dear Trying: If I shook up a few chisters around the country, I'm glad. Those birds have been a flagrant and fearless lot for too long.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is still having nightmares from a Halloween stunt dreamed up by a costumer who came dis up something different. I am enclosing the newspaper account to verify my story. It is so fantastic you'll probably think I made it up.

The children, some very young, were welcomed to a coffin on the front porch of this woman who lives on our street. The coffin was disguised by a drapery of sheets. Two candles burned dimly at the head of it. Appointed guests could be heard from someone who was lying in the box.

As the children were encouraged to move closer, a pale, eyeshaded hand offered "treats."

The mother with this terrific hypocrisy was asked by her 23-year-old son who was lying in the coffin. "In many children besides my own that experience will be unforgettable.

They will forever have distorted notions of death and funerals as well as Halloween. What a horrible thing to do to young minds. Isn't there enough frightin the world without adding such a gruesome antic? Please comment, Ann.—A Mother

Dear Mother: What is there to say? Only a sick mind could

Growing Things For Christmas

A tree may be the focal point of your living room this Christmas, but azaleas, poinsettias and other growing things make particularly appropriate Christmas decorations.

The azalea, a shrubby evergreen, produces flowers in shades of red, white and lavender, as well as pink. "It does best in an east window at a temperature of 55 to 60° F." says Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food horticulturist, D.M. Sangster. He recommends that the plant receive a thorough watering at frequent intervals.

From early December, poinsettias in a wide color range of red, dark red, pink, and white, should be available at your garden or flower center. Keep your poinsettia in a well lighted spot at about 65° F. Its bottom leaves may yellow and fall if it is in a drafty location or if its roots are allowed to dry out.

Red or pink blooming Reiger begonias last for weeks in moist, well-drained soil. Keep them at 70° F. during the day and not lower than 55° F. at night.

The cyclamen, with its red, white pink, or mauve flowers, requires frequent watering and plenty of light. If it is kept at about 65° F. during the day and 50° F. at night and fertilized sparingly a few weeks after it has been purchased, it should last for several months after Christmas.

For an unusual touch to your Christmas decorations, try a kalanchoe. A short plant, with groups of tiny, red flowers, it may need water as often as three times a week, and does best at 70 F.

have hatched! stick a grotesque scene. That one of hers must be a dilly, too. In my opinion, children should not be allowed to go Trick-Or-Treating without an adult — and Halloween ligo should be substituted for food. Sad how the world has changed, isn't it?

Reading Group Features Lively Discussion

By ISABEL HUGGAN

"One of the first things I did when we moved to Belleville was to visit the library, where I saw a poster announcing a new morning reading group," recalls Ethel Wood.

"It seemed like a good way to make contact with the community, so I joined right away."

Since January when it began, the reading group has increased to include 16 women, many of them newcomers like Mrs. Wood.

Mary Simonds, librarian at the East Branch Library where the group meets, says two Wednesday mornings a month, was the initial organizer. Now however, all the members have a part in making decisions about which books they'll read and discuss.

"Above all else, we're informal," Mrs. Simonds explains. "We don't present papers individually. We all read the chosen books and then we spend the morning talking, sharing our views with each other."

Listening . . .

Remarking . . .

At some point the questions have dwelled upon a topic to study rather than a single book. They have, for example, researched the historical period during which King Henry VIII reigned, and last spring their reading of Shakespeare's "Love's Labors Lost" led to a theatre excursion to Stratford. This summer they made a study of Hastings County. Another session was devoted to euthanasia, for which the women read several books and articles before embarking on discussion.

Explaining . . .

Their most recent meeting focused on Rachel May's best-selling book "Man's Search for Himself". Published in 1953, the book offers a philosophic approach to the problems of daily living, a way of finding "a centre of strength within ourselves to face and conquer the uncertainties of these troubled times."

Finding the book even more relevant now than when it was written, the women exchanged opinions based not only on their reading, but on their own experiences in a society where there is seldom time to stop and think and evaluate oneself.

One of the chief advantages of the reading group, they say, is that it gives members the chance to escape the ordinary busy round of homemaking, and presents the opportunity for self improvement and thoughtful analysis of current issues.

"Mothers like me who are at home with young children need to encounter stimulating conversation with other adults," says Theresa Taylor.

"I know that because I belong to the group I read books that I wouldn't otherwise," Jean Hatfield says. The other women agree, stating that books such as "Man's Search for Himself" stretch their minds in new directions.

Radio May says that freedom is the openness to new possibilities that gives us the power to mold and create ourselves," says Mrs. Simonds.

With that in mind, the members of the reading group continue to expand their horizons, planning ahead for a winter session in which they'll talk about Canadian authors and possibly tackle the Great Books series used by the Corby Library reading group.

Since the present group is "just the right size" for informal discussion, any others interested in joining will be encouraged to form a second group, Mrs. Simonds says.

Today's Child

JOHN AND JIMMY

Three engaging small fellows are the same size, the same shape and the same age.

They're twins but not identical in either looks or personality.

Three years old, the boys are a healthy pair with blue eyes and fair skin. John is the one with straight blonde hair. Jimmy's hair is light brown and curly.

John is happy, very active and energetic.

Jimmy is relaxed, serious and good-natured.

John seems to require little sleep. Jimmy sleeps well.

John has trouble concentrating, except on games. He will play football, baseball or catch for quite long periods. He prefers to play with an adult and picks up the rules of the game easily and quickly.

Jimmy prefers quieter games and isn't interested in learning the rules.

The boys attend nursery school in the mornings. It task them some time to adjust to school but they are making progress. The teacher says John especially is "a handful" though she does not feel he needs special treatment. The boys are considered low average in ability.

Both are behind in talking. They use words and phrases rather than sentences. Neither, however, has any difficulty in communicating — they have expressive faces.

John and Jimmy are often at loggerheads but there is obviously a strong tie between them. John as their more mischievous one, is most likely to be in trouble and Jimmy comforts him. On the other hand, if John irritates Jimmy too much, the more gentle brother can turn quite fierce to bring John into line.

The parents who adopt these appealing boys will have many rewards. They will also be kept busy keeping up with such a lively pair. The twins need a mother and a father who are young, energetic, firm and consistent as well as loving.

Older children, perhaps teenagers, in the adopting family will be an asset.

To inquire about adopting John and Jimmy, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2E2.

LOVE AND WHISKEY - THE STORY OF THE DOMINION DRAMA FESTIVAL.

By Betty Lee

The history of amateur theatre in Canada is the history of the Dominion Drama Festival, the annual and most spectacular cultural event in Canada. It began in 1932 and ended in 1970 when reorganization took place and it became Theatre Canada. For the first time, Canadians met time, Canadians can read of the anguish and the struggle of maintaining a cultural venture supported by volunteer and corporate funds.

Here is the drama of the stalwart and successful attempt to keep live theatre alive in Canada involving such personalities as Pauline McGibbon, now Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, and can read of the anguish and the travail of Massey, whose patronage established Hart House as one of the freshest little theatres in Canada.

The drama was as intense offstage as on. Betty Lee, a top-ranking journalist and playwright, recreates it within these pages: the fledgling organization's struggle against overwhelming financial odds; the public forum and the personalities involved in them.

The is an intriguing close-up of a variety of well-known personalities who have been associated with the Dominion Drama Festival over the years. Also included is the first comprehensive account of the theatre in Canada, from its birth in New France in the 17th century to the growth of regional theatres in this century.

Senior Citizens' President Once Top-echelon Bureaucrat

OTTAWA (CP) — Walter Turnbull, former deputy postmaster-general, is turning his longtime experience as a bureaucrat to helping senior citizens make their needs known to the federal government.

Recently installed president of the Ottawa Senior Citizens Council, Mr. Turnbull said: "We need to get organized so we can get a meeting with the cabinet and have our proposals considered. This isn't just get-together stuff but get-hot."

Senator Muriel Ferguson, former Speaker of the Senate, told the council's annual meeting: "There are two million Canadians over 65 now and in 15 years there will be three million. Ours is the fastest growing age group. Senior citizens now form a lot of voters and that's the way it should be.

"If we agree on what we want, and work together, we could have a great influence on legislation."

Many people do their best work in the last part of their lives, she said. She gave as examples Leonardo da Vinci, who painted his Last Supper at 80; Sarah Bernhardt, acting her finest at 78, not to mention Winston Churchill and Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

"The stupid appearance of the rule which forces men and women over 65 to retire is wasteful.

"I know doctors and businessmen who have gone to developing countries and imparted their skills to others there because Canada had discarded them for being too old."

Senator Ferguson said approximately 95 per cent of senior citizens are capable of living independently if a few extra services can be provided such as meals-on-wheels or someone to shovel the snow.

Reduced travel rates, free college education and a government department for senior citizens are ideas she says need support.

"The government has contributed a lot of money to industrialized but it would be in much better if they would pay for these extra services instead."

Senator Ferguson played a large part in setting up the old-age security system in New Brunswick and is an honorary patron of the Senior Citizens Federation in that province.

She was chairman of the committee on aging for the Canadian Welfare Council and is a member of a special Senate committee on aging.

"Canada is squandering a national resource in its senior citizens," she said. "When we feel like complaining about being old, let's remember what Lord Attlee said on becoming 80: 'Its better than the alternative.'"

Greenland Journey Long and Roundabout

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa sculptor Harold Pfeiffer spent six weeks in Greenland last summer and liked it so well he's thinking of returning. But it's a long, expensive trip by way of Denmark for most Canadians despite Greenland's nearness to northern Canada.

The Greenland he saw in August was dressed in the colors of the off-season months.

Mr. Pfeiffer was in Greenland doing sculptures of Eskimos for the Northwest Territories' Museum.

When his mostly-elderly subjects tired of posing, Mr. Pfeiffer would hike out across the "marvelous walking country" where mountains are not too high and you can see for as far as clear, unpolluted air.

"There are no roads connecting the villages in Greenland. Godthaab, the capital, has less than 100 private cars.

Many of Godthaab's historic buildings have been renovated at Danish government expense, including a 1798 stone house for a round trip in summer, less than three-foot-thick walls in which Norwegian missionary Hans Egede lived.

In the fishing village of Fiskernaesnat, 45 of the 72 houses have color TV sets, showing Danish cassette programs.

An old stone building in a deserted fishing village, a two-hour boat trip from the capital, has been turned into a restaurant and lounge.

Mr. Pfeiffer said food prices are such that he ate a lot of smoked fish since they were often the cheapest item on the menu.

"A cup of coffee often cost $1, a drink slightly less," he said. Even shrimp caught locally were almost as expensive as in Ottawa.

All but one of the six bronze busts Mr. Pfeiffer did for the northern museum are of old people. Their leathery, lined faces tell of the joys and sorrows of living off the land.

"Kids have a soft life, living out of tin cans and fresh milk from Denmark. They will never look like their parents," he said.

Mr. Pfeiffer is a veteran traveller of the Canadian Arctic.

Scrimshaving Revived

MAUI, Hawaii (AP) — The ing back to Lahaina, once on old art of scrimshawing is com- of the leading whaling ports of

One Pacific. The whalers, when they weren't ashore carousing, could be found polishing the scrimshaw work they started when at sea. Scrimshawing is recognized as an original folk art developed by whalers during their long voyages. They used the teeth and jawbones of the sperm whale for their carvings. The sperm is the only whale with teeth.

Trudeau Rejects Immediate Probe Into SIU Acts

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Trudeau rejected Monday the idea of an immediate inquiry into allegations of violence and corruption involving the Seafarers' International Union as the opposition prepared a new thrust on the issue.

A special debate on conflict of interest today will give Progressive Conservative and New Democratic Party members a new and more wide-ranging opportunity to air the allegations. The issue has been restricted to the daily Commons question period since it bloomed as a major controversy about one week ago.

Opposition members renewed their demands Monday for an inquiry into allegations by Morton Shulman, member of the Ontario legislature, that the SIU paid off federal politicians to cover up waterfront violence. Some MPs from each of the three major political parties in the House have admitted taking election campaign money from the union.

But Mr. Trudeau said no public inquiry is justified now because neither Dr. Shulman nor opposition MPs have given specific charges.

The prime minister missed most of the opposition fireworks last week while he was in Washington and Western Canada.

Mr. Trudeau said he will need solid evidence of corruption—the RCMP are investigating—before he will order a public inquiry into the conduct of his ministers. He maintained his government's position that investigation of charges of violence tactics within the SIU in Ontario is a provincial responsibility.

"It is only if they report failure, that they are unable to do anything and feel very strongly that the only way to get at the facts would be by a public inquiry held by the federal government, rather than them, that I would consider this matter," Mr. Trudeau said.

Ed Broadbent, New Democratic parliamentary leader said Ontario Solicitor-General George Kerr already has concluded that "the evidence they have warrants an inquiry."

Mr. Trudeau said he has not received a request for an inquiry from Ontario.

Despite Mr. Trudeau's insistence that there are two separate matters for investigation, the opposition wasted them treated as one.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield asked for "an independent inquiry regarding charges of intimidation and violence with respect...to the SIU and also with regard to the hatchet job of these matters by the federal government."

Alberta Man Backs Ottawa

EDMONTON (CP) — The federal government has a "valid complaint" about Alberta taking a large share of oil revenues, says former Alberta premier Harry Strom.

Mr. Strom, Social Credit member of the legislature from Cypress, said basic principles of the owner-ownership relationship should be taken into account when its energy dispute between Alberta and Ottawa is considered.

He gave the example of a farm owner making a long-term agreement with a renter for the owner to receive a one-third share of the annual harvest at a time when wheat sells for $1.39 a bushel.

In the second year of the agreement the price of wheat goes up to $3 a bushel.

"Is the owner justified in altering the terms of the agreement simply because the wheat was produced earlier at a lower cost?" asked Mr. Strom.

He then said it was assumed that the owner was exempt from federal taxation by law, and that if the owner increased the amount he took he was preventing the federal authority from collecting a share of taxation.

Applied to the energy situation, Alberta is represented by the owner, oil companies by the renter and Ottawa by the federal taxing authority.

Mr. Strom said that before recent increases in the price of oil, Alberta received about 22 per cent of oil produced by the companies in royalties. After the increases, the province's share went up to 65 per cent.

Since the provincial government is not subject to taxation, it appears Ottawa feels Alberta is taking oil in the form of increased rent, nullifying the federal government's right to exercising full taxation rights, he said.

Bylaw Limiting Downtown Development in Doubt

TORONTO (CP) — A former Ontario cabinet minister said Monday the Ontario Municipal Board (OMB) has rejected To-ronto's controversial bylaw limiting downtown development to a height of 45 feet.

Robert Macaulay, a lawyer representing what he called the "silent majority" during the weeks of hearings on the bylaw, said "one of our people" had read of the rejection in the OMB report.

Policeman Denies Having Seen Claw

TORONTO (CP) — A Metropolitan Toronto police officer said Monday there is "no truth" to the claim he was witness to the torturing of a drug suspect last Feb. 9 with a mechanic's claw.

Sgt. Stanley Davenport, a plainclothesman, testifying at the royal commission inquiry into force practices, said the first time he saw how a mechanic's claw looked was Oct. 16.

Thomas Henderson, the drug suspect arrested Feb. 9 in a police raid on his apartment, has told the inquiry he was taken into a room at a police station where he was tortured.

He testified he was tortured by Sgt. Robert Rusk and Constable Brian Jilak with the claw in an effort to extract from him the source of drugs—LSD and hashish—seized in the raid.

Mr. Henderson said at one point Sgt. Davenport came to the door, looked in and made a remark like: "Oh, you're using the claw."

Commission counsel Earl Cherniak recalled Mr. Henderson's testimony and sought Sgt. Henderson's reaction to it.

"I heard what he said," the witness said. "I say there is no truth in it."

Mr. Justice Donald Morand of the Ontario Supreme Court, head of the inquiry, postponed Monday the introduction of new evidence dealing with the choking of drug suspects attempting to swallow evidence.

Lawyer Roy McMurtry, representing the Toronto police officers involved in the February raid, attempted to introduce evidence in place "in context" testimony by Sgt. Rusk.

Sgt. Rusk testified Friday he had the right to choke suspects almost to death to retrieve evidence. Later in the day, he said he was "obviously wrong" in assuming he had the right to choke suspects.

Mr. McMurtry said Monday the public confidence "will be shaken" unless he can clarify police methods in dealing with drug suspects.

Mr. Justice Morand said Mr. McMurtrys evidence was relevant and ruled it should be introduced when the inquiry deals with police training.

Natural Gas Supply Short of 1975 Demands

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's natural gas supplies will fall short of Canadian demand in 1975, Ontario Energy Minister Darcy McKeough said Monday in a statement presented to the National Energy Board, Mr. McKeough said there is "near unanimity among informed observers" that the shortfall will widen and extend at least until 1978.

"The hard fact is that in Ontario there is a shortfall of supply relative to demand already," he said. "For the past several years Ontario distributors have been unable to contract for all of their requirements from TransCanada Pipe Lines Ltd."

Mr. McKeough said the situation, aggravated by long government handling, "urgently requires" consideration of natural gas allocation in the marketplace. He gave no details of how an allocation system would work or what priorities would be established.

"It seems strange to move from a surplus in February to an apparent and universally-acknowledged shortage in December," he said.

Mr. McKeough said the shortfall has become more apparent in the three months since he issued a report on natural gas supply and deliverability.

"Odd concern about the seriousness of the gas supply situation has heightened over recent months," he said. The federal government's Petroleum Administration Act, recently reintroduced as Bill 33, is adding to the concern, he said.

"The new bill will give the federal government the authority to seek federal-provincial agreement on natural gas prices and failing such agreement, to impose a price."

He alleged imposition of prices by the federal government would destroy competition among buyers and would make more difficult the task of TransCanada PipeLines, whose main function has been the delivery of Alberta gas to Ontario.

SIU Gets Subpoena Over Police Tapes

TORONTO (CP) — The Seafarers' International Union (SIU) has subpoenaed an intelligence officer of the Metropolitan Toronto Police in connection with taped conversations of an SIU leader Dr. Morton Shulman told the legislature Monday.

Sgt. Harry Crawford is to appear today (Tuesday) at a Supreme Court hearing to answer the SIU subpoena.

Outside the legislature the New Democrat MPP for High Park said he is concerned that tapes might be "frozen up" in proceedings and be unavailable for any federal probe.

Dr. Shulman has charged in the legislature that intimidation and violence had been used by the union and that union president Roman Gralewicz had boasted of a close relationship with federal cabinet ministers.

Dr. Shulman said Monday that Sgt. Crawford was not his source of information but asked Solicitor-General George Kerr to send representatives to the hearing to protect the tapes. Mr. Kerr indicated in the house he did not intend to send legal counsel.

Now Cubans Thankful For Dependence on Sugar

HAVANA (Reuter) — Cuba, which for years has blamed its dependence on a single crop for its state of underdevelopment, is having second thoughts.

Cuban leaders are waking up to the fact that the country is about to strike it rich thanks to its "white gold" — sugar.

Cuba stands to make huge profits with its forthcoming harvest which should be around six million tons, experts say.

The government has launched a massive campaign calling for major efforts from all sugar workers prior to the official start of the 1974-75 "zafra" scheduled for the next few weeks. Sugar accounts for 80 per cent of the island's exports.

At the same time, authorities are sounding the alarm at the possible ill-effects of a prolonged drought.

President Osvaldo Dorticos last month warned that Cuba's forthcoming harvest could be "seriously affected by an exceptional two-year drought."

Three weeks later, however, the deputy premier in charge of the sugar industry, Diocles Torralba, tempered this statement when he claimed that Cuba could obtain a better harvest than last year.

These two somewhat conflicting statements are seen here as part of a campaign aimed at getting cane cutters and sugar mill workers to realize the importance of the forthcoming harvest for the island's economy.

Cuba got much day for efficient cutting and grinding as well as better crops.

Government leaders and the media are constantly quoting increasing sugar prices on the world market.

Cuban officials say in private that the present situation, which is the result of a general scarcity and a growing demand, is a boon to the country's economy.

It will help to finance the country's first five-year plan which covers the 1976-80 period.

Cuba sells about two million tons a year on the world market. Its main customer is Japan which buys an average of one million tons.

During the so-called "giant harvest" of 1970, Cuba is believed to have sold 2.1 million tons on the world market.

Cuba is expected to produce about six million tons in this harvest. By selling 2.2 millions tons on the free market—the rest going to the Soviet Union and other socialist countries—it would make at least $2 billion.

Such an unprecedented flow of hard currencies is calculated on a conservative basis of 30 cents a pound and few experts here believe that prices on the international market will go down before the end of next year.

Meanwhile, Cuba's program of mechanization of the sugar harvest is well under way and nearly 30 per cent of the cane should be cut by combine harvesters in the forthcoming harvest.

Revill: Environment Suffers in Continuing Search for Power

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

The cons for solving the world's problems will fall on today's potential engineers — the students, says Alan Revill, a consulting engineer with A.D. Revill Associates.

Mr. Revill, guest speaker at Monday's dinner meeting at Loyalist College marking the end of "Host-A-Student Day," told about 40 area high school and college students the world will need "skilled dedicated, trained engineers to solve the problems, and it falls on the shoulders of you students."

He said environmental problems occur "all around the world," and pointed out students may say, "the problem is technology," and will turn away from that profession to other lines of work.

However, Mr. Revills noted, "we've got to face the fact head-on." He listed the three imperative problems.

"Firstly, we must limit the world population. Second, we do not have an unlimited ocean into which we can dump our wastes, or unlimited air into which we can discharge our waste gases. Lastly, we must conserve energy and raw materials.

Mr. Revill illustrated his talk with an imaginary story of how a mining community and its hydro dam ruined the environment in its location.

He also showed, a film produced by Environment Canada on the life of Bennett dam in British Columbia is causing ecological disasters when they begin work on a project.

"There are pressures," he said, "look at the James Bay project. They're going ahead with it and they haven't done any environmental studies."

Mr. Revill explained people require electrical power, so there is pressure from both the business world and politicians.

"We have been getting away with it and now we've come to the point where we can't get away with it anymore," he commented.

He was asked if there is a split in the engineering profession between construction and environmental engineers.

"I don't think there are conflicts," answered Mr. Revill. "Engineers can solve about any problem. It's the values the general public sets up that dictates the problems engineers can solve."

He elaborated environmental problems can be solved at the time of construction, but that would probably result in higher prices or utility rates. And they can be solved later upon completion at the taxpayers' expense.

Mr. Revill said "We've got to be prepared to pay more." He added "Do you want to pay for this now or pass it on to your children or grandchildren?"

City's Service Station Question Draws Little Public Response

By JIM SMELLIE
Staff Reporter

The question of self-serve gas stations in Belleville still remains unresolved. A meeting held Monday night at the Son Valley Motor Inn by the Chamber of Commerce failed to attract enough participants to discuss the subject and subsequently another meeting has been scheduled in the near future to handle the situation.

George Thompson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said in the past people attending Monday's meeting that this was the first of a series of meetings set up by the Chamber in answer to a request from city council to look into the question and legality of self-serve gas bars in the city.

At Monday night's meeting, only one representative from a self-serve gas bar attended.

There were six representatives from attended gas stations as well as two representatives from the oil companies which supply both.

However, Mr. Thompson said the meetings held to discuss self-serve gas stations were set up to discuss their role in the community as well as their role in Belleville, he said. He hopes Monday night's meeting would be one not set up to debate the issue but to determine the views of those attending.

Mr. Thompson in cutting the meeting short said he does not know when a date for the next meeting would be set.

Car, Truck Collide

TWEED — A collision five miles southwest of Tweed on the Crookston Rd. resulted in $2,300 damage to the two vehicles involved.

Mary Blair, 22, of RR3, Madoc, was southbound when she came into collision with a pick-up truck driven by Bernard LaChappelle, 65, of Madoc. Damage to the Blair car was $1,200 and to the LaChappelle truck $800.

Hard Line On Content

Editorial staff members of the Grass Roots, Loyalist College's literary magazine, have failed in their efforts for administrative concessions in editorial policy.

Ernst Kneisel, college public relations officer, said Monday "the administrative situation is unchanged."

A one-hour meeting was held late last week at the college among Mr. Kneisel, publisher Doug Barnett, managing editor Lana Robinson, and production manager Bob Huggins.

The meeting which was closed to the press, had been called earlier to discuss editorial policy after Mr. Kneisel had vetoed a poem's inclusion in the latest edition of the magazine because it contained a four-letter word.

Grass Roots falls under the jurisdiction of the School of Business and Communication, of which Mr. Kneisel is director.

Mr. Kneisel said the poem, written by information officer Bob Marlin, was not discussed and the issue is closed.

Production Rolling

Maureen Horne (right) is the vice-president of manufacturing in a new Belleville corporation which specializes in student participation in the business world. She and Desk Studies' corporate secretary, are involved in the Junior Achievement program, now in its second year in the city. More than 85 Belleville students are involved in the program which allows young people to set up and maintain a business during the school year.

Sidney Waffles On Station Issue

Sidney Township decided Monday to wait for a Belleville move before acting on the question of self-serve gas bars in the township.

Monday night, area service station operators met at Belleville's Sun Valley Motor Inn at the request of the Chamber of Commerce to discuss the impact of self-serve stations in the city. It is expected the chamber will make some recommendation to city council in the following weeks.

Councillor Reg McCurdy commenting on a proposal to transform to self-serve the Texaco station adjacent to Towers on Dundas St. — said "it's fairly obvious they're trying to get in before a bylaw goes into effect."

The proposal did not come from the proprietor but from the oil company's district office in Belleville, he said.

Concell said it is that self-serve gas bars might lessen or dilute the existence of service stations that also provide car maintenance.

"I'm not opposed to self-serve gas bars as long as the company makes provision for service bays," said Councillor McCurdy.

Council agreed to hold the matter until the first of the new year until "we hear from some of these chaps (Belleville)," said Reeve Gord Wilman.

Final Boarding

After 35 years of service with Canadian National, conductor Frank Bradford takes his final ride by helping his wife, Neta, aboard. Mr. Bradford was conductor when Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip travelled through Belleville en route from Toronto to Kingston in June of last year.

Students Offer Holiday Help

helpers this afternoon. Today was phone-in day, when those needing help could call the school to reserve a pair of students for a Thursday afternoon job.

All the volunteers are Grade 9 students, freed from school session. They will be sent out for the day because of Grade 8 orientation day. While the total of 30 jobs that afternoon, Grade 8 students from Quinte's feeder schools are asked, the elderly and the homebound, Christmas can be a terrible time of the year," says Peggy Burris, guidance counsellor in charge of the program.

The student volunteers are available to wrap presents address cards, hang or packing hampers for the decorations or even baby sit Christmas Sharing program.

Proper Insulation Pays for Itself

Reduced home heating bills take a lot of the irritation out of liferegina installation.

"Insulation is one of the very best home buys," says Gary MacDonald of Arthur A. Sills and Sons.

Based feedback from customers, fuel savings of up to 25 percent is possible when sufficient insulation is poured into ceilings and to a lesser extent into wall, said Mr. MacDonald.

"Ceilings are the most important areas to concentrate on," said Ralph Whiters, a spokesman for Bellewood Lumber Co., recently renamed Cash and Carry Fitzwood and Lumber.

Both spokesmen agreed the more insulation the better, though Mr. Whiters said "near maximum efficiency can be obtained by the standard of six inches in ceiling and 2.5 inches in walls."

"The most important thing to remember is not to pack the insulation — rather let it retain its 'loose quality,' said Mr. Winters. "Insulation — working on the trapped or dead air principal — will lose its insulating factor if compressed," he said.

A major home heat loss area is through the attic and generally a layer of insulation has will be installed in a new home but because of the individual bags of insulation, it is difficult to lose heat through seams between the bags.

As a final touch, Mr. MacDonald suggests pouring loose insulation between the attic areas — a final insurance that heat loss is minimized.

Keeping in mind reported 30 per cent savings on heating bills, $2.10 for the square feet of four-inch-thick insulation is now attractive price in the shadow of a global energy crisis and steadily increasing prices of fuel.

Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Whiters said insulation is always "a good mover," but that this fall had brought an even brisker trade.

"The fall is always good . . . but its going out as fast as we can bring it in," said Mr. MacDonald. "We've been going through a truck load every week for the past couple of months."

While winter and the accompanying chilly climes have wrapped up the Quinte area for the next six months, come spring and summer, its also nice to know the insulation you install to keep the heat in will also keep it cool.

Snow Vehicles Banned

At the general meeting of the Moira River Conservation Authority Monday, restrictions on recreational vehicles on authority land were announced.

Except in effect is a ban on outboard motors of any size on Lingham Lake, with the exception of the minister of natural resources boats. Also, float planes are banned from the lake.

Authority chairman Guy Hughes said the bans were imposed mainly as a safety measure. The lake, he said, is hazardous, with rocks and stumps just below the surface.

A motion introduced by chairman Delbert Harvey — and seconded by conservationist Ross Wilson — that the authority's O'Hara Mill property, limit it to marked trails in Vandewater Park bush will place restriction on the sport on other authority lands.

It was pointed out snowmobiling and conservancy skiing don't mix and the restrictions were imposed to separate the two activities.

Mayor Injured

PICTON — Picton mayor James Bird is a patient in Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital following a fall near his Low St. home last Friday.

He is recovering from back injuries received when he slipped and fell on ice.

At the final meeting of town council for 1974 this Monday night, councillor Russell Alexander was acting mayor.

Trenton 'Herc' Stops in China

TRENTON — An armed forces Hercules from CFB Trenton is stopping in Peking and Canton in the Peoples Republic of China to deliver Christmas parcels to Canadian diplomats and military attaches, a base spokesman here said Monday.

The flight of the Hercules with 438 Squadron here serves a dual purpose. It is both a training flight for forces personnel and a means of re-applying Canadian embassies and consulates in the Far East.

It is unknown whether the flight into China is a first ever by a Canadian aircraft on a re-supply mission.

The aircraft, commanded by Capt. Lou Paprouki, will be making at least 10 last stops before it returns to CFB Trenton early next week.

Training flights to various Far East locations are known out of the base here three to four times annually.

On-the-job Training Provides New Insight

More than 40 students from 10 area high schools and colleges worked with 130 engineers representing about 90 local industries to make this year's second "Host-A-Student Day" a success.

The project, to bring potential engineers in contact with the reality of industry, is sponsored by the Belleville branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada, in conjunction with the Association of Professional Engineers of Ontario, the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers, and the Canadian Air Space Institute.

Of the 44 students, nine were from Moira Secondary School. There were six apiece from Bayside and Quinte Secondary Schools, five from Centennial Secondary, four from both Belleville Collegiate and Vocational Institute and Loyalist College, three from Nicholson Catholic College, three Edward Collegiate and from North Hastings Secondary.

The day concluded Monday with an evening dinner meeting at Loyalist College. During the morning and afternoon the students spent a normal workday on the job at the industries of their choice, to get a realistic view of the engineering profession.

Three Grade 13 students and one Loyalist student in civil technology spoke to the gathering on their experience.

Karen Johnson of Centennial commented "I think it's a really worth while job they (engineers) are doing." She spent the day at Ontario Hydro.

Jim Kightley of Trenton was at Dentar Limited. "I thought all an engineer did was sit around, drink coffee and do as little as possible," he quipped.

But he said he discovered the profession entailed much more work. "My experience was a total success," he said.

Giles Pilon of Nicholson, who chose ceramic engineering, said "I always pictured an engineer was a little guy who sat behind his desk with his calculator."

However, he noted he found the occupation involved a lot of legwork in solving problems, entering into discussions, and inventing new methods.

John Taylor of Loyalist pointed out the day was "quite beneficial. I hope this is continued for students next year."

Log Cabin Sought

If anyone in the Quinte area has or knows of a log building that could be taken apart and reassembled as a blacksmith shop the Moira River Conservation Authority is interested. The shop would be erected on the O'Hara Mill property to join other pioneer buildings on the site.

Skater Lands In Bay

A nine-year-old boy was pulled from the chilly waters of the bay Monday afternoon after falling through ice while skating.

City police said the boy, Dale Campbell, of 464 Bridge St. E. was skating on the ice near Victoria Park with his friends Rick Smith and Clarence O'Brien when he fell through. The incident happened shortly after 4:30 p.m.

Police and fire department official were called in but were not needed. The boy was taken to hospital by ambulance where he was treated for exposure and released.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie has issued a warning to stay off the ice as it is unsafe at this time of year.

Lights Attract Thieves

Christmas tree light thieves continue to plague city police. With the first reported incident occurring last weekend, police said a series of similar thefts have occurred in the last two days.

In the latest incident, police said they received a report Monday evening that 27 lights were taken from a residence on 11 Coltdale Rd.

Police added that thefts have also occurred in the east and west sections of the city.

Crest Presented

Sidney Township offices received the finishing touch Monday night — an official township crest. The crest, designed after the original township letterhead that dates back to the mid-1800s, was purchased as a gift to the township by Deputy-Reeve Glen Meyers.

Insulation Pays

Home heating bills can be drastically reduced with the correct installation of insulation, say spokesmen from two leading Belleville construction material suppliers. Insulation prices are climbing in line with inflation but are still a "good" buy in times of energy conservation and threat of an energy crisis.

Soccer Is on the Move

Belleville's John O'Neill, whose contributions to the sport of soccer, especially at a level which is described as "premier", are to receive and appreciation, is now charged with a position of responsibility which will make use of his knowledge and willingness to get involved.

O'Neill was recently appointed representative for the Bay of Quinte to the Ontario Soccer Association (OSA). This, of course, is in line with Ontario director of sport Frank Pike's "restructuring" or "new approach" to the development of the sport.

As the OSA's man in the Bay of Quinte area, O'Neill's first task will be to convince officials of soccer groups in the district to affiliate with the provincial body.

All-a recent meeting, Pike outlined plans for the upgrading of coaching and improvement of player development, passed to prepare the province's to take its part in attempting to gain a Gold Medal for Canada in the 1976 Summer Olympics at Montreal.

Pike feels all soccer associations must affiliate with the OSA if the ultimate goal is to be reached.

In this area, only the Bay of Quinte Soccer Association affiliates with the provincial association. Pike hopes to change all that.

Representatives from minor associations in Belleville, Thorlow and Picton have indicated that they favor affiliation with the OSA. There was no representative present at the meeting from groups in Trenton, Brighton or Cobourg.

O'Neill wants 100 per cent registration with the governing body.

In order for all players to benefit from the ambitious plan is for coaching at top calibre, it is necessary to "belong".

Pike's plan splits the province into three areas. He has appointed two coaches for each region. These coaches attend to coaching and player development.

Marvin Buchan of Peterborough will be responsible for player development and clinics. Walker of Kingston, coaching. In the region of which the Bay of Quinte is a part.

Regional teams for four age groups, under 21, 18, 16 and 14 will be formed and will take part in an interlocking schedule.

Canada's National Team will be based in Toronto where facilities have been acquired at York University.

Provincial teams, made up of the top talent from the re-gional squads, will be organized. They will also be based at the Toronto headquarters.

Players from all over the Province of Ontario are already attending "concentrations" in Toronto, coming in for three day periods. The players taking part have been scouted by district association officials and recommended to Pike.

So far, two players from this area have been invited for a three-day session with the junior 21s at Toronto. Gary Donovan of Belleville and Alex Graham of Peterborough have received invitations.

The Provincial Under 21s will be entered in the National Soccer League's Second Division.

Pike is hopeful that the Canadian Under 21s will be entered in the North American Professional Soccer League.

Soccer cinkics will be springing up by the number early next year as the Pike Plan swings into action.

O'Neill is waiting for calls from persons and associations interested in clinics scheduled for the first week in February (coaches) and the first week in March (referees).

Says O'Neill: "It is necessary for all leagues in affiliation with the governing body, if they want their players to receive the chance to progress and be given the best possible coaching assistance."

"Get behind this plan and Frank Pike to ensure that Canada has the best possible players in its Kemp in the effort to capture the Gold Medal in the 1976 Olympics" O'Neill urges.

The rallying call seems to be: "Soccer . . . it's on the move, be a part of it".

SLICES — Wayne Weller, the former Belleville Eagles' star, was recently appointed captain of the Whitby McDonald's entry in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

Wayne rejoined the team last week after recovering from a shoulder separation. And he's immediately went right back to doing his thing, putting goals.

The anonymous writer's thoughts are included here because we feel this is what it's all about.

". . . We should give greater recognition to this particular team (Frankford Public School) not for the points on the scoreboard but for the points that weren't.

"The girls gave 100 per cent effort for 28 minutes of every game they played throughout the season. They made up for lack of experience with desire and dedication to the game. They played as a team, for the good of the team, and not as a group of individuals trying to outdo one another.

"The players on the bench did their part by lending vocal support. When a mistake was made, the only words that came from team members were ones of encouragement, rather than criticism.

"Referees' decisions were treated with respect and the three losers for the opposition following the defeat were ready as loud and every bit as sincere as those that followed the victories.

"No, the team is not recognized today as County Champion. The feeling of satisfaction that the girls carried from the competition came not from the scoreboard but from knowing that they had set an example for others in the area.

"It was an example that did not go unnoticed by officials and opposing teams. They played the game as it should be played, with dedication, sincerely, hard work and good sportsmanship.

"In their own right, they are champions. It's easy to be a gracious winner but very few teams can accept defeat with the same amount of poise.

"The girls did more for the competition than they realized. They put the fun back in the game."

Frankford has every right to be proud of these kids. As we said before, that's what it's all about. But too often it just slips by.

Calberry Pots Four

Cats Thump Rangers

By MIKE BRADSHAW
Sports Staff

NORTH YORK — The Belleville Bobcats have now surpassed the break even point in the Metro Junior B Hockey League. Monday night, at the Victoria Park Arena, the North Yirk Rangers fell prey to the highflying Cats.

Wayne Calberry, Rob Foster and Bruce Clark were the key factors in the Cats' 9-3 victory. The win gave Belleville 21 points on 10 wins, 10 losses and a tie. It's the first time the locals have been over .500 since the first of the season.

Cats now share third place with Kingston Voyageurs in the Eastern Division.

"It was simply a good team effort," said coach Bob Boyle after it was all over. "Everybody played well."

A good team effort was an understatement. The Cats literally outclassed the Rangers. They made the home team look sick for 56 of the game's 60 minutes.

The Rangers' coach, John Moffatt, pulled his head in the Cats' dressing room after the game and assumed things up when he said, "thanks for the lesson in how to play hockey, boys."

Calberry had his best offensive output since joining the Cats this year. He scored four times. Wayne started the season on defence, but was shifted to centre ice shortly after Boyle took over as coach. The Trenton native has played most of his hockey career at centre ice, with the exception of last year and the early part of this year. Since Calberry was moved back to his old forward spot six games ago, the Bobcats have won five games — including their last three in a row.

He was the centre of the Cats' makeshift third line Monday night Calberry was centering juvenile call-up John Murphy and veteran Dave Ricketts. All three put in strong performances.

Rob Foster also had his best goal scoring night of the season. He potted three of the Cats' nine. Foster plays on the line that has been doing the majority of the Cats' scoring lately. It is known as the Veteran Line and consists of Foster, Jim Richardson and Grant Goegan.

Richardson also scored a goal to add to his team leading total.

Belleville's ninth goal was produced by the Kid Line. Three rookies comprise this one — Scott Samis, Eric Powell and Al Jeffery. Powell picked up the goal.

Meanwhile, back on the bonline, the Bobcats got solid performances from defencemen Dave Taylor and Rob Allen. Goalies Steve Jones, Neil Turnor, Rick Langstaff and Harold Roberts also played well.

A big difference in the game was the work of Belleville net minder, Bruce Clark. He robbed Ranger players on breakaways no less than four times. Clark also came out of his net several times to intercept North York lead passers. On one occation the goalie sit-k-handed his way to centre ice before passing off to one of his forwards.

The Cats have now scored 21 goals in their last two games and had only six scored against them. As on Friday night's win, Belleville took the majority of the penalties. The Rangers carried their sticks up around the Cats' ears and most of the time Belleville players took penalties while only were protecting themselves.

The Cats took 16 of the game's 29 infraction calls, including one of the two majors for fighting.

Belleville made ample use of their power play situations though, as they fired four goals while having a man advantage. The Rangers could only manage to score twice under the same conditions.

Belleville outshot the Rangers 39-32.

Friday, North York comes to Belleville for the second in the home-and-home series. Game time at the Memorial Arena is 8 p.m.

Potent Lions' Trio Leads In Defeat of Kingston

The Belleville Lions Major Midgets, on the strength of a nine goal performance by the line of Dave Waterson, Pat McGinn and Clint Blendeen, won their first regular season game on Saturday.

The Kingston Midgets were the victims of the Belleville onslaught dropping the game 10-5 at Memorial Arena.

The winners held a commanding 3-2 lead going into the final period of play but Kingston managed to pull it within one goal with a little better than a minute remaining in the game.

With the Lions out in front by one and 25 seconds remaining Belleville managed to send the puck into the empty net to cement the win.

Waterson was the big gun picking up six goals. Riendeau had a pair and McGinn tallied a single.

Bob Chase rounded out the scoring for the Belleville club.

Belleville's Tavern-Food City Major Atoms made three starts on the weekend, dropping Ontario Minor Hockey Association AAA decisions to Kingston (4-0, Saturday) and Peterborough (7-2, Sunday) and losing 5-2 in an exhibition match with Trenton, Sunday night.

Dave Meagher and Kirk Baker were the Belleville marksmen in the loss to Peterborough.

In Trenton, the home team got a pair of goals from Brad Fayerod and Ben Shepherd, and one by Kevin Willerton. Both Towers' goals were scored by Dave Phillips.

In the Peterborough Minor Bantam Tournament on Saturday, McIlvey — Construction of Belleville lost out in the semi-final round to Oshawa 8-2 after taking a 4-3 overtime win over Barrie.

In the game against Barrie, the score at the end of regulation time was tied at three apiece.

The teams then went into two sudden death periods in which neither team managed a goal.

Each team was given three penalty shots. Barrie took all three of their's first on Belleville goalie Bob Hedge.

Hedge who played well throughout the game, again came through for the locals stopping all three shots.

Belleville then took their shots and needed only one by Shawn Mulroney to give McIlroy the win.

In the semi-final game between Belleville and Oshawa a powerful forward line gave Oshawa the advantage they needed in the final frame.

The game was tied up at 3-3 going into the final period but a stronger Oshawa team exploded for four goals for the victory.

Clarence Broekema and Greg Speed were the marksmen for the losers.

Players Out of Work

Time to Pay—Eagleson

TORONTO (CP) — Alan Eagleson says professional hockey is about to pay for its lackadaisical approach to expansion, inflated salaries and the demise of several minor leagues.

The executive director of the National Hockey League Players' Association said this week:

"In the last few weeks some 100 professional hockey players reported they are without work. They are players who, in the last two years, have belonged either to an NHL or a WHA team.

"About 30 of them are former NHLers and 110 are from the WHA."

Eagleson identified defencemen Arnie Brown as one of the unemployed along with goaltender Gerry Gray and forwards Real Lemieux and Danny Schock.

In the case of Lemieux, Eagleson said the NHL's Buffalo Sabres told him to "go home, because they had no further need for his services."

"Then there's Arnie Brown . . . One day the (Atlanta) Flames called him in and told him he had a year left on his contract but they wanted him to play in Omaha. They had no room for him at Atlanta and no NHL team was interested in him.

"He refused and asked if they would release him if he made his own deal with an NHL or WHA team. They agreed and he signed with Michigan Stags (of the World Hockey Association).

"Gerry Gray, who belongs to the (NHL) Islanders, was shipped to Indianapolis (Racers of the WHA) and told one day: 'Sonny, you're out of work; good luck.'

"Or take the case of Dan Schock (brother of Pittsburgh Penguins captain Ron Schock). He was traded to Philadelphia Flyers by Boston Bruins for Mike Walton. They shipped him to Richmond (of the American League) where he scored 42 goals two years ago and 32 last year.

"The owners of the Richmond team, which is co-sponsored by Philadelphia and Washington Capitals, called him in and just let him go.

Eagleson lists expansion by both the NHL and WHA as contributing to the closure of minor pro leagues, thus depriving many still young players of an opportunity to perform.

Eagleson also offered some suggestions:

- "The World Hockey Association should cut down to eight strong teams from 14. Then it could compete with the NHL.

"As for the NHL, if they had any brains (they'd do some of the following:

"First, move California Seals out of Oakland and place them in Denver or Seattle where they would draw fans. Then the Washington and Kansas City (Scouts) franchises should be reviewed and adjustments made to either help them or return their money.

"What's the sense of having beautiful buildings and no fans. If the NHL wants to expand, it should do something for the new teams—like being allowed to protect only 10 players instead of 15.

"I think it's ridiculous to see such players as (John) Van Boxmeer of Montreal Canadiens, Claude Lefley and Claude Larose of the same team until they were traded to St. Louis (Blues), sitting in the stands while Washington and Kansas City are dying for talent."

ALEX DELVECCHIO

Dionne Gets The Message

NEW YORK (CP) — If Detroit Red Wings ever attain a measure of the greatness they enjoyed in the days of Gordie Howe, Sid Abel and Ted Lindsay, Marcel Dionne will probably be leading the way.

"I'd say he'd set for four years and naturally we're rebuilding around him," says Alex Delvecchio, coach and general manager of the Red Wings.

Dionne is a much happier player this season since Delvecchio convinced him that he belonged in Detroit. The 25-year-old centre was named team captain and assigned Abel's old No. 12 on his uniform.

In the last couple of weeks, Dionne has been a whirlwind trying to snap the Red Wings out of a slump that dropped them into fourth place in the Norris Division.

Dionne has 23 goals and 25 assists for 36 points, tying Bobby Clarke of Philadelphia for seventh place in the National Hockey League point-getting race.

Dionne was a one-man show against New York Rangers in Detroit Nov. 26, when he scored three goals and assisted on a fourth but the Red Wings bowed 5-4. Last Saturday night, Dionne had three goals and Red Wings downed St. Louis Blues 5-3. Last Thursday night, Dionne had three goals and an assist in a 6-4 victory over Boston Bruins.

Although Detroit has won only four of its 19 starts, the club has three wins and a tie in its last five games. And the Red Wings are only a point behind third-place Pittsburgh.

The 5-9, 184-pound centre from Drummondville, Que., got off to a fine start this season, but on the road he began started going wrong for the team.

"I had a big letdown. We went to Atlanta for two games and then we had a six-game road trip and got only one point. From that point on we had a few letdowns and the team just collapsed. Now it seems that we're starting to pick up again."

Dionne was the No. 1 amateur draft choice of the Red Wings in the 1971-72 season and set a scoring record for a rookie with 77 points. He blitzed enemy nets for 49 goals and 39 assists in 1972-73 and had the Red Wings in 1973-74 with 34 goals and 54 assists for 78 points.

But he was unhappy under coaches Johnny Wilson and Ted Garvin, who sometimes sat him down when he didn't show the potential they felt he had.

Marcel said for a couple of years he kept hoping that he would be traded. Then Delvecchio came on the scene and he turned Dionne into a positive thinker with a future in Detroit.

Meanwhile, Detroit Red Wings will be without regular goalie Gilles Gilbert when they go on the road today to play against Kansas City Scouts.

Gilbert, with an injured back will be replaced by Ross Brooks.

In other NHL action tonight, St. Louis meets Montreal Canadiens in Minnesota and California visits Vancouver.

Lynn Shows The Way

MOSCOW (AFP) — Canadian champion Lynn Nightingale of Ottawa won the women's slalom title at the Moscow International figure skating tournament Monday.

Miss Nightingale, 18, took the lead in the compulsory figures and maintained it through the short program and free skating, scoring a total of 229.25 points and nine ordinals.

She finished ahead of Lyudmila Pakhomova of the U.S.S.R. who had 228.33 points and 32 ordinals, and Petra Wagner of West Germany with 208.42 points and 54 ordinals.

Ordinals reflect the relative placings of each competitor by the judges.

Duff Leaves Windsor

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Dick Duff, a former National Hockey League player, resigned Monday as coach and manager of the Windsor Spitfires of the Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League. He cited personal and family reasons.

Team officials said they hope to have a replacement by Thursday.

Duff, 39, played 16 seasons in the NHL for Toronto Maple Leafs, New York Rangers, Montreal Canadiens, Los Angeles Kings and Buffalo Sabres.

The Kirkland Lake, Ont., native assumed his duties with the Spitfires earlier this year.

The team is in second place in the six-team league, four points back of Welland Sabres.

GREESE GETS A REST

MIAMI (CP) — Miami Dolphins having clinched a National Football League berth, plan to rest quarterback Bob Griese in their game against New England Patriots next Sunday. The assignment will go to 36-year-old Earl Morrall although Griese will probably get some work.

MARCEL DIONNE

Moscow Selects Bow 4-3

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Juniors of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League, featured by six professionals from Nova Scotia Voyageurs, defeated Moscow Selects 4-3 Monday night in an exhibition game that saw three members of the Canadian team thrown out.

The Juniors won on the strength of a third-period power-play goal by Jean-Luc Pisanof at 13:09 after the Soviets had drawn to a 3-3 tie on a pair of goals by forward Konstantin Klimov earlier in the period.

The Juniors had led 3-1 until Klimov's first goal at 5:25 of the final period.

Peter Sullivan, along with Voyageur team-mate Ron Andruff, had scored for Montreal in the first period to offset a goal by Zelmez Kaiserlz. Denis Daigle scored the only goal of the second period.

Much of the Montreal victory could be attributed to the goaltending of Dave Elenbaas of the Nova Scotia team from the American Hockey League.

Elenbaas played superbly until he injured his left ankle at 1:40 of the final period. He was replaced by Montreal netminder Andre Legaye, returned at the 16-minute mark but was forced to give up less than two minutes later when the leg would not hold him.

In addition to Elenbaas' strong performance, the Canadian team managed to match the Russian Soviets by consistantly forechecking their more experienced opponents.

The Russians, playing their first game of a seven-game Canadian tour, did not appear up to their usual standards and had difficulty in their own zone as the physical visual continually bumped them off the puck.

The roughness that was displayed throughout most of the contest came to a head at 19:08 of the third period. Soviet defenceman Aleksei Volchenkov and Richard Sevigny fought.

As Bowness lay crumpled on the ice, Gilles Lupien, a former Montreal junior with the Voyageurs now, rushed at Volchenkov.

Lupien pounded the Russian with a series of punches and when he had finished, several other Montreal players took up where he left off.

Imlach's Crew Flying

Sabres Have 'Punch'

MONTREAL (CP) — Buffalo Sabres currently are enjoying their most impressive season in their five-year history.

And statistics released by the National Hockey League Monday cite several reasons for the club's success.

The Sabres lead all 18 teams in points with 41. They have the individual scoring leader in centre Gilbert Perreault with 40 points and boast a line with each member recording 20 goals.

In addition, the Sabres have the leading point man among rookies in right winger Dan Gare with 28.

The Buffalo club has lost only four games this season—second best to the two beaten suffered by Los Angeles Kings—and hold a 10-point lead over runner-up Boston Bruins in the Charles Adams division.

They are on an 11-game undefeated streak with nine wins and two ties and have lost only one of their last 23 games—18 victories, three ties.

Offensively, the Sabres are led by their French Connection line, centred by Perreault. He has 20 goals, 20 assists and 40 points in 29 games. Right winger Rene Robert is third in the scoring race with 43 points. Including 20 goals, while left winger Rick Martin is tied with centre Phil Esposito of Boston for fourth place with 41 points.

Martin also has 20 goals to give the line 60 goals and 123 points in 29 games—best in the league so far this season.

Defenceman Robby Orr of the Bruins trails Perreault by one point in the scoring race, but Boston has played three games fewer than the Sabres.

Gare, a native of Nelson, B.C., heads the list of rookie point-getters. The 20-year-old Gare was Buffalo's second choice and 20th over-all in the 1974 amateur draft. He has 11 goals and 15 assists.

Next in points among the rookies is Eric Vail of Atlanta Flames with 21, including 13 goals, which ties him with Rick Middleton of New York Rangers for the lead among first-year NHL players in goals.

Centre Pierre Larouche of Pittsburgh Penguins is third in points among rookies with 19, including eight goals. Larouche was the Penguins' first choice in the 1974 draft after a high-scoring career with Sorel Black Hawks of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League.

Among goaltenders, the Los Angeles Kings pair of Rogatien Vachon and Gary Edwards continues its sparkling pace.

The tvvosome has a combined goals-against average of 1.64 which compares to runner-up Philadelphia Flyers mark of 2.39.

The Olympique 340 has a smooth new "Torque Reaction" slide suspension derived from the performance proven TNT system.

There's a new lower profile styling. A new fuel system. A big removable tool box. Standard ski shock absorbers on all models. And a revolutionary new cooling system.

LOS ANGELES (CP) — A productive week has moved former World Hockey Association champion Andre Lacroix of San Diego Mariners into the thick of this year's scoring race.

Serge Bernier of Quebec Nordiques had three goals and three assists during the week to move into a third-place tie with Frank Hughes of Hottons and Nilsson at 35 points.

Moss Rehired

TORONTO (CP) — Joe Moss, who took over an acting head coach of Toronto Argonauts in mid-season after the Canadian Football League team fired John Rauch, was appointed Monday as defensive co-ordinator.

Russ Jackson, the former Ottawa Rough Riders quarterback, who begins a five-year contract as head coach Jan. 1, announced that Moss has been rehired for two years.

But he said assistant coaches Bill Quinter and Red Hunsperger will not return in 1975.

Moss, 45, a University of Maryland graduate who played for Otters before going to Philadelphia Eagles as linebacker-coach in 1959, has been with the Argos since 1973. He got the call to direct the club when Rauch was dismissed after the Argos lost a couple of games on mental lapses. Under his leadership the team came within one victory of gaining a playoff berth.

At least one of the remaining two assistant coaching positions are expected to be filled within the next few days and an Argo spokesman said Ron Lancaster of Saskatchewan Roughriders might fill one of them.

"Russ and Ron have met," said Dick Shatto, Argos' public relations manager. "It all depends on whether Ron wants to coach."

George Leaving

MONTREAL (CP)—The Gazette says the Grey Cup champion Montreal Alouettes will announce today that award-winning fireman Ed George is leaving the team.

Although Alouette general manager Bob Geary refused to comment on today's scheduled news conference concerning George, The Gazette says that was an "open secret" throughout the last Canadian Football League season that George, 33, would not return next year.

Esks, Riders Dominate CFLs All-star Squad

TORONTO (CP) — The quality of Edmonton Eskimos productive offence and Ottawa Rough Riders' miserly defence is reflected in the makeup of the 1974 Canadian Football League all-star team.

The Eskimos, who finished first in the Western Conference with a league-high 345 scoring points and the Rough Riders, whose second-place finish in the East was largely attributed to their strong defensive squad, each placed five men on the team announced Monday.

Four Eskimos made the offensive team—quarterback Tom Wilkinson, running back Roy Bell and tackles Charlie Turner and Larry Watkins—while defensive halfback Larry Highbaugh was the only Edmonton player named to the defensive lineup.

For Ottawa, the lowest-scoring club in the CFL, it was just the reverse. Wide receiver Rhome Nixon was named to the offensive team and four Rough Riders — end Wayne Smith, middle linebacker Jerry Campbell and defensive backs Al Maggelin and Dick Adams—were picked on defence.

Montreal Alouettes, who defeated Edmonton in the Grey Cup, placed four players on the team, two on offence and two on defence. Saskatchewan Roughriders had one on offence and two on defence, Winnipeg Blue Bomber's one on each squad, Hamilton Tiger-Cats one on offence and Toronto Argonauts one on defence.

The team:

Offence

Quarterback—Tom Wilkinson, Edmonton.

Running Backs—Lou Harris, B.C.; George Reed, Saskatchewan; Roy Bell,Edmonton.

Wide Receivers—Johnny Rodgers, Montreal; Rhome Nixon, Ottawa.

Tight End—Tony Gabrin, Hamilton.

Tackles—Charlie Turner, Edmonton; Larry Watkins, Edmonton.

Guards—Ed George, Montreal;; Curtis Wester, B.C.

Centre—Bob Swift, Winnipeg.

Defence

Ends—Wayne Smith, Ottawa; George Wells, Saskatchewan.

Tackles—John Helton, Calgary; Jim Stillwagon, Toronto.

Middle Linebacker—Jerry Campbell, Ottawa.

Corner Linebackers—Mike Wilder, Montreal; Roger Carew, Calgary.

Defensive Backs—Al Marcum, Ottawa; Dick Adams, Ottawa; Larry Highbaugh, Edmonton; Paul Williams, Winnipeg; Lorne Richardson, Saskatchewan (tied); Dickie Harris, Montreal (tied).

It was the sixth consecutive nomination for Campbell at linebacker and he was a major reason why Ottawa, while scoring only 261 points, managed to hold opponents to a measly 271, that tied the Rough Riders with Montreal for the best defensive record in the East and was next to 1,447 yards on 288 carries for only to Edmonton's 347 in goal line touchdowns and a solid the CFL.

For George Reed it was the ninth all-star berth in the last 10 seasons—his only gap coming in 1970 when he was injured—as he led the CFL in rushing with five-yard-a-carry average.

He did not top the Football Reporters of Canada poll among running backs, however, the honor going to Harris,

Italian Firms Still Manage To Dodge Many Tax Levies

ROME (CP) — Companies here can't evade taxes quite like they used to, the businessman smiles, "but we're still running anyway."

Another seasoned Italian observer analyses the current decline of the economy, then offers two reasons why the country will not go bankrupt: The United States and West Germany.

With their economy in a nosedive, Italians seem to be relying on those old instincts of survival—never obey a law unless forced, take cover when you are weak, enlist a powerful ally for protection and run when you get the chance.

Businessmen, the government and politicians agree that the economy is in trouble. But is it a catastrophic crisis?

Largely because of high imported oil prices, Italy's trade deficit is seven times what it was last year.

Inflation, now more than 22 per cent a year, is the worst in Europe.

Unemployment, now just under a million, may rise by another 125,000 by winter's end. That would be about five per cent of the labor force out of work, but that does not include widespread underemployment, where two men do the work of one.

Industry, strapped by rising costs and uncertain demand, is cutting investment and production. The crucial car industry is down to a three-day week.

A top-level Bank of Italy analyst says these are all "clear signs of a recession" and predicts no early improvement.

It all presents a nasty picture for an economy already troubled by volatile politics and a bureaucracy everyone agrees is riddled with incompetence, corruption and patronage.

But there are signs of underlying wealth that leaves Italy richer than, say, Britain, to fight off an international depression.

Italy enjoyed its so-called economic miracle in the 1960s, an investment and production boom that transformed its economy from agricultural to industrial. By 1970, 87 per cent of the population earned a living in industry compared with about 50 per cent after the Second World War.

Even under the weight of oil price increases, business investment rose 25 per cent in 1973 and continued to rise in the first half of this year. And textiles—are working at capacity.

With wage increases still running ahead of high inflation, consumer demand remains high, though higher taxes and import tariffs are planned to try to dampen it.

That all means that Italy seems to have the potential for economic recovery, especially if rich friends such as Germany and the United States help pay its enormous foreign debt.

"Italians live by their wits," says a diplomat discussing current problems.

With almost no resources of its own, the economy is based on importing raw materials and exporting processed goods.

With resource prices up, some companies already are shifting production to manufacture more highly-finished products, which can attract higher export prices.

"What we need is a sound government — conclude an executive.

Indeed, Italy's most serious problems seem to be its oldest.

Italian government corporations control about 40 per cent of industrial investment through a myriad of intercompany partnerships, but the public service itself has often been inept.

An official of the National Confederation of Industry says about 400,000 families seek housing each year, for example. But only 170,000 new units are being built this year, largely because of legal and bureaucratic tangles.

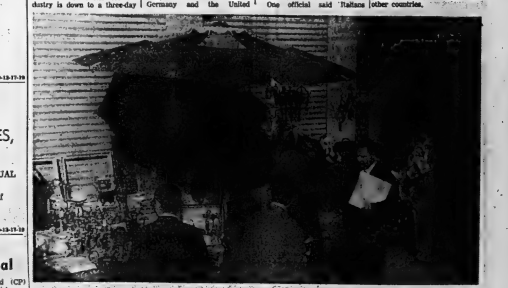
Hospitals cannot pay their bills, schools are overcrowded and whole cities are going bankrupt.

The best-intentioned tax systems are thwarted by routine evasion. Says one journalist: "Only fools pay their taxes."

One official said Italians keep enough money abroad illegally to balance the trade deficit if it were all repatriated.

It is noted that Italians, always beset by political unrest, are perhaps well equipped to face world-scale economic turmoil.

"Psychologically, for the Italians this crisis is nothing," a Canadian Embassy official remarks.



Finally, Italians say that all is everybody's problem. And that, many suggest, will solve it, no matter what Italy does.

Mark Milton's Death

CHAPONT ST. GILES, England (CP) — Music, drama and poetry marked the ceremony of the death of John Milton, celebrated 17th century author. The commemoration took place in this Buckinghamshire village where Milton made his home in 1665 towards the end of his life. There, Cecelia Mindover, he completed his epic poem Paradise Lost.

Covent Garden Opens

LONDON (CP) — London's new £40-million wholesale fruit, vegetable and flower market, Her Covent Garden, has opened for trading, replacing the famous market two miles across the Thames in central London. Britain's largest and one of the most modern in the world, it is expected to handle more than one million tons of produce a year, two thirds from other countries.

Inflation Hits Market

Inflation in Italy is more than 22 per cent and the worst in Europe. Government economists say consumers will pay still more for their goods and services in 1975 — partly through higher taxes. Photo shows an outdoor market scene in Rome. (CP Photo)

LEICESTER, England (AP) — Leicester, in the English Midlands, has become the first city in Britain to have its traffic flow completely controlled by computer. It uses combined closed-circuit television to monitor traffic and computers to control traffic lights.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Wednesday, December 11, 1974

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A frustrating condition is about to change. You'll be better able to come to grips with it and reduce it to a manageable size.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't let any more time go by regarding a business situation that you've pondered often. Work it out at once, if possible.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Team effort is called for today. Be sure you're ready for instructions as your counterpart, or he'll get bogged with you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The early part of the day, you'll be somewhat lackadaisical about your chores. By afternoon, you'll have a full head of steam up.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22) You need a slight change of pace now. Plan something for this evening that is pleasurable, as the weak won't seem so long and dreary.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your patience is very thin-skinned today, especially in a yard evening when you might be grumpier to family members than is usual.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll evoke a positive mood from others if your remarks are the sharp or cutting today. Think carefully before you speak.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're too concerned now as to whether you'll get what's coming to you. Your actions will lead others to think you're selfish.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be careful you don't overreact if everything doesn't go exactly your way. You can be sure it won't be to anyone's benefit.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20) Something will occur today that will annoy you. Bring it out in the open. Clear it up quickly rather than hide it and let it smolder.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) You'll leave something important half-finished, thinking you'll get back to it later. You won't. Valuable time will be lost.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In competitive situations, don't be bluffed by your opponent. The odds favor you to come out on top.

'Weak Kidneys' Come with Age

By G. C. THOMPSON, MD

Dear Dr. Thompson: Is there a remedy for weak kidneys? I am 60 and quite a few people have told me that is why I age.

When I lift anything heavy or laugh heartily I wet my underpants a little. Also if I am just standing leaning, I can have the same reaction. Is there anything a person can take for this? — N.P.

The only thing you can "take" for it is some good advice.

"Weak kidneys" by the way is not the right term for this trouble. Actually it is a matter of poor muscle control of the bladder — not the kidneys at all — and that can come along with age.

One thing you should do is have your doctor check to see whether you have a cystocele, which is a relaxation of support of the bladder that in turn puts more burden on the bladder control muscles.

Cystocele is seen fairly frequently in women who have had several children. Sometimes a pessary gives the sufficient support. But should surgery be necessary, it is just a fearsome type of surgery, so don't fight shy of it if you need it.

Another thing that can do in this situation is strengthen the bladder muscles by exercise — contract your muscles as though trying to stop urination. It takes some time, but you can train those muscles.

Another simple but helpful thing to get is the habit of urinating a bit more frequently. That will take some of the pressure off the bladder.

A final tip well worth keeping in mind: this type of dribbling can also be a symptom of diabetes. Get yourself tested for that.

Dear Dr. Thompson: My grandson, 4, still wets the bed and wets his clothing during the day. He has been examined by the family doctor who now advises spanking. Would appreciate your advice. — L.C.C.

I just can't agree with the spanking idea at all — and since the problem is in daytime as well as at night I would strongly urge a bit more searching examination by a specialist (either a pediatrician or urologist) to see whether some physical problem is involved.

You will find that before going into specific methods of handling bed-wetting, my advice would be with a thorough physical examination. I do not recommend punishment. Children with a bed-wetting (or day-wetting) problem don't do it for pleasure, and punishment doesn't help them.

END OF THE WORLD

The town, county and peninsula of Gaspe are believed to have received their name from the Indian word gaspeg, meaning "end of the world."

Opening lead — K♣

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Pessimistic Pete looked over dummy. Then he played six ace of clubs on West's king. Next came a trump to the ace and when both opponents followed Pete relaxed. He saw that no matter how badly the rest of the cards lay nothing could keep him from scoring all tricks, game and rubber.

He played two more trumps to pull East's tenth and proceeded to lead a low diamond toward dummy's queen. West ducked so the nine held. Pete played a diamond back and West took his queen.

He shifted to the seven of spades. Pete played low from dummy and East was in with the queen. He made his top spade which was to return a club, but Pete ruffed and knocked out West's ace of diamonds.

West led a second spade. Pete rose with dummy's ace, ruffed a club in got back to his own discarded dummy's jack of spades on the long diamond and made the hand in spite of everything being wrong.

Of course, an opening spade lead would have beaten them, but that was a simple player; not a man with second sight.

Follow That Train

STRAWBERRY HILL, England (CP) — Five passengers stranded by a train delay at this suburban station had a free ride to their destination in the stationmaster's car, Said one grateful commuter of stationmaster John Pearce: "Thanks to him I forgive British Railways for all the inconvenience I have had in the past."

Studies Water

LONDON (AP) — Hard water is better for health than soft water, says Prof. Durnel Crawford, a nutrition expert. In London, where stress can be considerable and the water is hard, the incidence of heart disease is less than in areas of Britain which have soft water, he told a conference here. The professor said that the relationship between soft drinking water and increased heart disease had been demonstrated in about nine counties.

Energy-saving Plan

U.S. May Impose New Tax on Gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States may be facing a fuel-saving gasoline tax to conserve energy, and a speed limit to control industry by allocating steel and skilled space in the search for more oil from off-shore wells.

Despite President Ford's continuing opposition to a further tax on gasoline, many of his energy advisers are recommending that as one step in a program of energy conservation.

Ford has ordered his administration to bring about a reduction of one million barrels a day in oil consumption by the end of 1975, but attempts to reach that target by voluntary co-operation appear to have failed.

The administration, heading for cabinet-level energy policy talks next Saturday, is known to be considering such moves as mandatory automobile mileage standards; tax credits for persons who buy cars of economical cars or, conversely, weight and horsepower taxes; import restrictions; fuel allocations and, as a last resort, gasoline rationing.

Meanwhile, Interior Secretary Rogers Morton warned Monday that allocation of steel and shipyard space to the construction of off-shore drilling rigs may be necessary to overcome shortages of both materials and investment capital.

The warning of a contest for money and materials was made at the first day of public hearings in preparation for the energy policy talks.

Asked whether his goal of saving 10 million offshore acres in 1975 for oil development could be realized in view of acknowledged shortages of drilling equipment, Morton said such acreage could at least be explored to find out where there is petroleum. But he noted that offshore drilling platforms are built in shipyards and thus are competing for space with merchant vessel construction.

"It might be necessary to invoke the Defence Production Act to make sure we have the equipment to do the job," Morton said, referring to the president's authority to allocate critical materials and facilities.

Toronto Jail Inquiry Witness Names Goons

TORONTO (CP) — Garry Desmy, the former Toronto jail guard responsible for a public inquiry into the jail, named eight men Monday, including himself, who he said were the guard goon squad.

Mr. Desmy told the royal commission inquiry the squad was "not formally designated by the jail, but whenever there was trouble we were called."

The former guard, who is not related to Desmond Desmy, said that the term "goon squad . . . is used by the guards that were on it and the inmates."

Russian Labelled Spy Named Olympics Aide

OTTAWA (CP) — If a Soviet KGB agent named as representative to the 1976 Olympics in Montreal plans to return to Canada, he has given no indication of it to officials.

The external affairs department said Monday that Alexander Grenko, 37, once expelled from Britain for spying, has made an application for a visa to return or take up residence.

A spokesman declined comment when asked if external affairs knew of Grenko's background when he arrived in November and subsequently was photographed with the prime minister.

The Olympic Games Organizing Committee (COJO) said in a statement Friday that Grenko was appointed by the Soviet Union as an attache to the Olympics and was to be in continued contact with it and to help with lodging arrangements personnel under article 46 of the Olympic rules.

Officials in Ottawa said most countries so far have appointed Canadians to members of their missions to Canada in this position.

Grenko, vice-president of the international relations committee for the Soviet ministry of sport, was an organizer of the recent Canada-Russia hockey series. He visited Prime Minister Trudeau Nov. 14 and received a hockey sweater.

Grenko returned to the Soviet Union from Montreal three weeks ago. Asked if he would be granted a "visa to return, an external affairs spokesman said that will be dealt with at the time of application for a

Seven Killed

MEADOW LAKE, Sask. (CP) — Seven persons, including five children, were killed early Monday in a collision between a car and a three-ton truck 14 miles north of here.

RCMP said all of the dead were in the car. No names were released but police said the those killed were from Saskatchewan.

The driver of the truck, Ben Neufeld, 68, of Dorintosh, Sask., was taken to hospital in Meadow Lake, about 125 miles northeast of Prince Albert.

Insurance Will Rise

TORONTO (CP) — Homeowners across Canada can expect to pay an average 25.1 per cent more for annual insurance premiums early in 1975, a report released Monday by the Insurers Advisory Organization of Canada.

The IAO is the rate-making organization of companies and groups handling about 75 per cent of the dwelling insurance in Canada.

Electronic Devices Aid Crippled

VANCOUVER (CP) — Quadruplegics now are able to use electronic devices to perform the many little tasks that have kept them almost totally dependent on other people using merely a flick of the tongue or a rub on the chin.

"If you've ever been dependent on people to do things for you, there's a strong motivation right there to be independent," says Andy Clark, managing director of the Canadian Paraplegic Association. And he says that by using electronic devices, a handicapped person has control of his immediate environment.

Clark, a paraplegic without the use of his legs, showed what he meant at a seminar on electronic control for the handicapped. Using only his chin, Clark rubbed a microphone-like sensing device activating a signal that can turn on any of the appliances hooked into the master control board of the TOSC, short for touch-operated selector control.

In short order, Clark turned on a radio, switched the channel, started a dictating machine and showed how the unit could move an intercom and automatic door lock.

A TOSC unit costs $1,000 without the appliances and was only one of several units demonstrated.

An English group exhibited a typewriter that is activated by blowing and sucking on a tube.

These actions move a light across a chessboard viewer that has a letter or number in each square. When the signal stop, the typewriter prints that letter.

Other aids for the handicapped range from electronic page-turners to more sophisticated devices that allow deaf mutes to communicate with each other by telephone.

In many cases, these electronic devices provide the only means of communication with quadraplegics who also happen to be deaf or mute.

Clark says he doesn't think it will be long before provincial health services will provide these aids to those people who need them.

"I think the problem now is to make it widely known, that is, the fact it is available and what it can do."

Hare-Raising Experience

NORTH BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Boy scouts now can learn to raise rabbits for fun and profit.

To stimulate interest in the hobby, the Boy Scouts of America is selling a new, 32-page merit badge pamphlet, Rabbit Raising. The publication also can give help to homemakers, farmers, game wardens and scoutmasters.

Canada's Gross National Product did not grow during the third quarter of 1974 according to a report Friday released by Statistics Canada. In dollar terms, however, the GNP went up $3.2 billion to $143.7 billion, but all of that was an increase in higher prices. The GNP is the total value of goods and services produced by the economy. Garlic, Sheep Fat and Tripe Is Russian Hangover Remedy

TBILISI, U.S.S.R. (CP) — For one exotic Soviet dish, take a medium-sized hangover, garnish with boiled garlic, sheep fat, tripe and salt to taste and—sadly—stir.

That's called the hangover special, served in special restaurants from 5 a.m. or earlier until perhaps 10 a.m. It is supposed to work wonders on morning-after miseries.

For five Canadian journalists on a recent visit to the Georgian republic, it was a mixed experience, even though the Georgian hosts had thoughtfully provided a couple of bottles of vodka at 7 a.m. to create the proper mood.

There was no doubt that the dish had character and that the third, taken with that fresh, filling Georgian bread, was delicious for some.

For most Canadians it was too much, especially the chunks of white cartilage and tripe dotting the surface of the soup plate.

But that dish was the exception in the rule that Soviet food is palatable at least on the Intourist Hotel circuit in Moscow or Leningrad. And certainly in any eating-place experienced by the group, freewheeling wine country in the Caucasus Mountains, four hours by car from the border of the Turkish and Iranian borders.

If there is a criticism, it is that Soviet meals are more than adequate especially those breakfasts that Georgian hospitality says must be launched with cognac, good cognac though it is. Maybe that's why soda water accompanies every glass, meal.

Breakfasts might be cheese or sausages with buttermilk, fruit drink or sometimes beer. There was always boiled or fried eggs or omelets, bread and jam, coffee or tea. In Georgia, it was goat cheese.

Lunches and dinners included openers of fresh tomatoes, cucumbers, dill pickles, smoked sturgeon or other fish or sometimes black caviar, increasingly expensive.

The broccoli was always extremely good, full of beans, cabbages, sausages and other bits of meat and sour cream. There were small steaks, fresh fish, chicken Kievs, chicken breasts stuffed with butter—sliced beef or shishkebab or shashlik.

But the Republic of Georgia, renowned for its hospitality and the lengthy toasts that feature its dinners, set a special pace.

One day's sailing began with a hearty breakfast that included cognac. At 11 a.m. the party stopped in a plain standup cafe for beer and two dishes—shiskali, which is spiced meat boiled with little sacks of dough, and spiced ground beef fingers about the size of a wiener, served on flat bread.

At noon, there was a snack of red champagne—it tasted good but not like regular champagne—and fruit: lychelles, pears and grapes.

Shortly after noon, there was another pause for more refreshments and then a respite until a tasting session at a cognac factory where Chief Commissioner George Kitching of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario had signed the visitors' book a few days earlier.

After sampling six kinds of cognac, the Canadian delegation rested off to a mountainside restaurant overlooking the historic city invaded 28 times by the Greeks of Alexander the Great, Romans and others.

That evening meal lasted five hours, spread 23 bottles of white wine among 16 participants and ran the gamut from steel shoots, toasted cheese slabs and a highly-spiced liver dish to shashlik and fried chickens.

War Toys Sell Well

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — Tommy guns, cowboy holsters, plastic soldiers and other war toys were banned from many store shelves in the United States during the Vietnam war era but are hot-selling items this Christmas.

"It used to be that you didn't give Kenny a gun for Christmas, because you didn't want Kenny to be a warmonger," Boca Raton toymaker William Cook said. "Well the war's over now."

Barry Metzger, manager of Lionel Playworld, one of the largest toy stores in south Florida, said customer complaints forced the store to remove every war toy and most cowboy guns from its shelves during the Vietnam years.

But this season, Metzger said war toy sales are back to 75 per cent of their pre-war level.

"These toys are clearly being accepted because once again we're a peaceful nation," he said.

Dr. M. Wood Africa's First Flying Doctor

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Michael Wood's life as Africa's first flying doctor is a little more exciting than that of the average surgeon.

Things like rhinos on the runway, pot-holed and flooded landing strips, primitive operating conditions and more than 100 native dialects help make life interesting for the 55-year-old Nairobi-based surgeon who moved to Africa from England in 1947 to ease his asthma problem.

He was flown to remote areas as he heads emergencies when he first arrived, then he became a pilot in 1955, becoming Africa's first flying doctor.

Now he heads the 16-member African Medical Foundation, a model for other nations in delivery of health care to remote areas.

He recently visited supporters in Toronto.

The Nairobi hospital, located on an airfield, is linked with the small hospitals and provides consultation, drugs and emergency assistance.

Eight airplanes—one supplied by Toronto Rotarian club—are used to send doctors to the hospitals where they handle complicated medical problems.

"We find it better to take doctors to the periphery than to bring people back to the main hospital," Dr. Wood said. "The beds get filled up otherwise. The patients can't be visited by the family. And there would be a problem of language."

The foundation handles about one emergency a day. It can airlift a doctor to any spot in the area within about three hours. The main problem is getting the case reported quickly, not getting the doctor in.

The foundation has built about 100 rough airstrips in the area which is about 1,000 miles in diameter.

"On the surgical side, one often has to operate in really primitive conditions—without electric light.

Touring Exhibit Includes Local Work

By JERRY SPRAGUE
Staff Correspondent

PICTON — The Picton Edward County Museum acts as host this month to the 10th Annual Juried Exhibition of Art.

Sponsored by the East Central Ontario Art Association, the show includes about 40 pieces of art work. The exhibit held its Picton opening Saturday evening, and will run intermittently until Dec. 28.

Georgs Speck of Peterborough, first president of the association, who was on hand for the official opening said the event is on tour next year in its arrival in Picton, the show opened at the Station Gallery in Whitby, travelling to Scarborough and Peterborough. After Picton, the show will travel to Belleville, Port Hope and conclude in Lindsay.

"At each of our stops, the show generally hangs from three to four weeks", said Mr. Speck.

Mr. Speck said that the purpose of the art association is to foster development of art and crafts in East Central Ontario with emphasis upon good design and fine workmanship.

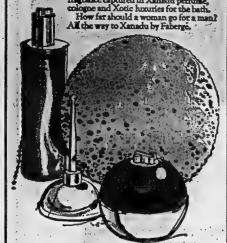
The organization formed about 20 years ago, covers a wide area including Picton, Belleville, the entire lake shore and north to Peterborough and Bancroft. Each year, full members are invited to submit work they have done, he said. This includes art work done in oils, pastels and water colors. Each member is permitted to submit three paintings, and from the total of paintings submitted, two professional artists, hired by the association, pick out 50 paintings.

"We have several awards which we give out every year", explained Mr. Speck. "One is the Dorg Purdon Award, worth $30, and another, the Rose Baker Award".

Both awards are named after artists who have been particularly active in the Art Association.

The painting on display at the County Museum include oils, watercolors and mixed media and range in price from about $30 to $172.

Sald Ethel Evans, Honorary Vice-president and Picton area representative of the association: "The paintings may be purchased, but cannot be had until after the tour is completed".



Many local artists are among those represented at the art show in Picton, including Dosmah Cameron and Meg Pederson of Carrying Place, Jerry Hapley of Shirling, Ben Williamson, Barbara Whelan and Muriel Andrews of Bellville and Ethel Evans of Picton.

Alberta Association Suggests Province Should Go It Alone

CALGARY (CP) — The "export tax was the thing that broke the camel's back," John Rudolph, president of the Independent Alberta Association, "I couldn't take it any more."

The export tax on crude oil, resources taxation, discriminatory freight rates, tariffs and other measures to protect manufacturing activity in Eastern Canada are just some of the factors working to the detriment of western development, he said in an interview.

Mr. Rudolph's association recently released the first part of a study on the cost of Confederation to Alberta, suggesting that Alberta would be better off economically as an independent state.

But Mr. Rudolph was quick to say that the association, despite its name, is not proposing an independent Alberta.

"Our name has had more criticism than anything else. However, the name was chosen by the executive and we'll let it stand."

On the other hand, if everything else failed to change Alberta's "colonial status," Mr. Rudolph said, an independent Alberta would be the last resort.

The study, prepared by a group of five economists headed by D.r Warren Blackman of University of Calgary, says the cost of Confederation to Alberta was a minimum of $1.3 billion in 1972, measured in 1972 dollars.

The study works out as "opportunity cost" by deducting the net domestic product (GDP) of Alberta as a member of Confederation, fro mthe projected GDP of a hypothetical Independent Alberta.

The opportunity cost, or economic opportunities lost by Alberta as a result of federal policies affecting economic activity in the private sector, would amount to $4.5 billion in 1981, in constant 1972 dollars.

Mr. Rudolph said the second part of the cost-of-Confederation study, dealing with intergovernmental transfer programs such as the oil export tax, department of regional economic expansion and equalization payments, will be released shortly.

"We are not proposing an independent Alberta. But the study clearly points to the need for Alberta to renegotiate its terms for staying in the Confederation."

"My motives are patriotic and I am optimistic that Canadians have enough sense to solve the problems together."

The association was incorporated last April as a non-profit, non-political, fact-finding group to press for the betterment of Alberta. While saying he is not a rich man, Mr. Rudolph has been supporting it financially "as generously as I can."

November Price Rise Makes 12-month Total 26-year Record

OTTAWA (CP) — The consumer price index rose by 12 per cent during the last 12 months for the fastest rate of gain since price controls were being taken off after the Second World War, Statistics Canada reported today.

During November the price index was up by 1.1 per cent.

Higher prices for food and new cars accounted for about two-thirds of the increase in November. Household operation costs also were major contributors.

The last time there was a faster 12-month rise in the consumer price index was between October, 1947, and October, 1948, when it went up 12.2 per cent.

Wage and price controls brought in during the war were taken off gradually, ending finally in 1948.

The only price break last month was a decline of nine-tenths of one per cent in the public transportation index. This was due to cheaper train travel—not lower fares, but more economy-price days due to the end of the peak tourist travel period.

The private transportation index was up 1.4 per cent, with more than half of this increase due to higher new-car prices.

Sugar, fresh vegetables and milk price rises were major contributors to a 1.3-per-cent rise in the food index. These were partly offset by lower prices for fresh fruit and many meat products.

The November index level was 174.1. Stated another way the mix of consumer items that could be bought for $100 in 1961 cost $174.10 last month, $172.20 in October and $135.80 in November of last year.

The purchasing power of the 1961 dollar was down to 57 cents by last month.

The price indexes for November do not account for the effects of sales tax changes announced Nov. 18 in a federal budget. These affected a variety of items, including cars, liquor, tobacco, bicycles and building materials, and apply at the wholesale level.

Statisticians said it will take up to two or three months for the impact of most of the tax changes to reach consumer prices.

Hypnotizing Lobsters

Making lobsters do headstands is easy, Peter Saab of Toronto says as he hypnotizes six of them in half a minute. "All you have to do is stand the lobster on his nose, stretch his claws to a certain position and stroke the tail with the palm of your hand," he says. Saab learned the trick from a Norwegian trawlerman as a boy of 12 in Nova Scotia. (CP Photo)

North Hastings Faces Change

Consumer May Pay for Peace
Boost in Oil Price Might Appease West

OTTAWA (CP) — A smouldering dispute over resource taxation that eventually may be settled only by higher domestic oil prices was brought into sharp focus at the federal-provincial meeting of finance ministers that ended Tuesday.

Finance Minister John Turner and his provincial counterparts—notably from oil-rich Alberta and Saskatchewan—have been feuding at long range ever since Mr. Turner brought down his Nov. 18 budget.

The issue now will be tossed to a meeting of Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and the 10 provincial premiers sometime early in 1975. No date for a meeting has been set, but a spokesman for the prime minister's office says it is under discussion.

'No one wanted to talk about the possibility that domestic oil prices will be raised, but there was general agreement that taking more from consumers would be, an effective way to get more money for both levels of government and still leave funds for company exploration programs.

A price increase would depend upon a decision by Prime Minister Trudeau and the premiers, he said.

One finance minister strongly opposed to higher oil prices was Ontario's John White. An increase would be "the worst of all possible solutions" for oil-consuming Ontario.

"This is a solution that would not be acceptable to us," he said after the meeting.

Oil Firm Says U.S. Can't Stop Imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — An official of Exxon, largest oil company in the United States, says the government was over-optimistic when it claimed the U.S. could eliminate oil imports by 1985.

William Slick, Exxon senior vice-president, said the government overestimated by millions of barrels a day the country's ability to increase oil production.

Slick spoke Tuesday at public hearings on energy policy. The hearings, sponsored by the cabinet-level energy resources council, are in preparation for forthcoming policy recommendations to President Ford.

Ford's energy advisers are to meet Saturday to prepare those recommendations.

In other testimony at the hearings, a natural gas company official predicted that gas shortages would force curtailment to residential users three or four years from now.

Most energy-industry witnesses urged an end to government regulation of natural gas pricing, the removal of petroleum price controls, increased offshore oil and gas leasing, and a "balancing" of environmental regulation with energy needs.

Slick said Exxon estimated the U.S. can at best reduce oil imports from current 6.5 million barrels a day at the present to no less than 2.4 million by 1985.

Welch Won't Let SIU Sue Shulman

OTTAWA (CP) — Charges and counter-charges continued to fly Tuesday in the row surrounding the powerful Seafarers' International Union and federal and provincial politicians.

In the capital, Labor Minister John Munro made another attempt to untangle the web of innuendo that surrounds him, Liberal party money managers said they kept SIU money from reaching Finance Minister John Turner and the attorney-general of Ontario said he will not allow the SIU to prosecute a member of the provincial legislature.

The disclosure that the SIU tried to donate $200 to Mr. Turner's campaign before the July 8 election came from Senator John Godfrey, chairman of the Liberals' national finance committee since 1968.

Senator Godfrey said his political instincts told him to turn back the cheque, dated June 18 and signed by SIU president Roman Gralewicz.

Robert Welch, Ontario attorney-general, here for the provincial cabinet's three meeting in a series outside Toronto, said he would not accede to the SIU's request to prosecute Shulman, the MPP who first raised the possibility of SIU connections with the Trudeau government.

Dr. Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) had told the legislature that Mr. Munro said "thanks a million" when Mr. Gralewicz told him in a telephone conversation last spring that the union was donating $200 to the campaign fund.

SIU lawyers have said Dr. Shulman violated the Processes of Privacy Act by disclosing some of the conversation, but Mr. Welch said Tuesday that Dr. Shulman was speaking as a privileged MPP and thus is not liable for legal action.

Pipeline Tax by U.S. Not Likely

OTTAWA (CP) — Energy Minister Donald Macdonald said Tuesday he doubts if the United States government will impose taxes on Canadian oil exports to the U.S. mid-west.

The minister said he has no fears of tatting with Washington about a bill introduced in the U.S. House of Representatives to tax such shipments.

Dawson Mathis, a Democrat from Georgia, introduced the measure which would exactly offset the amount of Canadian tax that U.S. customers pay on oil imported from Canada.

"It sounds like the same sort of proposition made by some senators recently," the minister said. "I agree with the prime minister's comments on the matter."

Last month 17 senators wrote to Secretary of the Treasury Simsinger, urging that such a tax be imposed unless Canada lowered its export tax.

During a visit to Washington last week Prime Minister Trudeau said he did not take the proposal seriously. Canada could match any new U.S. tax by raising its export levy.

Meanwhile, Mr. Macdonald said negotiations are continuing between officials of the two governments on a pipeline treaty to protect supplies of oil and natural gas across each other's territory.

While it will not deal with local taxes, the treaty would cover interruptions in supply or taxes levied by the federal governments, the minister said.

Iran May Invest Oil Profits Here

OTTAWA (CP) — An indication that many of the millions of dollars Canada sends annually to Iran for oil are available for investment in this country is being given by the Iranian prime minister.

The subject was mentioned in talks between prime ministers Amir Abbas Hoveyda and Pierre Trudeau Tuesday and was expected to be raised again today in talks with federal ministers.

The Iranian prime minister expressed interest in almost any form of investment in a productive industry dealing in items Iran might want to import, a Canadian government official said Tuesday. But he said real estate was not on the list.

At a news conference, Mr. Hoveyda mentioned such industries as agriculture, forestry and pulp and paper.

The Canadian spokesman added mines and metallurgy and port facilities and said the prime minister was even interested in Canada's coast guard— although the reason was not clear.

Mr. Hoveyda, in Canada on a six-day visit, expressed interest in joint ventures involving Canada, Iran and a third country in developed countries.

The prime minister was not precise in his answers on investment at the news conference and it is believed he was not much more precise in talks with Mr. Trudeau.

The subject arose when Mr. Trudeau mentioned Canada's deficit with Iran and asked what could be done about it.

In the first eight months of this year Iran sold Canada goods—mostly oil—worth $468 million and bought only about $36-million worth from Canada.

Mr. Hoveyda said the imbalance can be corrected in part through investment trade and use of Canadian expertise in Iran.

Seven More Legislature Seats Planned for Golden Horseshoe

TORONTO (CP) — Recommended changes in Ontario electoral boundaries that would increase representation at Queen's Park for voters in the province's Golden Horseshoe area were tabled Tuesday in the legislature.

The final report of the boundaries commission, if approved, would add seven seats in the legislature for communities from Toronto to Niagara Falls.

An eighth seat, in the Kitchener-Waterloo area, would bring to 125 the number of members in the 117-seat Ontario legislature.

Premier William Davis said in an interview the government plans to pass legislation based on the report "before the next election" and likely early in the new year.

He "would not preclude" minor changes but thought it unlikely there'd be any major changes.

Opposition members generally reacted favorably to the 39-page document, presented with detailed maps.

James Breithaupt (L—Kitchener) said he is satisfied there has been "no suggestion of gerrymandering to shift boundaries for the advantage of any political party.

"The best feature of the report, in that it respects the boundaries of regional municipalities."

Stephen Lewis, leader of the New Democratic Party, whose riding of Scarborough West was altered, said he is generally pleased with the new distribution, but noted that eastern Ontario's "disparity of representation still hasn't been remedied."

Mr. Lewis said the redistribution goes a long way toward satisfying urban areas where large population increases have taken place.

Among specific recommendations in the report:

— Thirty-two ridings with new names and altered boundaries would be created and 24 old names would disappear.

—The net gain of eight new seats—three in Metropolitan Toronto, two in Peel and one each in Niagara, Halton and Kitchener - Waterloo areas — would bring to 125 the existing 117-seat legislature.

—Peterborough riding would be reduced to a smaller area Peterborough would be created around the city and Hastings— to represent a larger rural area.

The redistribution proposes adding five new townships to the present Hastings riding — represented by Conservative Clark Gaunlett. The townships, all west of the Hastings County boundary, are Chandos, Methuen, Belmont, Dummer and Asphodel townships.

Mr. Rollins announced introduction of the changes in the legislature Tuesday afternoon to Hastings County council meeting in Belleville.

In the Oshawa area, Ontario, Ontario South and Durham would disappear to be replaced by two regional ridings of Durham North, Durham West and Durham East.

PUC Ends Lists Of New Customers

Belleville Public Utilities has decided to stop handing out lists of customers new to the city to commercial interests.

It has followed a practice of keeping lists of new customers for Welcome Wagon and Hi Neighbor, enterprises that introduce newcomers to subscribing business in the city.

Woodland Cleaners Tuesday morning asked permission for the list, prompting commissioner Lyle Langabeer to move that the practice be stopped.

"I wouldn't want my names handed out to anyone," he said. "And once the lists are out of our hands we have no control over them".

General manager Neil Britton said the lists are compiled only for the business enterprises that request them, and are unnecessary for PUC files.

Pay Boost Approved

Public school board trustees now earn $300 a month for sitting on the board of education.

If the new, consolidated education act goes through the legislature, they will be entitled to $300 a month.

When trustees this week approved bylaw changes in their policy, they accepted the proposed honorarium of $300 a month. The money is designed to compensate trustees for the hours they must spend off work on board business.

Constables Move On

Three constables with the Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police have been transferred to various points in the province. Don Hewitt, middle, moves to Sioux Lookout on Jan. 7 while fellow constables, Roger Neal, left has been in Guelph since July while David Thompson, has been with the Picton detachment for two months.

Day at High School Bridges System Change

By LEONY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

The first day of high school can be traumatic occasion for new Grade 9 students.

"Those from the small elementary schools, especially, get tense and uptight," says John Hayman, principal of Quinte Secondary School.

So Quinte is trying to do something about familiarizing Grade 8 students with high school before they get there.

Thursday, about 360 students from King George School and Foxboro Senior School will spend the day at Quinte, following a program of their own choice. They chose the subjects they were interested in earlier, when they visited the technical department of th school during exam time.

Thursday will be different. The school will be in full swing, with only the Grade 9 students absent for the day. The Quinte students will be posted with each class to show the Grade 8 students the way around. Teachers will explain their courses, the options and the levels and give students the information they need to make a wise choice of high school programs.

High school teachers go to the feeder elementary schools in January to meet parents and explain the high school courses open to their children.

By then, with school visits and instruction, the students should have a good idea of what they want.

The Grade 8 students can go to Quinte Thursday because Quinte's Grade 9 student will be out of school for the day. In the morning they will attend a movie related to their English courses — an annual event. In the afternoon a program of community work has been arranged for them. Some will assist the firefighters' Christmas toy project, others will pack hampers for the Christmas Sharing program and others will return to their elementary schools. From the Grade 8 students, elementary school teachers will gather information that will help them prepare their grade 7 and 8 students for the transition to high school.

Pet of the Week

This appealing stray cat will make a lively and lovable pet. White and black, the half-grown female is available at Quinte Animal Shelter on Avondonald Rd.

Developers Want Lines Buried

The developers of Century Square, the $5 - million commercial office and shop building proposed for the corner of Bridge and Front Streets, want the Bridge St. hydro lines buried.

The request came to Belleville Utilities Commission at its regular meeting Tuesday.

Neil Britton, general manager, told the commissioners that the electrical lines would have to be put underground from Church St. to the river if they agree to the proposal.

The poles and lines now go along the south side of Bridge St. Telephone lines were buried underground on the north side of the street some years ago.

"The day is coming when lines downtown will have to go underground," Mr. Britton said. "Maybe this is the place we should be thinking of starting."

He said other commissions pay the cost of burying the lines, but the customer pays for the underground hookup to his building.

Mr. Britton said he investigating the cost of the project and the municipal bylaws that will have to be passed. The underground ductir would be 1,200 feet long and would have to be completed by this time next year to meet Century Square deadlines.

Pedestrian Safety

One or more fatalities on the streets of a community are always that many that we could do without.

The death of an elderly Belleville woman pedestrian on Front Street last week, in an accident in which a truck was also involved, raises the question of the safety of citizens on the street, especially that of older people.

The Christmas rush is approaching, and there is the risk of other accidents of this nature.

For people who are no longer young in years, who are slow on their feet, perhaps suffering from deafness and poor sight too, it is a time of unusual peril.

It should not be thus. We have a new Council, and this is an opportune time to do something about establishing proper crosswalks for pedestrians.

The crosswalks that do exist at several locations are courtesy crosswalks only. At these, as at not, the pedestrian plays a waiting game. For every courteous driver who does stop, there are others who drive on or, as one irate citizen informs us, abuse anyone trying to cross before his turn as it were.

There was another fatality of this nature in Brighton in recent days, and taken together they mar the Christmas season for the people of both communities.

Belleville is big enough that it should tackle this problem in a responsible manner. The least it can do, where citizens are concerned, is to provide facilities such as proper crosswalks; this way the citizen's personal and legal rights are recognized.

Ottawa Compromised

Whore involvement of cabinet ministers in monetary arrangements with the Securitores' International Under the circumstances there is going to be more heat before things cool down.

There is no smoke without fire. A lot of questions remain unanswered and thus far Government spokesmen have been distinctly evasive.

The Government is trying to absolve itself from any taint stemming from campaign contributions from the SIU to various cabinet members.

This is normal, say both Government and SIU, in effect. Yet at a time when conflict of interest is so much in the public mind — and, it might have been supposed, in the minds of politicians too — it is passing strange that Ottawa should be so careless in this respect.

To admit to having union money backing up the cause of the Liberal government is bad enough. To expect to be able to deal with the manifold interests of the public, in a free and impartial manner, in such compromising circumstances, is something else again.

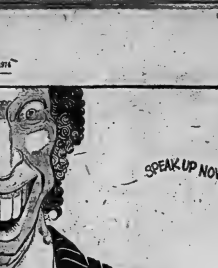
When the union concerned is itself suspected of violence and intimidation in its dealings with the rank and file, the public has further claim to full disclosure of what is happening.

Failure to take the public into its confidence could bode ill for the Trudeau government.

A Roving Eye

Should Canada permit a Soviet espionage specialist in a car midst during the Olympic Games in Montreal in 1976?

It is something with which Ottawa will have to concern itself, in light of the revelation that Leander Gresko, 37, appointed Soviet attache to the Otympic Organizing Committee, is said to have been declared persona non grata by the British government in 1971.



Consider, however, that last month, Ottawa got itself into a compromising situation — in Stevenson Gresko was presented with a plaque and a Team Canada hockey sweater by Prime Minister Trudeau.

On top of that, Gresko was one of the main organizers of the recent Canada hockey series.

If Canada should decide to expel Gresko, it would be out of character, given the hand-holding that characterizes much of Ottawa's relations with the Communist world, not to mention the euphoria that governs all matters relating to hockey, even showing for a little sticking here and there.

Will Ottawa do anything about this situation? It remains to be seen.

Like-Sounding Names in Spanish Puzzler For N. American Tourists

By JOHN D. HARRISON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

In case you are heading south this Christmas, we should straighten out right now the difference between Dominica and Dominican, where you shouldn't go for the time being and the Dominican Republic, a country little-known to most Canadian vacationers in the Caribbean.

In Toronto, the radio station made a real mess of reporting the recent brutal murder of a retired Ottawa couple as happening in the Dominican Republic and not in Dominica.

It's confusing, admittedly that two regions in the Caribbean have almost identical names, but not mikkely. All over the Spanish - speaking Caribbean, Latin America itself and the southwestern United States there are identical place names from the Spanish colonial period.

Almost all of them have a religious connotation — usually the piety of the Spanish explorers in naming things, region, new town and port sites for Our Lady, the Holy Faith, the saints, holy days.

For example, there are many Santa Fes in Hispanic America, including the famous city in the United States as well as the name of the railroad which serves it. And there is a Santa Fé in Argentina, a major interior city of that republic.

Los Angeles is merely the surviving tail end of the original fulsome name in Spanish, El Pueto de Nuestra Senora de Los Angeles (The Port of Our Lady of the Angels'. Go further north and there is a Fort Angeles in the state of Washington, again bearing the tail end of the same religiously inspired Spanish title.

Santiago de Compostela (St. James of Compostela) was and is the patron saint of Spain. There have been many towns in Hispanic America named after him. Santiago there is in Hispanic America? More than you think and some of them are hundreds, even thousands of miles apart.

There is Santiago de Cuba, which is that Marxist country's third largest eastern port city. literally St. James of Cuba. And there is Santiago de Chile, St. James of Chile, capital of the once-Marxist republic of Chile.

Coming back to the confusing Dominica and Dominican Republic, (which in Spanish looks even more like the name of the country as a republica Dominicana), and we see two islands named from the Spanish word for Sunday which is "dominica."

In fact the much larger Dominican Republic is only half of an island Columbus himself named Hispaniola, the other part of it is taken up with the black and French-speaking republic of Haiti.

Even Haiti is more familiar to French-speaking Canadian tourists in the Caribbean who like to visit the only other officially French-speaking nation in the hemisphere beside Canada.

If the Dominican Republic had been English or French-speaking it probably would have fitted easily into the orbit of Islands once part of the British or French empires.

Next door to Jamaica it might have been sold as part of a Caribbean island hop by the tourists. Which it is incidentally but still washing eagerly for the British brand of Canadian tastes with its still largely empty beaches and separate Caribbean lifestyle.

It has this mainly because it is the only independent Spanish-speaking island nation in the Caribbean region.

New Toys Livelier More Lifelike And They Are Costing More Too

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

More than the price has changed on toys Christmas shoppers are discovering.

This year's toys emphasize science fiction, greater dependence upon battery power, complexity rather than simplicity.

Dolls, for instance, are not only about 15 per cent costlier, but are more versatile than ever in terms of the functions they can perform. One big-selling battery-operated doll, called Baby Alive, eats, drinks—and more.

In games, there's new emphasis on participation by both children and parents. More tabletop games have been switched to motorized operation instead of manual. Some new sports games rely on a simple form of electronics.

If war-related toys and games are losing ground, any losses are being made up by new ones keyed to children's favorite TV programs and show-biz personalities. One obvious new entry is the Evel Knievel Stunt Cycle-which doesn't, however, parachute down a canyon.

To cash in on the increased public awareness of the ecology, some toy-makers have redesigned their hobby kits to appeal to the ecology-minded eager to test the purity of the air and water.

"Comparison shopping is always a good idea," says the federal department of consumer and corporate affairs.

"The price of a particular toy may vary from store to store, and there can be differences in quality between similar items at other prices."

Toy discounters always appear upon the retail scene at this time of year, using rented premises with a minimum of frills.

Since the rental period is variably ends on the night of Dec. 24, it's risky to buy from such operators any toy that might conceivably need, aftersale services or that you might wish to exchange—as, for example, in case of duplication.

Unless you are sure that there will be no need to seek an exchange, a refund or service, it might be wiser to forgo the discount and shop instead at an established retail outlet that does offer such after-sale facilities.

Safety should be a prime consideration in buying toys, says the consumer and corporate affairs department.

"Although the federal government has regulations controlling the sale of toys that are in themselves dangerous, all toys can be hazardous if they are used improperly," it notes.

The most essential element in a safe and happy environment for a child at play, says the department, is parental supervision.

Help in choosing a toy can be had from the Canadian Toy Testing Council, established in 1952 to acquaint the public with quality toys in Canadian stores, and to encourage changes in the production of unsatisfactory toys.

The council urges shoppers to consider the age and capability of the child, durability, stimulus in the imagination, aesthetic sense, working order and "play value" of the toy.

The department offers two free booklets—Tips On Toy Buying and Little Gifts For Big Occasions. It also distributes lists of all recommended toys still being merchandised in Canada, grouped according to type and children's age.

The booklets and lists can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dri council at Box 6014, Station C Ottawa, K2A 1T1.

Averages And Civil Service Pay

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — The "Chinese Coalition," that mystery group which is generally regarded to be led by Premier Lewis and his London make-the-world-safe-for-plutocracy friends has been busy in the dispute between the government and the civil servants.

There is nothing really wrong with such a tactic. Most concerned citizens want to spend their money on massive advertising campaigns it certainly is their privilege.

Let them fight their battles with their money. Their advertisements are paid for by public class, and in this case are government servants in most cases don't need money for their fight. They generate natural publicity.

But if they are going to fight let it be an intelligent fight. In the present instance, at least the Chinese Coalition is not being very intelligent.

Their present campaign is keyed to the them: "You're making $22.95 less than the average civil servant in Ontario this week."

And from there it goes on to say that the average worker in Ontario (including civil servants) make $181.95 a week while the average Ontario civil servant makes $204.90.

Sounds great. But it is mining the wrong lode.

It is using "averages" badly. The average pay in Ontario may be $181.95 a week.

And the average civil service pay may be $204.90.

But the key is on the base of the averages.

The public service is composed of a higher than normal percentage of skilled workers.

It doesn't include anything like the percentage of unskilled work that society at large does.

So the comparison just don't add up.

They essentially are meaningless.

Personally I believe that our public servants are pretty well paid, and in the higher brackets are probably underpaid.

But I believe the way to meet this is by direct and open confrontation and not through trying to dig code bad eggs.

Hazards Of Provincial Highways

Oshawa Times

Disclosure recently that Ontario has a stretch of superhighway of up to 14 lanes between Markham and Newcastle will be good news indeed not only to motorists travelling to the thousands in Metro, as well, who jam Hwy. 401 on the Toronto-Montreal run for the summer and winter resort playgrounds of Peterborough, Port Ferry and Lindsay.

We'd have been happier, however, if the provincial government was planning action first, on Hwy. 401 itself. The superhighway, three miles of it, between Newcastle and Bowmanville, is the worst stretch of Ontario. That strip of highway has been the scene of two straight stretches just north and south of Bronx, has claimed, by our records, a volume of victims in the past year — and it's only a miracle that all hasn't been higher than that.

Eleven of those 13 deaths have occurred in a one-quarter-mile section between Orono and an area known as Prospect Hill — or more familiarly "the death strip," it's no wonder. The road is arrow-straight and lined on either side by service stations, restaurants and motels. Motorists heading south on Hwy. 401 turn into facilities on their own side of the road — or skipping service — tend to flood of oncoming traffic to try places on the other side. Add to that a two-lane, 60 m.p.h. highway a hairpin curve, a traffic light, and even more of a threat when traffic is light and drivers aren't being careful.

The Ontario Provincial Police in their bid to harness the highway under surveillance, and to catch all drivers guilty of careless or inspaired drivers, have a volume of traffic tickets funneling in from as far away as Ottawa via Hwy. 7 and the Kawartha Lakes area, as well as Peterborough and Lindsay, simply swamps the police.

If motorists who slam on their brakes on seeing the police car sway to tank up or smack are fined, those who "are already" make their pit stops and are tooled up again to hit the road are even more dangerous.

The controlled reverse highway with service roads on either side is the only obvious answer to the problem created by it. Too many drivers ignore the 60 m.p.h. official limit. That 60 m.p.h. speed limit on that stretch should be a form of exercise in futility.

The new Hwy. 407 would, of course, take a lot of the strain off Hwy. 401 between Newcastle and Toronto. But it would do nothing for the most dangerous stretch of Hwy. 401 between the master plan includes the Bay of Quinte bridge and the junctions, as well. And that stretch is mentioned by the provincial planners who spoke to regional council.

Agricultural Exports To Be Licensed

Brantford Expositor

Nine months after that March coup of cancelled charter flights, stranded travellers and ruined vacations due to financial default by a few travel agencies and tour operators, the Ontario government is at last has produced protective legislation.

The draft bill is a stopgap only part approved by the Ontario chapter of the American Society of Travel Agents (ASTA) whose representatives negotiated with the Ministry of Consumer and Commercial Relations.

As expected, the travel industry is to be put under a licensing system. Not only must agents have a license, but so must tour operators, charter bus companies and other carriers if they sell package tours that include services they do not own, such as hotel accommodation and meals, advising involves filling certain information with a government registrar under penalties for making false statements.

Travel agents must have to post a $5,000 bond which, says Consumer Affairs Minister John Clement, will facilitate the reversing out of undesirable small-time operations. The cost of such a bond is small and will be no hindrance to any reputable agent.

One major safeguard is a compensation fund, possibly of $1 million, contributed by the industry. From this, clients can be reimburse if a firm goes bankrupt and has failed to use money they intended, leaving them stranded abroad or with bills. A deposit against unpaid airlines have cancelled bookings.

A sticking point with the travel industry is a ministry proposal to introduce later a regulation compelling agencies and other carriers to disclose in a trust fund - in effect freeze - some part of fare and other payments until trips are completed. This aims at preventing the agent, as some have done, from using the payments of one client for the benefit of a commodation of another who is starting his trip earlier. Such money has sometimes been diverted to rent or other business expenses.

Lack of capital has given rise to the "shoestring" travel agencies or, as Mr. Clement called them, "sideline operators" with little financing and no bona fide place of business. He has also found some travel advertising "deceiving about the nature of accommodation, transportation and extras."

A spokesman for the organized agencies has welcomed the bill as "a good first step." So it is. And as working exchanges go, it is one that accumulates protection of the travelling public will be strengthened.

A 'Plastic' Look in California

Watertown Times

Plastic has its uses. But for trees and shrubs to landscape and decorate the highway engineers have found, it's not one of the most scenic spots in the Forested Tube Basin of California?

Californians questing it - and there were 2 million take Chamber of Commerce already - to see the scenic beauty are heeding that this take type of foliage is necessary because there is no water in the highway's center divider strip to keep the trees alive. But opponents of the proposal assert that because of heavy traffic with its vehicle exhaust residue and dust, the plants would need washing periodically to keep them turning a dull brown color.

Can you imagine how residents of Watertown would have reacted had the highway had been planted in those decorative containers in the Watertown business district — when we have such an abundance of lilacs, hydrangeas and plants? And the Thousand Islands Bridge would be an exceptionally attractive flower beds — with natural flowers — if the approach to be open.

Imagine the reaction of "the Brandon Bridge" motorists, had through if plastic plants had been used? Probably a good deal much of our region. Plastic is fine for refrigerator dishes and a thousand other uses — but it leaves a lot to be desired when it comes to landscaping.

Divorce Trends Across Canada

Kitchener - Waterloo Record

Whether divorce is a good thing or a bad depends on who is talking. There are some, no doubt, who for their own personal reasons would claim a divorce decree as the best thing Santa Claus could bring. A majority probably still hold to the old-fashioned view that a marriage that stays together is better than one that comes unstuck.

Of all the regional differences in Canada, divorce frequently is one of the most striking. Statistics Canada has been probing into the frequency of divorce in the 10 provinces, with results that show some extreme contrasts. Marriages in Alberta fall apart at the rate of 263 per 100,000 of population. This amounts to about one divorce per year for every 88 married couples.

With its oil riches, Alberta is per capita the wealthiest province. The poorest is Newfoundland where the divorce rate is 41.4 per 100,000, or one divorce per year for every 560 married couples. The chance that a marriage will end in the divorce court is about six times as great in Alberta as in Newfoundland.

It is apparently no coincidence that Alberta and Newfoundland are at the opposite ends of both the divorce rankings and the wealth rankings. The three wealthiest provinces, British Columbia, Ontario and Alberta, have the three highest divorce rates. The three poorest, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland have the three lowest divorce rates, or, putting it the other way around, the most successful marriage rates.

One small factor may be that divorces cost money, and rich people are better able to afford them. That cannot be the whole explanation of the statistics that expose strong bank accounts with weak marriages.

One thing seems certain. All that wealth of oil in Alberta does little to lubricate marital bliss.

One Hour Trip To Mall By Bus

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

In your paper of November 20, Mayor Robin Jeffrey referred to the improved public transit system of the City". I wonder if she ever uses it?

There is a new route of the service: today, Dec. 4, I got on the 8.30 a.m. bus at Limon Park and Sidney Street. As we got closer to town the driver said over his phone (which must have been installed at quite an expense to the taxpayer) that he had some transfers. In spite of this, the Avondale bus pulled away just as we arrived on Dunnels St. I had to wait 30 minutes for the next bus and finally arrived at my destination, The Quinte Mall, at 9.30 a.m.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO — 40 YEARS AGO

Coal prices are edging higher, according to a Belleville dealer. He said the NRA of the United States is chiefly to blame for this condition he explained. All bituminous coal, lump, slack, stoker, and so forth have increased in price at the mines from, say dollar to $1.50 per ton. Coke manufactured from these coals has also effused in price.

Fresh and vigorous still after their many days and weeks of active campaigning through the riding of East Hastings, James F. Hill, ex-MPP, Conservative, and Peter MacLaren, Liberal, faced each other on the platform of the Tweed agricultural society-day afternoon each confident of victory.

Nightmare!

Kingston Whig - Standard

Imagine, a mid-winter snowstorm without plows on our highways and streets in hospitals without maintainance workers or nursing and psychiatric assistants; jails with no correctional officers; provincial police with no radio operators. Turn it all together and you have roughly the kind of nightmare the public in this province is living with because of the Civil Service Association strike at the end of this month.

Ann Landers

Mother of Girls Only Feels Like a Failure

Dear Ann Landers: A few months ago I gave birth to my second daughter. I am convinced that I will never have a son and I would rather die, I mean it literally, than face another pregnancy or raise another child. I don't want to hear from me and I don't want to adopt. I just want to raise our two girls.

Why does society make the mother who has produced only girls feel that she has failed her husband and is missing out on life's greatest joy?

I've heard it said many times that daughters are closer—that when sons marry they drift away from their parents and become part of the wife's family. I also know that the sex of a child is determined by the male and not the female.

None of this helps. The snide remarks made by family and friends make my stomach churn. Sometimes I get headaches that last three days.

Don't tell me I need professional help. What I need is Ann Landers to stand up for mothers of girl-only families and tell people to stop needling us.—Heroes

Dear Heroes: Sorry, honey. Ann Landers sticking up for you isn't going to stop your stomach from churning or your head from aching. You need to get over the guilt feelings produced by having two girls and to stop envying your friends who have sons. I recommend therapy. And I hope you get it before your daughters suffer the brunt of your unresolved problems.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a mature, 14-year-old girl who smokes cigarettes. (Old dope). My parents do not approve so I don't do it in front of them.

My best girl friend is 13. Her parent's don't want her to smoke either but they'd rather have her do it in front of them than behind their backs. So she smokes out in the open and doesn't have to sneak.

I think my friend's parents are smarter than mine. What to you think?—Susie

Dear Tess: They aren't "smarter," just "gutless." Your friend's parents knew they'd lost control of their daughter so they just caved in.

Your parents refuse to do that. They are hanging in there, for your sake, trying to keep you from doing something they know is harmful.

Kids who begin to smoke at 14 are usually hooked by the time they are 20. Most of them would give anything if they could kick the habit. My advice is to quit, cold turkey, before you become addicted.

Appolloni: Little Feminist Support For Women Politicians

REGINA (CP) — Ursula Appolloni, the woman who defeated New Democratic Party leader David Lewis in the federal election last July, says women candidates should not expect much support from their own sex.

Addressing the Saskatchewan Women's Liberal Association Thursday, Mrs. Appolloni said she received little support from female voters in her riding.

"The feminists didn't support me because I wasn't radical enough, and the moderates—whose support I wanted—didn't support me because they didn't think I would have a chance.

Mrs. Appolloni said she hopes more women will go into federal politics. However, she said women candidates must overcome the tendency to undersell themselves.

"Don't say that you're just a housewife," she advised.

In Toronto area MP for the constituency of York South said she proved in the last election that there is no such thing as a sure riding.

She said she defeated the NDP leader by dispelling the image that the NDP "are more humane, kind and concerned about the small businessman."

Almanac Anecdote

In occupied France, during World War II, a young girl, an old lady, a middle-aged Frenchman and a German officer were sealed in a train compartment. As the train entered the tunnel, a loud kiss was heard, then a resounding slap.

When the train emerged into the light again, everyone was silent, but the German officer had a black eye. The old lady thought; "How virtuous of her! What a good example she sets for the other girls!" The young girl thought: "What a fiancy — why on earth should the German try to kiss the old lady and not me?"

The German officer thought: "What Frenchmen is so fool. He stole a kiss and I get bit." The middle-aged Frenchman thought: "I'm so clever. I kiss the back of my hand, hit the German and no one suspects me."

— Farmers' Almanac 1973.

Dear Doris: Thanks you for sending me the copy of Canadian Welfare with your article in it about nursing homes. There is so much substance to what you write.

I feel so many older people do not differentiate between a senior citizens' home and a nursing home as they should, and there should be as much more give and take on both sides. So many older people change with advancing years, particularly if they are not well — while some develop a loveliness that makes you want to be near them.

It is very hard to adjust to less energy and less strength while one's ambition to do and be does not diminish correspondingly.

Growing old has so many lessons to learn — just as youth has, but there should be a place for gratitude and thankfulness for what the years have taught — even the cloud with the sunshine.

Youth has yet to learn that.—Irene.

Dear Irene: Your comments are thoughtful — and I recall it was you who wrote to me once, "Growing old is no job for a sissy."

When a person's mind is eager to keep going, and his body holds him back, this takes acceptance. It also takes imagination to keep trying until you figure out just what you can accomplish. "Old age hath yet his honor and his toil," as Thompson says.

Dear Doris: I enjoy your column so much. You asked me about my own kind of philosophy. Well, here is one thing which might interest you:

When I taught grade three I always had this message on my blackboard in large print:

"Be Sure Brain Is Engaged Before Putting Tongue In Motion."

Grade three pupils are so loving, enthusiastic and impulsive — waiting to answer without thinking.

Nan.

Dear Nan: Thank you. Readers of all ages will think this one over — I hope. All of us are guilty at one time or another of speaking without thinking — and then we feel embarrassed or are dismayed at how what we said sounds.

(Don't just muddle along. Do something about what's troubling you. A letter to Doris, in care of this newspaper can put you on the way to more Successful Living.)

Gifts from the Kitchen to Warm the Heart

Gift giving — and getting — is always a little more special if the gift reflects you. One of the most time honored ways you can give a little of yourself is to prepare gifts in the kitchen for friends and neighbours.

If you use special containers like apothecary jars, a creamer and sugar or a fruit bowl or even a pudding steamer, you are giving a two-fold gift. Give a cake like our Grand Marnier Cake in a brand new pan, for example.

Grand Marnier Cake

two one-third cups sifted flour one tsp. baking powder
one tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. salt
two-third cup undiluted evaporated milk
one tbsp. vinegar
¾ cup soft butter
one cup sugar
three eggs
grated rind of one orange
¼ cup chopped pecans
½ cup sugar
¼ cup orange juice
¼ cup Grand Marnier

Preheat oven to 350 F. Grease 9 x 2 ½ - inch tube pan. Sift together flour, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Combine evaporated milk and vinegar. Mix well. Cream butter and ¾ cup sugar until light and fluffy. Beat in eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with soured evaporated milk. Stir in rind and nuts. Pour into prepared pan and bake in preheated oven 50 to 55 minutes. Meanwhile combine ½ cup sugar, orange juice and Grand Marnier. When cake is baked remove from oven but leave in pan. With skewer make holes 1 inch apart in top of cake and spoon orange juice mixture over cake. Cool completely in pan.

Christmas Pudding

one cup butter or margarine
1½ cup sugar six eggs
three cups flour
two tsp. baking powder
two tsp. vanilla extract ½ tsp. each, lemon and almond extract one cup dried citron eight ounces pitted dates, chopped 12 ounces pecans, chopped
one cup dried figs
one cup candied cherries, chopped 11 ounces mixed dried fruit, chopped
two cups fresh cranberries

In a large bowl, cream butter until light and fluffy. Beat in sugar. Beat in eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in flour and baking powder until well blended. Stir in extracts and remaining ingredients. Mix well. Spoon and press batter into a greased and floured 3-quart mold and into a greased and floured 9-cup mold. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (320 F.) Cover cakes with foil during last 15 minutes of baking time, if necessary. Unmold and while pudding is still hot wrap it tightly in foil. Store in a cool dry place until ready to serve. This pudding tastes best, when it is aged about 2 weeks before serving.

Cranberry Prune Conserve

one pound fresh cranberries
two cups water
four cups sugar
two cups dried apricots, cut into quarters
six carrots, coarsely shredded

In a large saucepan, combine all ingredients except carrots. Bring to a boil and boil gently for 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in carrots. Stir over heat for 1 minute. Spoon relish into hot jars. Cool and seal. Store in refrigerator until needed.

Gift Relish

two cups water
four cups sugar
one package dried apricots, cut into quarters
six carrots, coarsely shredded

In a large saucepan, combine all ingredients except carrots. Bring to a boil and boil gently for 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in carrots. Stir over heat for 1 minute. Spoon relish into hot jars. Cool and seal. Store in refrigerator until needed.

Maple Fudge

two cups maple syrup
¼ cup cream
two tbsp. butter

Grease an eight inch square pan. In a saucepan, boil all ingredients until they reach 236 to 238 degrees or the soft ball stage. Cool to lukewarm without stirring; then beat until creamy. Turn into a buttered eight inch pan. Cut into squares.

Ginger Puzzles

one cup molasses
1-¼ cups sugar
1 ¼ cup margarine
two eggs
6 ½ cups flour
two tsp. baking soda two tsp. cinnamon
two tsp. cloves
one tsp. ginger
icing sugar

Heat molasses to boiling. Turn off flame; stir in sugar. Add margarine. Cool. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add dry ingredients, mix well. Cover. Chill overnight. Roll ¼ inch thick on floured pastry cloth. Cut into 4 x 4 inch rectangles. Place on a greased cookie sheet. Bake in 350 degree oven for 12 minutes. Remove from oven; cut design in center of rectangle with cookie cutter. Cut remainder into pieces to resemble jig-saw puzzle. Outline edges with icing sugar icing. Makes 20 puzzles.

Shortbread

two cups flour
¾ cup sugar
¼ tsp. salt
one cup soft butter
one egg yolk
one tsp. vanilla
icing sugar

Put dry ingredients in Bowl. Add butter, egg yolk and vanilla and mix with your fingers until dough clings together. Divide into two parts and roll into a ball. Press each ball into a 9 inch pie pan. Flatten evenly and crimp edges at rim for crust. Prick surface with floured fork. Bake at 375 for 20 minutes until golden. Remove from oven and cut in 12 wedges. Sprinkle with icing sugar.

Give pretty containers, like these filled with cranberry treats, that can be used again.

Whirling for Kids

For the fifth year in a row, a square dance party sponsored by the Quinte Whirl-Aways spun out a lot of Christmas cheer for Belleville's underprivileged children. Admission to the party, in aid of Belleville firefighters' toy drive, was one new toy or a cash donation. Whirl-Away president Bill Downing, left, makes handover to firefighter Ralph Boomhower. Dancers Lennise McQuaide and Nedd a O'Neill look on as the party goes on. About 200 toys and $100 in cash were collected. The dual-purpose dance was held at Quinte Secondary School Tuesday night.

Company-union Accord Reached on Plant Shutdown

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Union officials are meeting with approximately 1,000 Northern Electric employees today to discuss new development surrounding a company-announced plant shutdown planned for the Christmas period.

No details of today's discussions were available, following a day-long, closed union-management meeting in the Four Seasons Hotel Tuesday.

Northern Electric earlier this week announced the plant would close down for three weeks, during which time employees would take their eight-day Christmas holiday and two weeks of 1975 summer vacation. In this shutdown the company said the shutdown does not constitute a layoff.

The announcement marked the second major labor development at the plant in recent weeks. Two weeks ago Northern Electric said of approximately 150 workers for an indefinite period.

Union and management from the London and Belleville plants met in a "cooperative, productive session" Tuesday, said local personnel manager Tom Hennebury. He refused to divulge any other information concerning the meeting.

Larra Moses, union president, told The Intelligencer Monday night the meeting was to discuss the holiday period and said "the problem had been resolved".

Mrs. Moses would not elaborate on "the problem" and said that no announcement would be forthcoming until the union meeting later in the day.

Northern has been forced into laying workers off and extending the Christmas break through what company officials term "a softening in the market", particularly the U.S. market.

Engineer Urges Seat Belt Use

Every year in Canada more than 4,000 lives are lost in traffic accidents. J. P. (Paul) Wills, General Motors safety engineer, said Tuesday many of these lives could have been saved, if the people were wearing seat belts.

Speaking to a meeting of the Belleville Kiwanis Club, Mr. Wills said despite efforts by the government, automobile manufacturers and other controls to reduce fatalities, traffic deaths are increasing.

"Some ways of cutting down these deaths is through driver education and the use of seat belts and shoulder belts which now are more comfortable to wear," said Mr. Wills who came from Oshawa for the meeting.

Mr. Wills pointed to such countries as New Zealand and Australia where compulsory seat belt legislation has decreased the number of traffic fatalities.

Mr. Wills was in Belleville in November of 1973 to take part in a seminar on automobile accidents, part of Rehabilitation Week '73, at Belleville General Hospital.

"The best measure of success is how to find ways to decrease the number of traffic fatalities and injuries in this country. Seat belts can reduce deaths and injuries", said the safety engineer.

Talking Safety

Vehicle safety engineer with General Motors, Paul Wills, left, has a few words with president of the Kiwanis Club, Albert Van Reewyk, during a meeting Tuesday of the club. Mr. Wills told Kiwanis members of the importance seat belts play in reducing accidents.

Early Start Needed for Holiday Jobs

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

For those people wishing part-time Christmas employment, their best bet is to seek openings early and do the legwork themselves.

J.G. Fraser of the Canada Manpower Centre here points out, "there isn't a large amount of Christmas help being hired."

As explained in an interview most firms and retail stores have regular weekend and after-school help, so they simply increase their part-time hours during the holiday season, and rarely hire additional people.

Quite a few students apply for work, said Mr. Fraser. But he said they are advised to visit retail outlets personally. "We discover the kids do the rounds themselves," he remarked. "They knock on doors."

Mr. Fraser reported the "biggest part-time hirer of Christmas help" is the post office. "For the post office, we had at least 300 or 400 applications", he said.

Postmaster Roy Wainwright said, "we've hired a few. As the mail increases, we hire more."

He said the post office usually reaches its peak of 150 part-time helpers about December 19, and then begins letting them go until Dec. 24.

Out of five retail businesses sampled in a survey this week two hire additional help at Christmas, two increase the hours of their regular help, and one large department store hires and increases the hours of some of its part-time help.

The latter firm is Tower's Department Stores Ltd. on Dundas St. W. where a spokesman said, "we're lucky if there's four or three (new help)." He said the store has regular part-time aid and only a few receive extra hours.

A spokesman for the Liquor Control Board of Ontario at 65 Station St. confirmed about seven or holiday helpers mostly students, are hired. LCBO's hours are Dec. 20, 21 and 23, this year.

Tom Galbraith, store manager of the Simpsons-Sears store at Quinte Mall, said his hiring is "substantial ... around 100, perhaps over that."

Simpsons' catelogue peak occurs in early December, while the store business peak is in the middle of the month when the dollar-count is the highest. "But traffic-wise, it's about a week before," said Mr. Galbraith.

Foreman Gary Scott said Brewer's Retail a 113 Station St. does not hire more help as a rule. He said it depends on if the regular part - time workers are available.

They "usually get a few more hours ... as business increases," he said, adding peak day is Dec. 24.

At the Canadian Tire Associate Store, 348 Coleman St., a spokesman said there was a fair amount of part-time help year round. The people ... just get the extra work."

Canadian Tire does not hire extra help, but has 12 high school students on weekends and at night. "So our regular staff doesn't have to work so many hours," he said.

Project Outlined

County Rejects Boys Harbor

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A controversial proposal to organize a rehabilitation centre for delinquent youth in a prime Hastings County recreation area has drawn a negative response in county council.

Council's planning board Tuesday recommended a move which would kill the scheme.

A board report proposed that rezoning — needed to permit the project on Cashel Lake — be refused. The report was adopted by council.

The scheme, Boys Harbor Inc., organized by a Toronto-area group — raised stormy reaction from local residents and cottagers in Tudor-Cashel township. Township council passed a resolution against it and protests also came from the Highlands of Hastings Tourists Associations.

Steve Calvin White of Dungannon, board chairman said after his counselors represents the county's municipalities and residents and township council were "very much opposed" to the project.

Request for the enabling redesignation of land on the lake was made to council in late September by Rev. Charles Bell, of Brampton who heads Boys Harbor Inc.

Rev. Bell was not at Tuesday's meeting, although county administrator Carl Bateman said he had tried to contact the clergyman by telephone and telegram to inform him the board's decision was coming before council.

Mr. Bateman, however, read several letters from Rev. Bell received since September discussing the Boys Harbor plan — which would have been established in a now-vacated resources ministry rangers' training camp. It would have been a rehabilitation setting for young people 13-17 years with a history of violence and extreme acting out.

Rev. Bell wrote that, in such undertakings, his group was always conscious of the fears of neighbors. But alleging such doubts is impossible until the rehabilitation program is in operation.

Nonetheless, he said, those working in such programs have found "very few" occasions where the violent behavior feared by others was witnessed.

He looked to the time when neighboring residents and those in the camp could join together in social occasions — when the results of such work would become apparent.

He also sent recommendations from Ontario Liberal Leader Robert Nixon and Stephen Lewis, New Democratic Party leader — additions in letters from other public personalities already filed from his group.

However, Reeve Ross Sprackett of Tudor-Cashel, told council the feelings of local people "haven't changed in the least" on the issue.

Two Sentenced On Rape Charge

Two men were each sentenced to two years less a day definite and two years less a day indefinite Tuesday on a charge of attempted a rape when they appeared in County court before Justice E. L. Haines.

Clarence Milton Jackson, 28, and Wayne Robert Woods, 25, both of Marmora, had originally pleaded not guilty to a charge of rape, but amended their plea to guilty on a lesser charge of attempted rape.

The two were found guilty of the charge Oct. 17 and appeared in county court Tuesday for sentencing. They were held in custody at the Quinte Detention Centre in Napanee during the meantime.

The charge stems from an April 7 incident in Actinolite involving a 17-year-old girl.

In passing sentence, Justice Haines recommended that the pair be considered for the temporary absence program which allows them to retain a job while still in prison.

The program provides weekly passes to allow men to hold outside jobs providing they make the time up. Both Jackson and Woods are construction workers.

Sidney to Attend

Sidney Township Council will attend the Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities convention to be held in Toronto's Royal York Hotel, Feb. 9-11. "It's a good initiation ground for new councillors," said Deputy Reeve Glen Meyers. The convention business is concentrated on council administration. Sidney council was acclaimed to office this month.

Rollins Opposes Regional Approach

Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings, has restated his opposition to any attempt to involve Hastings County in regionalization of area local government.

Periodically, there are rumors the provincial government is going to form the regional government issue, Mr. Rollins told Hastings County Council.

"That rumor is absolutely unfounded," said Mr. Rollins.

Whether such a move is termed restructured or regional government, "I feel it something that's not necessary" for the county, he said.

"I don't think for as long as the county council continues to function as it has that "there is no need" for such a move."

"As your present member ... I will endeavor to take that position and continue it as far as I'm concerned," he added

Subsidies No Help

Provincial government wage subsidies are "no solution to the farm-labor problem, Hastings County councillors indicated Tuesday.

The councillors decided to file a request from Grey County to back a resolution calling for a 50-per-cent subsidy to farmers to help pay wages high enough to attract workers.

Lack of labor is among problems posed farmers and food production, the resolution suggested.

But, wage subsidies are no answer to the problem, said Reeve Horace Casey of Marmora, himself a farmer.

"You couldn't get people on the farm if the provincial government paid them 150-per-cent subsidy. That's just how hopeless it is," said Reeve Casey.

Tax Arrears Decline

Most Hastings County municipalities stepped up collection of tax arrears in the past year.

Some 20 townships and villages showed a decrease in the amount of tax arrears, while eight increased the arrears, Hastings County council was told Tuesday.

The information came from the Ontario treasurer and intergovernmental affairs ministry.

The most significant reduction was attained by Marmora-Lake township — from 37 per cent in 1972 to 21.3 per cent in 1973.

Townships Accept County Inspection

Almost half of Hastings County's municipalities now have switched to the county building inspections service launched this year.

In four additional municipalities have switched from local operation to make the county-run service already self-sustaining, Hastings County council was told Tuesday.

The year-end report of Carl Bateman, county administrator, showed 13 of 27 local governments now are participating in the building and plumbing inspections program.

Building permits issued in member municipalities to the end of November totalled almost $18,950,000. Sidney Township accounted for $8,775-000 and Belleville-Thurlow — both in the Belleville urban unit — for $1,929,000.

Marmora-Lake townships had the most cottage construction — valued at $1,385-000.

Comparisons of volume in different municipalities would not be available since various areas joined the service at different times during the year, Mr. Bateman said.

Welfare Grant System Hampers Employment

Local governments face a money dilemma if they offer jobs to welfare recipients willing to work, Hastings County councillors recalled Tuesday.

The problem: The provincial government pays 80 per cent of welfare payments, municipalities 20 per cent.

But, if workers on welfare agree to take jobs offered them by the municipality their wages must be paid from local funds.

The result is to discourage local governments from experimenting with work alternatives, suggested a resolution from Hinchinbrooke Township. It requested the provincial government eliminate the "unsatisfactory situation".

Hastings County councillors concurred with the resolution, although not without reservations on the results.

One welfare work issue was as old as Confederation, said Reeve Jack Hallick of Tweed. When times were hard get down to individual cases politicians are reluctant to make judgments.

To solve it, a politican needs "the wisdom of Solomon and the bite of a rhinoceros in order to weather the flak that comes back," said Reeve Hallick.

Province Promises More Tourist Aid

TRENTON — A year of talks between Queen's Park and seven tourist councils of central Ontario has ended in an agreement that will see more provincial funds poured into promotion of tourism along the lakeshore between Toronto and Trenton.

A release issued by George Coling, chairman of the Central Ontario co-ordinating council, states that under the agreement individual tourist councils will retain their identity while receiving improved promotional support from Queen's Park.

Among the seven tourist councils covered by the agreement are the Bay of Quinte and the Highlands of Hastings.

In return for increased provincial dollars, the councils in the Central Ontario group will speed up joint promotional activities and co-operate administratively.

Under the new scheme, provincial assistance will be linked with the money raised in each council region. Therefore, said Mr. Coling, the success of any region will depend largely upon funds raised by an individual council through individual memberships, county and municipal grants.

Mr. Coling stressed that money raised in any given tourist council jurisdiction will be spent solely for the benefit of that region.

Provincial funding will come through the ministry of industry and tourism.

The Central Ontario group of councils has jurisdiction over an area roughly bounded by Toronto on the west, Trenton on the east, the Lake Ontario shoreline and on the north by the Lower Trent River, Rice Lake and Lake Scugog.

Super Doll House

Kim Burley was the lucky winner of the draw for a log cabin made by Hastings Manor residents. Built of 180 feet of dowling to a scale of an inch to the foot, the cabin is 45 by 28 inches in size and is equipped with handmade furniture in the style of an earlier period. Sharon Moyer, craft supervisor at the Manor designed the log cabin and Maurice Simons made the furniture. Mrs. Merle Clark made the quilts and curtains. The cabin took a week and a half to build, the furniture about two and a half months.

Job Ghettos for Women Perpetuated Under Act

TORONTO (CP) — Representatives of women's groups told Labor Minister John MacBeth on Tuesday that the new Employment Standards Act perpetuates "job ghettos" for women.

Madeleine Parent, speaking for the Ontario committee on the status of women, said the new act does not provide "equal pay for work of equal value."

No Buyer

OTAWA. (CP) — The capital's scrap paper salvage program appears headed for the scrap heap.

Unable to find a buyer in Canada or abroad for 700 tons of paper collected by city parliament, board of control has decided to end the program.

Employers place greater value on job categories filled by men, while women continue to be undervalued jobs such as typists, she said. The act should provide for evaluation by the ministry to prevent women "from being screamed into menial job ghettos."

Miss Parent said the present wording of the act, providing "equal pay for equal work," will have no effect on most of the province's 1,238,000 women workers, confined to categories from which men are excluded.

Therefore, women will continue at the bottom end of the pay scale, despite the legislation's requirement, she said.

She suggested that four criteria should be used to determine what constitutes work of equal value: Skill, effort, responsibility and working conditions.

Miss Parent made her comments before a committee of the legislature reviewing the Employment Standards Act, which has received second reading approval in principle.

Mr. MacBeth said the suggestions have merit. But, he added, it "would take an army of civil servants" to conduct an evaluation of every job in the province.

The labor minister said the greatest problem facing women workers is that the public still has to be educated into responding to the proposals of leaders in the women's movement, whose views are not accepted by all.

"We can't legislate solutions to all ills," Mr. MacBeth said. "The government cannot move that far ahead of public opinion."

Who is to decide what equal value is? It becomes a matter of opinions that would differ even among evaluators."

Lynn McDonald, another representative of the Ontario committee on the status of women, told the committee that ministry statistics show women workers are receiving an average of 59 per cent less than men doing the same work.

Dust Imperils Uranium Miners

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Frank Miller tabled a report in the legislature Tuesday that says uranium miners at two mines near Elliot Lake, Ont., are exposed to hazardous levels of quartz dust.

The 98-page report, compiled between May and October by the ministry's occupational health protection branch also said dust exhaust and radiation hazards are controlled at acceptable levels at the New Quirke Mine, operated by Rio Algom Ltd., and the Denison mine, operater by Denison Mines Ltd.

Referring to the quartz levels Mr. Miller said it is clear from this report that prompt action is necessary to correct this condition." and constructive steps will be taken immediately to follow

"I am assured by . . . the through with corrective action," minister of natural resources Mr. Miller said.

Caouette Says Reporters Accept Bribes

OTTAWA (CP) — Social Credit Leader Real Caouette pushed the Parliamentary Press Gallery directly into the uproar over conflict of interest Tuesday, accusing reporters of accepting bribes from politicians.

"It happens. I have seen it with my own eyes," he said in an interview after making the allegation in the Commons, where he singled out the Canadian Broadcasting Corp.

He refused repeatedly to name individual reporters or other news organizations and his statements were challenged by the CBC and Stewart MacLeod, president of the 160-member press gallery.

Mr. MacLeod, who said he has never known or heard of a reporter accepting a bribe, asked the Social Credit leader to back his claim with names.

"As matters stand, he has cast suspicion on all members of the gallery."

Meanwhile, a French-language reporter with The Canadian Press, the national news gathering co-operative, said she was offered a $10 bribe to cover a speech by a Social Credit MP in the last Parliament.

TORE FT UP

Fay Le Riviere said she returned the money personally, tearing the bill in two and threatening to give the MP "lots of headlines" if the incident was repeated. The member, defeated in the July 8 election, picked up the torn bill and put it in his pocket, she said.

Mr. Caouette, long a critic of CBC television news, said in the Commons that some of the network's reporters "have to be tipped" to cover parliamentary stories. He said he witnessed a Liberal politician placing money into the jacket pocket of a reporter in a corridor of the Centre Block on Parliament Hill.

"I am not going to name anyone, or any paper," he said in the interview. "But I know who they are, I know the papers and the television stations.

"One of these days they are going to be named on the floor of the House—before too many years. . . But I am not going to say it now."

The reporters concerned work for both English and French media outlets and are not restricted to news organizations in Quebec, he said.

His bribery reference came during a one-day debate on conflict of interest, a subject of almost obsessive interest among MPs in recent weeks.

Partiality in Queries Denied

TORONTO (CP) — Ray McMurtry, lawyer for the Metropolitan Toronto police force, told Tuesday accused lawyers for the royal commission on Metropolitan Toronto police practices showing partiality in questioning witnesses. Mr. McMurtry interrupted examination of Constable Donald Mantle, the third of five policemen expected to be called in connection with allegations by Tom Henderson, 19, that he was tortured during a February drug raid.

Mr. McMurtry said Constable Mantle and other police witnesses were being questioned "much more forcefully" than Mr. Henderson and his wife.

Mr. Justice Donald Morand of the Supreme Court of Ontario, inquiry commissioner, said the lawyers had not gone "beyond the realm of ordinary questioning."

B.C. Sues for Consumer

VICTORIA (CP) — A car without reverse gear has prompted the British Columbia government into Canadian legal history.

The government has become the first in the country to initiate a civil suit on behalf of a consumer.

The action, launched under the new Trade Practices Act, was settled out of court.

Palm Motors Ltd. of Victoria has agreed to pay William Swtley $571 and in return, the director of Trade Practices has agreed to discontinue court action.

Merger Off

TORONTO (CP) — Brinco Ltd. and Rio Algom Mines Ltd. announced Tuesday that the proposed merger between the two companies will not take place.

In a brief, joint statement, the companies said the decision was made because of "market conditions."

Montreal Fugitive Nabbed

MONTREAL (CP) — Edgar Roussel's 6½-week battle to evade capture ended Tuesday when the 28-year-old fugitive from St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary was caught after a shootout with police in suburban Verdun.

Roussel was serving seven years for holdups and escapes when he and four other men broke out of the maximum-security prison Oct. 23 using weapons smuggled into the visitors' room by two women.

Roussel was captured following a bank holdup in which two armed men took $7,000. The pair, chased by two police constables who ordered them to surrender, were unable to reach a getaway car.

One alleged captures by scrambling into another apartment building, while the other sought refuge in an unoccupied house which police surrounded. Several shotgun blasts were fired through a wall in a room where the fugitive, later identified as Roussel, was hiding. Shortly afterwards, he surrendered.

Lang Gives Preference To Women in Appointments

MONTREAL (CP) — Justice Minister Otto Lang said Tuesday that he gives preference to women over equally-qualified men when making judicial appointments.

"Not only would I appoint an equally-qualified woman if I was choosing between a woman and the man, but I would indeed choose a qualified woman even over a slightly better qualified man," he said in a speech prepared for the Women's Federation of Allied Jewish Community Services.

Mr. Lang said it is important to act in such a manner to help break society's traditional attitudes about women's roles.

"We will overcome these attitudes most quickly and effectively by having women in positions where women can exercise and be seen to exercise the highest roles or responsibility and judgment."

Commons Seats Being Studied

OTTAWA (CP) — A Commons committee began study Tuesday of a bill to add and redistribute Commons seats, but it appeared the future of the proposed legislation might be decided in the Progressive Conservative caucus.

Two factions within that party appeared more clearly during and after a session of the privileges and election committee, with an Alberta-British Column group intent on gaining more Commons seats for their provinces.

Harvie Andre (Calgary Centre) said in an interview he rejects as inadequate a compromise suggested in the committee by Gordon Ritchie (Dauphin), the Conservatives' official spokesman on redistribution.

Death Accident

STONEY CREEK, Ont. (CP) — Police said Tuesday they are treating as accidental the death of Susan Embleton, 16, whose body was found Monday near a railway track.

The girl, who was from Niagara Falls but lived with a sister in nearby Hamilton, had been missing since last Thursday.

48-hour Week

TORONTO (CP) — Elie Martel (NDP—Sudbury East) criticized Tuesday a provision of the new Employment Standards Act that continues to allow an employer to require an employee to work 48 hours a week.

The committee voted against a motion that the work-week maximum be lowered to 40 hours.

Pact Ratified

MONTREAL (CP) — The joint negotiating committee for 18 railways unions announced Tuesday the ratification of a new contract with 11 railway companies.

Estimates OK

OTTAWA (CP) — Supplementary estimates bringing the government's authorized 1974-75 spending to almost $26 billion got final Commons approval Tuesday night.

Check Gas-stingy Car

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has started road tests of a new automobile engine after laboratory tests appeared to confirm better gasoline mileage than conventional engines, sources said Tuesday.

The engine, developed by brothers Edward and Robert LaPorte, attracted EPA attention after private tests showed the motor delivered 30 miles or more a gallon compared with about 18 miles a gallon from a standard engine under similar conditions.

EPA's top auto pollution official, Eric Stork, confirmed Tuesday that additional testing has been ordered. He declined comment on the reports that initial laboratory testing has proved encouraging, saying the data on the test results will be released until late next week.

Writ Over Eggs

OTTAWA (CP) — A Toronto consumer has started an action in the Federal Court in which he seeks a declaration that Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan and the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency have failed in their duty to the Canadian people.

Michael Carson, an officer of the Ontario Anti-Poverty Coalition, filed the writ in the Federal Court but no date has been set for a hearing.

Toronto to Appeal Ruling

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor David Crombie said Tuesday he will appeal to the provincial cabinet for a reversal of the rejection by the Ontario Municipal Board (OMB) of Toronto's 45-foot height limit on downtown developments.

The mayor called a special meeting of city council for Friday to make the appeal.

The mayor said he has been advised that the bylaw would not be effective automatically during an appeal, so he is proposing to council that the commissioner of buildings be ordered not to issue building permits which do not comply with the bylaw until the cabinet acts on the appeal.

Delays Hit

TORONTO (CP) — Ian Deans (NDP-Wentworth) criticized the government Tuesday for allowing delays in benefits to insured workers from the Workmen's Compensation Board.

Check Reports on Moroz

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian embassy in Moscow is checking reports that imprisoned Ukrainian historian Valentyn Moroz has ended his hunger strike and will not be returned to solitary confinement.

Political Shuffles in Italy Leave Everything Unaltered

ROME (CP) — Bombs are blasting piazzas, there is an endless drumroll of strikes and the cabinet is engaged in another game of musical chairs.

No wonder Italian politics are mistable, you say; think, with 37 governments since the Second World War and seven political parties to choose from.

But the real problem of Italian politics may be that they are too stable and unchanging, with the few real choices open to voters.

Here is one picture of Rome's Byzantine politics gained in interviews with Italians and knowledgeable foreigners here, a sixty-section replay of a crazy gavotte almost nobody understands.

Start with the Christian democrats, the conservative middle-road party that has formed the core of every government since Mussolini's fall and has produced every prime minister. They got the largest slice of the votes—38 per cent—in the 1972 election.

At the far left are the Communists, who have never been in a coalition government although they came second in 1973 with 27.3 per cent.

Between the two, and then off to the right, lie the parties—Socialists, Social Democrats, Liberals, Republicans and neo-Fascists.

But don't try to remember them. Hardly anybody votes for them and their policy differences rarely matter. Except, of course, for the neo-Fascists.

Because the Christian Democrats get the most votes, they get first crack at forming a government. From 1963 to this fall, that had always meant a centre-left coalition of Socialists, Social Democrats and Republicans. But in the latest coalition only the Republicans have been included in a two-party cabinet.

So, because voters can be almost sure that the Christian Democrats will lead a government and the Communists the opposition, their real choice boils down to three two.

The statistics show that is just how the voters reason. Votes rarely veer more than a few percentage points from one party to another in elections.

"In this all-Catholic country, the church has always supported the Christian Democrats, which means still call its political right arm.

But if the voting pattern is rigid, the coalitions created never are. The Socialists, especially, often find it difficult to share political responsibility while retaining the power of opposition criticism.

There is constant bargaining among coalition partners and eventually yet another cabinet breakup and perhaps an election.

The freedom-middle of government has been aggravated by two other factors.

First, every party has demanded a cut of the patronage in the public service, which has often just ground to a stop.

Second, power in Italy is dispersed among a network of government corporations, the Vatican and private industry. Again it means the government is often paralyzed between conflicting forces, or persuaded by the most influential.

But what about the Communists and the neo-Fascists?

The Communists run a score of city governments in Italy—across say the best-run cities in the country.

They share some of the taint of corruption of the other parties—none of the blame of past mistakes.

Italian writer Luigi Barzini says that even the United States state department hobnobbed on the party. Time magazine recently called it "perhaps the world's most appealing and flexible Communist party."

But Barzini adds that they really are Communists and predicts revolution and repression if they ever win power. But he doesn't think they will.

Meantime, they are a respectable opposition and never quite rule out joining a coalition government, if they ever are invited.

The neo-Fascists (fascism itself is officially banned) have not been as powerful as the occasional demonstration or bombing might imply, observers say.

Bad reports have been emerging about at least one attempted right-wing coup in recent years. Even skeptical observers agree there are some small groups with money, arms and a few supporters.

They also agree that the reaction by the powerful unions to a Fascist takeover would be quick and deadly.

The unions have been able to mobilize scores of thousands of members in demonstrations against neo-Fascist-inspired incidents.

Italy's biggest political problem, as Barzini says, is that after 30 years of power, the Christian Democrats are "worn out and corrupted."

"They have run out of ideas, out of men."

So the country lives day to day, beset by unrest. The trains, post office, airlines and hospitals continually break down. A diplomat stresses the impact of the oil crisis, which has hit Italy harder than most countries.

"Suddenly they saw they did need a government."

Most observers agree that Italians will regain some political stability in the coming year and not slide into disintegration. But nobody here ever predicts how long a government will last.

New Premier

Italy has had 37 governments since the Second World War and seven political parties to choose from. Power in Italy is dispersed among a network of government corporations, the Vatican and private industry and the government is often paralyzed between conflicting forces, or persuaded by the most influential. Newly appointed Italian Premier Aldo Moro is shown reading a list of new cabinet members in Rome on Nov. 22. (CP Photo)

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

Why motorists don't use seat belts? We thought we'd learn 'em all!

Even though the habit of ignoring seat belts is no laughing matter, the OML has lined up some pretty droll excuses from motorists who don't buckle up.

OML asked a number of motorists who are hardened non-users of the belts what they had against them.

Sifted from the more commonplace excuses ("They're uncomfortable" ... "They're too much trouble") were these zingers:

From a high-fashion lady: "They wrinkle my dresses . . . and in a cape, they're just impossible!"

From a hypochondriac: "Well, I used to wear them but I developed this rash around my waist and I don't know . . . etc."

From a chain-smoker: I can't reach the ash-tray.

From a fatalist: "I've got a wife and seven kids and only two seat belts and I figure if they're all going to get killed I might as well get killed too."

When the question was put to one man, a brilliant but notoriously absent-minded writer, a startled look crossed his face ... "Oh my god," he said "my seat belts! — I forgot to unwrap them!"

A recent wire service story turned up evidence that new car owners are asking their dealers for instructions on how to disconnect seat belt warning devices.

OML says, this is an ironic turn of events in light of the growing statistics that show seat belt users are far more likely to walk away from a car crash than non-users

Data on actual crashes analyzed by researchers at the University of North Carolina's Highway Safety Research Centre reveal that lap belts reduce serious and fatal injuries by 32 per cent in front-end crashes and 45 per cent in all types of crashes.

Bumper Corn Crop Failed to Materialize

WASHINGTON (AP) — Earlier belief in the weather pattern not only reduced the 1974 corn crop from its robust promise of eight months ago but has caused new thinking among agriculture department economists about where farmers are headed in the future.

The situation is this:

—Last March, based on planting indications, it appeared to experts a record corn crop of 6.7 billion bushels was in store—if corn to meet requirements—domestic and foreign—during 1974-75, although it ebbed close to that mark four years ago as a result of the 1970 corn blight.

The department's economic research service (ERS), in a new feed situation report issued last month says the situation today is far different from what it was in 1973-74.

Among the report's observations:

—Carryover stocks were much more prominent, accounting for 17 per cent of the supply, whereas this year they make up nine per cent.

—More than one-half of the 1973-74 reserve of old-crop corn carried over that season was under federal price support loan or owned outright by the government's Commodity Credit Corp. This year, virtually all corn is free of government ownership or loans.

—Demands on the corn supply are much greater now than in 1973-74. The cattle herd is nearly one-fourth larger, pork output is up about one-tenth, and poultry meat production is about one-fifth more.

"The greatest change, however, has been in export demand," the report said. "Exports the past two seasons have been double the levels of the late 60s."

Corn, since it is the leading U.S. feed grain and is the crop primarily used in shortages, makes up most of the feed grain imports. Those averaged nearly 1.25 billion bushels in each of the last two marketing years.

But corn prices have soared, livestock feeding has been reduced in some major foreign markets and exports in 1974-75 are expected to be in the range of 875 million to 925 million bushels, down to 9 to 11 per cent from the last two years.

Also, largely because of higher prices, livestock producers are cutting back on feeding. Even so, in terms of the relatively small supply of corn, the demand still is big.

"With these demand components pulling against a fixed supply, something has to give," the report said.

Traditionally, the report said, feed grain—led by corn—has been in such abundant supply that livestock producers have used it freely as long as it appeared feed costs were low in relation to what they got for cattle, hogs and poultry.

"But in 1974-75, the critically short supply and high prices will sharply curtail availabilities to the commercial feed market," the report said. "In turn, this will have a pronounced effect on livestock, poultry and meat output in coming years."

130,000 Eels Enter Lakes

TORONTO (CP) — More than 130,000 eels were able to go over a hydro dam in Carnwall with the help of a 500-foot ladder built for them, Ontario conservation officers say.

The 100-foot Robert Saunders Dam had prevented the migration of eels into tributaries of the Great Lakes until the ladder of wooden troughs was set up to criss-cross the face of the dam 7½ times, the Ontario ministry of natural resources said in a news release.

The ladder is believed to be the only one of its kind and the highest in the world. It was recently disconnected for the winter. The ministry and Ontario Hydro, joint developers of the ladder, will discuss possible changes in the ladder.

Hard Drug Use Falls In France

PARIS (CP) — The relentless and often fruitful police hunt for narcotics pushers in the last few years has forced important changes in drug consumption habits in France.

Use of hard drugs—heroin and opium—has declined while use of soft drugs—marijuana and hashish—has rapidly increased.

Since 1921 French authorities, bolstered by international police forces, have uncovered a dozen clandestine laboratories where morphine was transformed into heroin and convicted many important pushers.

As a result of the crackdown, the number of heroin addicts has decreased substantially since 1971 although it appears most of them have switched to soft drugs.

But this alone does not explain the increase in consumption of soft drugs in France. Recent studies show that soft drugs are no longer solely consumed in the slums, but widely and active consumedes but also by workers.

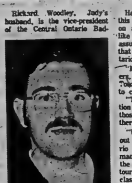
Berth in Ontario Games for Local Badminton Enthusiasts



JUDY PULTZ

By MIKE BRADSHAW
Sports Staff

While Badminton in Central Ontario hasn't reached the heights of popularity that other sports have, it is on the upswing. With that point in mind the best of luck to Belleville's Judy Pultz and Judy Woodley, and Brighton's Barry Symons, in the upcoming Ontario Winter Games.

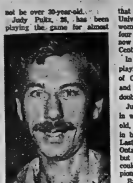
The three qualified to represent Central Ontario on November 3 in Trenton. The Winter Games take place in Thunder Bay, December 27-30. Should any of the three not entries place well in Thunder Bay they'll have earned the right to represent the whole of Ontario at the Canadian National Winter Games, February 13-17.

RICHARD WOODLEY

Richard Woodley, Judy's husband, is the vice-president of the Central Ontario Badminton Association and he was selected as the COBA's team manager.

He says, "the badminton of this district has never been on a par with that in areas like Toronto." Nevertheless he assures badminton enthusiasts that the reps from Central Ontario will fare well.

"Most of the top class players, who come from areas like Metro, will not be allowed to compete," said Woodley.



"There is strictly a competition for non-ranked players, those of B and C calibre, rather than those of A."

"With the 4A classification out of the way, Central Ontario will do well," says the manager, "for example: at the provincial intermediate tournament (players under A class) Central Ontario competitors took four out of five titles."

Both Judy and Richard are members of the Belleville Club and, while Symons is from Brighton, he plays out of Trenton.

Another restriction placed on entries, besides classification, is their age. They may not be over 20-year-old.

Judy Pultz, 24, has been playing the game for almost

BARRY SYMONS

12 years. Originally from New Brunswick she became the number one rated player in that province while attending University there. She won the women's inter-collegiate title four years in a row. Pultz is now rated Number One in Central Ontario.

In Thunder Bay she will be playing with Doug Redknap, of Oshawa, in mixed doubles and Judy Woodley in women's doubles.

Judy Woodley will also play in women's singles. A 36-year-old, she has been participating in badminton for seven years. Last year she won the Central Ontario B ladies' doubles title, but broke her hand before she could compete in the A Championships.

Barry Symons 26-year-of-age, has been at the games for over 10 years as his experience should pay off. At the Ontario Games he'll be entered in singles and men's doubles (with Doug Redknap).

JUDY WOODLEY

Richard Woodley, a 28-year-old, 10-year veteran of the game was selected by the rest of the team members as the manager.

There are four men, four ladies, a manager and a coach on the team. The rest of the Central Ontario squad consists of Barb Carey, Kingston, Marita Gorney, Peterborough, Rudy Rantanen, Sydenham, Greg Hill, Sydenham, and the coach, Darbey Hill Sr., also from Sydenham.

All the provincials there will be five other districts represented. Each with the same size squad as Central Ontario.

And A Big Mac to You

Jack McBride is quite a guy.

No, we didn't just find out about it.

It's obvious when one sees him umpiring a minor league baseball game. He's great with the young would-be diamond stars. And he does a heap of softball umpiring during the summer months as well.

In this fall, he trades in his mask and pads for a striped shirt and whistle and officiates at Bay of Quinte high school football games.

These days, Jack is busy in sports, as usual.

But for the winter months at least, he's on the other side of the fence, so to speak.

It's team manager Jack, thank you.

Which brings us around to what this piece is aiming at.

Jack's minor atom team, coached by Ron Lapenestre, is, along with the other Belleville Minor Hockey Association (BMHA) squads in Ontario Minor Hockey Association (OMHA) classifications, finding things tough in Triple A company.

The McBride-Lapenestre BMHA representative has yet to win a game in its league match-ups with clubs from Kingston, Peterborough and Oshawa.

Instead of being his cool self over the bench, Jack McBride is taking things in stride, a reaction which could well be copied by others involved in minor sports.

He reasons that since youngsters in the other communities get started in organized hockey at an earlier age than his nine-year-olds, there is bound to be a difference when it comes to competition in OMHA league contests.

McBride will tell you that if his club was beaten 14-0 in its first meeting with Oshawa, for instance, there is room for satisfaction when the same team defeats his side 5-4 the next time the two hook up.

But enough of that for now.

Our reference earlier to the McBride-Lapenestre team was thrown in for a reason. The minor atoms are the only team representing the BMHA who have yet to come under sponsorship. In other words the club could use some financial assistance.

And city residents will get a chance to help the team and themselves at the same time, this weekend.

Through the co-operation of McDonald's Family Restaurant in Belleville a plan to raise funds has been formulated.

Young team members will be calling on homes in the city on Saturday, offering McDonald's gift certificates used for $1.25 in goodies from the restaurant, at the cost of $1.

You know, it's a great idea in more ways than one.

Purchasers will not only be assisting the minor atoms who have tournament dates coming up in Trenton, Peterborough and Barrie, they'll be getting a gift certificate which will make an excellent stocking stuffer, a Christmas present for the meter-paper carrier, or, as a chance to pick themselves up a Big Mac plus some extras.

Put this department down for a couple, Jack.

And the best of luck to your hockey club.

SLICES — Missed out on a chance to give our regards to Cec Hardwick who retired from The Intelligencer recently.

Consider it done now, Cec.

More time for the Bowl-O-Drome, eh?

Clair Williamson has decided he won't be making any further attempts to bring Junior A Hockey to Belleville.

Just as suddenly as he announced his intentions of applying for a Major Junior A franchise, Clair has decided, without elaborating, that, it's all over.

Loyalist College women's volleyball team continues to mop up with steady efforts in Ontario Colleges Athletic Association action in the Eastern Division.

In a weekend tournament at Durham College, Ontario, Loyalist knocked off the host team 15-4, 15-8 and 15-4 before defeating St. Lawrence of Kingston 15-1, 15-2, 8-15.

Algonquin of Ottawa was another story, Loyalist lost by scores of 15-5, 15-3 and 7-15.

The team is idle, (as far as league competition is concerned) until January 11 when the tournament time again is Kingston.

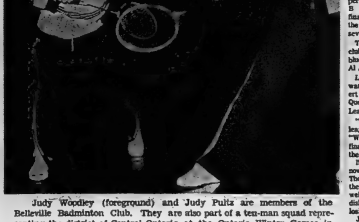
Girls' basketball teams from the city deserve a tip of the hat for their recent success at the Central Ontario Secondary Schools Association playoffs.

Gary Duggan and Carol Casey of Nicholson Catholic College teams to junior and senior A titles at Lakefield while Sue Davis's Belleville Collegiate Institute juniors captured AA honors at Peterborough.



Sparks well for the efforts of the players and the coachers who in this case, double as coaches.

Tim Burke, writing for The Gazette, a Montreal daily, says Expos "probably got more and gave up less than anyone could have expected", while commenting on the trades which brought Jeties Dave McNally from Baltimore Orioles and Woody Fryman from Detroit.

On the Willie Davis trade: "Chubs have been unloading $100,000 ball players like crates of oranges ... and Willie was jettisoned for two nonentities. At least there's the consolation of knowing that the Expos got more for him than the White Sox did for Dick Allen — $10,000.

He still shakes though when you realize that in effect, the Expos gave away baseball's best relief pitcher (Mike Marshall traded last season to L.A. Dodgers for Davis) for next to nothing."

Judy Woodley (foreground) and Judy Pultz are members of the Belleville Badminton Club. They are also part of a ten-man squad representing the district of Central Ontario at the Ontario Winter Games in Thunder Bay, December 27 - 30. There, the two will be playing together in the women's doubles with Woodley up front and Pultz protecting the back court.

Gary Smith – Not Tiring

Canucks Get Another Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's been suggested by some National Hockey League observers that when goalie Gary Smith gets tired of the work load, Vancouver Canucks will begin to slump.

But as long as the Canucks do as good a job as they did Tuesday night in helping their lanky netminder, he shouldn't have to worry about the work load and can keep busy instead counting his shutouts.

Smith had to make only 19 saves to record his fifth shutout of the season Tuesday night, backing the surprising Canucks to their 18th win, a 3-0 decision over California Seals.

In other NHL games Tuesday, Boston Bruins beat Kansas City Scouts 6-2, Montreal Canadiens defeated Minnesota North Stars 8-3 and New York Islanders edged St. Louis Blues 3-2.

Paulia Bordelean scored twice to help the Canucks widen their Smythe Division lead to 15 points over second-place Chicago Black Hawks.

After just 25 games, the Canucks now are only seven wins away from breaking their club record of 34 wins in one season set in their first year in 1970-71 and matched last season.

At Minnesota, a three-goal flurry by the Canadiens sent North Stars goalie Cesare Maniago to the showers in the second period.

Maniago took himself out of the game after he misplayed a routine shot by Montreal's Murray Wilson, allowing a goal that gave the Canadiens a 4-3 lead.

"Please leave me alone," said a frustrated Maniago after the game. "I don't want to talk about it."

Maniago slammed his stick to the ice and skated past the North Star bench and ignored an attempt by coach Jack Gordon to keep the goalie in the game.

"I certainly wasn't going to tackle him," said Gordon. "This game can be tough on goaltenders. The other people might make mistakes and not be noticed. Everybody sees the goaltender . . . the last line of defence."

Rookie Pete LePresti finished up in goal for Minnesota, which lost its sixth straight game and dropped three points behind third-place St. Louis in the Smythe Division. The Canadiens' win put them two points ahead of Los Angeles in the Norris Division.

Rookie goalie Glenn Resch was the star of the Islanders' win over St. Louis, holding off the Blues when they outshot New York 17-10 in the second period while the Islanders extended their lead in 3-1 with a goal by Jean Potvin.

At Kansas City, Don Marcotte opened the scoring with his 11th and 12th goals of the season and Phil Esposito chipped in his 22nd and 23rd for the Bruins who handed the expansion Scouts their 21st loss in 27 games.

NEW YORK (AP) — It took 12 weeks of the 14-week National Football League to do it, but eight teams have finally qualified for the playoffs.

Beginning Saturday, Dec. 21, St. Louis Cardinals, Washington Redskins, Minnesota Vikings, Los Angeles Rams, Miami Dolphins, Oakland Raiders, Buffalo Bills and Pittsburgh Steelers will begin pursuit of the Super Bowl, which will be played Jan. 12 in New Orleans.

There are some details to be worked out yet, however.

Oakland will play host to Miami on Dec. 21 and Buffalo will visit Pittsburgh the following day.

Minnesota will play at home Dec. 21 and Los Angeles will play at home Dec. 22. What is not known yet is which of these two teams Washington and St. Louis will play.

Both the Redskins and Cardinals have 9-4 records and the winner of their division plays in Minnesota; the other club becomes the National Conference wild-card team and plays at Los Angeles.

If St. Louis defeats New York Giants next Sunday they will automatically win the division no matter what Washington does. For the Redskins to win the division, they must defeat Chicago Bears on Sunday and the Cardinals must beat.

Warning Falls On Deaf Ears

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cleveland coach John Brenn warned his Crusaders not to take last-place Vancouver Blazers for granted, but apparently the message didn't sink in.

The Blazers, last in the World Hockey Association Canadian Division but with five wins in their last six games, beat the Crusaders 4-3 Tuesday night.

"I cautioned them prior to the game for that one reason, Henna said. "Vancouver isn't as bad as their last-place standing makes them sound. Their season record was 9-11, and we were only 10-7, so we really weren't much better."

The win gave the Blazers a 6-1 record in their last seven games and pulled them to within one point of fourth-place Edmonton Oilers.

In other games Tuesday, Winnipeg Jets beat Indianapolis Racers 5-3, Minnesota Fighting Saints defeated Toronto Toros 4-2, Phoenix Roadrunners defeated Chicago Cougars 4-2 and Michigan Stags played to a 4-4 tie against San Diego Mariners.

The Blazers outskated the Crusaders during the first two periods and held a 4-1 scoring lead into the final 20 minutes of play.

John Smyr and Bryan Campbell provided two man-sided goals for the Blazers in the first period. Campbell scored again in the second period and Andy Bathgate added his 288th major-league goal.

The superb goaltending of Don McLeod held off a third-period Cleveland rally. McLeod stopped 30 shots on goal, 17 of them in the third period.

At Chicago, the Cougars played the last few minutes of the third period with an extra attacker instead of a goalie after Bobby MacMillan's goal at 16:41 made the score 3-2 in favor of Phoenix. But Chicago's hopes of tying the game and forcing a sudden death overtime ended with Dennis Sobchuk's goal for the Roadrunners at 19:41.

Michel Cormier scored twice for the Roadrunners, his 30th and 31th goals of the season.

Heikki Riihiranta and Veli Kujala scored two goals each to lead the Jets against the Racers at Indianapolis. Bobby Hull had the other Winnipeg goal.

John Sheridan scored twice for the Racers.

Minnesota, which lost 11-6 in its first appearance in Toronto this season, won its second game on Toros' ice.

The Saints, picking up their fourth win in five games, scored two third-period goals to forge ahead after a 2-2 tie at the end of the second period.

Mike Walton scored twice for Minnesota and emerged with a broken nose after he was cross checked by Toronto's Pat Hickey but the sneezy Minnesota forward said he didn't think the injury would keep him out of action.

The Toros, losing their sixth consecutive home game after starting the season with six straight home wins, were without left winger Frank Mahovlich, sidelined indefinitely with a cracked bone in his right foot.

At San Diego, Michigan's Steve Andrascik scored the tying goal at 17:31 of the third period, forcing the game into a 10-minute overtime which failed to break the deadlock.

Fincups Close In

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Fincups moved within one point of first spot in the Eastern Intercollegiate Football Conference with a 24-0 victory over Waterloo Lutheran Golden Hawks Tuesday night.

In the other league contest Tuesday, a four-goal second period paced Oshawa Generals to an 8-3 win over last-place Kitchener Rangers.

Playing before 2,207 home spectators, the Fincups scored two unanswered goals in the third period. Defenceman Ted Long scored the winner at 4:38 and Glen Thomson's second goal clinched the win five minutes later.

Peterborough's Gary Purdon opened the scoring at 14 seconds of the first period. Richardson tied the score 1-1 in the dying minutes of that period.

Referee Jim Lever assessed 60 minutes in penalties, including five fighting majors in each team.

The Fincups, who have increased their lead over Peterborough by five points, entered the Petes 41-31.

At Oshawa, the Generals led 3-1 after the first period and 6-2 going into the final period.

Rod Stefanski and Greg Maine each scored twice for Oshawa and Paul Heaver, Brian Hilton, Brian Drumm and Ken Morden added singles.

Bob Schnurr, Larry Hurst and Mike Tyrrell replied for Kitchener, outshot 48-37.

Play resumes tonight with London Knights visiting Kitchener.

Ryan, Hunter Lead the Way

NEW YORK (AP) — Nine American League pitchers had 20-victory seasons in 1974 with Oakland A's control ace, Catfish Hunter, and California Angels fireballer Nolan Ryan leading the honors list released today by the league.

Hunter, the AL Cy Young Award winner, led the league with 25 victories and had the strongest earned-run average among regulars with a 2.49 mark. He also led the world champion A's to the team pitching lead with its 3.35 ERA well ahead of Baltimore Orioles' 3.37.

Ryan, who pitched the third no-hitter of his career during the season, pitched a league high 333 2-3 innings and, in the process, struck out 367 batters, thus becoming the first pitcher in major league history to surpass 300 strikeouts three years in a row. He fell only 16 strikeouts shy of his own record of 383 set in 1973.

Fergason Jenkins, the native of Chatham, Ont., with Texas Rangers, runner-up to Hunter in the Cy Young balloting, also won 25 games while Ryan, Steve Busby of Kansas City Royals, Luis Tiant of Boston Red Sox and Mike Cuellar of Baltimore won 22 apiece. Jim Kaat of Chicago White Sox and Gaylord Perry of Cleveland Indians each won 21 and Wilbur Wood of Chicago won 20.

Injury Doesn't Stop Emile Griffith

Using a stiff left jab, a good hook and a right hand feint that effectively concealed his handicap from Padauno, veteran Griffith outpointed his younger opponent before about 2,000 fans in the 16,000-seat Montreal Forum.

Griffith, 36, five-time world champion in the welterweight and middleweight divisions, said he injured his right shoulder in the third round.

"I clipped him with the right good and when I picked it up to throw again the whole arm was numb," he said.

Gil Clancy, his manager, said he considered asking the referee to stop the fight but changed his mind when it became apparent Padauno was unable to exploit the handicap.

Padauno, 28, said his plan was to circle to Griffith's left and that he was unaware Griffith was fighting with only one hand.

"We knew he was a good hitter with the right," he said. "Our strategy was to stay away from it. I never knew he wasn't throwing rights.

"The fight goes as fast you don't realize it."

Griffith, appearing in his 101th professional fight, weighed 157 pounds to Padauno's 151½ and now has 81 wins, 17 losses and one draw.

Padauno, former Canadian welterweight champion, now has 41 wins, seven losses and one draw. Both fighters were guaranteed $20,000.

In the semi-final, 36-year-old Joey Durelle of Sorel, Que. earned a draw with Fernand Marcotte of Quebec City in a 10-round middleweight contest.

In a preliminary bout Barry Gowans of New Glasgow, N.S., earned a shot at the Canadian lightweight championship with a 10-round split decision over Paul Collette of Montreal.

In another preliminary Marc Gervais of Hull, Que., gained a unanimous 10-round decision over Marshall Butler of Montreal in a junior middleweight match.

Matra Withdrawing

PARIS (AP) — France's Matra auto-racing team announced Tuesday it is abandoning racing after nine years in which it took the world Grand Prix and sports car championships and 77 victories in the Le Mans 24-hour race. Jean-Luc Lagardere, managing director of Engins Matra, cited the difficult economic situation for the car industry as the reason for withdrawing from direct competition.

WHITBY, Ont. (CP) — First-place Barrie Flyers picked up their 11th consecutive win Tuesday with a 6-2 victory over Whitby McDonalds in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A action.

Barrie held a first-period 3-0 lead and maintained their two-goal edge with a 3-1 lead going into the final 20 minutes.

Phil Bramsfield led the Flyers with two goals, with singles from Bob Baird, Ken Simpson, Bob Monteith and Corby Adams.

Carl Ahlsten and Wayne Weller replied for the McDonalds.

Bruce Durno went the distance in the Whitby goal, turning aside 30 shots while Grant Crisp, Barrie's netminder, stopped 26 shots.

Only four minor penalties were assessed in the game with Barrie picking up six of the eight minutes handed out.

Moscow Selects Shade Oil Kings

EDMONTON (CP) — Alexander Golikov scored on a rebound at 14:01 of the final period to give Moscow Selects a 3-2 victory over a strengthened Edmonton Oil Kings team in an game Tuesday night.

Edmonton, with players from other Western Canada Hockey League clubs, was ecided by the Soviets 46-30 in a well-played contest watched by 10,184 fans.

The game was unlike the occasionally-stormy opening of the Soviet tour Monday night in Montreal, which the Canadian team won 4-3.

Golikov's winning goal Tuesday night followed an error by Bryan Maxwell of Medicine Hat Tigers. He gave the puck away to Vladimir Orlov at centre and the Russian forward's low shot was blocked by Ed Stankiewi...

The goaltender could not control the rebound and Golikov flipped it over the sprawling Regina Pats goalie.

The Russians had 3-1 and 4-2 leads and Edmonton tied the score for the last time after two minutes of the third period when Edmonton centre Wayne Perkins fooled Moscow netminder Vladimir Polupanov on a rebound.

Perkins also scored in the Terry Bucyk and Medicine Hat standout Don Murdoch added the other goals for the Canadians.

Zelmut Balderis shoved the first two Moscow goals. Golikov also had two and Alexander Obanov the other.

Doug Soetaert of Edmonton played the first two periods in goal, blocking 28 shots and giving up four goals. Stankiewi... who played goal last season in Regina was the Memorial Cup and the Canadian junior hockey championship, was spectacular facing 15 third-period shots.

Miller Sinks Ipswich Town

LONDON (CP) — Wagner John Miller, obtained two months ago from Ipswich Town, scored two goals Tuesday to give Norwich City a 2-1 win over his former team in English League Cup soccer competition.

The win advanced Norwich to the semi-finals against either Middlesbrough or Manchester United.

Miller, purchased from Ipswich for $80,250, scored for Norwich in the 36th and 67th minutes of the quarter-final replay after David Johnson had given Ipswich a 30th-minute lead.

Leicester City, second from the bottom in the First Division, beat 3-0 to Middlesbrough. It was the sixth league game in a row without a win for Leicester.

Russian Fishing Fleet Hurts Maine Fishermen

PORT CLYDE, Me. (AP) — From the sea, Port Clyde lies between Moore Point and Marshall Point, a cluster of small wooden buildings at the water's edge, nestled in the woods that stretch down to the sea.

By men are fishermen, harvesting the waters for lobsters and shrimp, haddock and gray sole, crabs and herring. In fact, the village once was called Herring Gut and its residents nicknamed herring chokers.

Shipyards, a lively quarrying industry, cold storage plants, a sardine factory, even the school have gone from Port Clyde in the last 40 years. The city of Rockland, 12 miles away, now is the commercial center for Port Clyde and other small fishing villages.

But the fishermen remain, fishing now with hydraulic equipment and sonar scanners instead of wind-driven sloops and sheer muscle, but fishing the same waters many of their fathers and grandfathers fished.

The average New England commercial fisherman puts to sea in a 45-to 75-foot boat as part of a four-to-six man crew, says the U.S. marine statistical marketing service.

The Port Clyde fishermen are below this average, their largest craft being the 42-foot trawler Miss Kirsty owned by Doug Anderson. Their typical crew is two men.

But the trend is in Port Clyde's direction. Each year there are more commercial fishermen in New England operating in smaller boats, says the marine statistical service.

That is sharp contrast to the modern, ocean-going Russian fishing fleets which have depleted the waters off New England of some species of fish, adding to the problems of the fishermen here.

"We used to see haddock all-year round until the Russians cleaned them out," said Ed Thorkelsson, who recently sold his trawler, but is holding onto another.

"Now we hardly ever see them."

Haddock once was a mainstay of New England fishing, a major component in the New England catch, which has declined from $31 million pounds in 1960 to 531 million pounds last year. That's 15 per cent of the total U.S. catch.

New international agreement prohibits fishing for haddock, except for small numbers caught incidentally while fishing for other species.

Because of the Russians, the Port Clyde fishermen—operating 30 boats or more — are solidly behind keeping foreign fishing fleets 200 miles from American shores, instead of the 12-mile limit now imposed by the U.S. government.

"Russia is now per cent of the fish Americans eat is imported, says Hugh O'Rourke, executive secretary of the Boston Fisheries Association. Why has this happened? " O'Rourke, his conversation speckled with the let's and beaus of his ancestry, sums it up this way:

"This country is not fisheries-oriented. We build autos. We make jet planes. The industry is not that important to the gross national product."

Despite the inroads of the Russian fishing fleets and rising fuel costs, fishing is a living, especially for the lobstermen who sail from here. One of them, Carl Schwab, estimates that those who work hard can net $18,000 to $12,000 a year.

Others hoot at that estimate, saying it's too low. The Internal Revenue Service was among the hooters this year. It audited the returns of 1,500 Maine fishermen and collected $800,000 in additional taxes and penalties.

"We all got hurt," says lobsterman Shannon Cushman. "But not too bad. We weren't cheating that much."

Everybody Isn't Star

CANBERRA (CP) — A children's medical specialist, Dr. David Fraser, has warned parents against trying to turn their children into sporting stars. Speaking at a meeting of the Australian Sports Medicine Federation, he said many parents are trying to push sport too far with the possibility of lasting physical and mental effects on children under 12.

Picton Approves Plan

PICTON — If silence gives consent Picton has received Prince Edward's draft official plan.

A recent letter to town council from the ministry of housing notes a request for comments forwarded in October.

"To date, we have not received a reply. As it is necessary for a decision to be made in the near future, we must inform you that unless we receive your comments within two weeks we will proceed with the final processing of the application," stated the letter dated Nov. 28.

Deputy-reeve Larry Richardson said this "We are past the deadline since our council meeting is late this month but it will not hurt to formalize our feeling."

Council passed a motion to accept the plan as presented and wait out comment and agreed to advise the ministry of hearing of its stand.

Canada Goes Metric

By the end of 1980 Canada's conversion to the metric system should be largely completed says Steven Gossage, chairman of the Metric Commission.

He explained the need for the metric system and how it will be introduced during a priority — attended public meeting at Queen Elizabeth School last night. About 30 persons heard his address.

Metric Standard Switch Complete by End of 1980

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Metric conversion in Canada is inevitable and should be substantially complete by the end of 1980 says Steven Gossage, chairman of the Metric Commission.

At a public meeting here Tuesday Mr. Gossage observed Canada's future lies in worldwide trade that must be conducted in metric units.

"If metric conversion is to be effective in Canada it must be prepared for by education and supported by a public information program," he said.

"Metric conversion is going to affect the individual citizen in his daily life; he must be able to understand what it is all about, why it is happening and what are the changes that he is going to have to meet."

Mr. Gossage said in Canada in 1970 the government issued a White Paper outlining the broad principles of its policy regarding the system of metric measure.

It was stated planning and preparation in the public and private sectors should be encouraged by methods designed to achieve maximum benefits at minimum costs to the public, to industry and to government at all levels.

A Metric Commission was established in June, 1971, by an act passed in council.

The commission is working on a long term program of public information using all of the media of communication. The program must be planned to coincide with the developments in the process of conversion.

Four phases are involved, including investigation, planning, scheduling and implementation.

"Each phase will reach a peak of activity, then decline to be replaced by the next phase. Each phase will require a different emphasis in the public relations program so that the public is informed of what is going to happen and why, but not stirred up too early then left bored by an apparent lack of activity while the main emphasis is still on planning and scheduling," observes Mr. Gossage.

All consumers have a role in the investigation phase — the Weather First Change

PICTON — The reality of the program of metric conversion will be underlined by weather temperatures reports in degrees Celsius, in April, 1975, says Steven Gossage, chairman of the Metric Commission.

Mr. Gossage told a sparsely attended public meeting here Tuesday the usual Fahrenheit reading will be substituted with Celsius. In a few months time rainfall will be reported in millimetres and snowfall in centimetres. Wind speeds and visibility will be reported in kilometres and distance interval.

Highway ministers of various provinces have agreed on a program for conversion in the highway traffic extending from 1975 to 1979. Changes directly affecting public speed limits, distance signs, etc., will take place in September, 1977.

Mr. Gossage says the Canada Grains Council has recommended the handling of the grain crop from the farmer to the ultimate consumer be placed on a metric basis during the crop year 1976-77. This will eliminate measuring grain in bushels and will substitute weights expressed in kilograms and tonnes.

In remarks to the Picton Rotary Club during a visit to Picton Tuesday Mr. Gossage termed the conversion of a whole society's measurement system "a radical process".

"We must accept the long term benefits of change to a logical, coherent system of measurement and to one that is becoming a truly international language but we have still be appalled at the apparent problems of change.

Fee Five Dollars

TRENTON — The surcharge applied to out-of-town recreation in Trenton recreation programs will be $5 for both children and adults. The amount of the surcharge was reported incorrectly in a story published in The Intelligencer Monday, Dec. 9.

Council Debates Chief's Pension

PICTON — Picton police chief George Pitt, who will retire in 1975, has requested a pension supplement of three fifths of his average salary in the last three years from the Picton Police Commission.

The request was submitted by letter to town council this week by the police commission with a request for action.

"We can talk about it but can we do anything about it?" asked Picton deputy-reeve Larry Richardson.

Council voted to refer the letter regarding Chief Pitt's pension back to the police commission for re-submission to the January session of council.

The letter from Jess Mason, Chairman of the police commission, stated a pension of two-thirds of the chief's salary is permissible under the Municipal Act.

Mr. Mason noted however, that action by the municipality is required to put the pension in effect.

Service Bylaw Delayed

PICTON — A bylaw for a supplementary servicing agreement between the town of Picton, Jayel Development Crop. Ltd. and the Picton Public Utilities Commission has been held in abeyance streets in the development area are to submit required documents.

A bylaw to open certain street in the development are also was held back at this week's session.

Town solicitor Jack Ward said the Jayel Development of Oshawa has been delayed in obtaining the required performance bond of about $138,000 as certain financial statements have not been completed. When the needed information is forwarded negotiations will proceed.

Mr. Ward told council "there is little point in authorizing the execution of an agreement until we are sure we have the other party's approval."

Source of Tremur Algae Still Puzzles Officials

By AL ZARAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Solid evidence to link the organic waste disposal system of Produce Processors Ltd. with increased algae growth in Tremur Lake has not been found, a ministry of environment biologist's report concludes.

The report goes on to state artificial enrichment of Tremur Lake, — mainly by phosphorus and nitrogen nutrients — has occurred and has accelerated over the last few years.

Results of the report, completed last Friday, was made available Tuesday. Its conclusions are based on analysis of a set of water samples plus visual inspection of the town's Tremur Lake-Maybee Creek water supply system.

The provincial study was prompted by charge made in October by the Trenton Public Utilities Commission that rapid algae growth in parts of the town's major source of drinking water and caused by the discharge of corn processing wastes by Produce Processors Ltd. on Telphone Rd.

Concentration of nutrients is high in Tremur Lake, concludes the MOE report, and is in line with the predominance of green algae. In Maybee Creek both algae and below the processing plant, both nutrient levels and the concentrance of algae are lower, and "typical of levels expected in a stream environment."

The presence of these two nutrients has a direct bearing on the growth of algae.

High levels of phosphorus in the lake "would indicate that nutrient levels in the lake can be expected from agricultural drainage," the report states.

Gordon Thom, district officer with the ministry's industrial abatement section, said Tuesday the incidental drainage need not be that from the Telephone Rd. plant. It could stem from the watering of cattle in Mayhew Creek or barn yard run-off.

Available data is insufficient to establish the precise cause of the algae buildup, Growth reported in the Murray wells recharging pond cannot be attributed to high nutrient levels since no previous levels are available for comparison.

The ministry report recommends a mandatory system of nutrient levels be instituted. It states specific attention should be paid to the spring irrigation waste disposal system now in use by Pro-duce Processors.

A five-station testing program at Tremur Lake has already been started by the PUC.

However, said Mr. Thom, "it's probably a good year's work before we have sufficient data to draw any real conclusions."

The ministry has begun its own testing program by sinking six to eight wells on Produce Processors property to sample ground water. The monitoring system will check whether organic wastes and the nutrients contained in them reach Mayhew Creek underground.

Testing will continue throughout the winter and results will be compared with those taken at the time the plant swings back into operation in spring.

Test holes have been dug near the field the plant uses to spray its wastes on. The holes are west of the ditch, the PUC contends that carrier water wastes into Mayhew Cr. and on into Tremur Lake.

Search Abandoned For Missing Plane

TRENTON — Two twin-engine Otters and a Hercules have returned to CFB Trenton after a two-week search for a missing single-engine aircraft in the Thunder Bay area proved fruitless.

The three aircraft were dispatched after a plane piloted by John Kynock, 18, of Thunder Bay, was reported missing Sunday, Nov. 17, on a one-hour local flight.

At the height of the search effort, co-ordinated by CFB Trenton Capt. Sam Wolynec, 15 civilian and military aircraft covered the 13,000 square mile search area.

Search master Capt. Wolynec has recommended operations begin again when the snow melts in spring, 1975. Snowfalls in the second week of the search hampered efforts to find the downed plane.

A defence department spokesman in Ottawa said Tuesday the search was reduced in status as of early last week and no active search efforts now are being made.

However, he said, military planes flying over the Thunder Bay area are being ordered to look out for signs of the missing plane. Similarly, civilian aircraft are being asked to keep a look out for the plane.

PERCA Grant Queried

PICTON — The Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority has obtained a $27,500 building permit for a workshop at its Macaulay Mountain Site.

The cost of the shop was queried by Picton reeve Ross Crankwright this week as commenced "great pictures" of the government building cheques to the Authority are published but little is said of what it costs the local tax payer.

Councillor Jack Evans, a member of the PERCA, explained $27,500 could not build "a palatial mansion — just a work shed."

He said the authority is constructing nesting boxes for wood ducks and indoor working facilities are required.

Motorists Seldom Win In Car-deer Collisions

TRENTON — Each year between 25 and 30 deer are killed in the Quinte region south of 401 Highway by cars and trucks.

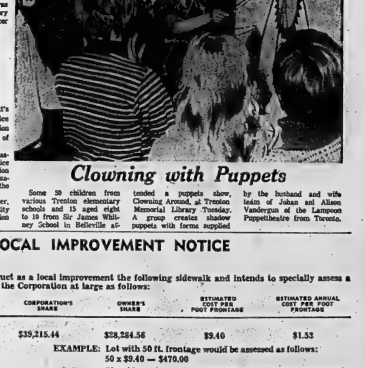
However, the drivers, because they are not considered licenced hunters, cannot claim any part of the recovered carcass.

Road kills, male and female of the species in equal numbers, are heavier in the breeding season, this time of year, when the animals become active, looking for mates.

The natural resources department in Napanee reports that eight deer have been killed on the road in the area in the last two weeks.

A number of drivers have learned that killing deer can be both expensive and painful. If the driver is fortunate enough to maintain control of his vehicle, he usually faces payment of the deductable application written into collision insurance contracts. The least it will cost him runs between $25 and $250, unless injuries are involved.

The driver's only hope of recovery of financial loss is to prove that hunting dogs were responsible for chasing the animal on to the road into the path of oncoming traffic. Then the hunter can be blamed and sued under civil law providing he is located and admits ownership of the dog. Otherwise the incident is considered an act of God, not covered by insurance.



Natural resources officers find that deer meat is so mutilated in collisions that only per cent of it is fit for human consumption. They also have to catch wolves with some of the unsalvageable pieces.

At one time, police, citizens' homes and other deserving groups of people have received gifts of the tasty gourmet food for the asking. Health regulation however, now call for government inspection of meat and so the procedure has had to be changed.

Centennial Plate

The Bay of Quinte Agricultural Mutual Fire Insurance Co. is celebrating its centennial this year and part of the celebration includes distribution of a commemorative plate to about 4000 policy holders in the Quinte area. Insurance agent Lynn Taylor displays the plate showing Belleur's Store House, Mosquito Bay Sesbiahsegh. The original painting depicting barley days on the Bay of Quinte was done in 1865 by Ira B. Harton.

Clowning with Puppets

Some 19 children from various Trenton elementary schools and 15 aged eight to 10 from Sir James Whitney School in Belleville attended a puppets show, Clowning Around, at Trenton Memorial Library Tuesday. The group creates shadow puppets with forms supplied by the husband and wife team of Jack and Alison Vanderpuy of the Lampoon Puppeteaters from Toronto,

Wm. Lyon Mackenzie King Was Born Hundred Years Ago

OTTAWA (CP) — On Dec. 17 it will be 100 years since the birth of William Lyon Mackenzie King, who was prime minister of Canada longer than any other politician.

King was born in Berlin, Ont., now known as Kitchener, the son of a lawyer and the grandson of the Upper Canadian rebel, William Lyon Mackenzie.

There will be few celebrations of his centenary even though he was prime minister for almost 21 years. He retired in 1948 and died two years later.

Prime Minister Trudeau's office has announced no special plans. No commemorative stamp will be issued by the post office.

The only major event is a symposium to discuss the former prime minister at the University of Waterloo, adjacent to his place of birth.

Historians, civil servants, politicians and friends of Mr. King will meet there Dec. 16 and 17 to talk about aspects of his long career from 1900, when he was named editor of the labor department's Labor Gazette, through 10 years as MP, Liberal party leader and prime minister.

Among those participating in the symposium, organized by the university's history department, will be one-time colleagues. They include Paul Martin, once a member of his cabinet and recently named Canada's commissioner to Great Britain; J. W. Pickersgill, his longtime secretary who later became a Liberal cabinet member, and Dominick Abbott, also a King minister, now a retired justice of the Supreme Court of Canada.

The most interesting reminder of Mackenzie King in Laurier House, his residence here from 1923 until his death.

The Victorian mansion near downtown Ottawa was bequeathed to the people of Canada, along with his 500-acre estate at Kingsmere, Que., 18 miles north of here. The house is operated by the Public Archives of Canada and is open to the public.

The home reflects Mr. King's work habits, his taste for furnishings and his penchant for acquiring mementoes. Earlier the home of another prime minister, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, it was completely renovated after being willed to Mr. King in 1923 by Lady Laurier.

"You can almost feel him in some of the rooms," said Marny Graves, a decorating consultant for Laurier House and acting curator of the collection until recently.

The third-floor study was Mr. King's favorite room, she says, and it evokes the former prime minister's lifestyle.

It was from this room that Canada is said to have been governed during his years as prime minister.

He would work at every available opportunity from the study rather than the Parliament Hill office, Mrs. Graves said.

On every available ledge and wall area there are photographs, paintings, statuettes and other keepsakes collected by the bachelor prime minister.

"It's what one might call organized clutter," she said. "He was a great squirrel."

On the piano at the entrance to the room is an object of continuing interest to visitors. Mr. King's crystal ball. Said to have been a spiritualist, he allegedly spoke often in his deceased mother and sought her inspiration in times of difficulty.

At the far end of the booklined room is a painting of Mrs. King, a light shining down on her face. On a table below is a silver box holding locks of her white hair and her wedding ring.

In another part of the room is an old dog collar and a box of dog hair. They belonged to three Airedales, all named Pat, which served as Mr. King's constant companions.

Other rooms remind one of the former prime minister as well. Pencil stubs can be seen in the breakfast room, next door to the study.

"Each morning he would break a new pencil to fit the size of his pocket, but he would use both sides of it," said Mrs. Graves.

Remained intact, despite the constant bustle of his working study on the third floor.

Oil Pollution Feared

Soviet Scientist Voices Doubt Arctic Cooling Means Ice Age

LENINGRAD. (CP) — A slow but regular Arctic cooling has been charted over the last 20 years but that doesn't mean another ice age is imminent suggests the senior Soviet scientist heading the Arctic and Antarctic Research Institute here.

But Dr. Alexei F. Treshnikof suggests that a major hazard to northern waters is the pollution that may flow from American development of Alaska's North Slope oil.

Traces of oil pollution from Gulf of Mexico drilling have already been detected in Arctic waters, says Dr. Treshnikof.

In an interview with a Canadian journalist delegation, he expressed concern that the Alaskan North Slope "will greatly increase the danger of pollution and we see no evidence of any serious preventive measures being taken yet."

Any oil-tainted water would sweep through the Arctic basin on prevailing currents under the ice pack, he suggests.

Concern about Arctic pollution—and Treshnikof said the Soviets so far have managed to avoid any oil spill—hinges on evidence that Arctic oil cleanups will prove extremely difficult.

An entire new technology would be needed for oil spilled under Arctic ice, support studies done in the Canadian Arctic at Resolute Bay, N.W.T., Major spills must lead to ice melting and increased water temperatures.

Treshnikof said he visited Alaska three years ago and asked for evidence of pollution preventive measures but had not yet received any that satisfied him.

At the same time, he outlined in detail the extensive Soviet interest in the Antarctic and some of the Institute projects there, which suggest considerable interest by the Soviet Union in any petroleum resources there.

Treshnikof, a big bear of a man who has served in both the Arctic and Antarctic, heads the institute created by Lenin in 1920 and now concentrating much of its work on ensuring the success of what has become a vital Soviet shipping artery, the northeast sea route.

In response to questions, he said:

—He doubts personally that the world is verging on any new ice age although a slow but regular Arctic cooling has occurred over the last 20 years.

—Another huge nuclear icebreaker, the 75,000-horse power Arctic, is being added to the northern sea route. The first was the 44,000-horsepower Lenin.

—The Soviet Arctic is relatively unpainted with pollution because—so far—the major northern rivers are clean.

—The U.S.S.R. still mans two to three floating ice islands at a time—the first was 1937—as part of its big polar research program.

The Institute, which Prime Minister Trudeau visited in 1971, now operates as a hydrology centre issuing long-range and short-range forecasts for the northern shipping route.

The route carries half the Soviet timber supply, at least a fifth of its pulp and paper, most of its nickel and diamonds, half of its furs, a third of its fish and large quantities of gold, tin, tungsten and other minerals and ores. The first complete icebreaker voyage was made in 1932 and the northern route began booming after the Second World War.

That route, coupled with the geographical-geological nature of the Soviet North, creates a major distinction between it and the Canadian North.

That is accessibility. Canada's Arctic islands form a barrier that was last exposed when the American tanker Manhattan tried fruitlessly in 1969 and 1970 to penetrate from east to west, with crude oil transport in mind.

The Soviet institute and its scientists — and one scientist accompanies every ship on the northern route, in use from June to October-November—claim a forecast accuracy mark of about 80 per cent.

"Icebreakers can handle ice up to two metres (about 6½ feet) thick, but some pressure ridges are five times that thick," said Treshnikof.

That makes it necessary for ship captains to manoeuvre through ice as well as break it and that's one reason intimate scientific accompany each vessel.

The Soviets use international data to supplement their own weather watchings—material from weather satellites, aircraft, manned ice islands and more than 20 automatic unmanned weather stations in the Arctic usually last only a few months on the ice pack.

In late October, there were still five operating from last April.

In addition to the heavy breakers for major ice problems, the Soviet fleet contains numerous smaller craft to keep shipping moving on less troublesome stretches and in northern ports.

A keen watch is maintained for any buildup in Arctic pollution because of the fact that the northern environment purges itself so slowly.

Heat Wave

CANBERRA (AP) — Sydney and much of New South Wales sweltered in the hottest November weather in 17 years. The temperature in Sydney reached 101 degrees and 45 persons were treated for heat exhaustion.

Mackenzie King Centenary

William Lyon Mackenzie King, prime minister for almost 21 years, reads in the study of his home at Laurier House in Ottawa. Since his death in 1950 the study has been retained in its original condition and is open to the public. The 100th anniversary of Mr. King's birth occurs Dec. 17. (CP Photo)

At 98 He's Oldest With Licence

WIARTON, Ont. (CP) — Al Cordingley successfully took a driver re-examination in September and was returned by the ministry of transportation and communications that, at 98, he was the oldest person in Ontario to hold a driver's licence.

When the weather is good, he works in his garden maintaining his annual flower, shrub and vegetable garden.

"This year I gave 85 bushels of stuff away to the poor of Wiarton and my friends," he said.

But his main hobby is trout fishing. He has been secretary-treasurer of an anglers' club nearly 40 years.

Mr. Cordingley, born in Wiltshire Township spends the winters reading and prefers history books. His collection boasts some books dating back to the 18th century and one published as early as 1733.

His father came to Canada from England and started farming for a while before going to work for the Grand Trunk Railroad to support a 10-room town cottage.

"All my brothers were railroaders but I said no," he said. "I wouldn't join the union and I got fired."

Mr. Cordingley has run a general store, a hardware store and worked in a fruit and poultry. He was also reeve of Double Lake, Ont., about 15 miles northwest of Owen Sound, Ont., and Grey County warden.

In fact, he said, "I've been on every damn board except for the school board and town council."

He retired from the Wiarton hospital board in May because "the government rule made about not spending over five years on the board. I left."

The widow of one of his nephews has been living with him since his wife, Annie, died in 1969.

Glass Menagerie Opens At Loyalist College

By JIM SMELLIE
Staff Reporter

The family unit has always been a good source of subject matter for artists, writers and dramatists.

Tuesday night, Loyalist College premiered its dramatization of The Glass Menagerie, Tennessee Williams' story of a family living a trapped existence in the southern United States in the 1930s.

Each member of the family is locked into their own little world and the play, directed by Ted Bairstow with members of his senior drama class behind and on stage, offers a fine study of the Williams play.

It's unfortunate judging by the scattered attendance of about 20 people at the opening, that Belleville audiences are reluctant to support homegrown talent preferring, instead, to flock to higher-priced professional touring productions.

The play, consisting of seven scenes within one act, revolves around Tom Wingfield who lives with his mother, Amanda and sister Laura. Tom also is narrator of the play and what passes on the stage actually takes place in his memory.

Greg Hunter, as Tom, handles well the part of the restless, discontented worker in a shoe warehouse who seems unable to forget his locked-in existence.

When he isn't at work, he tries to escape at the movies in "his find adventure" he tells his mother.

Sharon Poitras, who has performed in various Belleville Theatre Guild productions, plays Tom's painfully shy sister, Laura, who retreats into a fantasy world of music played on the Victrola and her glass menagerie.

And there's the matriarch of the Wingfield household, Amanda, head of the house since her husband left her 15 years ago with two children.

Amanda still fancies herself the "belle of the cotillion" with her choice of "gentlemen callers" at her feet.

Miss Poitras brings to the part of the sensitive, reticing Laura, the right balance of sympathy that we should have for someone in her position who later develops some small measure of confidence towards the end when a visitor comes calling.

Debbie Anderson as Amanda, although playing the part of sucrose considerably older than herself, tactfully conveys the shrewd talkative mother of the boyfriend, who refuses to face reality and relives her youth vicariously through her daughter, by insisting she meet a gentleman caller.

Coming into this situation is the caller, a co-worker of Tom's at the shoe warehouse. He is described by the narrator as being the only real person in the play.

Played by Brian Johnston, he brings Laura slightly out of her shell even though everything does not go as expected.

Mr. Johnston was convincing in the part and wouldn't be may have projected his voice more at times for the benefit of those in the rear seats.

Adding an additional element to the play is the use of slides flashed onto two overhead screens, portraying an idealized gentleman-caller as well as Amanda as she sees herself. Photographs by Howard Mandel as well as appropriate titles are used in the slides.

The play continues until Thursday of this week at Loyalist College starting at 8 p.m. Tickets are available by calling 962-9501, extension 286. General admission is $1.50 with 75 cents for students and senior citizens.

Paul Anka Debuts On Kojak Series

Canadian Paul Anka is making his dramatic acting debut on television, at the age of thirty-three, in a "Kojak" episode entitled The Betrayal, airing Sunday, Dec. 15, 8.00 p.m. on the CTV Television Network.

The decision to appear in this particular episode was not due to the fact that Anka needs the work Far from it. Paul Anka has been a successful performer since he was 15 years old and his first record, "Diana", sold over eight million copies. Since then he has become a staple on the nightclub and pop-concert circuits and has branched into songwriting and producing records for other performers.

"I was offered a lot of films, but they didn't mean anything," he says, "I wanted to diversify. Telly Savalas was the catalyst. We met in a recording studio where he was recording his first album. When this part in 'Kojak' came up – a sleazy hustler and murderer, and with Telly himself directing – it was something I couldn't turn down."

Take two paid

The role had so much appeal for Anka that he accepted only $100,000 in concert appearances to be available for the filming. He is approaching his renewed acting career with the same thoroughness he has used in his music career.

Explaining the secret of his musical success, he says: "I test and rewrite material continually. You can't be afraid to change anything."

One of his current hits, 'Having My Baby', already a three-million seller, underwent three rewrites before he was ready to record it.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Thursday, December 12

Aries (March 21 - April 19) A decision you have given considerable thought to will be put in planned. At the last minute, you will change your mind.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Be wary at this time in dealing with persons or organizations you don't know too much about or you will be deceived or taken advantage of.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Don't expect too much in a know socially. He keeps his two worlds sharply divided.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) More self-confidence will be called for the next few days regarding your health habits. Be moderate with food and drink.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 23) You're back today in bounding fettle. Ambitionwise, if you press it too far you will be sorry.

Gemini score at common sense.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 23) If you want to keep your house hold talent in line, you had better take your mate's chequebook. You, perhaps, have some extravagant whims.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You will do fairly well if you can get someone else to carry out your ideas. It's not likely you will do much about them yourself.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You should be in a position now where you have accumulated a little surplus, you are not, however, apt to bank it for a rainy day.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Plan to take care of your most important task early. Later in the day, your initiative will be substantially reduced.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Others are prepared to behave co-operatively toward you now, but don't make it a one-way street. They will only go so far, and no further.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Before you make any long purchases now; give the matter some and lots of thought. You don't want to get in over your head.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) You must make a more conscientious effort than you are now making if you are to make the most of present advantages.

EASY DOES IT

Prevent a chair from scraping the floor by applying a coat of wax to the bottom of each chair leg. Chairs will glide easily and won't mar the floor.

Italy's Spectacle of Wealth Masks Scenes of Despair

ROME (CP) — Giggling girls on the Via Veneto, calling each other Dino and Nicki and punching each other on the shoulder, take the two middle-aged North American women into another disco for $4 drinks and some dancing.

The stiffly-coiffed ladies will pay dearly for the excitement of this evening. They may never notice the dishonesty and futility of this grandsounding night in Rome, when all is a spectacle of love, wealth and fun.

For the visitor in Italy, it is never easy to say what is real or unreal, great or shabby, important or silly.

A small example: on the balcony of a gloomy tenement along Rome's subway line stands a gleaming-white, larger-than-life statue of David, a magnificent surprise among old clothes and cast-off tires.

But there are bigger pieces to the Italian puzzle.

Italian politics have gone through an upheaval this fall that might have crumbled the Canadian political system. But in Italy, despite the rhetoric of crisis, it is almost politics as usual.

Entirely dependent on foreign oil, Italy's balance of payments has sunk to unheard-of depths. But in Italy, despite strikes, rising unemployment and Europe's worst inflation, many economists consider the economy stronger and tougher than Britain's.

Rome is among the world's most splendid cities, dominated by Renaissance refinement and Imperial power, beautiful even in its seediness. But thousands of destitute families scrabble out survival in shacks, shanties and caves, in scenes of Europe's worst shame.

Journalist Luigi Barzini, in his 1964 book The Italians, began by writing that "the problems of contemporary Italy are too disturbing and too difficult to understand; local political events have always seemed mysterious and negligible."

He went on to describe what he called the astute selfishness of the Italian, his love of beauty and spectacle, the near-anarchy of his politics and his bone and cynicism about his government.

At the end, he concluded: "The tenacity and eagerness with which the individual pursues his private interests and defends himself against society, his mistrust of noble ideals and motives, the splendid show, the all-pervading indulgence for man's foibles make Italian life pleasant and bearable in spite of poverty, tyranny and injustice.

"They also waste the efforts and sacrifices of the best Italians and make poverty, tyranny and injustice difficult to defeat."

Little Hope for Rebound Of British Columbia Economy

VANCOUVER (CP) — Businessmen and politicians, immersed in the gloom of a bad last half of 1974, give the British Columbia economy little hope for a 1975 rebound.

Forestry and mining were hard-hit by slumping world markets and, in B.C., when those two giants hurt the repercussions are felt in construction, shipping, government revenues and retail sales.

Premier Dave Barrett was the most optimistic seer, predicting that the economy will begin to recover in mid-1975. If no new disasters are inflicted on export/ markets, which comprise 35 per cent of the annual provincial commodity product.

He said he is confident the loss of tax revenues from the current business slump will be offset by government policy decisions.

Particularly, the premier said, the B.C. Petroleum Corp.—a provincial marketing agency handling massive sales of natural gas to the United States—will show new profits to offset losses from traditional tax sources.

In the year ended March 31, 1974, natural gas exports totalled 181.8 million and two price increases since then may more than double that figure in the current fiscal year.

The premier had good reason to be concerned about reversing potential tax losses. In the fiscal year 1973-74, the province had record revenues of $2.1 billion, up $461 million or 28.5 per cent from the previous fiscal year.

But provincial expenditures in the same period climbed to $2.08 billion, up $475 million or 29.3 per cent from the previous fiscal year.

Most of that increase—$131 million—went into Crown corporation programs which will demand more money each year.

The revenue outlook is most grim in forestry, where 15,000 of the industry's 49,000 employees have been laid off. Herb Doman, president of the Duncan-based Doman Industries Ltd., called the market "the worst in 25 years."

Since 60 per cent of B.C.'s lumber is shipped to United States markets, a slowdown in housing construction there is blamed for most of the industry's ills and any improvement would not show here for at least six months, spokesmen said.

Dennis Timmis, chief executive officer for MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., says layoffs may reach 24,000 by April, 1975. He said his own firm plans to cut its capital investment in B.C. in 1975 by least one-third of this year's total of $61 million, a development echoed by other major companies.

The province's Timber Products Stabilization Act, passed in mid-November, was unsailing to the industry. The bill allows the government to set the price paid sawmills for their wood chips and also provides for a forest products board to advise on wood-chip prices and other unspecified matters.

The Council of Forest Industries protested that the bill was a move to take over the industry but was somewhat reassured when the government amended the bill to define forest products as logs and wood chips only.

During the last two years, the government purchased the Ocean Falls pulp and paper mill (which lost money this year), a controlling interest in Canadian Cellulose at Prince Rupert, Plateau Mills at Vanderhoof and Kootenay Forest Products near Nelson. The latter three made money in 1974 and Plateau and Kootenay are planning expansions.

The province's second-largest industry, mining, was beset by tax woes in 1974. Total mineral resources production in 1973 generated $897.5 million, an upward trend which continued until mid-1974 when world copper prices began to plummet and important factor in B.C., where some 720 million pounds of copper was mined this year.

What bothered mining companies most, however, was not world markets. They objected to a series of provincial acts designed to generate royalty revenue, particularly the Mineral Resources Act affecting copper.

Premier Barrett said the new royalties are realistic and the companies have taken a "Neanderthal" stance by complaining about seven-year returns of 9.8 per cent which contrasts markedly with the "reasonable" attitudes toward tax changes shown by forestry and petroleum companies.

The continuing federal-provincial battle over resource taxation worries the companies, too. They feel they will be the eventual losers, a B.C. and Yukon Chamber of Mines spokesman said, taxed at maximum rates by both levels of government.

B.C.'s construction industry followed the general pattern, reporting a good first half of 1974, and a downturn reflecting the wider business slump later in the year.

This industry's problems, spokesmen said, have been worsened by continuing labor disputes, particularly with boilermakers and elevator installers.

Some $300 million in construction was stalled 16 weeks between May and July by a strike of 11,000 workers represented in the Lower Mainland and some Cariboo points by the 19 unions of the B.C. and Yukon Building Trades Council.

The final settlement added $30 million to the $180 million annual wage bill of the 830 contractor-members of the Construction Labor Relations Association.

General manpower shortages—estimated by the CLRA at more than 700 skilled tradesmen—long-term apprenticeship programs and light, mortgages money added to industry woes. At the same time, contractors were plagued by shortages of lumber, hardwood, sealants, floor coverings and specialty asphalt items, with materials costs rising by 15 to 20 per cent annually.

Spring Start Possible on Extension to Quinte Mall Here

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The $15-million second stage of the Quinte Mall will begin in the spring, providing four rezoning applications gain council approval, The Intelligencer was told Wednesday.

Last Thursday the Quinte Planning Board received the rezoning applications, made brief comment and referred them to Belleville's Subordinate Planning Advisory Committee to be dealt with as a local matter.

Bert Keazy, planning director for the board, re-explained the board's comment saying "... a portion of the property will require a secondary plan the remainder of the re-zoning applications appear to fit into the terms of the official plan".

Cambridge Leaseholds Ltd. of Toronto, plans an additional 225,000 square feet to the mall itself to accommodate 20 stores, construction of a hotel and restaurant, a prestige industrial park and two 120-unit highrise apartment buildings.

Fred Smith, manager of the mall, said Wednesday if the applications meet with council approval, the apartments would be the first started, "followed closely by the other pieces".

The planning advisory committee is expected to consider the applications next Wednesday.

Optimistic that approval will be forthcoming, mall owners undertook a number of studies, as groundwork before construction to determine whether the extension were economically sound. The results of the studies were very encouraging.

Mr. Smith said the reception to the mall so far has been "fantastic". He said about 20,000 customers come to the mall each week.

"We (Cambridge Leaseholds) met with council in November . . . we're ready, willing and able to begin as soon as approval is given," said Mr. Smith.

Mr. Smith said his company's surveys show Belleville as "the economic and industrial focal point between Toronto and Montreal".

"We draw a buying power of 130,000 population," he said. "Belleville is the perfect location."

Mortgages, Rents To Be Subsidized

TORONTO (CP) — Barney Danson, federal minister of urban affairs, said Wednesday the federal government will set up mortgage payment and rental subsidies of up to $30 a month for low-and middle-income families.

Legislation covering the subsidies and other measures aimed to ease high mortgage interest rates and improve the flow of private mortgage funds probably will be introduced in Parliament before Christmas, he told a seminar on mortgages organized by Seneca College.

Mr. Danson said later in an interview that in Toronto an annual income of between $8,000 and $12,000 would be considered low income and middle income would be between $13,000 and $18,000.

The plan was an attempt to bridge the gap between high mortgage lenders must charge and the rates middle-and low-income borrers can afford. First-mortgage rates were about 12 per cent in 1973 and 1974.

The subsidy plan is set up to encourage investment of private funds in the federal Assisted Home Ownership Plan (AHOP), he said.

"In practice, this would mean that a private lender would provide funds at the lowest current mortgage rate to families eligible under the AHOP program, but CMHC (Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.) would subsidize the borrowers up to a maximum of $600 annually," Mr. Danson said.

"This is designed to make the effective net rate (no more than) 2 to 2½ per cent of family income," he said. "I would, at the same time, make similar benefits available to people who rent."

CMHC would administer the subsidy plan which is an extension of AHOP introduced earlier this year.

Mr. Danson said builders of multiple-family housing "who are prepared to agree on reasonable rentals" could obtain private financing to bring the effective interest rate as low as eight per cent.

He intended to encourage the flow of private capital into the housing market because the federal government could not provide all the mortgage money needed to solve the housing crisis.

Mr. Danson said the federal government will not alter housing starts to decline in 1975 to the rate predicted by some economic bodies.

The initiatives proposed in the budget and other legislation now in effect or contemplated should result in at least 200,000 starts next year," he said.

The minister said the federal government has put more than $1 billion into the housing market.

Rhodesia Agrees To Meet Blacks

SALISBURY (AP) — Black and white leaders in southern Africa have taken their first major step toward detente by agreeing to a ceasefire in Rhodesia and a conference to write a new constitution for the former British territory.

Prime Minister Ian Smith, the head of Rhodesia's white-minority regime, announced Wednesday night that the war between his army and black guerrillas will halt immediately, he will release all black political prisoners and a constitutional conference with black nationalist leaders will be held soon "without preconditions."

It was the first breakthrough toward a settlement since Smith declared Rhodesia's independence from Britain in 1965 to block British plans for eventual transfer of power to the black majority.

Smith warned, however, that the "major task still lies ahead," will many problems remain.

He gave no indication how far the writes were prepared to go toward satisfying the nationalists' demands for black power. But he called on Rhodesians of all races "to accept the new situation in our country, to put behind us the differences and recriminations of the past and to look to the future."

Rhodesia's 5.5 million blacks outnumber the 240,000 whites more than 20 to 1.

Smith's announcement came less than a week after the collapse of secret talks between

Authority Sells Land

BRIGHTON — Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority members agreed Wednesday to sell 17,880 square feet of land on the west bank of the Trent River to Trenton for a dollar a square foot.

The land, slated by the LTRCA for use for the town's greenbelt project, is needed by Trenton for the widening of Water St.

Not cost of the town purchase excluding potential grants, is $1,812. The land is north of the CPR railway overpass.

LTRCA chairman William Carter said Wednesday the parcel is the first the authority has sold since its inception in the late 1960s.

Authority Faces Major Cost Increases 1975

BRIGHTON — Trenton's 1975 contribution to the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority is more than double this year's amount.

The total — $18,429 — is included in a proposed $347,263 budget revealed to a full authority meeting here Wednesday.

In addition, a special levy for continued acquisitions of property for Trenton's estimated $1,185,400 greenbelt project along the west bank of the Trent River will cost about $41,074. As yet, the entire project remains without 'provincial approval.

Through both its normal and special levy, Trenton will supply 58.4 per cent of all authority expenditures not covered by provincial grants.

The increase to $18,429 of Trenton's normal levy is in line with those for 17 municipalities in the authority. All members face increases of at least 100 per cent in their levies.

Authority chairman William Carter, in explaining the dramatic rise in the budget, said Wednesday, pressure from both the public and LTRCA members has forced the authority to step up its development of conservation areas.

The resulting higher costs will see a 35-per-cent increase in the proposed 1975 budget over this year's $221,000 figure.

Mr. Carter emphasized the figures presented are subject to change and do not constitute an approved budget total for 1975. The budget must go before the annual LTRCA meeting in February for final approval.

Information board chairman Cy Macdonald said the tentative budget will be presented to councils of the 17 municipalities in a series of three meetings scheduled for early next year.

He said the authority realizes the budget and its increases are unpalatable and will require a great deal of explanation.

First estimated at $200,000, the budget has been repeatedly cut by the authority executive.

Of the total proposed $347,263 budget for 1975, 67 per cent, or $233,028, will come from municipal coffers. The LTRCA must make up the remaining $114,185.

Of that final sum, $62,321 will come from normal levies, $6,813 from the sale of land to Trenton for the widening of Water St., and the final $45,450 from special levies applied to Trenton, Stirling and Hastings.

The special levies applied to the two villages are needed to pay for engineering studies to determine costs of flood control and channeling of Kilborn Creek in Hastings, and dam renovation, on Rawdon Creek in Stirling.

The largest percentage increase is noted in administrative costs. The increase is attributed partly to a boost in LTRCA staff from two to five, and partly to the need for the purchase of equipment. From this yeah, costs have jumped from $48,000 to $72,305.

The only two other major expenditures proposed for 1975 are $218,600 for purchase and major development of 12 conservation areas, and $31,500 for water control.

In a 13-3 poll vote Wednesday, LTRCA members agreed to present the tentatively drafted budget to councils at the three meetings early next year. The decision came following lengthy procedural wrangling over the authority's course of action with the budget.

Stirling Considers New Communication System

STIRLING — The last meeting of a disbanding council is traditionally short, but Stirling town fathers had a busy three-hour session this week.

Fire chief Graham Mouck told council he is working on communications with the Bell specialists, but no solution has been finalized.

"Fire departments are trying to do away with sirens," he said. Firefighters here are alerted by this means, but not all can hear it.

Electronic pages carried by volunteer firemen are being investigated but they are expensive, and the system has its problems. Another siren at the west end of town was considered, but it too is costly the chief said.

Tweed firemen just received electronic pages, Sydney firefighters have them and so on telephone answering service at night, but mishaps occur, he said. Sunday morning a Sydney firetruck went through Stirling with sounding, rousing all. The truck stationed at Ralawa should have responded he told the cash chief Mouck said.

Stirling firemen listening in on the mutual aid radio, heard a neighboring fire station trying to locate a fire 20 minutes after it was reported and mutual aid requested.

The chief said that equipment faults have caused sirens to sound in Madoc and Tweed when they should not have, and those fire departments were ready to respond to mutual aid.

The veteran firefighter told council that if there was a fire in any downtown Stirling building mutual aid would automatically come into force, and Rawdon would be called for help first.

Stirling council also said it isn't happy with the way building permits are issued. One lander-peer found out that he had recently bought a lot zoned hazard land, and he told a councillor he was going to get a building permit. Council instructed clerk Robert Hulin to advise Hastings County clerk Carl Bateman that he was not to issue one.

Reeve Owen Rolls Falls said "All Mr. Bateman does is interpret our official plan." Reeve Ed Klompmaker said "It is a problem of communication. We should have him come to council."

"Our planning board isn't a clerk," councillor Carl Brandt said. "It doesn't all fall back here. They drafted it up, and they should come to council with a recommendation. It is too big for Stirling. How can we afford to administer a zoning bylaw and an official plan?"

"We shouldn't pass the authority onto Hastings County," Mr. Fallis said.

A delegation from the Stirling Parks Recreation club presented council with a cheque for $20 as a sign of good faith. Council is letting the group use the community centre free.

Council said it is happy with the behaviour of the teens and is going to recommend to next year's council that they continue to let the club use the community centre.

Council, however, said it is worried about the vicious garbage dump, under constant watch by the ministry of environment. Council was told it could not pile garbage on top of garbage, but council said it was not told this when it told the ministry it wanted to make a ski hill out of the dump. A subsequent letter said council can do this.

One Last Look

Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority vice-chairman Russell Sills (left) and chairman William Carter take one last look at a summary of a $347,263 1975 proposed budget before presenting it for the first time to a full authority meeting in Brighton Wednesday. Resource manager Bryan Boyce and the LTRCA executive expect some opposition from councils to the budget, up 55 per cent from this year.

Parade Preparation

Santa will make his appearance Saturday afternoon in Stirling Working a float for the 7 p.m. parade, entered by the Trent Recreation Club, are Mike Wilcox, directing Gerry Shepard with a hammer, Margaret Wilcox sees how the chimney will fit. The teen club plans to provide refreshments for parade participants after the event. Dressed as clowns, teens will act as parade marshals.

Students Seek Sponsors For New Band Uniforms

BAYSIDE — The concert band at Bayside Secondary School is in the midst of a fund-raising campaign band director David Begg says he hopes will raise $3,000 for the purchase of new uniforms.

Industries and businesses in Trenton, Frankford and Belleville are being asked to contribute up to $50 for the uniforms, priced at close to $150 each.

Mr. Begg said Wednesday the request for funds from business comes after members of the 40-piece band raised approximately $1,500 through car washes, candy and chocolate drives earlier this year.

Since the policy of the school, and the band, is to extend its activities into the three Quinte communities, Mr. Begg says he feels it is fitting they be asked to support the school's campaign.

Part of the funds, he hopes, will go towards a three-day tour to Huntsville, later this year.

Stirling Parade First in Years

STIRLING — Santa Claus is arriving in style this Saturday Dec. 14 starting at 3 p.m. Dave Gliddon, of the Stirling Businessmen's Association, says that there are at least 16 floats in the village Christmas parade.

It is the first time in many years such an event has taken place here. For eight years Santa Claus has appeared on a truck in town without any festivities.

Besides the floats, the Belleville Yardmen Band and the Madoc Cadet Marching Band will be livening the event up with their musical ability. The Stirling Senior Public School Band will be providing Christmas selections after the parade in a downtown location.

The floats and horses in the parade will start off at the fair grounds, heading east along Front St. Al Roscoe and Allen Streets , the bands, marching groups such as the award winning Stirling High Steppers and many, many more will filter into the colorful show.

Mr. Glidden, chairman of the Santa Claus parade committee, says the parade will move through town to James St., turn north to Mill St., head back west to North St., and then turn to head past the Post Office and then west on Charlotte St., where it will disband at the United Church parking lot.

Senior Citizens Welcome Santa

PICTON — Santa Claus scheduled a brief stop-over here Wednesday night, guest of honor at the annual Picton Kinsmen Christmas party for senior citizens.

Expected 175 persons enjoyed a turkey supper at the Eastern Star Temple then participated in an entertainment program with Jock Jones and the Acoustics.

Head table guests for the dinner included Prince Edward County warden Keith MacDonald and his wife, Mrs. Mary Taylor, wife of Prince Edward-Lennox MLA James Taylor, Nelll Cockburn, president of the Senior Citizens Club, Kinsmen Club president Sheldon Whittaker and Kinette Club president Marilly MacDonald.

"We can't say enough about this club in Picton and Prince Edward," observed warden MacDonald commenting on the annual holiday dinner for senior citizens from town and county.

It was noted during the evening that Picton senior citizens will receive an Action Age grant of $600 to assist primarily in costs of food and trips. The announcement was made in a letter from David Morrow of the ministry of community and social services.

The special dinner organized by the Kinsmen Club ended with a sing-song of carols and a visit by St. Nick.

Architects to Tackle New Lookout Tower

BRIGHTON — Two University of Waterloo architecture students will be hired for $4,160 in early 1975 to create working drawing of several Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority projects, it was decided here Wednesday.

Among the projects is the design of a lookout tower at a 3.5 acre site in the Alnwick Conservation Area. LTRCA members approved a $4,000 expenditure for towner construction here Wednesday.

Included in the list is the design of several facilities for Trenton's green belt project on the west bank of the Trenton River. Designs for the interior renovation of King's Mill, north of Stirling, will also be drafted.

In total, $5,500 will be spent during the four months, January to April, the two students will work for the authority. Benefits will cost $300 and equipment another $1,035.

Authority chairman William Carter said the students will draft a conceptual plan of a offices-workshop centre the LTRCA will need in future. .

However, he said work on the centre will only be done if time is available. Emphasis will be placed on projects to be done in 1975.

Answering questions dealing with a new LTRCA office, Mr. Carter said the authority executive has not discussed moving from its present Frankford offices. The conceptual plan will be needed for provincial government grant purposes once a decision to relocate is made.

LTRCA Committee Formed

BRIGHTON — A three-man committee has been formed by the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority to nominate the seven-member executive for 1975.

Members of the committee elected by the full authority here Wednesday are Chris Newman, Campbellford representative on the LTRCA board, Alec Rutherford, from Seymour township, and Carl Hetsh from the village of Hastings.

The committee is charged with the nomination of the LTRCA chairman, vice-chairman and chairmen for each of five advisory boards.

Kiss from Santa

Senior citizens were guests of the Picton Kinsmen at a Christmas party yesterday. They were entertained by an orchestra. Kinsmen choir lead by club member Ed Rae and a Kinette vocal group joined by Margaret MacDonald, wife of county warden Keith MacDonald and Mary Taylor, wife of James Taylor, MPP for the district. Santa, of course, was on hand and welcomed many of the guests of honor with a kiss for Christmas.

The Underprivileged

The death of four children in a house fire on an Indian reserve on Manitoulin Island is one of those tragedies that may be noted with only passing concern in these frenetic times.

But in a sense their deaths represent what is wrong with our much-vaunted society. The parents of three of the youngsters, and the widower father of the fourth, a girl, were not at home. No real blame there, for there was a babysitter; the latter escaped, and there was perhaps no chance at rescue at all because the youngsters were trapped in the flames.

Who, or what to blame then? Well, the fire was caused by an overheated wood stove, and this is typical of the primitive means of providing heat, where it exists at all, in much of the Indian housing throughout Canada. The houses themselves, and the heating systems, can be death traps.

People living in such conditions in Canada, and the Indians are not the only ones, should take precautions. But the situation is redolent also of a people who deserve better from society as a whole, and from governments, federal and provincial, who know such conditions exist, and make no move to remedy them.

In Forefront

Bell Canada's know-how in the field of telephone communications is acknowledged around the world.

Further evidence of this is an article about the Technical Training School in Belleville; in the current issue of Bell News.

The school, located in the Four Seasons hotel complex, caters to students from other telephone systems throughout Canada, and from overseas. As well as students from the United States, others have come from Ghana, Peru and, Brazil.

Instructors also fan out to places where their expertise is needed. For example, Wayne Subden, supervisor of Training (Outside Plant Engineering) spent about a month in British Columbia giving courses on technique in his field. According to Mr. Subden, instructors from Belleville, may be going to Ghana in a similar training capacity.

Here is one more enterprise in which the name of Belleville is becoming more widely known abroad.

Christmas Spirit

Christmas is as demanding a period as it is pleasurable. For those getting on in years in particular, and who still wish to remember their friends and family, the holiday season imposes extra strains.

But help is at hand from the young people. Quinte secondary school for one is offering help during after-school hours today. Grade 9 will pack parcels, address cards, that sort of thing.

It is a gesture that should be a plus in human relationships, and a bridge across the old bogey of the generation gap. In short, an initiative that is in the spirit of Christmas; as well as providing some real practical help.

Naval Watch

Well, it seems that Canada's entire Atlantic fleet of 12 destroyers are now in the business of fishery protection.

Earlier reports had referred to ships being put into mothballs, then there was talk of one destroyer being sent to check the foreign fishing fleets, but according to a later report, there will be 12 destroyers keeping tabs on them.

As we have already pointed out, this fruitless several useful roles; notably it maintains the naval arm in a state of readiness, while at the same time ensuring that foreign vessels are not fishing inside territorial limits, not a function engaging in any kind of surveillance of Canadian defences.

PC Charges 'Double-Standard'

Ottawa Being Held To Ransom But Turns Other Cheek

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — The Arabs have done it with oil.

The Central American republics have managed it with bananas.

The South American states are swinging it with coffee — Peru, Zambia and Zaire are trying it with copper.

Cuba, the Caribbean states and other case countries did it for a time with sugar, crippling the Canadian housewives' usual summa preserving program.

Guyana has the urn on bauxite for Canada's aluminum production.

And who will hold us to economic ransom next?

Most, if not all of these countries who have compelled the rest of us to pay off their cartels, are members of what the External Affairs department knows as The Third World; and are on our $650 million foreign aid budget.

Why, asks Conservative House Leader Walter Baker, Nepean-Carleton MP for the Eastern Ontario riding of Grenville-Carleton, does it work only one way?

Why, in other words, as he puts it, "is there a double standard?"

He has yet to hear anyone in Parliament, "especially on the Liberals side," question the morality of Third World cartels.

But he has heard plenty of talk-talking at the more suggestion that perhaps Canada might offset some of the economic damage of these Third World monopoly ripoffs with a little countervailing action on the price of grain.

Not only does this seem "unthinkable," as Mr. Baker has heard it expressed, but it has been considered "positively immoral in some circles" that we aren't giving more of it away than the million tons of grain we already have committed.

"If you're going to gang up economically then the fewer of you needing to agree to it and the larger share of the world's output you control, the easier the blackmail," observes Mr. Baker.

Canada is in just such a position in respect to the World economic blackjacking with a quorum of six.

Canada and Australia, with a small share held by New Caledonia, control 60 per cent of the world's nickel.

But that, admits Mr. Baker, is a poor example, since The Third World, being largely non-industrial, has little use for nickel.

But grain, "that's something else — and Canada, the U.S., and the Argentine pretty well have the corner on it," he observes.

He notes, too, that voices already have been raised in the U. S. Congress, specifically by Democratic Senator Frank Church of Idaho, to fight fire with cartel against cartel, monopoly countering monopoly.

He has introduced a bill to cut off foreign aid — particularly food — to any country, in the Middle East or South America refusing to lower oil prices.

And Mr. Baker joins the chorus of those who clamor that this is a world unconscionable bullying and that we should be turning the other cheek and giving more, not less. Mr. Baker reminds you of the response from two leading members of The Third World oil cartel.

President Carlos Andres Perez of Venezuela took out a full-page in The New York Times to thunder back, followed by the Shah of Iran who roared that nobody, not even President Ford, was going to scare them.

But they still wanted that aid. Mr. Baker, like a lot of other Canadians, has been fascinated by the convoluted thinking of former External Affairs Minister Sharp that Canadians — including old age pensioners and the working poor who could use the money themselves — should be providing $80 million in foreign aid to Algeria, Nigeria and Indonesia, members of the oil cartel rolling in those billions of petrodollars.

Mr. Baker recalls that it shapes up as the same kind of "unreal thinking" that Mitchell Sharp that prompted the then External Affairs Minister to protest a couple of years ago that Canadians "were glad to pay you $12 million to keep the peace in Cyprus" that it had taken to keep the National Defence force on the island.

By now the bill is up around $15 million.

And Mr. Baker wonders "what obligation there is on Canadians to pacify Cyprus any more than to feed oil-rich Algeria, haven of international terrorists and hijackers.

"Maybe," he suggests mildly, "it's about time we started thinking about looking after our own interests."

I Didn't Expect To Be Met In An Edsel"

Repeat for Investors

Capital Loss Can Mean Tax Gain

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

For the second year in a row, it appears that a majority of Canadian investors will be able to use their capital losses to offset the gain on their other income.

This year, as in 1973, stock and bond markets have slumped badly. Losses have been much more widespread than capital gains.

When the federal government decided, three years ago, to make capital gains subject to income tax, it made the rather reluctant decision to share the losses as well as arbitrarily sharing the gains.

For much of the time since then, however—quite possibly because of the tax on the investment profits—markets have been in a slump.

This has inevitably led investors to familiarize themselves with the tax treatment of capital losses—and nobody should be surprised to discover that it is more restrictive than the treatment of gains.

Specifically, the government has dealt itself in as your un-limited partner in sharing capital gains.

Capital losses must be offset against capital gains within the year—fair enough. But if losses exceed gains, then half of that excess—but only up to a limit of $1,000 — may be deducted from other income for the year.

Any additional net loss in 1974 would have to be carried back against 1972's income, subject to the same limitation.

If you still have any unclaimed surplus after all that, you are allowed to carry it forward to offset other taxable income in 1975 and possibly beyond.

The tax rules could also trap the unwary investor who thinks that the 1974 investment year ends Dec. 31.

The last day of December is the "value date"—but—except for cash transactions in Canadian stocks and bonds — takes place five full days before year-end and, in U.S. securities, five U.S. business days before, if they are to affect your 1974 taxes

In effect, this means that the last day for establishing 1974 capital gains and losses in Canadian securities is Dec. 24, and on U.S. securities, Dec. 23.

Remember, too, that the so-called superficial-loss or bed-and-breakfast rule can reduce or wipe out your eligible allowances if stocks sold at a loss into 1974 are bought back early in 1975.

Most investment advisers warn that you should not make purchase or sale decisions on the basis of tax considerations alone, but rather on the outlook for the security in question.

Nevertheless, the year-end is for many people a traditional time to reconsider investment objectives and perhaps to revise the investment portfolio.

In certain circumstances, investment strategy and tax factors will combine to suggest the wisdom of a sale and purchase.

Examples: Some regional chartered banks, with similar size and operations, are selling at almost the same price and for some indicated yield. Shareholders of either might well switch to the other if they could thereby establish a 1974 tax loss that would offset all or part of an earned income.

Or, with much more should be reviewed in advance with a tax specialist, investment advisor or other well informed professional.

Auditor-General Changes Course

Ottawa Journal

The nagging and the trivia have been replaced by a more professionalism. That is the essential difference between this year's report of the Auditor General and the last he has from the pen of James J. Macdonell's philosophy, and those of his predecessors. These are not. Whatever spice may be lost, however, nonetheless is welcome to some opposition MPs and the media who feel the change is entirely for the better.

In shortening the dreary catalogue of bureaucratic follies to the most significant cases, Mr. Macdonell gives much greater impact to those he does make public. The salutary fear of exposure is heightened; it had in fact become something of an albatross to hang around Henderson's reports because all the best people were there. This criticism has been muted.

The most significant part of Mr. Macdonell's report is, in fact, not the horror stories, but the decision to establish what will be a miniature Glassco commission in sending auditors into government departments and agencies to determine how well the internal financial and accounting controls are working. A highly innovative exercise should strike far more terror into complacent public service hearts than the mere threat of the possibility of making Mr. Henderson's report.

Marxist in Hawaiian Labor Deal

Rendered Expensive

"Sweetening the pot" is a common term in labor-management bargaining. It means that the boss has added something to his offer. That was the case in Hawaii's 8,000 sugar cane harvesters, already the world's highest paid agricultural workers, in the 800 bonus each over the next two years plus 65 cents an hour more in two instalments. This gains, it is worth $3 000 per worker and will cost the boss $6.30 an hour by February, 1977.

The $30 million it will cost the Hawaiian sugar barons is a sorry indication of the size of the windfall profits from the mad-skilling of sugar prices last year. It was content with their spectacular rake-off rather than the traditional one of trying to build up these kinds of industries at home.

But that will of course develop certain key domestic industries. This is where Canada comes in with Ottawa's current scheme to trade our technical expertise for favorable deals on oil imports.

Elsewhere in the world, the Communist Chinese of course have special status for themselves without the encumbrance of industrial base because of the power of their Marxist social revolution.

The Chinese model for vast and overwhelming countries, and for developing conservative societies is also there ter the borrowing, ever though Peking does not really offer it to sympathetic nations in domestic trouble, like India, Bangladesh or Ethiopia.

Brazil, Indonesia and Nigeria visualize world power status for even different reasons, Brazil at the only important Third World power taking the capitalistic not the socialistic route in greatness.

Indonesia's it on a mixed base of population growth and oil availability and Nigeria for the moment is content to become, hood in a continent of fractures and tribal rivalries. Canada's role is nowhere to be found.

Shulman Sees PCs As Still Ahead And Could Regain Lost Popularity

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — In a recent radio panel interview Dr. Morton Shulman was asked what he thought would happen if there was a provincial election today.

The NDP soles replied in his usual blunt and perceptive manner.

There was no question at all, he said. At the present time a minority Conservative government would be returned.

Though this is only one man's opinion it is an informed one and one with which many people would agree.

These people would include a good many Conservatives and this lead, to the natural question just what is wrong with the party.

For though many people will agree that it is slipping there are few that can put a finger on the reason why.

Is it perhaps too much Big Blue Machine, that the people don't like to be managed politically.

Is it perhaps that the leaders of the party are good advertising people but not good politicians.

Is Premier Davis perhaps coming across as smug?

Or have the various scandals added up to where the public is losing faith?

All of these reasons are mentioned from time to time but it seems the present PC failure is probably a combination of all of them.

However Dr. Shulman made one other astute remark.

He said that though there would probably be a minority today there was still time for change. The government had at least several months before an election and it could pull off many hat tricks in the interval.

It will be interesting to see just what it can do.

Voter Response Poor in Election

Editor:
The Intelligencer,

Flushed with victory, Alderman Ben Corke told Belleville taxpayers give the backs of their hands to frivolous candidates".

By this, the alderman means the miserable 2% per cent who bothered to vote.

If 29 per cent gave the backs of their hands then all I can say is the remaining 71 per cent gave a collective backs kick in the teeth. In other words, the vast majority of those eligible to vote said that the affair worthy of consideration.

Weather may have played a part, but not to the extent that not two years ago when the weather was far worse.

I doubt, if elections were held in cold summer, there would be any bigger turnout. The electorate just does not have faith in being able to change anything in Belleville, they prefer to stay at home.

So, for the next two years, 71 per cent of eligible voters have ensured that the old gang of local government will give us "more of the same".

Here's hoping salmon gasping their way up the Moira River to bask in the shade of all those "tree trees".

Health Aides Graduate Dec. 13

The second graduation for health care aides at Loyalist College will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

About 38 graduates will be at the event, which will feature an address from valedictorian Mary Drake of Belleville. The affairs is open only to the graduates and their guests.

The aides are all from the college's regular day program, a new subject introduced by the provincial government in September, 1973.

County Stresses Use Of Returnable Bottles

The Ontario government should act immediately to encourage greater use of returnable glass containers, Hastings County agrees.

The council concurred with a resolution from March Township on the issue this week.

Among suggestions from the township: (1) Anticipating the metric system by legislation to standardize containers and reduce their numbers. This would facilitate future reuse. (2) The province should declare intentions to ban—under environmental legislation — non-refillable glass and metal packaging for all commodities which can be marketed in refillables. A timetable should be established to prepare the public, industry and retailers for the change.

Homes Full

Both homes for the elderly in Hastings County are operating near capacity and admissions are being restricted to county residents.

Hastings County council received the information this week from its committee supervising operation of the homes.

At the time it drafted its December report, the committee said there were 257 residents in Hastings Manor in Belleville, with a waiting list of about 40. There were about 26 vacancies, mostly for male ambulatory residents.

At Centennial Manor in Bancroft there are 94 residents and seven on a waiting list.

Ministry Questions Farm Divisions

Hastings County may have to go to the top to resolve a difference of opinion with provincial housing ministry staff over its official plan.

The problem, outlined by Reeve Calvin White of Dungannon, county planning board chairman to fellow councillors Tuesday, is this: The official plan permits a "limited" amount of construction on one-acre lots in farming areas — without the need for rezoning.

But, ministry staff are insisting on rezoning and raising lot sizes in such instances to a minimum 25 acres.

It doesn't appear the board at present can resolve the difference, said Reeve White.

The issue "may well have to be decided by the minister himself".

But, in a number of instances, it's reasonable to have one-acre land severances in rural areas and the official plan recognizes this, said county planning director Niall Carney.

Rezoning for one-acre lots would be "unworkable and unreasonable" said Mr. Carney. Ministry officials also seem to fear that every 100-acre lot is permitted areas would be divided into 100 single lots.

Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings, told council he would be willing to arrange a meeting with government authorities on the issue.

Winter is clashing in and disruptions of electrical services are upon us.

Not True.

Summer is the time of year when Quinte district residents are in the most danger of disruption of electrical services.

In 1954 it was Hurricane Hazel that shut off power for three days. In 1963 it was the electrical and windstorm in August that disrupted service for up to three days in parts of the city. The year before last, it was an August line squall that devastated Brighton. This summer, Tweed was hit by lightning and wind.

Power companies in this area, municipal and provincial don't get disturbed by icing, snow and sub-zero temperatures. Winter finds them in the position of sending crews out to other areas hit by storms. Summer is the problem time.

Something as simple as "a good tree trimming program, in co-operation with the city and Ontario Hydro" is credited by Neil Britton, general director of Belleville Public Utilities Commission, with preventing a lot of power failures.

One of the strengths of the municipal system of electrical delivery shows up in emergencies, says Mr. Britton. "The PUC can call in crews from neighboring municipalities in a crisis situation. By the same token, Belleville sends crews out to trouble spots — most recently to Muskoka last October when a storm hit the area.

"Both the city and the regional provincial office in Belleville have emergency staff on call 24 hours of every day. The "trouble crew" is assigned on a rotational basis, and stands by 24 hours a day, 365 days of the year.

Ontario Hydro employs its own meteorologists, working from Toronto, to predict weather changes.

Their predications are of more use for peak load estimates than storm warnings.

"The darker the day and the colder the weather, the more energy needed," says Norm Mansell, spokesman for Ontario Hydro's regional office in Belleville.

Ontario Hydro's regional offices alert municipalities of coming storms, and stand-by crews are on their toes to assist municipalities in case of emergencies.

But in the most part, Ontario Hydro have sends crews out to other areas in the winter. It's summertime when we call for help.

Big worry to Ontario Hydro this winter is generator capacity. Five generators, four at Nanticoke and one at Pickering, have been out of service due to breakdowns. This has reduced the total capacity to 18.5 million kilowatts. Peak requirement this winter is expected to be 14.5 million kilowatts between December and February.

"We therefore have an uncomfortably small margin to cover further forced outages and shortages during a prolonged cold weather period when the system is subject to problems such as frozen coal and icing conditions at large hydraulic plants," says D. J. Gordon, president of Ontario Hydro.

To meet commitments, Hydro has stepped exporting electricity to the United States and is negotiating to buy power from American utilities.

Poet and Kids Learn and Share

By ISABEL HUGGAN

Remember poetry in public school?

Remember memorizing, and how you hated it? Learning lines "by heart" written long ago by poets you never knew . . . taking poems apart "to see what the poet is trying to say" . . . tedious, picky, and no fun at all.

Well, things have changed, at least at Tyendinaga Public School on the Shannonville Road.

David Harris — who publishes his poetry under the name of david us — has just finished a four-week creative writing program with junior and intermediate students. This was his second visit to Tyendinaga Public School where he led a session in poetry writing during the spring term.

An Ontario Arts Council grant — part of the "Artists in Schools" provincial program — sponsored david us's visits.

Both visits resulted in collections of poetry and prose written by the students and edited by the poet. And both visits have been "fun."

The first booklet, "Skinned off the Cream Jar" reflects the emphasis put on visual and concrete poetry in the early sessions. A cross-section of students studied with david us as part of an enrichment program supplementing their regular classes. The aim was simply to encourage the children to "new" ideas.

Th's autumn's course had a slightly different purpose. Many of the students, between the ages of nine and 14, who had worked with the poet in the spring, were ready to progress to a program of greater depth.

Under david us's tutelage, they read and discussed narrative and lyric poetry — and then got a chance to write some of their own. Learning about imagery and rhythm had a definite goal: individual creative writing.

Their second booklet, "Selected Works" contains the best student-written poems, prose and essays. Much of the work took place in an atmosphere made stimulating by recorded music.

Inspired and happy, the students responded to this challenging program with enthusiasm.

"The kids enjoyed it even more than gym," says Rod Dens, principal of Tyendinaga Public School.

"But they didn't find the program easy. In fact, they'd rarely encountered this type of situation, where opinions and feelings were required of them rather than facts.

"I think it's fair to say that both the kids and the poet learned a lot from each other."

The school's teachers learning about david us, too, according to Mr. Dens. Although at first his unorthodox approach was viewed with a little apprehension, he won the respect of everyone who saw what his two classes achieved. As time passed, a sharing of ideas took place between teachers and poet.

Two teachers in particular — Olivia Preston and Ralph Porter — worked out an agenda so that they could devote more time to students needing extra help while those interested in creative writing took david us's course.

Towards the end of his autumn visit the poet led the students through a series of theme games, to interest them in the next project he and Mr. Dens have in mind — the study of drama and writing of scripts.

"The things we've done together have made the kids more aware aware of themselves and aware of the world," says david us.

Creative Games!

School is really fun when playing dood is part of the process making theatre come alive. Students are directed by poet david us (who prefers not to use capital letters in his "writing name") to fall down if they are unable to continue telling a story being made up as the sentence is passed along from person to person.

12 Questions For Christmas

It seems to me that as Christmas approaches, I see people around me being drawn into a whirlpool of frenzied activity over which they have no control. They only know there are things they must do.

You know the sort I mean, you may even be one yourself. You feel by the middle of December as if you just can't possibly cope with all the responsibilities.

You haven't even started baking cookies, there are still nine presents to buy, your cards are signed but not addressed, and oh dear, there's the tree to get, and yes, you'd love to go to the company party but oh no, you have really nothing to wear and you can't afford a new dress now, you need every cent for the kids' gifts and some better house decorations, the kids really expect the house to look nice and you couldn't let them down and oh, won't you feel good again when this Christmas is over. ...

Stop!

Sit down and breathe deeply. Now, relax. There, isn't that better?

Okay now, just for a moment look at yourself and where you're headed.

I'm not suggesting that you stop what you're doing. But I'll venture that most things in this world take on new search if we really search our hearts and minds to discover why we think and act as we do.

Read these 12 Questions for Christmas, and see what kind of answers you give yourself. There's no right or wrong on a "test" like this. The only result is a little more self-knowledge.

1. Which would you rather have — an unexpected "surprise" gift at any time of the year, or something you've "drizzled you wanted on Christmas morning?

2. If your family couldn't all get together until the first weekend in January, would you feel disappointed? Would the affair seem second-rate?

3. During this period of recession, inflation and energy saving, does it seem reasonable to festoon the house in Christmas lights and decorations?

4. Does it seem significant to you that different brands of Christianity place Christmas on different days? Or that many of the celebration details have come from pagan cultures and festivals?

5. Do you feel happy at being pulled into Christmas spending by a massive annual campaign created by manufacturers and their advertising?

6. Are you hurt when someone stops sending you Christmas cards, even though you haven't seen or written to them for years?

7. When you see a child's eyes "light up" at the sight of the pile of gifts under the tree, do you think it's a reflection of the joy of the season? Or might it be just plain childish greed?

8. Why do you think so many parents start saying in October: "You behave yourself or Santa won't bring you any presents"? Is it right to teach children this way that they have to conform in order to GET a reward?

9. How important is gift-giving to you? Do you ever reach a point where you just throw up your hands and send the same present (magazine subscriptions, cheese parcels, poinsettias, etc.) to everyone?

10. How often does it enter your mind — and the minds of your children — that you are taking part in a religious ritual? Be honest now, in the middle of the night-shopping crush do you feel devout?

11. When you leaf through magazines during this season, do you compare your family's preparations and celebrations with the "perfect" Christmases pictured in the ads and articles? And do you feel a little let down? You should have tried harder, should have taken the time to really do it "well"?

12. Why is it that most of the responsibility for Christmas rests on the shoulders of wives and mothers? Why would happen, do you think, if women decided that this year that it wasn't their duty?

Poetic Proof Of Creativity

A sampling of the work done by david us's students offers evidence of their enthusiasm for writing poetry. The poems reflect their understanding of rhythm and imagery, — and although the form is often simple, the ideas are surprisingly complex.

These poems are from Selected Works."

Beautiful music everywhere
It makes a wonderful sound
Through the air
Bells and drums
Everyone comes Men come prancing
Everyone dancing
Cymbals ringing
A choir singing
Organs they play
Each and every day.
(by Anne Long)

High over the fields
There is a flower that is growing
It started blooming it started to open very slowly and slowly it leaves opened wide and wider until it was fully grown Then some one came and picked it and it died.
(by Vic Breadman)

This poem is from the spring collection titled "Skinned off the Cream Jar." It is typical of much of the booklet's poetry, written on themes such as nature or flying that gave the students' imagination free rein.

Dancing,
The skaters go
Flashing,
Their skates
Slice the ice,
Their speed is great,
Elegant,
They skim smoothly
O'er the ice.

Who walks back and forth to work along a Roman wall and sometimes bakes an elderly down a 1,900-year-old sewer? Simple. A Polish-Canadian girl like Lucy Koserski, Canadian girl from Toronto. Lucy Koserski, a Ryerson graduate, is press relations officer for the city of York in England and her job takes her from the bell tower of York Minster to the depths of an ancient sewer. (CP Photo)

Lucy's Love Affair with York Lands Her Press Officer's Job

YORK, England (CP) — What's a nice Polish-Canadian girl like Lucy Koserski doing down a 1,900-year-old Roman sewer in York?

Simple. Lucy is the press relations officer of the city's department of tourism and showing off York, the ancient bell tower of York Minster to the delights of the ancient sewer, is part of the job.

All of which invites the question: What's a city like York doing with a Canadian girl, rather than a Yorkshire lass, in the forefront of its tourist publicity campaign?

That isn't so simple, and in fact it took a bit of fast talking on Lucy's part to convince the city fathers that she was the right girl for the job.

But instead of trying to play down her Canadian background, she wisely turned it to her advantage, actually making it a selling-point.

In applying for the job "I didn't think it was a good idea to write saying 'and, PS, I'm a Canadian,'" she said in an interview as she, shepherded a group around the city. Rather she took the line that as a foreigner madly in love with York she could perhaps bring more fresh enthusiasm to the job than someone who grew up here and took much of the city's splendor for granted.

"I figure I got the city several thousand pounds worth of free publicity on my first appointment," she recalled happily.

But the job isn't always that glamorous. There's a lot of foot-work involved aside from organizing tours, writing a quarterly newsletter and arranging press coverage for such things as York's Arts Festival, the second largest such event in Britain after the famed Edinburgh Festival.

Still, it's all a labor of love for Lucy, 24, who left West Germany but moved to Toronto while still on an island, with her Polish parents Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Koserski.

After graduating from Ryerson Polytechnical Institute in Toronto she was a reporter on Hamilton Spectator before her wanderlust took her to London and then York.

After winning the York job, she recalled, the then lord mayor confided over a celebratory glass of sherry that it was her journalistic background that gave her the edge over other applicants.

Although by British standards she's better off than most 24-year-olds, she figured that in Canada a similar job would pay far better. But York has its compensations for "the price of her former London bed-sitter she now rents a two-bedroom apartment.

Her love affair with York began on Christmas Eve almost three years ago when she and a girl friend, both then living in London, arrived here for a holiday.

She was smitten the instant she set eyes on the magnificent, flood-lit Gothic Minster, the ancient Roman wall rambling around the medieval city, the smoky, timbered pubs and the narrow, cobbled shopping streets.

"As I sat mussed out, it was the best Christmas present I ever had," said Lucy, a vivacious five-foot Toronto girl who these days swings through York, giving a running commentary, as proud of the place as if she owned it.

But then she was press officer for the Boy Scouts in Britain. A few months later she heard York was looking for a press officer and went all out to land the job.

Her first day was a stunning success. BBC television, fascinated by the appointment of a Canadian girl, moved in to do a mini-documentary, a sort of camera-eye tour of "Lucy's York," with the new press officer as guide.

Aided from the fray of her job, she has a busy social life and almost "all kinds of interesting people."

"And how many people can boast that they walk back and forth to work along a Roman wall and sometimes bake an elderly lady a cake?"

In the future, she still gets the occasional urge to travel on—to see some of the rest of the world.

"I used to say I'd just stay on a job a year and then move on, but now I think I'll stay here until I tire of it—and I'm nowhere near being tired of York."

Natural Childbirth — Safe And Healthy

Ann Landers

Natural childbirth - birth with a bare minimum of drugs has come of age. An increasing number of hospitals now sponsor some kind of childbirth course from an 8-session instruction to simple hospital orientation.

Today's young woman considers the memory of the moment of birth of her child to be precious. And hospitals promote childbirth education with the aim of bringing babies into the world alive and healthy.

Medications given a mother in labor distress through the placenta to the fetus. Even "harmless" anesthetics can lower the fetal heart rate. And even pain-killers that leave the mother conscious can delay the newborn's instinct to breathe. Stronger drugs can diminish oxygen supply and slow the delivery, possibly causing brain damage.

So doctors today appreciate that when the mother is awake, aware and controlled, chances for a healthy baby are better, and the mother's recovery is quicker.

— Reader's Digest.

I'd like to add to all this that I know personally several mothers who have found the "natural childbirth way" something they wouldn't have missed for the world.

Dear Doris: I think you missed the boat somewhere along the line. I can't get over the fact that parents think you shouldn't have a boy at 18 or 24, and I know I am one in many girls who believe your opinion is really square.

At 14 we've been doing it for years. The generations are changing nowadays and the kids start dating and kissing at a much younger age than when you were young.

A Natural Teen-ager.

Dear Teen-Ager: You can say that again. But I do remember a certain kiss redecorated. But I was seven, by an exciting boy friend of eight who sneaked up behind me in the school yard at recess. Then I ran, and he chased me. That was the extent of our courtship.

Dating in groups is still better than smooching parties of two, until you get to knowing what this sex business is all about — really.

Confidential to Wondering: We are bound to be affected by the lives of those around us but our primary purpose here on earth is to develop our own souls by striving to come as near as we can to perfection.

You can do this, not by turning inward and concentrating on your own difficulties in the past, but by turning yourself outward. Take some interest in help someone else.

You don't think it is possible to be too kind. Nor do I. But I've been referred to you in this way meant is as a criticism. The expression "well you be too kind" is simply a mild way of saying you have done more than was expected - and that can hardly be bad!

Waitresses Depend on Tips

Dear Ann: Thank you for telling the wife who sneaked the $5 slip her husband left (for a party of six) that she "stole $5 from a woman who worked hard to earn it."

Your wouldn't believe how little some waitresses have left. We depend on our tips to live.

I have often not only waiters, but children grab tips from under plates, glasses, ashtrays, even ones at nearby tables sometimes help themselves.

Please read this letter, Ann, and tell people who want to reward an efficient, hard-working waitress with a gratuity ½ dime put in her hand and not leave it on the table. It's the only way to make sure she gets it.—The World is a Jungle

Dear World: Here's your letter, but I must have wish you, dear. I received a great many letters from women married to chauffeurs who felt the wife was perfectly justified in grabbing that fiver. Of course they are wrong, but my answer didn't convince them, and neither will yours. Here's another letter from your "Sisterhood."

Dear Ann Landers: I've been a waitress in lounges and cabarets for several years. One of our worst problems is wives who tell their husbands, when the check comes, that they don't need to leave a tip. The bill is big enough to pay that waitress a good salary."

The bill may be big, but the truth is we aren't paid enough to live on. We need those tips to make the rent and groceries. The reason we do waiters work is because we know that if we are courteous and friendly and knock ourselves out, we will get good tips.

Another thing, most wives don't realize that many waitresses are divorced (or widowed) and they have young children. Support cheques? Forget it. We've given up trying to find the bums or it's too much of a hassle to get a deadbeat husband to pay support.

That dame who wrote to you, Ann, said she needed the $5 she lifted to get some fabric out of lay-away. Wilbe she'll be home sewing, I'm standing on my feet for eight hours at a stretch trying to make a decent living.—Exasperated Betty

Dear Betty: Thanks for the back-up. Now here's a letter from a wife.

Dear Ann Landers: I saw red when you accused that wife of stealing that $5 tip left by her husband.

I can't squeeze an extra quarter out of my tightwad, but when Mr. Big Shot gets out in public, he just loves to show off by throwing money around.

The whole tipping system is rotten. Restaurants, bars, and cocktail lounges ought to pay their help enough to live on, the same as shoe store clerks. I work in the lingerie department of a store and people think me for breaking my back trying to squeeze a size 44 rear end into a "medium" girdle. When I come home at night I feel as if I've exercised on the ol' camel. Tell like it is, kiddo, will you please?—Tired and Tipless

Dear T. and T.: You did, and I thank you. But until the tipping system is changed, we'll have to go along with it—and I see no evidence of a change in the making.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 22 and engaged to marry a young man I love very much. Bob is 24. Bob's parents died when he was two years old. He was raised by his Aunt Hilda.

She never liked me from the day we met. She tried to be friendly but it is hopeless. Last night when we were telling Aunt Hilda about our wedding plans, she voiced her disapproving. My parents are paying for it, but I thought it might be polite to consult Bob's aunt. Finally she said:

"You and your mother are a pair of small-town hicks. Why don't you engage a professional and do it right?"

I was so hurt I nearly cried. Bob didn't say one word. Is this the way it will be after we are married? He is very close to his aunt. Please give me some advice.—Miss X

Dear Miss: If Bob sat there like a wart on a pickle and let her talk to you that way, you can be sure he won't change. Aunt Hilda will be very much a part of your life, and you can count on it.

Gifts That Say

Paul Bernard has an impressive selection of the works of local artists in his Christmas boutique at his gallery, 16 Bridge St. He has ink drawings, etchings, water colors, and oils, ceramics, metal sculpture and reproductions of both old Masters and works of old sculptures. But the main thing about them, gifts is that they are created locally. When you give these gifts you say many things — you say "Thank you" to the artist because you expressed your appreciation in tangible terms. But you also say to the recipient that you think enough of them to give them something of you.

The staff at the Quinte Sewing Centre in the Quinte Mall are busy filling basket after basket — but not with candy. They're filling sewing baskets with all the things the sewer will need. Riding May Be Expanded

Rollins States Intent To Seek Re-election

Clarke Rollins, Conservative MPP for Hastings since 1959, will again seek his party's nomination for another provincial election.

Mr. Rollins confirmed his intentions Wednesday in Hastings County councillors.

His announcement also means his next candidacy may contest an electoral district much expanded beyond the borders of his native Hastings County.

Redistribution of Ontario ridings presented Tuesday in the legislature proposes a new riding of Hastings-Peterborough charted northwest of the city of Peterborough.

Premier William Davis has said the government plans legislation on the redistribution report "before the next election."

Redrawing of Hastings boundaries extends the present riding westward through 10 rural townships, included are the villages of Havelock and Norwood.

The Intelligencer reported Wednesday that 10 rural townships were involved in the proposed new boundary alignment.)

Kenneth Smith, Conservative association president in Hastings riding — and reeve of Esther-Grimsthorpe townships — estimated the new territory could add about 12-

... 000 people. Population of Hastings County is about 42,000.

Mr. Rollins said he had no comment at this time on the revisions proposed in the redistribution report.

But, he said, reports his Cen Hill home was centrally located to carry the new territory if elected. His residence, he noted, was equal traveling time from either Belleville or the Peterborough area.

Eclipse Studied

Loyalist College students and area astronomers will have an opportunity to photograph a partial eclipse of the sun, which can be viewed in this area, Friday morning at the college between 10 o'clock and noon, providing the weather is clear. A telescope will be set up by mathmatics instructor Bill Campbell with an attachment for Pentax camera. Mr. Campbell has taken several color pictures of the sun and the moon with his equipment.

Auction Brings $106

Hastings County's treasury is a little better off today — thanks to an inspiration of county administrator Carl Bateman.

Recently four obsolete metal road racks were scheduled to be discarded at the county offices.

Then, Mr. Bateman made a proposal to county councillors as they ended their final session of the year Wednesday. Would they be interested in bidding on the racks.

They were, and Mr. Bateman acted as auctioneer for the impromptu bidding in the council chamber.

The result: A total of $106 which, said the administrator, goes into the county treasury.

Auction Action

Final 1974 session of Hastings County council ended on impromptu, lively note Wednesday. Obsolete coal racks were to be discarded from county offices when administrator Carl Bateman had thrifty inspiration. Acting as auctioneer, he sold off the racks to councillors and made about $100 for county treasury.

Service Station Entered

A break-in at the A and D Esso station on Dundas and Church streets netted thieves a total of about $32 in cash and merchandise.

City police said that sometime between 1.15 a.m. and 4 a.m. Thursday, a window was removed from the east side of the building and an office entered.

Among the items taken were $18 to $25 from the till, a framed dollar bill and a half-carton of cigarettes.

Board Drops Plan To Alter Pay Date

The Hastings County board of education has dropped a request to participating municipalities to change the dates for local government payments of school costs.

The board was concerned with saving interest costs on money borrowed until municipalities levy their taxes.

Board authorities dropped the suggestion after meeting with municipal treasurers in October, Carl Bateman, Hastings County administrator said this week

Among other problems pointed out, Mr. Bateman said county council, was that municipalities — which also have to borrow to pay bills before taxes are due — do not have interest rates established. School boards do.

Trenton Requests Study Support

The provincial government already may have studies on location of a new Bay of Quinte bridge to replace the aged Belleville-Rosemore traffic link.

If so, such information should be made available to municipalities involved, Hastings County councillors said Wednesday.

The controversial bridge issue was raised in county council by way of a recommendation from Trenton.

Trenton council requested support for a resolution seeking a study from the provincial government to ensure final choice of a site meets the requirements of all area residents.

The county's road and committee came up with an amendment calling for investigation to be conducted by the county — or under the results of any studies to date.

Council concurred with the amendment.

Carl Bateman, county administrator, said he thought the committee felt too many have been done and such information could be collected to local governments already. Copies of the proposed new bridge.

Reeve Barbara Allen, of Trenton, felt the controversy aroused by the bridge issue was a classic example of "having a gift horse in the mouth."

"With land costs soaring the way they are, to decide on the location would make the cost somewhat."

Youth Charged

PICTON —A A Prince Edward County youth has been charged with five counts of break and enter, one count of theft under $50 and one count of possession of stolen goods.

Name of the youth is being withheld until investigations are complete, says Constable Donald Watt of the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

The charges followed breakins and theft at Bruce's Poultry Farm, Wyott's Garage, a private residence, Bill's Dairy Bar, Betty and Raynor Market and Maple Inn. The common charge resulted from the discovery of goods stolen in Belleville.

Northern Plant Shutdown Reduces to Two Weeks

The three-week Northern Electric shutdown announced for the Christmas period has been reduced to two weeks Wednesday — the result of union protest earlier in the week.

Company officials were unavailable today and union president Lorna Moore refused comment saying financial details "are not for the public."

In the new settlement, 1,000 Northern employees will receive their normal eight-day Christmas holiday and be laid off for an additional five days.

To soften the layoff, Northern Electric is issuing each employee $360 which will be paid back in weekly payroll deductions of $5 for 20 weeks. No interest will be charged. This information was learned through a union memo released to employees Wednesday.

Lorna Moore refused comment on a report that senior workers earning in excess of $160 over five days are dissatisfied with the allowance.

The bulk of employee dissatisfaction stems from loss of summer vacation when the company ordered employees will use two weeks of holiday at Christmas while markets absorb a backlog of warehouse inventory.

Union officials at the London, Ont. plant where 1,800 workers are affected, termed this action an attempt "to hide a layoff" and said it would ruin employees' vacation plans.

When the company announced two weeks ago 150 workers here would be laid off, it attributed the move to a softening of U.S. markets.

"If any further layoffs occur, these employees owing any portion of the $180 advances pay" will be recovered from accrued vacation owing that employee," the union memo states.

By having to participate in the conveyancing - process, a municipality would then be aware of any land grants.

Council Moves to Plug Subdivision Loophole

Startled Hastings County councillors discovered Wednesday how building development could be surreptitiously attempted — by using the law.

They hurriedly concurred in a resolution calling for an amendment to Ontario's land registry laws.

The problem was outlined in the resolution — from Otlawa-Carleton regional government.

The region noted before land can be subdivided planning approval must be given by a municipality or through re-registration of an approved plan of subdivision. But there is a loophole through which one is required when land is conveyed to or from a municipality.

Under Ontario law it is "technically possible" for person to execute and register a land conveyance to a municipality without its knowledge.

Then by conveying to a municipality a strip of land in a planned pattern it is theoretically possible to create a subdivision while attempting to circumvent subdivision controls.

The region related its own experience: In one of its rural townships developers and promoters have — with the township's approval — conveyed one-foot strips of land to the municipality. The strips were created, Mr. Moore said, "to make sure they were built without planning approval.

The region won a court case on the issue, although it is now being appealed.

Now, it wants a change in Ontario's registry and land titles acts requiring in any land conveyances the named recipient be required to also execute a conveyance.

Bell Increase Draws Reaction

Hastings County council agreed Wednesday that senior governments should play a more active role in representing customers over Bell Canada rate increases.

The move came as council endorsed a resolution from the Association of Municipalities of Ontario (AMO).

Through AMO local government has been a consumer advocate during Bell applications for higher rates, said county administrator Carl Bateman.

Such involvement in 1975-76

cent AMO $21,000 — of which Hastings share is $420.)

Now, however, AMO wants senior governments to lift the advocacy burden from municipalities.

The AMO resolution calls for federal and provincial governments to "more adequately protect" public interest in telephone services and "in the full operations of the Bell Canada Corporation".

And it wants the commitment before the next rate hearings — set for the end of 1975.

Ring Brings Arrest

A 34-year-old city man has been charged by police with possession of a weapon dangerous to the public peace. The charges followed the discovery Wednesday of a ball-bat knife blade protruding from the ring worn by a patron at the Belvedere Hotel.

James M. Dutchison of Grier St. has been charged by police with the weapons charge and public intoxication.

Warden Steps Down

The reeves of two townships have declared they will seek the office of Hastings County warden for 1975.

They are Reeve William McCrea, of Hungerford Township, and Reeve Gordon Wilman, of Sidney Township.

Both men announced their candidacies in traditional fashion Wednesday — at the annual lunch which marks the end of county council political sessions for the year.

The lunch — at the Sun Valley Motor Inn — also saw Reeve William McKenzie, of Faraday Township, elected warden in 1974 — take formal leave of council as its honorary head. Re-elected for another two-year in his township, Warden McKenzie next year will resume his place in the main body of county council.

Reeve McCrea was first elected a township councillor in 1963 and has served a total of almost eight years — four as reeve.

In his declaration speech, Reeve McCrea emphasized the need for maintaining the county's identity, hampered by a diversity of economics.

Reeve McCrea had 11 years service on Sidney council four as deputy reeve, the last two as reeve.

Reeve Cecil Woods of Madoc Township, also squashed what he termed "rumors" which indicated he would run for warden next year. Instead, he said, he probably will be a candidate in 1976.

The election of warden will be decided when the new county council holds its first meeting — starting in mid-January.

Jobless Rate Stable

Canada Manpower Centre statistics show 1,743 people unemployed in Hastings County — a figure the agency says is normal despite the recent layoff of 138 Northern Electric employees.

A manpower spokesman said Wednesday, the difference between October and November's totals is "very slight."

He said the manpower centre in Belleville would not be affected greatly by the Hagglern layoff and a similar shutdown at Stanley Structures as the "layoffs are of a very temporary nature."

The same spokesman said exact statistics are not available for last year's unemployment rate at this time but that the years are "running about even."

The spokesman said new industry coming into the city is picking up the slack in the labor market. During the current year, eight new industries have located in the city.

Solar Oven Latest Loyalist Project

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

It's amazing what science is doing with solar energy. There are now solar heater, solar vehicles, solar ovens — solar ovens?

That's right. Mathematics student's at Loyalist College are attempting to develop a portable solar oven which can be used for cookouts, camping and even baking parties in the dead of winter.

All one will require is a bright, sunny day and anything from hot chocolate to hamburgers can be made.

Of course, the idea has not been perfected yet, but the students are working on it, says Bill Campbell mathematics instructor.

The scheme developed from the students' work with parabolic, and the session arose how to focus the sun's rays at a point where sufficient heat could be raised for boiling or cooking.

Mr. Campbell has built two models, one two by two and a half feet, and one four feet in diameter. A third one, five feet in diameter is under construction by the students, with the hope of using it as a model for conversion to a handy, portable unit.

Mr. Campbell explained the smallest oven has a plywood structure, with the plywood curved on the inside to form the correct parabola. The curve is covered by chrome mellenes to reflect the rays.

"It's a substance that's never been used before for this purpose," he pointed out. "It's usually used for kiddies' toys."

A metal tube is affixed across the front of the oven at a distance where the focus is exact. It is painted flat on the curve side to further attract the heat, and is just a plain dull black on the other side to keep the heat from escaping.

Mr. Campbell said the tube can hold enough water to provide one cup of coffee, and will boil water on a clear day in about 15 minutes. "Hazy days are almost impossible to boil water," he remarked.

The curve, which is a parabola and not a complete sphere, was computer designed, he added.

The two largest ones are parabaloid, or spherical, and can focus a "ball" of heat so as area large enough for a small grill. The grill is set up on a tripod and is used for the four-foot version.

The first oven, which the students hope to use to form portable units, might have a self-supporting grill, said Mr. Campbell. Its power will be equivalent to a 1,200-watt hot plate.

If the college can reduce its size and weight (about 70 pounds) down to a more desirable 30 or 35 pounds, it might have marketable value.

SOLAR take 2, no listed on

For the portables, plastic will be used to form the curve, and the units will be self-contained, made from fibreglas, plastic or particle board, with the heavier plywood back, explained Mr. Campbell.

"They can cook eggs and boil water," he outlined. "We haven't tried frying hamburgers yet, -but I don't see why we couldn't."

A demonstration of the new model will be given sometime in January at the college. Mr. Campbell said he hopes to take it to Picton's Head on a weekend to make hot chocolate and coffee for skaters on the bay.

"We'll find out if we can make plastic copies and if we can, we'll go ahead," he said. He added anyone can build a solar oven. "Once he knows the equation of the parabola, that's all he's got to know."

Calls to convert the solar energy to electrical energy on an oven is impractical, noted Mr. Campbell. "To cover this with cells would likely cost you $3,000-$4,000," he commented.

CP News Roundup

Snowplow Operators May Quit

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — A spokesman for the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) said Wednesday the 38 employees who work for the county's roads may go on strike.

Harold Wrightman said contract talks between Peterborough County and CUPE Local 1308 have broken off and the union has applied for conciliation. Their present contract has expired.

He said roads employees now earn $3.56 an hour and are asking for an increase of 91 an hour in a one-year contract. The union also wants the work week cut by five hours to 40.

Dick Cavanagh, county warden, said the county is "reluctant to go to 40 hours" because "it would mean tremendous amounts of overtime."

More Aid Asked

OTTAWA(CP) — The Ontario cabinet was asked Wednesday to improve services to the province's French-speaking residents.

The requests came from two Francophone organizations who presented briefs at an open cabinet meeting—one of a series being held in towns and cities across the province.

Confused

OTTAWA (CP) — An announcement that the government is expanding its official languages education program into the North confused northern MP Wednesday and left the other hopeful the government finally has awakened to the needs of the region.

Wally Firth (NDP—Northwest Territories) thought the announcement meant help for native languages. He told the Commons it might help preserve the 10 or 12 native dialects that "are dying in many parts of the Northwest Territories."

Erik Nielsen (PC-Yukon) welcomed the announcement but said it had taken the government two years to realize that Northerners might benefit from such a program.

Aid Retarded

OTTAWA (CP) — Ontario will be spending at least $10 million for additional aid to the mentally retarded, Rene Brunelle, minister of community and social services, said Wednesday.

"It will be a minimum of $10 million and probably more," the minister said in an interview.

Eclipse Friday

OTTAWA (CP) — Celestial fireworks and the dimming of the sun will proclaim the passing of this Friday, Dec. 13th.

The two spectaculars predicted by astronomers include a meteor shower throughout the night that will peak in the Saturday pre-dawn about 2 a.m. and a 60-per-cent eclipse of the sun at the peak time of 10:57 a.m. EST Friday.

For sky-gazers in Western Canada, the partial eclipse will be in progress at sunrise Friday.

Adjourn Case

WINDSOR, Ont.(CP) — An application by the Windsor board of education for an injuction prohibiting secondary school teachers from picketing and striking was adjourned Wednesday to the Supreme Court of Ontario in Toronto.

May Need More

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario doctors may need a 10-to-15-per-cent fee boost by May 1, 1975, instead of four per cent, to keep up with inflation, Dr. Manning Mador, president of the 12,000-member Ontario Medical Association, said Wednesday.

"Off the top of my head, I'd say that we would need 10 or 15 per cent to keep up with current inflation for the interim year—May 1, 1975 to May 1, 1976," he said in an interview.

CRTC Appeals

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Radio-Television Commission decided Wednesday to appeal its case against radio station CHOT Ottawa, alleging failure to warn persons being interviewed by telephone that their remarks were being broadcast.

Claim Made Coroner Biased

NAPANEE, Ont. (CP) — To-tal interest in the inquiry or as-sents lawyer Paul Copeland charged, coroner W. Stuart Patterson of Kingston on Wednesday with acting in a biased manner.

He asked the coroner to prova otherwise or step down from presiding over an inquest into the death of a prisoner at Millhaven institution.

Mr. Copeland said he saw a communication between Millhaven Warden John Dowsett and the Ontario solicitor-general's office "during a tour of the prison by the coroner's jury which told of an inquest ruling three weeks in advance.

The inquest is being held to determine the cause of death of Kenneth Nalon, alleged to have committed suicide in his cell Aug. 19 while serving the second year of a life sentence.

Mr. Copeland said the document he said appeared to be copy of a communication stating that six prisoners and Mr. Copeland would not be judged as having a direct and substan-mentioned by Mr. Copeland.

Dr. Patterson said he may have stated his intention to declare Mrs. Nalon a person with standing to a prison official at an earlier date but defended the move by saying "it was common knowledge the next of kin Wednesday similar to those mg- are usually granted standing if interested in the communicaiUe they ask."

Happy New Year Is Unlikely If Civil Servants Strike

TORONTO (CP) — When you hear the midnight bells welcoming 1975, you may be hearing the signal for a strike that would bring widespread problems for Ontario residents.

About 19,000 provincial workers in the operational services category of the Civil Service Association of Ontario (CSAO) have threatened to strike Jan. 1.

John O'Grady, a CSAO researcher, said in an interview Wednesday he hopes a settlement on wages can be reached. But if there is no settlement, jails and workers ignore provincial laws prohibiting them from going on strike, here's about what you can expect:

There would be no snowplows, salting and sanding equipment or servicemen on highways and most county roads.

About 200 food inspectors would stop passing meat and milk products, prompting shortages at the retail level within a few days. Some federal meat inspectors would remain on the job, but the bulk of inspection is done by provincial employees.

Air-pollution inspection and monitoring would stop, as would inspection of mining operations in Northern Ontario. Other unions might then refuse to work in uninspected mines.

For about 20 mental hospitals and institutions, a strike would mean chaos as about 8,300 workers would withdraw from provincially-operated hospitals.

The CSAO spokesman said psychiatric nurses and social workers at the hospitals belong to another category of the CSAO and would not be on strike. But they could be asked not to cross picket lines of the operational services category.

Baby Aborted Alive

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — "Allegations against us are — A report on an investigation that we neglected the baby and into the death Jan. 28, 1971, of a that there was a conflict of inbaby that was aborted five, was terest concerning the doctor asbaptized, and died three hours sisting in the abortion," said later was sent Tuesday to Pet. Mr. Carruthers.

rick Le Sage, director of Crown Assistant Crown attorneys attorneys, in Toronto. Bill Johnston and Peter Speyer

The abortion was performed at Greater Niagara Falls General Hospital on a 15-year-old girl, then six months pregnant.

Hospital records show the baby was born at 10:47 a.m., after a therapeutic abortion, and was admitted to a nursery incubator about 20 minutes later. Hospital administrator Peter Carruthers said the baby was baptized in the nursery until last died about two hours later, Kitchener were appointed by Attorney-General Robert Welch to co-ordinate the provincial police investigation.

Recommendations of the report were not disclosed.

Frank Callagan, Ontario deputy attorney-general, would not comment on the report but said charges will not be laid.

Mr. Carruthers said the baby "received normal nursing care."

Ontario Layoff Rules Said Not Tight Enough

TORONTO (CP) — Opposition members Wednesday criticized proposed changes in employment standards, saying they don't go far enough toward bringing Ontario into line with other provinces.

Ted Boussali (NDP Windsor West) said a provision requiring employers to give advance warning of mass layoffs falls short of existing legislation in Quebec and Manitoba.

The Ontario bill, now before a legislative committee, would require eight weeks notice to workers with 10 years employment time. Employers laying off 50 workers.

PC Says He Has Evidence Of Illegal Conduct by SIU

OTTAWA (CP) — New allegations of violence, voting irregularities and manpower hiring hall activities within the Seafarers' International Union (SIU) were made Wednesday by an MP who says he has documented evidence to prove his case.

Otto Jelinek (PC—Toronto High Park-Humber Valley) said he has 30 documents that spell out details of illegal and unethical conduct within the 3,700-member union.

His refusal to release the documents, but said the evidence includes affidavits from SIU members who say they were beaten or threatened with death for opposing a spring contract settlement with Great Lakes carriers.

He told reporters he is willing to give the evidence to the cabinet but wants assurance that a federal inquiry will be ordered to investigate all allegations.

Repeated requests in the Commons for a federal inquiry have been refused by the government.

Mr. Jelinek said his evidence indicates that 20 to 25 SIU members voted at least three times each to ensure the election of Roman Gralewicz to the SIU presidency earlier this year.

But he begged when told Mr. Gralewicz was unopposed for the union leadership. "I would have to check in that case," he said.

Mr. Jelinek said he has a document from an Unemployment Insurance Commission (UIC) official who interviewed an SIU member seeking benefits after he was blacklisted for voting against the contract. After hearing the case, the UIC official awarded the man UIC benefits.

He told reporters his evidence goes further than anything presented by Ontario MPP Morton Shulman, who has accused the SIU of violence, corruption, bribery and intimidation. Mr. Jelinek's riding covers much the same area of Toronto as Dr. Shulman's provincial seat.

Auto Repair Rates Have Risen Sharply

TORONTO (CP)—A survey the last six months done by the Insurance Bureau of Canada (IBC) shows that the hourly rate charged for work done by auto repair shops has risen as much as $3 per cent in jump. The figures for Halifax are $13 from $11, an 18-per-cent increase.

The survey covered body work only, a major component in the cost of automobile insurance. IBC said hourly rates for mechanical and electrical repair work were normally $1 to $3 an hour higher.

Sugar Price to Drop But Lows Will Not Return

TORONTO (CP) — Sugar prices will probably be lower 18 months from now, but there might be periodic "bumps upward," in the next few months, the president of Redpath Industries said Wednesday.

Neil Shaw, head of Redpath, one of Canada's biggest sugar refineries, told a news conference that by June, 1976, sugar will probably sell for 25 to 35 cents a pound, compared with about 86 cents a pound now.

However, he said, the days of the 1960s, when sugar was sold for 77 cents a pound, serves to eight cents a pound, are gone forever.

Sugar consumption fell 18 or 19 per cent in recent months and November consumption was 18 per cent less than November last year, he said. The reduced demand was forcing prices down.

The price of refined sugar reached its peak Nov. 21 when it sold for 77 cents a pound.

Fishing Ban May End

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — Commercial fishing, banned on Lake St. Clair since 1970 because of mercury contamination, may be resumed soon under a program proposed by the Ontario ministry of natural resources, ministry officials and fishermen said Wednesday.

Ray Fortier, Chatham district manager for the ministry, said the program, which would allow sports and commercial fishing on the lake, will be discussed by ministry officials and representatives of sports fishermen during the weekend.

Quebec and Ontario Lose Bid to Stop Sunday Trucking

OTTAWA (CP) — The Federal Court of Appeal rejected Wednesday an appeal by Quebec and Ontario against a decision by the Canadian transport commission allowing two Winnipeg trucking firms to operate on Sundays.

Reasons for the court's decision are to be made public today.

The two provinces said the transport commission wrongly interpreted the Lord's Day Act, treating Sunday as a day of rest while Parliament had intended the act to preserve the sanctity of Sundays.

Ross Goodwin, appearing for Quebec, warned Wednesday that if the two Winnipeg applications are upheld by the court, truckers can use almost any reason to get permission for Sunday operations.

He said the commission in granting the Winnipeg applications took into account the national transportation policy of increasing competition among different modes of transport. Instead it should have been concerned only with carrying out the intent of the Lord's Day Act and with any public necessity for some Sunday operations.

Consumers Fight Deceptive Ads

TORONTO (CP) — The Consumers Association of Canada (CSA) came out strongly against deceptive advertising before a legislature committee Wednesday.

Michael Trebilcock, a University of Toronto law professor, won support for some of his recommendations on behalf of the CSA at a justice committee hearing on the new Business Practices Act.

John Clement, minister of consumer and commercial relations, said he is impressed with some suggestions by the professor, who helped draft similar legislation in Alberta and Australia.

Prof. Trebilcock urged the minister to include two measures on advertising—one to require substantiation of advertising claims when the ministry so requires, and another to require corrective advertising in cases where the public has been misled by false claims.

The professor cited a recent court decision in the United States requiring the manufacturers of Listerine to admit errors in future advertisements to counter claims that Listerine prevents colds.

No similar action would be possible under existing legislation in Ontario and the new act should cover the matter, Prof. Trebilcock said.

Mr. Clement agreed in principle, but expressed concern that the ministry would be dogged with requests from advertisers submitting detailed substantiation of claims prior to publishing advertisements.

Nevertheless, the ministry's legal advisers would consider the recommendations before the bill receives final approval. It has already received second reading, approval in principle.

Prof. Trebilcock also recommended that a consumer dissatisfied with a ministry decision on a complaint would have the right to appeal to a provincial tribunal.

Also, the director of enforcement under the act should be given the power to take test cases to court on behalf of consumers—a power not provided in the current wording of the bill, he said.

The committee also heard lawyers representing the insurance industry, advertising agencies, manufacturers and professional groups—all opposed to having the act apply to their interests.

Mr. Clement said most of the request for exemptions would likely be met. This is because other provincial laws exist to cover specific areas, such as the insurance industry, and professional bodies exist to regulate service by lawyers, doctors and other professionals.

Purpose of the act is to protect consumers from deceptive representations in any business transaction. The act stipulates penalties for offenders and requires full refund of the purchase price of items sold under deceptive representations.

Building Permit Embargo Asked

TORONTO (CP) — City council's executive committee asked this building commissioner Wednesday to refuse all building applications for downtown developments more than 45 feet high or 40,000 square feet in floor space until the Ontario cabinet rules on the city's building bylaws.

The executive also unanimously recommended that council appeal Tuesday's decision by the Ontario Municipal Board (OMB) that killed the bylaw.

Ask Price Boost

TORONTO (CP) — The chairman of Carling O'Keefe Ltd. of Toronto asked shareholders at the annual meeting Wednesday to write to Premier William Davis, requesting him to allow higher beer prices.

Buffalo TV Stations Dispute CRTC Ruling

OTTAWA (CP) — A lawyer representing three Buffalo, N.Y., television stations told the Federal Court of Canada Wednesday that cable television operations are a provincial jurisdiction.

Gordon Henderson argued that the federal government was particularly careful not to include cable distribution systems in the Broadcasting Act because it did not have authority to deal with the systems under the British North America Act.

He said the CRTC "had no business to interfere at all," with what cable companies did with the signals they received.

The three American stations, WGR Channel 2, WBEN Channel 4 and WKBW Channel 7, had sued Rogers Cable TV Ltd. for deleting the commercials. After the suit was launched, the CRTC amended the cable licence permitting commercial substitution, at Rogers' request.

Mr. Henderson protested to the panel of three judges that the CRTC not only acted beyond its jurisdiction in amending the licence but interfered with litigation by stepping in with the licence amendment.

Roman Wall Foundation For College

TORONTO (CP) — At the end of the 19th century, they tore down part of a Roman wall in England, brought the 2,000-year-old bricks to Toronto and placed them in the ceiling of a building downtown.

If the building had been the latest, it would have been one of the greatest sights on the continent—modelled after a famous European cathedral.

But in 1924, the project was abandoned.

Today there is just a vast room with a magnificent hammer-beamed ceiling and a rectangle of foundation vaults for what was to have been the Cathedral of St. Alban-the-Martyr.

It was planned by John Strachan, Anglican Bishop of Toronto, who founded what now is the University of Toronto. He collected gifts of land and money for the cathedral in 1841, but died before a site was chosen.

A site was agreed on in 1865 and in 1867 its cornerstone was placed.

The crypt was built in 1880. The great chancel containing the altar and the choir stalls was built in 1891.

In 1921, Queen Victoria's son, Prince Arthur, then Governor-General of Canada, laid the cornerstone for the second stage which was never built.

The original $500,000 a stimated cost soared to more than $3 million by 1921.

Sir Henry Pellatt, who was then building Casa Loma as his home, was chairman of the finance committee to raise funds to complete the second stage, but failed.

In 1929, fire destroyed most of the interior of the building and some said it was a sign from heaven that God was fed up with the project. The bishop said it was God's way of drawing attention to the uncompleted cathedral.

But the project was finally abandoned in 1935.

Now Tourists Visit Birthplace of Stalin

Ten years ago, foreigners were discouraged from visiting the birthplace of Josef Stalin in Gori, Georgia. Today, it seems to be part of the Soviet drive for tourists. The original two-room cottage, where Stalin's parents lived renting a single room from the owner, is enclosed in a sheltering structure. The room retains the original, simple wooden furniture. GORI, Georgia, U.S.S.R. (CP) — Ten years ago, foreigners were still being discouraged from visiting the birthplace of Josef Stalin in the Caucasian mountains.

Today, it seems to be part of the Soviet drive for tourists. It was the second in a long list of sight-seeing projects offered recently to five Canadian journalists.

Stalin is still a controversial figure among Soviet citizens. But the Georgians are proud of him and appear mindful of the tourist appeal of the man of steel now dead for 21 years and denounced three years after his death for a regime of terror and oppression.

Gori lies a two-hour drive from the Georgian capital of Tbilisi, through thousands of acres of grape vines and other crops.

On the Gori skyline, as so often occurs in this ancient land, lies the ruin of a fifth-century fortress.

It looks down on the massive yellow museum that Stalin had built for himself before the Second World War.

In front, facing a long esplanade of trees, shrubs, pools and pedestrian walks, is the original two-room cottage where Stalin's parents lived, renting a single room from the owner.

The cottage is enclosed in a sheltering building and the room where the shoemaker father lived retains the original worn, simple wooden furniture.

Through it now on a sunny autumn day file tourists, swinging their cameras, and then passing on to the museum itself, its six rooms stuffed with mementoes.

High along the tops of the left walls, in the style of heroic Soviet art, are indifferently-done oil paintings that depict Stalin the boy, Stalin the young seminary student, Stalin the revolutionary, the escaper, the journalist, the leader.

One room is entirely devoted to gifts he received on his 70th birthday. Its centre piece is reminiscent of the displays in the Moscow Armories of the bounty sent to the Czars from abroad in another age.

All the tourists appear to be Soviet citizens, or at least from other socialist nations. But it is less easy than it used to be to tell a Soviet citizen from a visitor.

The Soviets pride themselves on the fact that this area and others like the Black Sea strip provide the most tropical facilities in the Western Communist camp, and most Communist leaders vacation in the Soviet Union.

Tbilisi's new Hilton-style hotel for tourists has gone the engineers and Tbilisi authorities say they have approached American travel agencies about getting more.

Spending by the hard-currency nations such as Canada and the U.S. remains a prime Soviet target.

The exchange rate is highly artificial at about $1.30 Canadian for a ruble. The rate on the black market is a lot more advantageous, but that is a dangerous game to play.

Aside from the one-sided exchange rate, the Soviets charge 15 per cent for cashing traveller's cheques. Tourists who carry cash make their money go farther—although one Canadian journalist had his pocket picked about midnight outside a bar.

Moscow and Leningrad seem sophisticated in handling large volumes of tourists, many of them Soviet citizens but others from North America, Scandinavia and other parts of Europe.

Some authorities say it may become necessary to restrict public entry because of possible environmental damage to some possessions.

What is evident is a deep Soviet concern about preserving the past, much of it, paradoxically for an atheistic regime, an abundance of religious relics.

Take Sundal, a sleepy provincial town three hours from Moscow by car in rolling farm country cut by a sluggish river where peasant women still wash their laundry by hand.

Sundal was the capital of old Russia before its political power was shifted to nearby Vladimir and then to Moscow.

Sundal bought back, developing as a religious centre and today more than 30 churches still stand. The authorities have begun a museum of structures that include old obsolete Dutch-style windmills, typical farmhouses of the kind where the kulak slept on top of the big stone stove and wooden orthodox-style churches whose onion domes are covered with curved aspen shingles—aspen chosen because as it aged, it affected its juvenile tracery.

Sundal is an icon-lover's delight and a sample of the kind of territory that the Soviets are suggesting may become more available to tourists.

Diving Under Polar Ice Barrie Man's Specialty

VANCOUVER (CP) — A diving expert says the Oct. 30 Arctic crash of an airplane carrying 34 persons pointed up the need for continued emphasis in Canada on polar diving activity.

Other factors to be considered in planning for underwater work beneath the ice, said Dr. Joe MacInnis of Barrie, Ont., are 1,057 commercial airline flights a month over the North Pole and oil and gas explorations and recovery in the Arctic.

Dr. MacInnis, 37, became involved with undersea research while studying at the University of Toronto medical school in the early 1960s.

He has been associated with experimental diving programs sponsored by the United States Navy, the Smithsonian Institution and the National Geographic Society. He also served navy divers as medical director and then consultant to a U.S. diving firm.

He now heads the James Allister MacInnis Foundation, which he founded as a non-profit organization in 1970. The foundation was named after his father who was killed in an air crash when Dr. MacInnis was only six months old.

The foundation has organized four Arctic expeditions backed and assisted by oil companies, private foundations, equipment manufacturers and Can-Dive Services Ltd., of North Vancouver. It has logged about 600 dives through the polar ice.

Dr. MacInnis said he envisages a diving suit much like a suit of armor.

"It has been tried before but never with success because designers looked in the wrong kind of metal. The best flexible joints. Now it can be done."

Dr. MacInnis said oil and gas exploration in the north and recovery of fuels there will call for diving skills even though recovery will probably be attempted by pipeline.

Whether the pipelines should be suspended in the sea or buried in the seafloor, nobody quite knows. Whatever the solution, divers will be needed for certain tasks," he said.

Divers in the north would also be called upon to recover bodies, cargo or place flight recorders that went through the ice as a result of air crashes and sea accidents.

FIRST MAJOR JOB

Phil Nuytten, president of Can-Dive, said his firm's underwater work on the salvage job for the Lockheed Electra which crashed Oct. 30 of Melville Island was the first chance to put its knowledge of Arctic underwater conditions to work on a major basis.

He said the firm, which employs 40 divers and operates about $10,000 worth of special equipment, including underwater cameras and closed-circuit television systems, is engaged in several offshore oil exploration projects on Canada's East Coast.

Can-Dive was working on a contract to do diving for a major oil company in waters off the Beaufort Sea, which would be its first major Arctic offshore job in oil or gas exploration.

Dr. MacInnis said divers have been made in winter to test an underwater acrylic and aluminum alloy habitat. He said the habitat was of particular interest to his work while he was a guest of the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

"They have done polar dives but have done very little development work."

He said many of the dives performed in the Arctic have been done in winter darkness. On one such dive he and a companion lost their bearings and were thrust into one of those situations where even the most experienced diver must rely on Lady Luck to survive.

"You get an upwelling of fear and you have to fight it down. If you give way, you are in real trouble.

"It was the last dive of that series and lights that had been sitting on the sea floor under ice hole in the ice had been removed. We had been going up and down so routinely without tethers that we had accepted that the final dive would be no different.

"Anyway, we found the hole again within a few minutes, though it seemed like hours at the time."

The foundation's most recent expedition was made during a two-month period last spring. Some 50 divers took part in the trip which discovered black holes in the sea bed off Resolute on Cornwallis Island.

Dr. MacInnis said the holes held oil residues from spills made during the transport of fuel supplies to Resolute, a port in the Northwest Territories.

The holes killed all organisms approaching them, showing the long-lived toxicity of hydrocarbons in those waters."

He said another surprise for the expedition was discovery of fresh shafts of fresh water descending from surface sea ice to the sea floor.

The columns were formed by pools of water collecting on the surface of thawing sea ice, draining downwards and then refreezing below in the brine, which is colder than 32 degrees Fahrenheit.

Melted surface ice would be fresh water because the salt would have leached out. You can melt and drink one-year-old sea ice.".

Dr. MacInnis said the Arctic is one exploration front where women divers have shared in the laurels of modern discoveries.

He said having women in an expedition team largely made up of men is simply a management decision, not one involving romance.

High School Wrestlers In Spotlight at Quinte

When the Belleville Firefighters present their High School Wrestling Tournament at Quinte Secondary School Saturday, there is little doubt one of the top teams in attendance will be that representing Cobourg Collegiate Inst.

Central Ontario Secondary Schools Association champion in 1972, the Cobourg team recently proved its worth in an invitational tournament at home.

The host school put on an impressive performance, collecting a total of 161 points in the competition, while taking top honors in seven of the 14 weight classes. And Cobourg East added three seconds

So adept were the tourney winners, their point total was better than three times that of runner-up Trenton Collegiate, which finished with 33. Thirteen secondary schools were represented in the tourney.

Individual winners, and some boys to watch for at the meet here, were Steve Williams in the 99-pound division; Ross McKendrick, 106-pound; Leo Regna, 139-pound; Dan

LARRY FRITZ

Ware, 141-pound; Carlie Doucett, 148-pound; Servais Vander Heyden, 178-pound, and Mark McNamara, 199-pound.

There were 125 wrestlers competing in the annual event.

Belleville Fire Department's Larry Fritz, co-ordinator for the Saturday tournament here, expects to have about 250 first rate high school wrestlers taking part.

Seven schools from the Bay of Quinte area will be represented along with Cobourg and Kingston.

First plans to make the Belleville Tournament an annual event, giving the high school matmen the chance to improve their skills.

The show is scheduled to start at 10 a.m.

It should prove very entertaining.

The price is right too. Adults 99 cents and children 25 cents.

Don't forget to pick up your program on the way in.

SLICES — Costco bowling establishments provide an outlet for about half the whopping total of 62,000 youngsters registered with youth bowling in Canada.

Top registration in the country is that of Thompson Lanes in Thompson, Manitoba, with 725 involved in the Youth Bowling Council program.

But when one begins to break figures down on a perlane basis, the leader is close to home.

According to a release from Association of Canada, the four-lane operation at Canadian Forces Base Trenton has 233 children registered.

Turning quickly to our abacus, we find that the average per lane at CFB is 58. Closest any other centre comes to that is the average of 39 by Plaza Lanes, Toronto.

Some random thoughts on Toronto Maple Leafs' efforts in last night's National Hockey League game against the amazing Eagle Vachon and the rest of the Los Angeles Kings who are anything but predictable to the throne:

The Norm Ullman-centred line with Gary Sabourin and Ron Ellis on the wings is going well. Sabourin, the Perry Sound native, is working on the right side where his skills are following the rule left shooters. Ellis who has been up and down that flank since joining Leafs in the 1963-64 season.

Norm Ullman comes back on ice, off the sick list of Neil Kornadoski," is your quote of the evening, courtesy of play-by-play man, Bill Hewitt.

Thanks, Bill. It brightened the proceedings.

The "We want Shack" chant goes up in the second period and the fans are rewarded with the Entertainer's first appearance of the night.

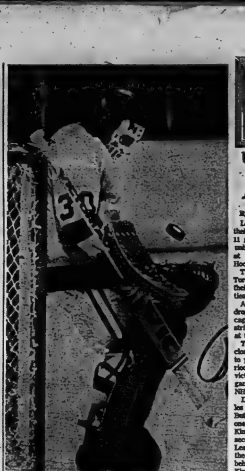
As the game progresses and Kings' lead grows, Leafs continue to be frustrated.

On this night at least, Kings are far too good for our side. And it's getting to be a habit, no matter who Bob Pulford's L.A. team plays.

If there was "spin-berama" Shack to provide the excitement for the faithful. He puts Leafs on the scoreboard with regularity, a gift in other ways with his rambunctious checking.

Comic relief it isn't. Shack is serious business.

And how about Clair Alexander?



If the former Ontario Hockey Association Senior A defenceman can't play centre as or better than a couple of the so-called pivot defencemen on show last night, we'll eat one of Frank Selke's hockey hats.

The guy can shoot the puck. And what is more, he hits the net.

Trenton's George Ferguson!

Like many other Leafs, Fergie had his chances but couldn't find the mark.

Shack's contribution earns him selection as the game's third star behind Vachon (No. 1) and L.A. winger Butch Goring.

Rogie Vachon—Great As Usual

Blazers Can't Break the Jinx

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vancouver Blazers have broken just about everybody's rules in their recent rally but they can't seem to break the Hewe jinx.

The Blazers opened the World Hockey Association season with a home stand against Houston Aeros, Mark Howe, with an assist from father Gordie Howe, opened the scoring in that contest which ended with a 6-6 tie for the Aeros.

Last month, the Aeros again visited Vancouver and Gordie Howe started the scoring in a 6-1 Houston victory.

Wednesday night, the Blazers appeared to have broken the pattern by opening the scoring and taking a 2-1 lead. But then along came Gordie and Mark, scoring second-period goals within a 38-second span and Houston was off to a 5-2 victory.

In other WHA games Wednesday, Quebec Nordiques beat Edmonton Oilers 4-3 in overtime and New England Whalers defeated Minnesota Fighting Saints 3-1.

Houston remains the only division leader the Blazers haven't beaten in their second surge. Gobly into Wednesday's game at Houston, Vancouver had won six of its last seven games, including victories over Houston and Quebec, two first-place clubs, and the other division leaders.

The Aros lost the Blazers at the bottom of the Canadian Division, just one point behind Edmonton. The Aeros' win increased their Western Division lead to 11 points.

The Aeros again showed no mercy for former team-mate Don McLeod who was guarding the Vancouver goal. Houston Coach Bill Dineen said:

"Larry Lund had three assists for the Aeros, giving him 62 points this season—even with Winnipeg Jets' Bobby Hull at the head of the scoring race.

Tim Sheehy scored two goals on the only two shots he had in the first period to lead New England over Minnesota.

Mike Byers raised the Whalers' lead to 3-0 in the second period before Mike Walton finally beat New England goaltender Chris Abrahamson early in the final period. It was the 18th goal for Walton who was wearing a football-type face mask to protect a broken nose suffered in Minnesota's 4-3 victory in Toronto Tuesday night.

Steve Sutherland scored in the first minute of overtime to give Quebec the win over Edmonton.

The game at Quebec drew 10,864 fans.

Other Nordiques goals came from Serge Bernier, with his

MARK HOWE

16th of the year, and rooky Real Cloutier with his 17th.

Marc Tardif, playing in his second game for Quebec, scored his 13th goal of the season, his first as a Nordique.

Ken Baird scored Edmonton's first goal in the second period. Bruce MacGregor and Mike Rogers scored for Edmonton in the third period, evening the score at 3-3, and forcing sudden-death overtime.

Flyers Clipped

DETROIT (CP) — Detroit Junior Wings erupted for four goals in the final period Wednesday night to defeat Niagara Falls Flyers 4-1 in a Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League game.

The Flyers carried 1-0 lead into the third period before Detroit tied the game. Gary Cowdrowski set Ken Morrow then added insight.

Intelligencer Sports

Unbeaten in 11 Road Games

L.A. Kings Are No Pretenders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Los Angeles Kings are showing their undefeated road record to 11 games while Atlanta Flames' unbeaten string at home ended at 13 in Wednesday's National Hockey League action.

The Kings beat injury-plagued Toronto Maple Leafs 4-1 for their sixth win to go with five ties on the road this season.

At Atlanta, the Flames dropped a 5-2 decision to Chicago Black Hawks, ending the string of 16 wins and three ties at the Omni.

The Kings, playing their close-checking, defensive style to perfection in the first two periods, scored only their third victory over the Toronto in 26 games and eight seasons at Maple Leafs.

Dan Maloney gave Los Angeles a 1-0 first-period lead and Butch Goring broke a two-all tie one with Bob Nevin while the Kings were short handed in the second period. Goring faked Leafs goalie Dave Wilson out of the net and dumped the puck in behind the netminder for the Kings' first shorthanded goal of this season.

John Wright gave the Kings a 3-2 lead midway in the second period before Eddie Shack got Leafs' only goal and Goring then made another rally in the third period but failed to beat Kings' goalie Rogatien Vachon.

Leaf winger Bill Flett said it was too much to expect that the club had left its disastrous early-season slump when even though Toronto was undefeated in its last three games.

We'll Be All Right

"Coming out of something like that just doesn't happen overnight," said Flett.

Vachon won only seven of 27 games while the Kings have 15 wins in 26 games and moved back into a tie with Montreal Canadiens for the Norris Division lead.

Chicago, ending a three-game losing streak, broke loose with a second-period goals by Jim Pappin, Cliff Koroll and Dennis Hull to take a 3-2 lead.

The Hawks, still trailing first-place Vancouver Canucks by 13 points in the Smythe Division, also got goals from centres Stan Mikita and Ivan Boldirev while Tony Esposito and Brian Bellveau scored for the Flames.

The schedule of Solomar Parish, as published below, has been taken from Mrs. Richard Alden Knight's Solomar Tabloid. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best spot each day has to offer.

"Despite all our injuries and the tough record, we really haven't been playing all that badly," said Chicago coach Billy Reay.

"Then we got our injured players back in the lineup all at right," said Reay, whose club has missed the services of centres Pit Martin and Dave Tallon and defencemen Bill White and Keith Magnuson.

It was the Flames' fifth straight loss.

"You can't blame what's happened to us on injuries," said Atlanta coach Bernie Geoffrion, whose club has also been plagued with injuries.

"They have had nothing to do with it," said Geoffrion. "Once you have substitutes sitting on the bench, they are not amateur players, they are pros and they are supposed to be able to play in this league."

Pro Hockey Big Business Says Eagleson

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Hockey League Players' Association strongly supports government intervention in professional hockey under the watchful regulation of a revised Business competition policy, association executive director Alan Eagleson told the Canadian banking committee studying the proposals Wednesday.

Mr. Eagleson's position was the direct contrast to that of the crested last month by NHL president Clarence Campbell, who predicted an end to professional sports leagues if the proposals are enacted.

The government proposes to bring professional sports under the authority of the Combines Investigation Act for the first time. Stiff penalties, including jail terms, would be applied for conspiracy, agreements to combine, agrees or arranges with another" to limit a player's opportunity to participate in a league or to play for the team of his choice.

Originally, the same provisions were to apply to amateur sports. However, Corporate Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet, whose department is sponsoring the legislation, announced last week that he would introduce separate laws dealing with professional sport and to place under combines legislation, professional sports is big business like any other.

"Professional sport is not a business; it is monstrous business."

He cited that example of the sold in 1970 for about $2 million before being resold earlier this year for a price just about double that of the original sale price in 1970."

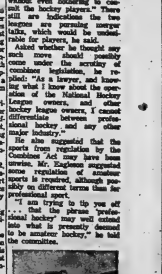
Knights Rally For Win

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — London Knights rallied from a 5-0 first-period deficit for a 6-5 victory over Kitchener Rangers Wednesday in an Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior Hockey League game before 2,210 fans.

Dennis Marak led the Knights with two goals, including the clincher into the empty net as time ran out in the final period.

Other London scorers were Rick McIntyre, Bill Beauchamp, Vern Stenlund and Ron Zanussi.

Rocky Schnurr, Dwight Parker, Mike Yemerack and Dan Diakivic replied for the Rangers.



Marak started the Knights on the road to victory with a third-period goal. London then struck for three unanswered goals in the second period for a 4-3 lead.

The Rangers had an opportunity to tie the game after the last put the mid-way mark of the third period when London's Dwight Schofield received a triple minor in a scuffle with Diakivic.

But the Rangers had few opportunities as the man advantage for four minutes.

The Knights, who outshot Rangers 53-37, lost goaltender Mike Karmenis with a back injury 33 seconds into the second period. Substitute Dave Jenner stopped 22 shots over the final 40 minutes.

Karmenis was taken to hospital with a suspected strained

Rangers Here Friday

Focus on Cats

By MIKE BRADSHAW
Sports Staff

The Belleville Bobcats have won three games in a row now, and should they take their game Friday it would be their longest win streak of the season.

They've won five of their last six outings. In the last three games they outscored the opposition 24-6. Included in that number is a 9-1 victory over the North York Rangers, Friday night the Cats take on the Rangers at the Memorial Arena at 8 as it's about certain they'll gain another two points.

The win on Friday would give Belleville an 11-10-1 (won-lost-tied) record and at least allow them to remain tied for third place in the Metro Junior B Eastern Division standings.

For some players though, it'll be more than just another game. Steve Enoch will be in Friday night's lineup and it will be his first game back, with conditioning, following his illness. Enoch played last Friday and counted two goals and this evening, he'll be after his season's total to seven goals and five assists. However these 12 points are only after four games.

Friday Enoch will be taking to the ice with last week's game and two Cat practices under his belt. No telling what he can do with a little confidence.

Missing from Friday night's roster will be Neil Turner. He took four stitches in his elbow after the game against the Rangers on Tuesday. The gash was immediately next to the bone and Bobcat trainers can't even get an elbow pad on over top of it. However, as Russ Bone says, "It doesn't make sense to risk further injury to the elbow for a game like this one (Friday)."

BLICKS — Write on the subject of defencemen (Turner's position) coach Bob Taylor had words of praise for, who were signed earlier in the season and quit to come back as he can have a second look at them. Paul Flag was one. Another is Defence-man Vern Acoy. Boyle reports however, that Acoy has been creamed off his head at hockey. Vern Acoy never showed up at either of the Cats' practices.

The Bobcats coaching staff and management are planning for the future. Among their plans is a system to groom young, local talent for future years, one player that fits in well in this system is 15-year-old Terry Thompson. Thompson, a goaltender with Yarmouth Minor Midgets is just over six feet tall and, while he still has some filling out to do, the Cats' management says he has "marvel of steel".

The Cats still have another year left in all of both their present goalies, Brad Clark and Bob Moore. A little family planning never hurt anyone though.

Season's tickets holders shouldn't be surprised if they are stopped and checked closely at the door for all the Belleville home games. It seems about 40 of the 300 yearly passes have been reported missing. Snipe Malthews is left with no other option but to tighten gate security.

December 22 is the night to remember for Bobcat action. Not because the locals are at home to take on the red-hot, Kingston Canadians, but because that's the night of the 2000 Blue Line Club draw.

Also that particular evening, Labatt's, representative John Cousins, will be on hand to make the presentation for November's Player of the Month. Who is it? You'll have to come to the game to find out.

Karen Rouse pivots under the opposition's basket in Wednesday night's Belleview Ladies Basketball League game at BCI. There doesn't appear to be any opening for a pass as Carol Corneiller covers from the rear and Gabi Corneiller moves in from the front. Rouse's team won the game 54-28.

Basketball for Women Popular Sport at BCI

After a year's absence from the local sporting scene, the Belleville Ladies' Basketball League has returned bigger and better than ever.

This is the third year of operation for the city organized recreation program. This season there are about 30 participants between the ages of 18 and 26 divided into four teams. The number of active players is growing with every outing.

The ladies who take part in the activity must be over 18-years-old and must be out of secondary school. They play every Wednesday night in the BCI gym.

In last night's action, White upended Blue 54-28 and Green outlasted Red 44-32. The win by White combined with the loss by Red left the two teams in a tie for second place in the standings with four points each.

Green's victory gave them sole possession of first place with six points.

Nancy Birch came through with 20 big points for White and teammate Donna Patterson was right behind her with 18. Next was Dawn Smith with six, Carol Northey with four and Karen Rouse, Nancy Wasville and Marg Scanlon with two each.

For Blue, Gabi Corneiller was tops with 19 points. Linda Belanger had five, Janet Whalen, Sally Dollack and Norma Broadbear had four apiece and Fran Pindell got two.

Red held a 20-16 lead in the first half of their game, but Green came back and outscored them 28-12 in the second half for the win.

Carolyn Schofield led the winners' attack with 16 points and Lorna Brearley had 12. Sheila Alexander hooped eight, Elaine McGrath got six and Carol Mott added two.

Ann Lietar was tops for the losers with 12. Carol Sellers had 10 and Joan Watson got four. Julie Brasier and Carol Jones rounded out the losers' scoring with two each.

Lanier Leads Attack on Bullets

Pistons Score Basketball First

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Detroit Pistons, led by Bob Lanier's 37 points, beat Washington Bullets 103-89 Wednesday night, the first triumph by a National Basketball Association Western Conference team over the hot Bullets, leaders in the Central Division.

"The Pistons played a whole lot of a game," said Washington coach K.C. Jones. "When you have to play against a guy like Bob Lanier, you just hope he has a night off. He'll get his 30 points no matter what you do."

The record, incidentally, broke a three-game losing streak and marked the first time that Detroit had held an opponent under 100 points in the seventh straight time.

"Now, all we've got to do is put together four or five games like this back-to-back," said Detroit coach Ray Scott.

In the night's other NBA games, Philadelphia 76ers beat Houston Rockets 102-96, Phoenix Suns beat Portland Trail Blazers 104-98, New Orleans Jazz beat Golden State Warriors 106-98 and Cleveland Cavaliers defeated Seattle SuperSonics 97-95.

In the American Basketball Association, New York beat St. Louis 117-96, Memphis defeated Kentucky 104-97, Utah defeated Virginia 115-91 and Denver beat Indiana 117-114.

Lanier sparkled in his duel with Bullets' centre Elvin Hayes, scoring 10 points in the third period as Detroit rallied up a 73-59 advantage.

Curtis Rowe scored 12 points in the first quarter and ended with 18 to bolster the Piston attack.

Phil Chenier was high for Washington with 18 points, while Hayes finished with 15. The loss broke a six-game Washington winning streak.

Reserve Clause Challenged

NEW YORK (AP) — When Bobby Tolan signed a two-year contract Monday with San Diego Padres, it didn't end the Major League Baseball Players' Association's challenge of the reserve clause, lawyer Richard Moss said Wednesday.

Tolan played the entire 1974 season without signing a contract, and Moss said the players' association maintains that when he finally agreed to terms with the Padres, it was as free agent.

When Tolan did not sign for 1974, his contract was renewed by the San Diego club under the reserve clause, which the association is challenging.

Judge Denies Bid by Carter

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Rubin (Hurricane) Carter's bid for a new murder trial was denied Wednesday by a judge who said he believed two key witnesses were lying when they recanted their testimony which convicted the former boxer.

Superior Court Judge Samuel Larner, who presided over the trial which resulted in the convictions of Carter and John Artis for a 1966 triple slaying in a bar at Paterson, N.J., denied a new trial which the two sought on grounds of new evidence.

The new evidence was revealed in October by New York reporter Selwyn Raab, who said the two witnesses now were saying they had lied at the 1967 trial in exchange for favorable treatment of pending criminal matters against them.

Alfred Bello and Arthur Bradley admitted this during an evidentiary hearing in November. But Judge Larner did not believe the two, who said they had been coerced into lying when they identified Carter and Artis as men carrying guns outside the bar where the killings occurred.

Domed Stadium Discussed

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Public officials are dusting off plans for a domed stadium in Niagara County, this time with an eye out for attracting a major league baseball franchise.

City manager Morton H. Abramowitz of Niagara Falls said the prospects for the stadium will be discussed at a meeting Friday in nearby Lockport, the county seat.

"We will be discussing ways and means of going about constructing a domed stadium somewhere in the county," he said.

Attending will be members of the county legislature and city officials from Niagara Falls, Lockport and North Tonawanda.

Abramowitz said he and Lockport Mayor Raymond C. Retsch met last weekend with John Diller, president of the New York State Sports Authority.

The meeting was encouraging, Abramowitz said.

Edward H. Cottrell, a businessman in the nearby Buffalo area, attempted five years ago to get Erie County to build a domed stadium for baseball and football. The project fell through and the county eventually built a football-only facility for Buffalo Bills.

But Cottrell is reported still interested in obtaining a major league baseball franchise.

"We can't get a stadium without it," Abramowitz said, "and they can't get a franchise without a facility."

2-1 Victory Not Enough for Ajax

By Reuter

Ajax Amsterdam, less than three years ago the undisputed rulers of European soccer, made a meek exit Wednesday from the European Football Union (UEFA) Cup competition.

The Dutch team won 2-1 over Italy's Juventus but was eliminated because it lost the first round, first-leg game 1-0 two weeks ago. The aggregate score was 2-2 after Wednesday's tie, but the Italians advanced to the quarter-finals because they scored the only away goal.

Juventus forward Damiano Tram was the hero. He scored the winning goal in the first leg and converted on a first-half penalty shot in the second game before 34,000 fans in Amsterdam's Olympic Stadium. The Italians' 1-0 defeat by Ajax in the 1973 European Cup final.

The win in 1972 gave Ajax its third successive European Cup triumph, but since then Johan Cruyff has moved to Barcelona and the club's fortunes have declined steadily.

But there was consolation for Holland when FC Twente Enschede and FC Amsterdam advanced.

Voyageurs and Wings Get Key Wins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nova Scotia Voyageurs and Virginia Red Wings had something in, resumes Wednesday night after American Hockey League action had ceased.

Each team regained second place in its respective division, the Voyageurs defeating Syracuse Eagles 4-1 and the Wings blanking Baltimore Clippers 3-0.

A pair of goals by Ron Andruff paced the Voyageurs, who moved one point ahead of Rochester Americans. The Nova Scotia team still is six points ers of the Northern Division

After Joe Noris had given Syracuse a 1-0 lead, Nova Scotia's Pete Sullivan tied the score and Jim Cahoon capitalized on a power play to put the Voyageurs ahead 2-1 in the second period.

Andruff's first goal also came on a power play and his second was into an open net with 43 seconds remaining while Syracuse goaltender Lyle Carter watched from the bench.

The defeat was the fifth in succession for the Eagles, who are nestling in last place in the southern section of the league.

Brian Murphy's two goals within three minutes in the second period, broke Clippers' four-game winning streak and vaulted the Wings one point ahead of Richmond Robins, who were idle.

Baltimore remained in first place in the South, however, three points ahead of Virginia.

And, despite rumors to the contrary, the Clippers will be at home Saturday for a showdown with the Reds from Providence.

The Clippers called a news conference Wednesday to reiterate their intention of continuing operations in the AHL.

Disturbed by rumors that a World Hockey Association team would replace the one in Baltimore, Zantril Krieger, Clippers' board chairman, said "the Clippers are in business and we intend to stay in business."

Krieger admitted, however, that the club needed about 4,000 fans at home to remain solvent. The season's average attendance had shrunk to about 2,700 this year from 3,300 last season.

'Canada' Before It Was Born Stretched Far to South

By JACK TRACY
The Canadian Press

Canada is a vast area on any map but what is the new edition of The National Atlas of Canada show it as it might have been.

Two years before the American Revolution—in 1774, believe the country was known as Canada—a map shows territory that might have been Canadian, stretching far south of the Great Lakes and taking in much of what now is the United States Midwest.

The maps on the territorial evolution of Canada, from 1867 to the present, are only a small part of the 334 pages of maps and graphs, all in color, in the atlas.

This handsome book, 14½ by 10 inches, is the work of many people, most of them civil servants. It was started as a revision of the 1957 Atlas of Canada and that book was a successor to the first national atlas of Canada published in 1906 by the department of the Interior. Canada was the second country in the world to put out such a volume—after Finland in 1899.

In a preface, editor-in-chief Gerald Fremlin asks "How are the attitudes and behavior of an individual affected by his mental image of the land in which he lives?"

The maps provide the image, from a relief map of the whole country to cage showing the distribution of the labor force—it is greatest in the Great Lakes region and along the St. Lawrence River.

Other maps show the density of population—densest close to the U.S. border. Still another indicates why—most of northern Canada is covered by ice or permafrost.

While the book deals with such varied matters as the extent of glaciation and the location of sawmills, it goes into history too. It shows the voyages and travels of explorers and geographers from that of the Spaniard Gomez in 1525 to the work of Canadian Charles Camsell in 1905.

As might be expected, a set of economic maps shows oil and natural gas fields most numerous in Alberta but an insert mapping the sedimentary rocks where oil and gas might be found shows possibilities in vast areas of Western Canada, the Arctic and the continental shelves on both East and West Coasts.

The meticulous editing of the book extends to place names and feature names, all of which have been officially approved by the Canadian Permanent Committee on Geographical Names.

The book contains a dedication by Prime Minister Trudeau who describes it as providing "a window on the pageant of Canada's progress, not only for Canadians but for all the peoples of the world."

The atlas, published in English and French, is under a Crown copyright in the name of Information, Canada.

The job of printing was done by Aitkin-Paterson Ltd. on opaque natural white paper and Rumtz Roos Co. has bound it in buckram.

While the book is of a size and handsomeness to grace a coffee table, the price of $35 indicates it will be in many libraries than living rooms.

The National Atlas of Canada, edited by Gerald Fremlin, 334 pages, Macmillan is a production with the department of energy, mines and resources and Information Canada.

Cobourg Was Study Area For Planners Almanac

TORONTO (CP) — An almanac of planning ideas for small communities is to be published following a study of the man-made environment in the Port Hope-Cobourg area by industrial designers from 34 countries.

Besides the almanac, designers have produced a magnetic planning board on which ideas can be tested by removing or adding model buildings.

Some designers in the study done earlier this year suggested changes which could be made by communities and citizen groups. Among them were conversion of railway lines into pedestrian boardwalks, transformation of alleys behind stores into pedestrian marketplaces and linking parks, shorelines and other public spaces with trial Design.

Port Hope and Cobourg are about 45 miles east of Toronto.

...ulties' views and problems through local briefs presented at public meetings before the study.

Railway lines cut...communities off from the shore of Lake Ontario and Highway 401 was a barrier to industrial, residential and recreation development in the north, designers found.

The Ontario ministry of industry and tourism was the major sponsor of the project sanctioned by the International Co-ord...of Societies of Industrial Design.

Canada Manpower Counsellors Cope with Massive Layoffs

VANCOUVER (CP) — ways and ... Being laid off, after years of serving a company is a problem. Worse is being one of more than 200 workers seeking new jobs after the shutdown of a plant or a mill. There also is the problem of lost wages and supporting a family.

In the last year 130,000 British Columbia and Yukon workers facing such problems

A "Manpower assessment company, the union and the incentive agreement" among provincial labor department Canada Manpower and the was signed to clear the way for consideration of all possible ways to help the employees find jobs.

The agreement said that each party recognized its obligations to the other parties involved and that obligations and rights related to the collective agreement would not be affected by the agreement or subsequent joint consultations.

Following in-plant interviews conducted by the UIC, Manpower and union officers, employees were grouped into the following categories: The job-ready; those wanting further or more specialized counselling; those wanting no assistance; the disadvantaged and disabled; those seeking jobs elsewhere in the same company.

A variety of resources was made available to assist each group, and all actual job-finding and training action was authorized by the second meeting of the committee.

Meanwhile, the company was persuaded by the team to continue its plywood operation beyond the Nov. 30 deadline on a week-to-week basis allowing the committee and agencies to finish their work.

The result was that within two weeks of the closure date, every employee either had a new job (this was the largest group) or was engaged in some kind of training.

"No one went on unemployment insurance," says Mr. Thomas. "The actual cost of operating the committee came to $2,876. . . ."

He said that total cost to the public, including commissaire' fees and all special expenses, totalled $34,000.

Pie-Kill Contracts For Raids

NEW YORK (AP) — Chief Agent Rex Weiner takes his assignments seriously and guarantees the client who has contracted for his services a direct-hit every time.

In the last several months, Weiner and his 12 attack men have zapped dozens of unsuspecting victims—with lemon meringue, banana cream and occasionally shaving cream pies.

These are the agents of Pie-Kill Unlimited, an organization that considers it a high duty "to stamp out pomposity and its weak fight-hearted havoc."

For a fee of $40 and up, depending on the risks involved, Weiner's crew will throw a pie of negotiable flavor in someone's eye at offices, conventions and birthdays.

"I strongly recommend a pie in the face. It's great therapy, especially for the unbearable ego," said 29-year-old Weiner, a former underground newspaper publisher.

Some of Weiner's trained agents are former Yippies, the pranksters of the radical left who tried to grab newspaper headlines years ago with things like marijuana smoke-ins.

Recalling the stunts of his more political days, Weiner said a week after the Watergate burglary he and his friends "bagged" Republican offices in New York—by releasing thousands of cockroaches at the headquarters of the Committee to Re-elect the President.

"Then I decided that politicians shouldn't have a monopoly on dirty tricksters," said Weiner who formed Pie-Kill Unlimited in June.

"We cater to the private sector now."

Weiner assures his clients of the best quality pies. The flavor is up to the client, but Weiner recommends the cream pies for the most delightful results.

"I prefer lemon meringue but there's something very esthetic about the way the bananas in a banana cream pie arrange themselves on the face," said Weiner, "exclaiming from his own experience that a blueberry pie can be painful.

Weiner prefers to be approached by mail and then sets up a meeting with the client at a public place to guarantee confidentiality. The client must agree to all cleaning costs which can be kept to a minimum by using shaving cream pies instead of the tastier but more staining versions.

Pie-Kill Unlimited has a chief of protocol, as well as a technical adviser who is called in for consultation on special cases, if the victim happens to wear glasses, for example.

"Then the upper thrust or the crown hit is the preferred method to the flying direct smash," said Weiner. He al-

Oil Discoveries Bring Threat of New Problems

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. (CP) — Ever since Esso Exploration Ltd. struck gas off the Labrador coast this fall, there have been hints of an oil boom for Newfoundland.

However, a conference on the possible impact of oil development held at Memorial University was warned that if such development proceeds too rapidly, the only boom in store for the province could be the sound of the economy exploding under the stress.

Experts from Canada, Norway and Britain exchanged viewpoints and information on the consequences of oil and gas in the North Sea area off the United Kingdom.

The question of how to control the rate of oil and gas development dominated panel discussions.

Rapid development, it was said, would pose threats to a relatively under-developed economy such as Newfoundland's and could also destroy the province's traditional way of life.

Political economist Max Gaskin of University of Aberdeen, outlined the conflict which confronted Scots as energy-going area of Scotland suddenly found itself with a highly-powered oil industry.

"The geography of the oil discoveries in Scotland is such that the impact of the offshore operations is falling on areas of the country least prepared to withstand it," Prof. Gaskin said.

The oil had been discovered off a section of Scotland where population was sparse and the economies relatively underdeveloped.

"This means that labor availability is not very great; infrastructure such as local government capable of providing housing is not fully developed, and social services that had existed are not up to demands now being placed upon it," Prof. Gaskin said.

He said that even in a place like Aberdeen, a city of 250,000 with many necessary services and labor markets, great stress had been put on social and economic situations.

Industries which had settled in Aberdeen before the oil strike now found themselves drained of workers and the inability to provide housing was causing many social problems.

Prof. Gaskin said officials were just overprepared for the speed of development from the first oil strike to the introduction of affiliated construction and service industries.

Prof. Gaskin suggested that many of the difficulties experienced in Scotland were due to the fact that "things were happening so fast authorities were often merely reacting to a situation rather than being in control."

But the situation is not hopeless, said Prof. A. Jackson an economist with University of Edinburgh.

For instance, the Shetland County council had been reasonably successful. Councillors explored the islands to find out which would be the area of minimum impact and found one area, which they zoned for industrial development.

"They received a couple of million pounds from the oil companies for local industrial development and this will be increased over the years," Prof. Jackson said.

The anthropologist noted this would be particularly significant in terms of Labrador, especially the town of Makkovik, 50 miles from one of the gas discoveries.

"What are 200 or so people there going to do during this period of exploitation of the gas and oil reserves?" he asked.

Prof. Jackson said the Scottish situation was similar to the Newfoundland situation in that "we have a population dependent on traditional activities such as fishing, knitware and crofting, or tenant farming—a very small industrial base."

It was this kind of area which was least prepared to handle such a development.

Ted Anderson, chairman of the Makkovik Community Council who attended the seminar, agreed.

He wanted to know how many local people would likely be employed in future offshore exploration and development, and whether there would be a viable fishing industry for the 250 residents of the village once the oil boom passed.

While there were no immediate answers for Mr. Anderson's questions, the experts agreed these concerns should be central to any study of development potential.

Cabot Martin, legal advisor to the provincial mines and energy department, said the differing views on the rate of development were at the crux of jurisdictional discussions between the province and Ottawa.

"The province wants the development to go slowly, while Ottawa wants a faster pace of development," Mr. Martin said.

Mr. Martin said that the federal government at present does not recognize federal production permits. Eastcan Exploration had only the province's permission to explore. He said production guidelines would be based on Norwegian experiences.

O. Kvinnsted, editor of a Norwegian oil industry publication, said that in Norway there were strict legislative controls. Certain areas were out of bounds to all companies and any proposed construction site would be examined more than 100 people must first receive permission from the central government.

Mr. Kvinnsted suggested that the federal and provincial governments try to keep a similar rein on oil development, letting it proceed only when it was determined the best move for society.

Steve Millman, director of energy resources for Newfoundland, said the discussion of development may be entirely academic in Newfoundland's case.

"Ice conditions off our coast and weather conditions generally will keep much development to a minimum," Mr. Millman said.

Drilling operations off the coast are often halted by ice conditions, including icebergs that number about the northern seas.

Easing Pot Penalties Proposed

OTTAWA (CP) — A Senate bill to ease penalties for marijuana and hashish offences probably will not create the public furore some had expected, says Senator Joan Neiman, sponsor of the bill.

Initially, there was misunderstanding about the bill among senators and the public when it was first introduced in the Senate last month, said Senator Neiman (L—Ontario).

Some senators had grumbled that the bill would make drugs available to anyone who wanted them, she said in an interview.

However, since her speech introducing the bill for second reading, in which she emphasized that the legislation is to make the marijuana laws more just, several senators have told her they see the issue in a new perspective, she said.

Senator Neiman, a legal-aid lawyer who says she has seen first-hand the harmful effects of amphetamines on young people, said distressing social and legal consequences can fall on young offenders and their families under existing laws.

While no one was denying that the so-called soft drugs might be harmful, the government still was charged with the responsibility of drafting sensible legislation in an area where challenge, contradiction and refutation were occurring.

The bill, now being debated in the Senate, is expected to go to the justice and legal affairs committee for detailed study in January following the Christmas recess.

The bill will go back to the Senate for third and final reading, and then will be referred in the House of Commons and scrutinized again in committee.

Employer Suggests Workers Get Voice in Work Patterns

VANCOUVER (CP) — The president of the Vancouver Council of British Columbia says B.C. should experiment with giving workers a share of responsibility in determining work patterns.

William Hamilton said in an interview that under such an experiment financing and achieving production goals should remain the prerogative of top management.

Mr. Hamilton recently returned from Scandinavia where joint action of management and worker representatives is often used to set company policy where the welfare of employees is affected.

He said he was impressed by the comparatively low incidence of labor strife and fewer job turnover.

Mr. Hamilton said work councils—joint labor-management groups in factories—have been informally carried on in the Scandinavian countries for some time but now appear to be spreading to other areas. Legislation is planned in Sweden which would make it mandatory for every company to accept the right of its work council to decide how the work in that enterprise will be done, and what demands will be made on the workers.

"Everybody agrees it will be one of a very few pieces of labor - management legislation," said Mr. Hamilton.

Functions which were once the responsibility of management will, with the new legislation, become the responsibility of joint councils.

"Up until now management has had the right to make the final decision in running an operation. Management will no longer have the sole right to determine how the work will be done," said Mr. Hamilton.

He said he understands the system will be designed to establish working patterns to suit individual industries.

Mr. Hamilton said he learned Scandinavia on his own because he had felt for some time he wanted to see how the system there worked and whether it could be translated into a farm which would work in B.C.

He said this province's New Democratic Party government "may have translated one feature by placing the final authority in a variety of disputes in the hands of the new, labor - relations board" but apart from that "it is almost completely a question of attitude."

He said there is almost no legislation in Scandinavia regarding labor relations.

There is legislation regarding such matters as hours of work and injury compensation "but none of the specifics we have in the provincial labor code."

Intervention by government in management-labor relations has been avoided in favor of direct dealings between the two groups in reaching their own solutions to their particular problems.

Mr. Hamilton said that when bargaining does break up, the labor council decides what it considers the agreed increase for all. After the collapse of the steelworkers' talks in this country, they used the agreement in member companies and unions which are mostly industrial in Norway and Denmark and see "blue-collar, white-collar and professional" in Sweden.

"The increase being sought is basically percentage but also can be a per-hour increase. Each industry is free to develop its own pattern but the total increase must be within the agreed framework," said Mr. Hamilton.

"This is important because there has been continuing pressure to equalize wages within an industry and from industry to industry."

Ottawa Indian In Origin

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa is an Indian name. At least there seems general agreement on that point. What the name means is another matter. There are theories and theories, all of them different.

Before 1827 the present site of the capital was known by many names, including Chaudiere Falls, Richmond's Landing and Nepean, the last after the township in which it was located.

In 1827 plans were made to build a town where the Rideau canal joined the Ottawa River. The town was named Bytown after Col. John By, the man in charge of building the canal.

In the 1850s, with the hope that Bytown would be chosen the capital of Canada, the citizens started a movement to rename their town. They wanted to change the image of a logging settlement associated with fighting and riots, to a name suitable for the capital of a new country.

Queensburg was proposed because Queen Victoria would be selecting the site of the capital.

In 1855 the name Aberdeen was proffered in honor of G. Hamilton Gordon, the Count of Aberdeen, a British cabinet minister.

The name Sydenham was suggested in honor of the governor, Lord Sydenham.

In 1856 the Bytown Gazette suggested an Indian name, Ottawa. own council supported this choice in 1857.

Some say the name Ottawa originated with a tribe of Indians on Manitoulin Island in Georgian Bay.

It was first recorded in 1632 when Father Gabriel Sagard went to live in an "Algonkin" village that we also called ruined hair."

The village was called that because of the way its inhabitants combed their hair. French pronunciation of Algonkin may have modified the name to Ottawa.

Another interpretation of the word is "those who have ears." The Indians in this area are said to have been noted for their large ears. Others say their ears were naturally small but the Indians attached weights to stretch them.

WAGAR — In loving memory of a dear husband, grandfather and friend, Oscar Eric Wagar who left us December 13, 1972.
Our hearts are filled with precious memories, that we will treasure forever.
—Lovingly remembered by his wife Ethel, daughter Mary Ann, son-in-law Ralph, Trudy, Nancy, Jamie and Heidi.

DAVIS — In memory of our dear wife, Margaret Davis who passed away December 13, 1971.
As we loved you, so we miss you.
Your memory is our treasure.
Your loved one, longed for always.
—Ron.
Memory many a silent tear,
Sadness remembered by husband Jack.

WAGAR — In memory of a dear husband and father, Oscar Eric Wagar, who left us suddenly, December 13, 1972.
Sad and lonely many second miles
Long since you left us, dear husband.
Memories bring a legacy of comfort,
Treasured hour that never die.
And softly from the heart of home I cry.
—Sadly
Our Dad's voice grows soft and dim
In the watching of our hours,
But his memory across
It has a strong lifelong grace.
Memories are blue,
And all sorrow will turn to joy.
—Treasured memory until we see him again, his daughter Fran-ces and granddaughter Tammy.

Aries (March 21-April 19) Don't try to impose your ideas on others today. If you cause resistance, change the subject. Back off a few steps.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) An arrangement you have had with another that was of dubious value is not likely to endure. It will be terminated abruptly.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) You'd be wise to seek the best legal counsel available before signing any contracts or documents that could bind you legally.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Fate yourself so that you are in the command of your work and it's not in command of you. So what if it all can't be finished today?

Leo (July 23-Aug. 23) Avoid a friend who always tries to up-stage you. She will do it again today in front of others, much to your chagrin.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your moods will cast a shadow over your entire household today if you put on a long face. Let your more sensible self prevail.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Plan your day carefully so you won't be doing unnecessary running around. If you don't make appointments, you won't find people in.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You tend to be careless with your possessions today. Something could get lost or stolen. Don't leave things scattered about.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You will let others direct you today in situations where you should be leading them. Nothing very fruitful can result.

Capricorn (Dec. 23-Jan. 19) You still have a tendency, at this time, to rely too heavily on people who aren't all that dependable to begin with.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Someone whom you are very fond of and see eye-to-eye with on most issues, diametrically opposes your views. Be careful.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Think all your moves through carefully today, or you could do something which would make you put on a long face. Let you look bad in front of others.

Breweriana Collector Has Variety of Items

NEWTOWN, Conn. (AP) — Will Anderson, for whom beer took on a "new lustre" while he was in college 13 years ago, has built his taste for beer memorabilia — or breweriana into mammoth proportions.

One day in 1961 Anderson and his roommate at Drexel University were "tired of bored," the 35-year-old collector recalled.

A pile of empty beer cans nearby—the remains of a recent party—caught their attention. They decided to see how many different types of beer cans they could find.

Today, two rooms in Anderson's home are filled with about 3,000 cans, 450 trays, 1,000 embossed bottles and about 100 pre - Prohibition poster - calenders.

He collected many of the containers by buying six-packs of beer. Others came from junkyards, antique dealers, flea markets and other collectors.

"I really didn't like the taste of beer as a teen-ager," said the hobbyist, who earns his living as a book club director.

"But when I went to college and went out with the guys with only $1 in my pocket, beer took on some new lustre."

The value of individual items in his collection ranges from less than $1 to a top of $100 he was offered for a gallon can of 1935 vintage. He didn't sell it.

In the last five years he has downplayed his interest in cans and increased it in trays, some of which go back to the late 1800s.

"The trays have really escalated in the last five to 10 years," he said. "For a good, solid condition pre-Prohibition tray you could pay up to $100. The bottles and trays, I think, have found their way to being considered respectable antiques, while beer cans have yet to turn the corner."

Boy Freed, Men Missing

Moncton Police Likely Abducted

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — One man was arrested today following the kidnapping of a 14-year-old Moncton boy but two police officers believed abducted by the kidnappers were missing, police said. The boy was released unharmed after his father paid $15,000 ransom.

Police said a car and a quantity of money had been seized at the time of the arrest which took place in Moncton.

The arrest came about 12 hours after Raymond Seale, son of prominent Moncton businessman Cy Seale, was kidnapped in his home by two armed and hooded men when he and his grandmother came in late Thursday night.

The ransom was paid by Mr. Stein early today and the boy was released unhurt.

Moncton police chief C. M. Weldon said the kidnappers "lied to the grandmother up and kidnapped the boy."

"Later on they got in touch with the father and demanded ransom for the boy, amounting to $17,000.

"Then was a drop off of the money and the boy was returned to the father around 3 a.m.

"In the meantime, we had an extensive search going on that led in the Riverview area. And we've got two policemen that haven't been heard from since about 3:15.

"The last we heard, they were going to check a car out. They were in a private car. They had a portable radio. The car was found around 9 o'clock in the morning in the area of Salisbury. But we haven't heard anything else."

Salisbury is about 30 miles west of Moncton.

The two officers, both married and with children, are Corporal Aurele Bourgeois, 47, and Constable Michael O'Leary, 33.

Asked what police suspected concerning disappearance of the men, Chief Weldon said:

"Personally, I feel that when they went to check this car, they were met at gunpoint or something like that and they could have been taken as hostages for the getaway.

"Hopefully, they'll kick them out shortly and make them walk back."

Police have no solid leads on where the kidnappers might be. There are no detailed descriptions of the kidnappers, although the grandmother said she would be able to identify one of the voices of the two men in the house.

She was not harmed.

Mr. Stein's elderly mother said in an interview today that she and her grandson, Raymond, arrived home Thursday night and were confronted by two masked and armed men who grabbed the boy and drove off.

"We didn't see him again until four o'clock this morning."

She said the events were "so exciting and confused that I can't remember what was said."

She said she was sure the two were Indians.

"I'm confused about what happened next but I think they went back with me one by phone and asked for the ransom and I told them that it was $17,000.

"And I'm so happy about the boy being home safe and unharmed that I can hardly remember much of anything.

"First there was the awful moment when the men suddenly appeared and took Ray and then the long wait for news and finally when we got him back."

Mrs. Stein said her father said the kidnappers called him at his seafood restaurant and told him they demanding money for the release of his grandson. They specified an amount.

"We didn't have any fixed figure so we compromised," Mr. Stein said in an interview.

"We arranged a rendezvous and I gave them the dough," he said. "They took it and released him."

Mr. Stein passed over the ransom in small bills.

Ray is the Stein's only child and a graduate of Moncton's Irishtown Junior High School.

Mrs. Stein's father, Mr. Seale, said:

"He surprised me," he said.

Trouble with Angels

Even angels have trouble sometimes, especially if they're taking part in a Christmas pageant and everything has to be just right. So at Thursday night's presentation at Queen Victoria School it was not surprising to see Judy Young making some last minute adjustments to her halo, as Wise Men Gary Ray and Christopher Little looked on.

Coin Flaw Found

OTTAWA (CP) — Coin collectors and speculators are manipulating the market for their own profit, a spokesman for the Olympic coins committee said Thursday after a third flaw in the coins series was discovered. Dana Doiron, the committee's public relations spokesman emphatically denied that the Royal Canadian Mint would make an error on purpose to help boost sales.

No New Airport Likely

TORONTO (CP) — A final report of a committee on the Toronto Island Airport says there will not likely be a new lakefront airport in the foreseeable future. The report, tabled in the Ontario legislature Thursday, said studies should begin immediately on the feasibility of keeping the Island airport open for general aviation services or converting it to a short-takeoff-and-landing STOL airport.

Congress Rushes Aid For Idle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Congress is making toward passage of emergency programs to help the country's jobless while killing multi-billion-dollar tax legislation to deal with other top economic concerns.

Congress took three quick steps Thursday to broaden and increase unemployment compensation and one decisive step to halt proposals to tax petroleum profits more heavily and to provide tax relief for persons with low and moderate income.

In other economic news:

—Wholesale prices rose 1.2 per cent last month, down sharply from the October rate.

—President Ford was urged by key auto industry officials and union leaders to stimulate the economy by pressing for income tax cuts next year;

—The Business Council, comprising some of the top U.S. corporate executives, forecasts a significant improvement in the inflation rate during the next six months;

—The agriculture department's annual outlook conference anticipated no cost relief for farmers and consumers through the middle of next year.

Congressional action to help the unemployed followed the announcement earlier this month that unemployment in November jumped to 6.5 per cent, its highest level in 13 years, with nearly six million persons out of work.

A bill authorizing $7.5 billion to assist the jobless was passed by the Senate and sent to the House of Representatives. The measure includes $4 billion—twice President Ford's suggestion—to provide 2m estimated 230,000 public service jobs.

The House passed similar legislation

Caouette Declares He Bribed Newsmen

OTTAWA (CP) — Social Credit Leader Real Caouette stunned the Commons Thursday night by saying he has paid reporters for news coverage.

His payments included $28 monthly over three months to a CBC reporter and $75 to "a newspaperman to have an article . . . in a certain Quebec newspaper," he said in an unexpected interruption of normal Commons business.

The CBC was the only news organization named in the Commons statement, which left other politicians incredulous.

But Conservative Mr. Caouette said he thinks he "bought" more than something by a CTV television network reporter.

He took the unusual step in the Commons of naming Roch LaSalle (PC—Joliette) as an MP he suspects of similar practices. The Quebec Progressive Conservative criticized Mr. Caouette's comments earlier this week about shady deals involving politicians.

"I wonder a little if he didn't contribute himself to paying the costs for his personal publicity in the province (Quebec), be they French or English newspapers."

His comments, punctuated by shouts of "shame" from some of the two dozen MPs present, followed his claim two days earlier that some members of the Parliamentary Press Gallery accept payment to carry news reports.

"Yes, shame!" he replied to the shouts. "On top of that, I gave $50 cash over three months in all to a reporter of the CBC . . ."

Referring to the alleged payments to the CBC reporter and to the newspaper reporter, he said:

"I gave $28 to one guy, I gave $150 to another guy. I had better results than when I wasn't giving."

Kerr Delays Outlining Why He Wants Probe

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Solicitor-General George Kerr will release details early next week of reasons why the province wants a federal government inquiry into the Seafarers' International Union (SIU), a spokesman for Mr. Kerr said Thursday.

Mr. Kerr has written a letter to federal Justice Minister Otto Lang, outlining the reasons and asking for an inquiry. It was originally believed Mr. Kerr planned to table the letter in the legislature Thursday.

But the spokesman for Mr. Kerr said the solicitor-general is waiting until he is sure that Mr. Lang has obtained the letter, before it is made public.

Mr. Kerr also was asked in the legislature whether he has found out where Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—High Park) obtained his information about a police wiretap on a SIU telephone. Dr. Shulman sparked the current controversy about the SIU with his allegations in the legislature.

Mr. Kerr said he is satisfied that Dr. Shulman did not get his information through a leak in the solicitor-general's department, but an investigation is continuing and he expects a report on it before the end of the year.

Licence Suspensions Planned for 5 Charges

TORONTO (CP) — A bill to provide compulsory driving licence suspensions for convictions of traffic offences under the Criminal Code was introduced Thursday in the Ontario legislature.

A mandatory three-month suspension would be required for all first offences and six-month suspension for each following conviction within five years.

Transportation Minister John Rhodes told the legislature the proposed changes in the Highway Traffic Act also contain other matters.

One would require existing school bus stopping laws to apply to all highways, regardless of speed limits. The law requiring motorists to stop, behind buses now applies in speed zones greater than 80 miles per hour.

The traffic offences under the Criminal Code are criminal negligence in operation of a motor vehicle, causing death or bodily harm by criminal negligence, manslaughter, impaired driving, failure to provide a breath sample and driving with more than 80 milligrams of alcohol in 100 milliliters of blood.

Alberta Cuts Oil Royalties and Refunds Tax Share

CALGARY (CP) — Premier Peter Lougheed announced Thursday a six-point program to bolster the sagging Alberta oil industry and called on Ottawa to make further concessions to resolve the resource-taxation battle.

The industry responded favorably to the program, which includes reduced royalty rates, refund of the provincial share of federal taxation on royalties and incentives for exploratory drilling.

John Payzer, president of the Canadian Petroleum Association, said the industry would be able to get on with its job and hoped the Alberta measures "lead to further compromises" from Ottawa and the other producing provinces.

Mr. Lougheed also told a news conference that the price of domestic crude oil—now averaging $6.50 a barrel in Alberta, which produces 85 per cent of Canadian oil—will be increased after this winter.

The premier did not specify when, how much and by what method it will be increased, but industry officials, who met him before the announcement Thursday, said the initial price increase would likely be $2 a barrel.

In Ottawa, Finance Minister John Turner said taxation cuts by both the Alberta and federal governments should put the industry in "a healthy position" and asked the other producing provinces to take similar measures.

Mr. Turner called the Alberta move "both responsible and responsive" but gave no immediate indication whether Ottawa would moderate its stand further.

In the Saskatchewan legislature, Mineral Resources Minister Elwood Cowley said he will make a statement "in the very near future" while opposition Liberals demanded the NDP government take similar measures.

In Victoria, Premier Dave Barrett said the steps taken by Alberta would not be appropriate for British Columbia, which he said will not act on petroleum prices until it has completed its study of natural gas reserves.

Zoning Change Frees More Trenton Land

TRENTON — More land for housing in Trenton will become available once existing hazard land designations in the town official plan are changed, Quinte Planning Board director Frank Stakmann told a group of developers and builders here Thursday.

Mr. Stakmann spoke at a public meeting called by the Trenton Suburban planning Board to outline the extent of proposed changes.

Hazard land designations in the plan were strongly opposed by town builders earlier this year. The builders contended the designations from most of land needed for development.

A plan amendment, presented Thursday, provides for the removal of nearly all hazard land designations in Trenton. Only narrow strips along both banks of the Trent River and Marlowe Creek, and the Bay of Quinte shoreline will be classed as hazardous.

Following a recent switch in ministry of natural resources policy, such land will be classed as high hazard.

Only two low hazard areas will exist in Trenton—north of Bloomfield and southeast of Parkview Height in west end.

Such areas would not require provincial approval for development. Either a site plan or subdividers agreement between a developer, and town council and the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority will be needed. Land near Parkview Heights will be available for housing.

Proposed removal of the designation north of Dixon Dr. and east of Sidney St. will free additional land.

In Trenton's northern limits, major changes have been proposed that will open new industrial lands.

The only major concern expressed Thursday was with the width of the high hazard zones along the river banks.

Dunbar Ltd. manager Frank MacKenzie said his company is puzzled over the exact width of the strips. He said he has heard various figures for the distance which builder must remain away from the river bank.

"We're kept dangling," said Mr. MacKenzie. His company has been considering expansion at its present site toward the north and the river banks.

"Our hands are tied. We can't finish Dunbar's plans for future." He said the hazard designations will affect any decision to remain both in their present location and in Trenton.

Mr. Stakman said the key factor in the zone is in mapping of the rivers flood plain — that area that could be subject to flooding.

His width will not be determined precisely until the conservation authority completes mapping the area, he said. A report is expected in 1976.

Showing a Change

Quinte Planning Board deputy director Frank Stakmann sets up map of Trenton to illustrate to a group of 15 town developers and builders changes in the town's official plan. During an outside public meeting Thursday, Mr. Stakmann outlined a change in provincial policy dealing with hazard land designations. An amendment to the plan is near completion at the local level.

Dutch Mill to Re-open Following $100,000 Blaze

TRENTON — Workmen have begun to repair the Dutch Mill Inn here after fire ripped through the two-storey motel Nov. 17 and caused an estimated $100,000 damage.

The early Sunday morning fire in the Dundas St. East motel was deliberately set, an Ontario Fire Marshal's Office investigator said the day after the blaze.

Owner of the motel, Ken Murphy, said Thursday he expects the motel will be back in full operation at the beginning of 1976.

The motel is not entirely closed. Apartments in two buildings at the rear of the property are still being rented on a monthly basis.

Only some 25 units in the main building were forced to close by the fire, started in five separate areas in the motel's basement. Four of the five took hold.

Mr. Murphy said he did not know why he was the object of the arsonist's work.

He said he did not know if the $100,000 estimate of damage is correct. "The insurance is paying for it," he said.

A spokesman for town police said Thursday the cause of the blaze and the identity of the arsonist are still being sought.

Baxter Canning Co. Takeover Proposed

BLOOMFIELD — Certain Class A and Class B shares of the Baxter Canning Co. Ltd. of Bloomfield have been bought from the Baxter family by, Harden Farms International Ltd. and negotiations are in progress to purchase the remaining Class B shares from other shareholders.

The stock constitutes about 45 per cent of the company's outstanding voting shares.

C.H. Franklin, chairman and chief executive officer of Hardex says his firm plans to continue the Baxter practice of preferential treatment for local growers. Many are Class B shareholders in the company.

The Baxter Canning Co. Ltd. was established in 1930 and specializes in Prince Edward County's principle factory.

Donald Baxter, general manager, will continue with the company as operations coordinator.

The Baxter factory brought brand names such as Silver Ribbon and Green Valley to prominence and has packed private label lines for retail chains.

It is expected all present products under control by Baxter will be continued.

Mr. Franklin says Hardex plans to increase the productive capacity in the food market in Prince Edward.

The company has no plans to remove growth from the area, at present growers. Instead, efforts will be made to develop further farms for growth and processing at Baxter.

Majority ownership of Hardex Farms is held by Algonquin Building Credits Ltd. Also, Hardex has a subsidiary company, Federal Diversipiez Ltd., formerly Federal Farms Ltd.

C. H. Franklin, chairman and chief executive officer of Hardex Warren International is also president of Algonquin Building Credits Ltd., chairman of the board of Federal Diversipiez Ltd. and owner of Mountain Lake Farms on Glenora Road near Picton.

Donald Baxter, who still retains a substantial financial interest in the Bloomfield canning company expressed optimism for the firm's prospects.

He said Hardex's offer will permit long-time shareholders to find a market for their shares.

Also, through Hardex's plans, present grower-shareholders through their holdings of shares of common stock will be able to retain their financial interest in the company and have a voice in its management-says Mr. Baxter.

Deloro Appeals Levy

DELORO — This village, with about 230 residents believed to be the smallest incorporated village in Ontario — is appealing the basis for its contribution to Hastings County government operations.

A principle objection, Reeve Douglas Lynch told county council this week, is inclusion of provincial government resources grants part of municipal assessment when figuring the amount local governments should pay the county.

His also protested use of 1973 mill rates as a basis of decreasing contributions to next year's county levy on municipalities.

Municipalities with higher mill rates in that year then are being penalized, he said.

Deloro's appeal, he said, is being lodged with the Ontario Municipal Board.

Carl Bateman, county administrator, said he welcomes the appeal. The individual levies had been apportioned to county municipalities according to directions of provincial treasury officials; he said.

The situation in part stems from the fact that property assessment values have increases for several years awaiting production of a province-wide assessment based on true market values.

The Association of Municipalities of the ONES with the problem and may either bring in change in current legislation on how levies should be drafted, or a speedup in the market-value assessment process.

New Members Named

Mines Setback

Layoffs because of faltering markets are one thing, but when disaster strikes, such as the big fire in Thetford Mines the other day, the economic loss can be much more far-reaching.

The Quebec community of course is noted for asbestos, but now more than half of its mine and mill workers are out of work following a $40 million blaze at one of the biggest asbestos mills in the region.

There is encouragement though in Energy Minister Macdonald's pledge of federal assistance in rebuilding the mill. And this, spurred by the fact of an asbestos shortage.

Encircled by high heaps of asbestos tailings, Thetford Mines may not draw such an exotic nickname as the "Cornish Alps" applied to similar mounds from the tin mines of Cornwall in England.

But a young businessman from the community, bilingual and one of the few Anglo-Saxon residents, returning from a trip overseas, once paid his own tribute in these words: "It's a dump, but it's home."

His business, incidentally, is supplying equipment to the mines, so rebuilding will be in his interests too.

Ottawa Ceremony

Well-deserved was the Order of Canada awarded to Whipper Billy Watson in a recent investiture at Government House.

Mr. Watson was honored for his contribution to professional wrestling and his work with crippled children.

He has been to Belleville in the latter capacity, addressing the Rotary Club which shares in this worthy endeavor.

The one-time wrestler received his award from Governor-General Leger with whom he might be said to have something in common — in triumphing over adversity. Mr. Watson was hurt in a car accident some years ago, while Mr. Leger has just resumed his duties after convalescing from the stroke he suffered June 8.

In all, 59 Canadians were invested into the Order which is recognition of work well done and distinction achieved in many spheres of service and professional life.

Cancer Threat

Want to live longer — and without suffering a lingering and painful death? Then hear this from Dr. Bernard Roswit, speaking at the Radiological Society of North America annual meeting in Chicago — his theme a study on the effects of smoking begun in 1958 at veterans' hospitals.

"A man who smokes two packs a day has about as much chance of surviving as a bull in Spain," says Roswit, adding that women, who of course are smoking in droves these days, are increasingly susceptible to death from lung cancer.

The medical scientist cites an American Cancer Society estimate that 91,000 persons will be stricken with lung cancer in 1975 and that 81,000 will die of the disease during the year.

Cigarette smoking, he says, is almost entirely responsible.

A Canadian Win

Sandra Post has won another golf tournament — her first, that is, since away back in 1968 when she was only 19 and won the American LPGA event.

This time she has won an international event in Melbourne, Australia. It bore the impressive title of the Far East tournament, but geographical misnomer or not it was worth $13,000 to the Canadian girl.

The Oakville native had been on the tour since short time when she beat veteran Kathy Whitworth for the LPGA title. She has been plugging away ever since, and finished third on four occasions this year.

Having a she said "dream" opportunities to win those ones too on the final day, Miss Post is not knocking the money aspect but savors the win itself even more.

"Golf for women is a hobby no idea what this win means," she said. Indeed it has been a win not only for Canada — but over herself.

With her confidence restored, it will not be surprising if she wins some more.

U.S. Envoy's Warning

Third World Majority Jeopardizes Future Of The UN

BY BRUCE LEVETT

WASHINGTON (CP) — The future role of the United Nations—indeed, its continued existence of that body as a force for peace—is being brought into question here in a growing controversion between the United States and countries of the Third World coalition.

With the 30th General Assembly in its waning days, U.S. critics of that body say that it was State Secretary Henry Kissinger—and not a high UN official—who negotiated the country between Israel and the Arabs.

And they cite UN inaction in dealing with international terrorism as a further example of disarray within the assembly.

An example of the schism developing between the "major" powers, primarily the U.S., and the Third World countries within the UN came with the warning by U.S. Ambassador John Scali that the world body should beware the "tyranny of the majority."

His contention was countered by Algerian Ambassador Abdelaziz Bouteflika, who declared that too long has the "European minority" held sway. He urged Western critics to move forward with the main current in the UN "without regrets for the past that is gone," saying that an "unchanging organization is condemned to death."

Seventy-seven of the 138 members of the U.S. Senate, in a letter to President Ford, deplored the prominence given the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) when the UN allowed its chief, Yasser Arafat to speak there.

For this, and other reasons, said Senator Henry Jackson (Dem. Wash.), "the continuing life of the end" of the UN might be in sight.

Senator Hubert Humphrey (Dem. Minn.) added: "It is entirely possible that the UN as Investment Of Arab Oil Profits Has Some Elements Of Mystery

By KEVIN DOYLE
The Canadian Press

After a year of controversy over the long-term effect of international oil prices, a growing mystery is developing about precisely the products the states have been doing with their new-found wealth.

The confusion has deepened in recent months as economists poor over a revealing set of figures prepared and released in Belgium by the European Communities.

These indicate, that, among other things, the size of untracked surplus funds accumulated by the producers has declined by about 48 per cent of the total from 15 per cent in the first half of the year.

They also show the predicted figures are both investing and importing far more than was originally forecast and that the over-all surplus of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) is likely to be $1 billion for the year instead of the 80 billion earlier expected.

Taken together, these findings have produced profound confusion for the oil-importing countries and for the West as a whole.

Much depends on what is happening to the unaccounted-for share of the surpluses. The bulk of it may be going directly to undeveloped countries in the form of aid and investment, some experts believe.

This would be welcomed by developed states since the aid recipients would then want to increase imports, easing the strain on the payments balances of the oil consumers.

But, a second possibility, one which has already caused disturbances in the stocks market, is that OPEC funds may be going to finance powerful cartels in other raw materials, paving the way for another round of increases in economic turmoil and multiplying the strains on developed imports.

Thirdly, some experts believe the "mystery money" may be moving quickly into the market, a fact OPEC funds may be going to finance powerful cartels in other raw materials, paving the way for another round of increases in economic turmoil and multiplying the strains on developed imports.

The Arab states, in particular, see wide scope for investment in countries such as Canada and Australia which offer large development opportunities but are reluctant to give too big a scope to U.S. firms.

Some members of OPEC funds being used to finance new cartels with given some weight this week when the African coffee producers, suffering heavily from high oil prices, were nevertheless able to announce they were withholding 30 per cent of their stocks from the market and financing the stockpiling to force up prices.

Most European economists, however, believe the bulk of the untraced surpluses is being loaned directly to undeveloped countries with a smaller amount being accounted for by joint undertakings, despite the investment fund directed at the Arab world.

These trends added to the unexpectedly high increase in the cost of imports by the producers and their relatively high rate of domestic investment this year, have two main implications for consumers.

In the first place, they may mean developed countries' exports will be higher than expected in the next couple of years into reserve.

But in the second, it will likely also mean that the amounts of surplus oil money available for recycling to consumer countries to cover their energy deficits will be correspondingly smaller.

If these projections prove correct, then it will likely also mean that the present attempts of statesmen to set up elaborate recycling schemes to deal with the deficits may prove sadly behind the times and that much more-fundamental policies will be needed.

The chilling prospect of moreastringent energy-saving measures than those exist may also have to receive serious consideration.

A Weak Response At The Polls

Peterborough Examiner

When only a shade over 30 per cent of the eligible voters make the trek to the polls, there is something very wrong with the voters, the system or both.

To be as unqualified as is possible, we should take into account all the factors that might make legitimate excuses for the non-voters.

Most visible was, of course, the weather. It was terrible. The snow and cold kept a lot of people home, who otherwise might have struggled to their polling booths. Elderly voters and those with physical handicaps must be completely absolved of any guilt. Although citizenship imposes the obligation, it should not demand acts of life and limb in civic elections.

To the jibe of the blameless, we can add people who were honestly baffled by the whole election affair, people who have never learned to mark election ballots, people who loved all the candidates equally and people who were out of town for both advance polls and regular polls.

Even with all these deductions, we are still left with quite too many eligible voters who preferred, for reasons of their own, to leave one of the most important of their obligations to someone else. Unless they were physically incapacitated in some way, they really don't have an excuse.

Tomorrow the Victorian Order of Nurses Committee is making its annual tag day appeal for funds. This year has been unusually difficult financially, with increased calls on the nursing service and decreased in fees due to the straitened conditions of many patients.

Those who visited the Percupine mining camp in 1911 when the camp was in the first flush of its golden glow can hardly realize that one million dollars constitutes the monthly payroll in wages of workers in and for the mines there.

The Prime Minister's Home Life And Affairs Of State In Ottawa

BY RICHARD JACKSON
OTTAWA — If you know him well enough, ask Pierre Trudeau's neighborhood MP what is going on behind the government scene in Parliament.

Preferably for the purpose of your enquiry, the MP should be a Liberal, because he is in a position to have some inside info.

But this situation has become so much the social talk of the Commons — prime topic of gossip in the lobbies — that any Conservative New Democrat should be pretty well clued in.

What is going on is that wondering Liberals are worrying about what is happening at 24 Sussex Drive, the official residence of Pierre and Margaret Trudeau, and whatever it may be, what influence will it have on the performance as Prime Minister.

For in recent weeks just about the only impression of the Prime Minister coming through clearly to most of the legislature is of his handling of her problems and frustrations.

And problems and frustrations there surely are.

She made that clear herself four times.

Once when she blurted out to reporters - to the unconcealed irritation of the Prime Minister — in Montreal's Royal Victoria Hospital, that she "did been underweight" during her emotional stress.

The second time when she gave that incredible interview on TV full of lamenting about the burdens of being the wife of a Prime Minister.

The third time when she announced the books that there is more to life for a young woman than homemaking, that she was going to further her own career as a photo-journalist.

And the fourth time when she announced that so, she had changed her mind, or that it was all an invention, and she was not going to work for Canada's Expo Magazine.

Add it all up into the total, which most include her campaigning from the election platform last fall, and her trip and jaunt to Japan as the guest of Tiny Rowe, long adopted millionaire, and it comes out that she is now, like it or not the Canadian equivalent of Jackie Kennedy Onassis.

She is Canada's what Princess Anne and Mark are to the Brits.

Simply the best soap opera in public view.

So the problems and frustrations are out there on display for all the taxpayers to see and the politicians to ponder

CP News Roundup

New Rules On Uranium Sales Near

OTTAWA (CP) — A new federal policy expected to stiffen safeguards on foreign sales of nuclear materials will probably be announced next week, Energy Minister Donald Macdonald said Thursday.

The tougher safeguards, under consideration by the government for the last six months, were discussed at the regular weekly cabinet meeting Thursday.

But Mr. Macdonald said it is a complicated proposal and he could not comment until the government decision is announced. He said he hoped it would be revealed next week.

Work on the new safeguards began last spring after India exploded a nuclear bomb built from plutonium produced in a research reactor built in the 1950s with aid from Canada and the United States.

The government says the Indian reactor was covered by the best safeguards available at the time. As better safeguards evolved, unsuccessful attempts were made to sign a new agreement with India.

Debate Asked

TORONTO (CP) — Tim New Democratic Party members of the Ontario legislature, including party leader Stephen Lewis, made an official request Thursday for a debate on proposals to change riding boundaries, made this week in a report by a three-man commission.

The move means a debate must be held on the report.

Permits Denied

TORONTO (CP) — Special liquor licence permits are being withheld from some Christmas office parties this year, opposition members told the legislature Thursday.

Seek Mediation

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Separate school teachers will seek mediation of their contract negotiations with Elgin County board of education, a spokesman for the teachers said Thursday.

Supply Grows

OTTAWA (CP) — Money supply—currency in circulation and chartered banks' deposits—grew by 22 per cent during the last 13 months, the Bank of Canada reported Thursday.

The growth rate is for the broad definition of money supply, which includes personal savings and term deposits.

Layoff Planned

SMITHS FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Production staff at the Hershey Ltd. chocolate plant will be laid-off for two weeks beginning Dec. 22, William Greenley said Thursday.

Mr. Greenley, company vice-president, said the layoffs are due to a lack of work at the plant.

OUT OUR WAY — by Hoy Cochrun

Santa's Visits Cost More

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Santa Claus's price has gone up this year.

The cost of Santa visits is up 10 to 15 per cent, Brantford merchants say. Santa now is charging from $3.50 to $6 an hour.

But it's the trimmings of a visit—Santa's helpers, candy canes, decorations and miniature versions of Santa's castle—that are really adding to the cost.

The increased cost of sugar has raised the price of candy canes by 25 per cent, says Joe Schmitz, operator of a Toronto firm that arranges Santa visits for five Brantford shopping centres.

Roy Renaud, manager of the city's New Lyndon Park Mall, complains that the high cost of eggs has made visits by Santa to the Mall much more expensive.

The mall subsidizes a public breakfast for Santa every Saturday during the holiday season.

Big Land-dealing Syndicate Would Be Uncurbed--Nixon

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader Robert Nixon charged Thursday that the Ontario government plans to set up the "largest land-dealing syndicate" in the province and free it from close public scrutiny.

Leading a heated debate in the legislature, Mr. Nixon assailed Treasurer John White over his plans to create the Ontario Land Corp. (OLC), a financing agency for government purchase and disposal of land.

Mr. Nixon said Bill 133 to establish the corporation would create a "monolithic economic machine" to carry out policy goals of the treasurer.

Decisions of 11 appointed directors would be reported to the legislature "in no significant way" nor would the corporation be subject to estimate debate and reviews in the house, he said.

The OLC, first proposed in the budget speech last April and introduced in the legislature Nov. 7, would be given power to buy or expropriate land which it could sell or lease to private and government groups for residential and commercial projects.

It would begin by the take over of $200 million worth of land held by housing and other ministries of the government.

"We feel it is a serious mistake with ramifications that will go on to the end of this century and beyond unless the bill is stopped or . . . the government is changed," the Liberal leader said.

Opposition members urged the treasurer to discuss the master plan for the province which might give some indication of the OLC's eventual role.

Government sources said the general plan for the province, together with disclosure of government land acquisitions, might be announced Dec. 18.

However, a plan for the central Ontario lakeshore urban area, expected Thursday, was delayed in cabinet.

That report contains proposals for cities from Oshawa to Hamilton as a part of the government's plan to accommodate urban growth in the area in the next 25 years.

Dislikes Appeals

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis said in the legislature Thursday he does not like to see appeals of Ontario Municipal Board (OMB) decisions go to the cabinet.

Mr. Davis said he would be "delighted" to see the cabinet relieved of the duty of receiving appeals against OMB decisions but "we still have not determined a better way people . . . can have some other form of recourse."

Sales Down

OTTAWA (CP) — Retail sales were down two-tenths of one per cent in October, mainly due to a decline in sales of food and consumer durables—such things as cars, furniture and appliances.

The October decline followed a drop of 2.8 per cent in September.

Talked Out

OTTAWA (CP) — A bill to abolish television advertising directed exclusively at children was talked out without coming to a vote in the Commons Thursday despite support from all parties.

Mr. White said he hopes to have the provincial master plan ready before Dec. 31.

Jack Stokes (NDP-Thunder Bay) told the minister that communities in Northern Ontario that have embarked on land-use planning on a regional basis "are actually working in a void and may very well be working at cross purposes" in the absence of an official plan for the entire province.

Michael Cassidy (NDP-Ottawa Centre) urged the treasurer to let the bill stand in committee for two or three days' hearings in January.

Mr. White, who said debate in committee on the bill would continue today, also said he would be prepared to send the bill to committee review.

Study Made Of Abortions

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Otto Lang said Thursday "some work is under way" to determine how hospital abortion committees are carrying out their duties.

He made the comment in the Commons but did not elaborate.

Plants to Open

DETROIT (Reuter) — Chrysler Corp. said Thursday it plans to reopen in January four of the five plants it shut down recently because of declining sales.

House Will Get Holiday

Petroleum Bill Postponed So Electoral Bill Accepted

OTTAWA (CP) — Government and opposition members compromised on two important bills Thursday, dissolving talk of filibusters and clearing the way for a Christmas recess late next week.

The government announced it has decided to postpone its hotly-contested petroleum administration bill until the new year, and the Progressive Conservatives agreed to accept modifications of an electoral redistribution bill they had vowed to block.

Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp, announcing postponement of the oil bill, said the parliamentary Christmas holiday, which had been in doubt, likely will begin Dec. 20. It is expected to last about one month.

He said the oil bill, which would give Ottawa final authority to set domestic oil and natural gas prices if agreement could not be reached with producing provinces, will not be changed to satisfy opposition objections.

But the government was willing to put it off until the new year in return for assurances that other outstanding bills would be cleared by Christmas.

The oil bill also authorizes the tax on petroleum exports and the subsidy to consumers in areas east of the Ottawa Valley who are dependent on high-price imported oil.

The subsidy officially lapse Dec. 31 without approval of th bill, but Mr. Sharp said othe means will be found to continu it.

The bill has been a factor i heating up the federal-provin cial resources dispute, and th opposition has said that the de lay will provide a cooling-off pe riod.

After hearing the govern ment's decision, MPs forge ahead quickly with other pro posed legislation.

In quick succession, the gave second reading—approval in principle—to bills that woul lighten the workload of the Su preme Court of Canada, defer final wheat board payments to grain growers and expand the federal law reform commission.

All were sent to Commons committees for detailed study. They must be reported back to the House for third reading before going to the Senate for the coming law.

The bills to boost the size of the 264-seat Commons to 283 by the next federal election—established in 1976—was approved by the House's elections committee and returned to the Commons.

Passage came after British Columbia and Alberta were promised one more seat each than was originally planned, the bill was challenged by the conservatives but they accepted the B.C.-Alberta modifications.

The bill now is expected to get through all remaining stages of passage.

If approved without further change, it would raise Ontario's 95 seats from 88 plus Quebec's 75 instead of its present 74, the West British Columbia's 23 from 23 and increase Alberta representation to 21 from 19.

Saskatchewan and Manitoba each with 13 seats, would go to 14 and Newfoundland's Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick would remain unchanged at seven, 11, four and 10 seats respectively. The Yukon would be kept at one seat while the Northwest Territories would gain one for a total of two.

Irvine Doubts Subsidies Will Increase Housing

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Housing Minister Donald Irvine voiced scepticism Thursday on the federal government's proposed mortgage subsidy program.

He told the legislature the plan to provide maximum $600 annual subsidies to low and middle-income families might not be effective in helping home buyers across the country.

Mr. Irvine said he would rather the federal government "supplement mortgage funds by actual funds rather than coming out with a program that does nothing whatsoever to improve the situation of mortgage funds in Ontario."

"All they have done in this instance is spread their money out very thinly. They have not supplemented their funds for housing for next year."

He was replying to NDP Leader Stephen Lewis who asked the housing minister to intervene to ensure that rental subsidies also included in the proposals would not be absorbed by developers through rent increases.

Family Planning Program Coming

TORONTO (CP) — Health Minister Frank Miller announced Thursday the provincial government will introduce a contraception and family planning information program next year.

"Local official health agencies will be made responsible for ensuring the provision of services in their community or area," Mr. Miller said in a statement to the legislature.

He told reporters later the program will cost the province about $1 million to establish.

Mr. Miller said in the legislature Ontario residents "can expect to see the program coming into full-scale operation in the fiscal year 1975 to 1976."

He said the information service will be "readily available and easily accessible" to the public and the ministry of health will take immediate action to launch the program.

Mr. Miller said sexual activity is occurring at earlier ages and to a larger extent without the formation of long-term relationships.

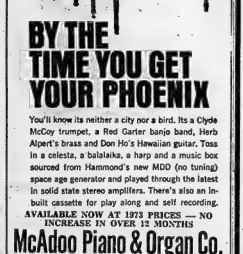
"In our society, this increased sexual freedom makes the need for the exercise of individual responsibility a matter of public concern as well as of concern to the individuals," he said.

Mr. Miller said the number of therapeutic abortions is increasing rapidly and the procedure involves some health risk.

Jews Want Culture Preserved by Schools

TORONTO (CP) — Appeals for the integration of Jewish schools into the public school system were heard Thursday by a committee of the legislature.

Rabbi Erwin Wittg, executive director of the board of Jewish education of Toronto, told the committee there is strong feeling across Canada that the cultural heritage of ethnic minorities must be preserved.



"Preservation of a culture does not mean allowing folk dances, eating ethnic food or enjoying ethnic entertainment," the rabbi said. "It means providing the educational system that is the only way to preserve a cultural heritage."

The rabbi urged Education Minister Thomas Wells to incorporate the preservation of distinct ethnic and cultural heritages by means of the public school system.

Musical Boxes Delight Glanmore Crowd

They have names like Peerless Forte Piccolo and Concert Roller Organ. They have cabinets of fine European Kingwood and burled walnut. They play tunes like "Bunch O' Blackbirds".

They're the musical boxes that entertained wealthy European and North American families from 1815 to the turn of the century and Wednesday night more than 150 persons gathered at the Hastings County Museum to hear them and listen to Frank Foley talk about them.

Mr. Foley, who collects the musical boxes, turned the cranks and made the burdygerdy go to the delight of the group.

He told them that musical boxes, which were made in Switzerland and Germany, are of two types: one uses cylinders with tin melodies, the other uses large metal discs.

Of particular metal interest, Mr. Foley said, was a large box complete with its own table called the "Sublime Harmony Piccolo Bells in Sight". The box, which features tiny silver bees striking bells, was recently acquired in Bloomfield.

Mr. Foley's interest in the boxes began "many many" years ago , he says, when his wife presented him with one as a birthday gift.

"She calls it Pandora's Box," he says, "because it started so much."

Books By And About Women

SOME ARE BORN GREAT

By Adela Rogers St. Johns

Adela Rogers St. John has spent more than fifty years as a newspaper woman and star reporter for the Hearst papers. As a feature writer she covered the Lindbergh kidnapping trial and the romance of Edward VIII and Wallis Simpson. She became a reporter at a time when very few women worked on newspapers, and she is considered something of a novelty.

In "Some are Born Great" Mrs. St. Johns writes about the famous women she has known over the years, many of whom she knew intimately.

These nostal reminiscences are woven around a slim framework of her own life. Her lively and controversial tales include Wilma Cather, Amelia Earhart, Carrie Nation, Anne Morrow Lindbergh, Bess Truman, Judy Garland, and scores of others.

Her style is witty and the book is written with compassion, enthusiasm, and affection, occasionally with anger or distaste. She takes us on a journey of discovery, showing us at every turn the extraordinary women who in often unexpected ways achieved the quality of greatness.

This book is available in Corby Library.

Study Guild Hears Cansave History

Diane Settle and Laura Ragsdale presented in graphic form the story of the Canadian Save the Children Fund to a recent meeting of the Women's Study Guild which was held at the home of Mary Jo Furlin.

Laura Ragsdale told the story of Eglantine Jebb, an Englishwoman, whose travels throughout Europe before and after World War I made her conscious of the plight of children in war-ravaged countries.

Through her efforts, the Save The Children Fund was organized in Britain and soon became international in scope. It is now the International Union for Child Welfare (IUCW).

In 1921, the Save the Children Fund was formed in Canada, and is known as Cansave. The Declaration of the Rights of the Child was drawn up by Miss Jebb and was adopted by the League of Nations in 1924, and revised and adopted by the United Nations in 1959. Following World War II, Cansave's emphasis changed from Disaster Relief to co-operation in child welfare programs to (a) help the child, (b) assist the family, (c) change the circumstances that make help necessary.

Diane Settle, who is Cansave's representative in Belleville, showed a set of film strips depicting the early work of the organization and showing how it had developed through the years. The second part of the program told of the thirteen different kinds of programs that are being carried on in 31 countries in the world — in the Caribbean, Africa, Asia, the Middle East, Europe, South America and Canada. Special projects in the Caribbean, Lesotho, Korea and Peru were mentioned. "Two thousand Canadians sponsor children in more than 30 countries in the world" stated Mrs. Settle. She showed a second film strip which demonstrated this department of the work, plus the special work [illegible] is doing in particular countries.

Many ways in which Cansave is enabled to do its work were explained and lists were given out showing how individuals and groups may contribute material and practical aids.

"Three - quarters of the world's children live in developing countries. Most of them are caught in the web of poverty, ignorance and dependency. Social development lags far behind technology. This imbalance produces seriously-deprived children who will become inadequate, frustrated adults, Aid must be more than emergency relief, development more than new industry, planning more than economic balance sheets. We need to strengthen our society with more and better nutrition, health and educational programs. For the child this means health and hope now, dignity and self reliance in the future," Laura Ragsdale said.

During the lunch provided by Josephine Tickell and Peg Kearney, members looked at photographs of sponsored children, which had been brought by their sponsors, studied the many leaflets and booklets provided by Cansave for this meeting, and purchased Cansave Christmas cards.

Wedgwood Jasper

This year marks the bicentenary of the introduction of a British ceramic known as Wedgwood Jasper. A Wedgwood ornamenter (left) puts the finishing touches to the classical figures on a piece of Jasper. Each raised ornament is hand applied by a method that has not altered for over 200 years. Wedgwood Jasper - Pottery Perfection

BARLASTON, England (CP) — This year marks the bicentenary of the introduction of Wedgwood Jasper, which, the story has it, was the result of a challenge by Josiah Wedgwood to create something more than 10,000 experiments in a long search for perfection in pottery.

Many of the trial pieces, together with Wedgwood's book of experiments, are preserved in the firm's museum at Barlaston, to which the factory moved in 1940 from the original world in Etruria, a nearby locality named after the old Etruscan pottery in Italy which Wedgwood admired so much.

It was at Etruria, that Wedgwood's interest in Roman bas-reliefs and intaglios.

The key to his success was the eventual discovery of a material known as cane, or barium sulphate. When introduced into the paste it gave a perfectly white, hard stoneware which would take such a high firing that it became vitreous in a manner somewhat similar to porcelain.

When formed this, it was translucent and had a fine, unglazed surface. When colored throughout the body was called solid Jasper. When the white body was dipped in a solution of colored Jasper it was called Jasper-dip.

By mixing coloring oxides to the paste, Jasper could be delicately stained in dark or pale blue, sage green, yellow, black, violet and other colors. This formed the body of each piece, upon which were laid "ornaments", usually in white, which were made in separate moulds and "sprigged" on, or hand applied.

Wedgwood, who alone knew the labors that had gone into its production, prized Jasper above any other of his creations.

Wedgwood realized that this non-porous, dense, porcelainous Jasper (unlike his later white "dry body" earthenware) needed no glaze, which would only have blurred the crystal clear definition of the bas-relief decorations or engine-turned patterns.

Today Jasper remains synonymous with the name Wedgwood. This range of ceramic products represents about 12 to 25 per cent of Wedgwood's total output. The pale blue and white still is the most popular (as it has been for over 200 years) in international markets, with sage green and white and black and white running a close second and third in terms of sales.

The first new color to be introduced in a full range of Jasper for nearly 200 years is Portland Blue. Launched in 1972, a modern edition of the famous Portland Vase is being produced in this color in a limited edition of 10 copies.

About 300 workers are employed on Jasper production, Besides highly specialized crafts like figure-making and ornamenting, throwing and turning, there are also the skilled processes of dipping (for glazed items) and printing and lining for special gold inscriptions and backstamps.

From 1776 until his death in 1795 much of Wedgwood's vast energy was directed to establishing his much-loved invention, Jasper, in a bewildering variety of objects. Cameos were used in settings for such diverse objects as buckles, brooches, bracelets, medallions, swords, doors, door handles, opera glasses, rings, coat buttons, smelling bottles, window shutters, chatelaines, watch panels, snuffboxes, chests of drawers, grand pianos—even hatpins!

Larger Jasper pieces include plant pots, candlesticks, portrait medallions, "tablets" or plaques, teaware (probably no set was larger than the 'Queen's dove, strawberry leaf' teapot, sugar box, cream jug, two cups and saucers and an oval tray), figures, busts, rare models of animals and (after 1783) vases.

Ann Landers

Doesn't Pay Tab

Dear Ann Landers: Well he was a member and no one bothered to question his right to here; loser, do you fall a charming dignified chap who for years has been playing golf nearly every day at a private club for the last 10 years (or longer) that is supposed to be a member or, pay, daily greens fees?

An newly elected club officers we reviewed the list of paid-up members and discovered to our astonishment that this dedicated old gentleman who is practically a fixture around the place is not a member nor has he ever been one.

Apparently everyone assumed membership.

Deareheart: What is the elderly lady's unanticipated "fixture's" financial status? Is he on Social Security, loaded or what? This ought to be taken into consideration.

As a gentleman it well heeled he should be asked to pay his daily greens fees. If he's a man of modest means he could be treated and given him an honorary lifetime membership.

Aged Folk Face Lonely Years

Older people are apt to be lonely!

Recently in Toronto a committee of the United Church of Canada completed a survey about what aged folk needed, especially in relation to communications — in terms of letters and television and radio.

Surprising for many people was the answer to the question: What is the one most important problem that senior citizens face in their life? Psychological problems, not only loneliness and the need for companionship, emerged as the most important. The following is a breakdown of the answers to this question:

Psychological: Loneliness — 34 percent; inactivity or boredom, need for a hobby or interest — nine percent; feeling unwanted or patronized by others — five per cent; total — 48 per cent.

Economic: Lack of money — 25 per cent; high cost of living five per cent; total — 30 percent.

Physiological: Poor or failing health — 12 per cent.

Obviously, the need for funds is important, and this is certainly clear from those concerned itself with, but it is certainly clear from these figures that more attention must be paid to combating the psychological needs of our seniors.

Dear Doris: So many requests have come in for our 6-page pamphlet, "Love and Life — Fertility and Conception Prevention" — literally hundreds, as a result of your mention, that we have run out of them! The response is gratifying, but we had made no arrangements for processing such a large number of orders.

You may wish to inform your readers that there is likely to be a delay of up to five weeks before delivery.

Dear Doris: Is there any reason why a teen-ager shouldn't use eye make-up? I have been stopping my Suzy from putting anything near her eyes, but I note that eye make-up is getting more insistent and she does want to be "with it".

Mom.

Dear Mom: I asked a beauty specialist about this. She said the important thing is to recognize just how precious one's eyes are and to be careful that nothing gets into the eye itself.

If your daughter has a knowing and light hand, have her learn to do the make-up properly. If her brows are pale, a little shading gives a young face a more definitive look. And the discreet use of a light eyeshadow is pretty.

But gobs of technicolor shadow and heavily beaded lashes are just plain laughable — on anyone, any age!

Another caution — be sure eye make-up is thoroughly removed for bedtime. You wouldn't go to bed without brushing your teeth, would you?

Infant Mortality Rate Still High in France

PARIS — Infant mortality rate in France is still high compared with that in other European countries.

The present rate is 21 in 1,000 births, about twice as high as in the Netherlands.

Nevertheless, remarkable progress has been achieved since 1950 when 52 of 1,000 infants died within a year, not including the stillborn.

The infant mortality rate fell to 32.2 per thousand births in 1962 and to 21 in 1976.

Early this year the national health department initiated an infant health care program that should permit France to catch up with other European countries.

The program concentrates on improvements to public and private maternity centres, training of medical and non-medical personnel and increased vigil in cases of risky pregnancies.

The program is intended to eliminate the shortcomings in the care of pregnant women and newly-born children that were revealed in 1972 in a national study by the National Institute of Medical Research.

Researchers determined that the following factors affected infant mortality, premature birth and hypotrophy; age of mother, family economic and social status, education, living conditions, working conditions of the mother and immigration.

They found that infant mortality rises with the age of the mother. The rate is 43 in 1,000 births if the mother is over 40, 13.3 if she is between 30 to 39 and 6.8 if under 30 years of age.

The rate is higher than average among immigrant women and among uneducated mothers.

Wheat-rye Combination May Feed Hungry Globe

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Scientists at the international centre where Nobel Peace Prize winner Norman E. Borlaug produced his "miracle wheat" say the next big commercial breakthrough may be a wheat-rye combination that will help feed the world's hungry millions.

It's called triticale. Scientists say it can outproduce wheat by hundreds of pounds per acre in poorly fertilized soil. Its name is a compound of the generic names for wheat—triticum—and rye—secale.

It can be turned into acceptable bread, Italian spaghetti or Mexican tortillas.

Hungary started making a rye-type triticale bread in 1966. Canada and Spain have been using it since 1970 and Argentina and the United States have developed it as a fodder crop.

Al Mahalbo, Tex., manufacturer is selling triticale bread, cake, marcavanel and pancake flour in American supermarkets.

Mrs. Frank Zillinsky of Medicine Hat, Alta., and Herb Percy of Youngstown, Ohio, said triticale's real contribution may be in giving underdeveloped countries with poorly fertilized land more grain with better protein balance.

At the International Maize and Wheat Improvement Centre, 35 miles east of here, where Borlaug planted the seed for the "Green Revolution" of the 1960s, Zillinsky and Floyd said their latest research shows triticale outproducing wheat by at least one ton per hectare—2½ acres—in poorly fertilized soil.

The 1974 test results showed triticale producing four tons per hectare to three tons for durum wheat which is used for spaghetti and other pastas, and 2½ tons for bread wheat.

The scientists said the best variety of triticale produced 4½ tons per hectare under good fertilizer conditions compared with three tons per hectare for the best variety of wheat.

Large quantities of fertilizer can double wheat or triticale production. But the world is in the throes of a fertilizer crisis and the scientists said underdeveloped countries often can't afford soaring costs and just do without it.

In poverty - stricken countries where food is at a premium, protein quality is also critical. Zillinsky said triticale has slightly more protein than wheat and "a better balance of proteins."

He said the wheat-rye hybrid contains larger quantities of two amino acids essential to nutrition: lysine and tryptophan.

"We think triticale is better than wheat or barley or durum," said Floyd. "It's going to come in real commercial use and very soon."

Zillinsky added: "Our main problem with triticale is that we don't have a nice harvest like wheat. We're looking for one and we hope to find it."

The scientists' report triticale also seems more disease-resistant than wheat—an observation borne out by scientists in several countries where rye grain is considered to be.

Triticale is not a new grain. The centre said scientific literature first reported a hybrid between wheat and rye in 1876 but it was sterile.

It achieved fertility in 1888 when some triticale plants accidentally crossed with some plants from an adjoining field of bread wheat at the International centre's headquarters. Since then, scientists have been working to improve its yield and reduce its size.

James Bond's Backers Laugh Way to Bank

LONDON (Reuter) — The world's most famous secret agent, Her Britannic Majesty's 007 James Bond, has made the people behind him laugh louder on their way to the bank than anyone ever thought.

The laugh will be even louder next month when the latest epic, The Man with the Golden Gun, opens.

Bond has set a record which will probably never be beaten. More than $50 million cinema-goers in every country of the world except Russia and China have bought tickets to see him demolish Dr. No, Scaramanga, Ernst Stavros Blofeld and other villains.

He has also made many people millionaires.

Next month the ninth of the Bond series, which started with Dr. No about a dozen years ago, will saturate the world. The world premiere in London will be attended by the Queen. More than 1,200 prints of the film have been made.

The figure of 50 million was recently compiled—"as scientifically as you can do such a thing"—for Albert (Cubby) Broccoli, co-producer of the series with Canadian Harry Saltzman.

They expect the figure to top 700 million when the new film has gone the rounds.

The late Ian Fleming's creation has made them millionaires. Scots - born Sean Connery, the first 007, is in the same bracket and the current James Bond, Roger Moore, is getting there.

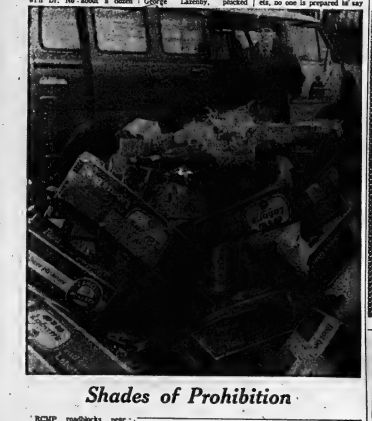
The only one who did not make a killing was Australian George Lazenby, plucked from selling chocolate on British television advertisements to star in On Her Majesty's Secret Service.

How rich has everyone become? The budget for the first film was under $1 million. In subsequent pictures it rose and the latest ones cost between $7 and $8 million.

The outlay for the series is about $50 million.

In cinema economics, a film has to take $2.50 at the box office for each dollar in the budget before a profit can be made.

So when they have taken about $125 million the profits come in, and 700 million tickets will have been sold when No. 9 hits the screen.



Although Broccoli is willing to talk about the number of people who have bought tickets, no one is prepared to say how much they might have paid.

"I don't have the figures," he said. "I would hesitate to give them anyway. That is company policy. We are willing to talk attendances."

Preliminary work is already going on for the next film. It will be The Spy Who Loved Me. Before he died in 1964, Fleming requested that it not to be made as the book was written. "He gave no reason," says Broccoli.

"Only 007's name and the title will be used. The rest will be the work of a script writer—or, indeed, are most of the later books."

Broccoli justified this departure from the book by saying the films have to be "contemporary." Then Moonraker will follow.

Shades of Prohibition

RCMP roadblocks near Red Rock, B.C., about 15 miles south of Prince George, were set up Sept. 9 by 20 officers. Their four-hour check resulted in the confiscation of about 200 cases of beer and 300 bottles of assorted liquor, most of it from minors. The confiscated bottles were piled in a garbage dump by RCMP officers this week, then run over by a bulldozer. (CP Photo)

Jelinek Gives OPP Evidence on SIU

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative MP Otto Jelinek said Thursday he has submitted evidence of "improprieties" in the Seafarers' International Union to Ontario Solicitor-General George Kerr.

The Toronto High Park-Humber Valley MP said in a news release he decided to pass the information to Mr. Kerr and the Ontario Provincial Police after the federal government refused to take the matter to Ottawa police.

He was unsuccessful Thursday in moving that the Commons adjourn regular business to debate what he said was evidence of violence, voting irregularities and improper hiring had activities by the SIU.

Meanwhile, Joe Morris, Canadian Labor Congress (CLC) president, said his group has no evidence that the SIU is embroiled in waterfront violence.

Referring to Mr. Williams as a "straight-forward, credible witness," the report recommended that he be given unemployment insurance benefits.

It accepted Mr. Jelinek that "it I didn't know my mouth closed, I'd get concrete shoes."

Mr. Jelinek, calling for a federal inquiry into the union, has said his evidence includes affidavits from SIU members saying they were beaten or threatened with death for refusing a contract settlement last spring.

He has been cautious sharply with Mr. Morris's statements on the SIU.

He said several dissident members of the SIU came to a workshop committee of the labor congress in March, 1973 and presented evidence, but the seamen did not respond when asked to return with evidence of wrongdoing by SIU officials "and we never heard anymore from them," Mr. Morris said.

The SIU controversy was discussed at a meeting here of the 30-member CLC executive committee but the decision was taken, Mr. Morris said. He said the CLC has received no complaints about the union since the protest 1½ years ago "and then we did not have enough evidence for an inquiry."

The SIU is under investigation by the RCMP, the Ontario Provincial Police and the Metropolitan Toronto Police over charges in the Crown Life case. ture by New Democratic Party MPP Stevens Sheldrick that union officials blackmail and beat dissident members and bribed federal politicians to cover it up.

Jail Term for False Ad Pleases Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA (CP) — The two-year jail term handed out this week to a Dartmouth, N.S., man for false advertising pleased regulatory authorities in the corporate affairs department trying to crack down on the offence.

It is only the second time a court has imposed a jail term for violation of the Act since misleading advertising provisions of the Combines Investigation Act. The other term was for only one day.

Earlier this year, Corporate Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet criticized low fines and small penalties for consumer protection violations and called on Canadian judges to be tougher in handing out exemplary fines and jail sentences.

An official in the department's trade practices branch said Thursday he believes the courts are taking "an extremely serious view" of offences, reflected in a trend to higher fines for convicted violators.

Of 81 misleading advertising charges laid so far in 1974, the department says, 41 fines have been levied, ranging up to $5,000, with a significant number for $1,000 or more.

The Wednesday decision in Halifax County Court involved a charge laid April 27, against Steven O'Brien of Dartmouth.

All But Three PCs Hold Government Jobs

TORONTO (CP) — Veteran Sagger (L—Downsview) said Thursday that 41 out of 44 Progressive Conservative members of the legislature hold paid government positions in addition to their duties as private members.

Speaking to the legislature, Mr. Sager criticized an amendment to the Legislative Assembly Act that provides for financial grants to party caucuses based on the number of caucus members.

"If this is done in the name of equity and fairness, it is a fraud," Mr. Singer said. "If this is done on the basis of equalizing the opportunity for members to have the same kind of facilities, it is untrue."

Mr. Singer said the three government members who do not hold additional posts are Robert Johnston (St. Catharines), Nicholas Leluk (Humber) and Albert Belanger (Prescott and Russell).

Mr. Singer said the other Conservative members are cabinet ministers, parliamentary assistants or members of boards and commissions.

Defence Department Feels it Is Sucker

OTTAWA (CP) — The defence department is wondering whether it is "being taken to the cleaners" on some of the non-military goods it purchases, deputy minister Syrian Chevrier said Thursday.

Mr. Chevrier made the statement before the Commons public accounts committee while explaining how the department charges—or doesn't charge—for services.

He said he is attempting to determine whether those who ordinarily should provide some services are looking to the military instead.

He said he wanted to make sure the military is being used because of its capabilities and not simply as cheap labor.

The committee yesterday provided a vast array of non-military service, ranging from hospitals, aircraft, to building bridges in the North and servicing the vehicles of the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East.

Auditor-general R. A. Jerreports for 1973-74, now before the committee, and 1973-74, which will be discussed shortly, criticize the department for not charging or not charging enough for these services.

Mr. Chevrier said the amount charged by the military, except in cases of humanitarian assistance, is determined to a large extent on the benefit the military receives. This benefit could

Gas Prices Rise

CARBERRA (CP) — Ampol Petroleum Ltd., one of two big Australian oil refining and marketing companies, has increased the price of gas 1.6 cents a gallon wholesale. A spokesman said the increase lifts the price to 58.1 cents a gallon for premium.

Car Bomb Injures Mississauga Resident

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — Walker Chomiak, 45, was seriously injured Thursday when his car exploded as he was starting it in his garage.

Peel regional police said they believe the car was wired with an explosive set to go off either when the car door was opened or the ignition key was turned.

Carol Phelan, 36, who lives three doors from the Chomiak home, said she was making lunch for her children when the explosion rocked the neighborhood.

She said she ran up the street and found Chomiak slumped over the car door was opened but inside the garage door with his right foot blown off.

Job Backlash Developing Against Immigrants to Canada

By HARRY MUILHALL
Staff Reporter

Economic uncertainties are prompting strong reaction against immigration, young Belleville Progressive Conservatives were told Thursday night.

And criticism also involves racial backgrounds of immigrants, said Jake Epp, Conservative critic on immigration policies.

Most of the reaction originates from the country's major metropolitan centres, Other regions of Canada are hostile to immigrants to fill jobs, he told a meeting of the party's local youth federation at Christ Church hall.

Fears of unemployment and inflation already has caused countries like Australia and New Zealand to halt immigration.

"And there has been a reaction in Canada to the same thing," he said.

"At the present time, and my particular contemporaries hears it on people are saying we should call back on immigration drastically.

Such urging is especially evident in Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver areas, — industries for more than half Canada's immigrants, where their presence is more discernible, he said.

"Another underlying factor — and I'm very blunt about it — and that is people are deeply concerned about the racial backgrounds of the immigrants we're getting," said Mr. Epp. "I'm not trying to be biased. I'm just trying to show you immigration as it exists today and as I see it."

The immigration quota system used until 1967 resulted in a majority of immigrants coming from European countries. Since it was abolished — in favor of the present personal assessment system —each immigrants are now in the minority.

Now, the criticisms MP's receive on immigration also show "a certain racial consideration," said Mr. Epp.

In an interview, The Conservative critic said he didn't know how such an issue could be solved.

"I don't have the answer because you are concerning yourself with a basic human, individual attitude," he said.

Im migration has always been an area where it is difficult to make universal policy, he said.

He also questioned the validity of the argument that immigrants take jobs.

"That's a pretty hard concept to prove statistically, said Mr. Epp. "I'd say initially they're taking jobs other people are not willing to fill.

"If you changed the welfare system and the unemployment (insurance) system then you possibly would have an argument. But as long as those two things apply you're going to have a very difficult time to prove it."

Jobs are available in various areas of Canada for which immigrants are needed. But a major future problem is how to disperse immigration on a reliable regional basis to provide the workers needed.

In Alberta, for instance, the estimated 40,000 were available.

Guaranteeing work for immigrants will be another issue, he indicated.

"If immigration does not allow an immigrant to have a job ... bring him into the Canada without a clear understanding he will have work brought that person in," said Mr. Epp. "It's traumatic for him. And it's no good for the country, he's one real problem we have to face."

UCS Campaign Reaches 84.2 Per Cent of Goal

Fourteen community organizations will share in more than $118,000 collected during the 1974 United Way campaign, Gordon Mullin said Thursday.

Mr. Mullin, director of United Community Services which runs the United Way campaign here, announced the total at a UCS board of directors' meeting.

Mr. Mullin told members of the board that so far nearly $112,000 had been received and that he estimates an additional $5,000 will be realized. The figure represents 84.2 percent of the campaign's $140,000 objective.

Of the $118,000 approximately $14,000 or less than one per cent can be deducted to pay for campaign expenses, time and facilities used in conducting the campaign.

Last year, Mr. Mullin said, the fund drive raised 98.2 per cent of its objective.

Now the United Way budget committee will begin allocating the funds according to the proposed budgets of the organizations.

"You have to be a little selective how you divvy up the deficit," UCS board of directors' chairman Virginia O'Rourke told the meeting.

The community organizations — the YMCA, Volunteer Bureau, Red Cross, Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, St. John Ambulance, Canadian National Institute for the Blind, UCS, Belleville Minor Sports Association, Navy League, Civic Action Committee, Trudeau Forum, Easy Riders, Victorian Order of Nurses and the Belleville and District Association for Retarded Children — will not take an across the board percentage cut.

Instead, the budget committees will look at the group's submissions to determine the best course.

In discussing the campaign in general, Mr. Mullin outlined some surprises.

On the one hand, he said, the public service sector of the community raised only $6,794, about 36 per cent of its goal.(Other sectors ranged from 87 per cent to the financial community to 96 per cent from the industrial community).

On the other, employees of Miracle Food Mart, in competition with their counterparts in other cities, contributed $1,000 which is 80 per cent of their goal and 40 times greater than their 1973 contribution of $18.

People Problems

A major area of problems inviving people—Immigration — is discussed by Jake Epp, Conservative MP for Provencher, Man., Thursday night. At meeting of young Conservatives he warned of mounting reaction against immigration.

Weeds Major Problem

The decline in farming can have some unexpected, but bothersome side effects.

Like weed control.

As farming decreases and more rural land becomes dormant, control of weeds in the near future will be "a major concern," Hastings County council was told this week.

"Definite policies and more adequate means of enforcement will be mandatory if we hope to control the impending condition," warned Dennis Heasman, county weed inspector.

During the year "numerous" complaints about weeds came in from the southern end of the county. Nuisance spots generally involved vacant land surrounding developments, partially-developed areas, Londoners, however, were co-operative in having such areas purged of the problem, he said.

A total 228 miles of county roads were sprayed during 1974 to control roadside weed and brush. The program cost $23 a mile. It is impressed a provincial agricultural and food ministry official he told.

"Numerous" photographs to demonstrate to other rural areas the effectiveness of such a program, said Mr. Heasman.

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters responded to the following call for assistance in the 24-hour period ending 8 a.m. Friday.

Thursday, Dec. 12, 6.32 p.m. ... 11 Hallowell St., fire in bookcase, drapes and curtains, caused by short in lamp cord wire, mostly smoke damage.

Health Unit to Study Flu Impact On City

A survey is being undertaken by the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit to determine the rate of employee absenteeism at local industries and schools due to influenza.

Dr. C. E. Lenk, director and medical officer of health, informed a unit board meeting Thursday if the rate of absence through influenza is spreading more in a certain location, investigators will proceed further to name the type of flu.

He admitted some of the absenteeism may not be caused through influenza, but the over all survey should give a clear picture.

"I have noticed a decrease in the number who have the 'flu who also have 'flu shots," commented Dr. Lenk. "Of course, this is a controversial subject."

Bennett to Head Real Estate Board

Phil Bennett has been named president of the Quinte and District Real Estate Board.

In his acceptance of office address this week, Mr. Bennett said co-operation will be the key to future success of the board and that several priorities must be considered in the next year.

He urged the board to set up a committee to investigate the feasibility of the board owning its own office building and to "streamline the multiple listing service"; increase speaking to salesmen on individual attitudes; and to hold an education programs and to rewrite the board's bylaws as part of a general updating.

Past president of the organization is Gerry Joyce.

Mr. Joyce is the charter president of the Quinte Board which encompasses Belleville and Trenton and has been a member of the local real estate board for 18 years.

First vice-president is Gordon Roblin and second vice-president Don Howard.

The directors are John Stallman, Doug Bolton, Hugh O'Neil, Frank Barry, Ken Pinder, George Taylor, Lionel Bobby and Malcolm Barnett.

Medical Examination Urged for Immigrants

The Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit has recommended the federal immigration department should require compulsory medical examination of casual visitors to Canada.

During its regular meeting Thursday, the unit voted to send the recommendation to both the federal government and the Ontario Health Association convention of health boards in the province.

Walt Colfoll, business administrator, explained it is hoped "all other health boards in the province will concur with our recommendation ... so there'll be more force behind it."

The issue stems from a concern in Prince Edward County over the number of migrant farm laborers who arrive each year from Jamaica, and potential medical problems which might develop.

The recommendation pohits out there is no requirement for compulsory medical examination of casual visitors, and there appears to be an increase in the number with "short-term visitors' permits for educational purposes and for short-term labor contracts ..."

It resolves: "... a certificate be required from a competent medical practitioner, testifying that the applicant is free from all communicable diseases and is not a carrier of organisms or particularly parasites which could endanger the health of the Canadian people ..."

"This is not to be construed as applicable to visitors on a vacation but for those students and workers who will be in contact with the public at large," concludes the recommendation.

Unit Building Start Sooner Than Planned

Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit is well on its way to owning its administration building at 200 Bridge St. East here.

The structure, presently owned by the Hastings County Board of Education, can be purchased for $365,000, already approved in principle by the unit board.

Cliff Colfoll, business administrator for the health unit, said "supplementary grants received from the province will enable the health unit to pay its portion in 1975, without an additional levy" on the municipalities".

This means the provincial government will pay $79,000 or two-thirds of the total cost while the health unit, through the municipalities of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties, Belleville and Trenton, will pay the balance.

The board decided Thursday the municipalities "will be requested for their share of the cost at this time" said Mr. Colfoll.

The split will be according to population. Hastings County has already approved its share of $13,000.

Senior Citizen Grants Approved

From the Ottawa Bureau of The Intelligencer

OTTAWA — Three Belleville district senior citizens organizations have been awarded more than $18,000 in New Horizons grants by Health and Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde.

They were among 182 project grants, totalling $905,575, which will involve 30,288 people. Since New Horizons was introduced in 1972, 3,123 projects have been funded for a total of $17,211,-956.

Mishaps Minor

BRIGHTON — Provincial police have blame Thursday's rain and slippery conditions for six minor accidents on Brighton, Alnwick and Murray Township back roads Thursday.

No injuries were reported in the accident, all involving single cars. Damage was not extensive.

Police said by early afternoon tions were particularly bad on the Stockdale Rd. between Brighton and Alnwick and in Township. Several collisions occured on that stretch of road.

Extra Help Hired

Postal Pressure

Belleville post office worker Gerry Percy clears another cart of mail as work goes on round-the-clock to sort Christmas letters, parcels. Seasonal work pressure now has peaked for city postal authorities.

Postal Buildup Causes Minor Delays

Christmas giving is a going concern.

If the economy is tightening like a piece of string around a yuletide parcel you can't tell it from the flow of gifts through Belleville - district mails.

The Christmas postal rush hit its peak Thursday in the city.

And the parcel-post part of the process is busier than last year, says postmaster Roy Wainwright.

The vol ume of parcels being shipped out has tripled from normal, pre-holiday runs.

The incoming gift flow is so heavy the system ran into temporary delivery difficulties.

Postmaster Wainwright says Thursday morning trying to find extra transport to get gift parcels distributed around the city.

He was having difficulties. Many local carriers are already booked up to handle Christmas deliveries from stores and other sources.

Statistics indicate the bulk of the gift exchange is now passing through the local office.

The Belleville postal centre processes mail for 52 post offices from Cobourg to Napanee and north to Erinsville.

On normal days 400-500 bags of parcels are shipped out—to the Toronto gateway terminal. This begins to build as the Christmas rush gathers momentum.

Now, estimates Mr. Wainwright, the daily shipment total has soared to around 1,400 bags.

Ordinary mail shows a similar spiral. A normal day will see about 20,000 letters processed. Wednesday, the total of outgoing letters from Belleville reached 115,000.

To care for the cascade, 150 extra workers have been hired, 75 Christmas help reinforcement for the centre's regular staff of 80.

Temporary help also has been called in for street deliveries. Mailmen on the city's 22 postal routes were assigned assistants Thursday to ease delivery burdens.

The pressure, expects Mr. Wainwright, will last through to Dec. 22-23.

Not every package gets through the mails intact.

Poor wrapping problems help pump up pressure on post offices, indicates Mr. Wainwright.

"It's surprising," muses the official, "how people will spend good money on a gift and mailing costs — and then don't use proper wrapping."

As a result, many a thoughtful Christmas present ends up in the mails. To offset the problem, the post office maintains a repair service.

With the Christmas mail rush its workload has about doubled.

At normal times, repair of damaged packages takes about two hours a day. Now, estimates postal clerk Walter Valeman, he's spending go to five news hours daily on the task.

Christmas Dinner Coming Up

Quinte Secondary School's Grade 9 students were involved in community work Thursday afternoon while Grade 8 students from feeder schools attended Quinte. One of the projects was decorating boxes for the Christmas dinners the students will pack next week for their contribution to the Christmas Sharing program. Schools are the backbone of the Christmas Sharing program, which is looking for donors for 500 families this year. Stacking up the boxes are Heather Leak, Andy Lupenette and Rick Morrison.

The Christmas Sharing program, which matches those needing food hampers for Christmas dinner with donors is underway, Gordon Carr, a special treed.

The program can't find donors to provide food hampers for small families — those with a single parent and one or two children. There is also a shortage of donors for senior citizens.

Phyllis Hayman, director of the program, says most donors want to provide for large families with several children. She still needs about 50 donors to provide Christmas cheer for small families. Donors can obtain the names of needy families by telephoning the Central Volunteer Bureau at 962-1253.

C hristmas Sharing will arrange for food hampers for about 200 families this year.

Flying Sabres, Kings Come Down to Earth

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two National Hockey League unbeaten streaks ended Thursday night and, as a result, Vancouver Canucks today hold the biggest share of any of the four division leaders.

The Canucks defeated Buffalo 8-3, ending the Sabres' unbeaten streak of 11 games and taking a 21-15-point lead over St. Louis Blues and idle Chicago Black Hawks in the Smythe Division.

Los Angeles Kings lost their 11-game unbeaten string on the road with an 8-1 beat at Boston and the Bruins moved to within 19 points of the leading Sabres in the Adams Division.

In other games Thursday Philadelphia Flyers blanked Minnesota North Stars 6-0, St. Louis edged Detroit Red Wings 4-3, Kansas City Scouts defeated California Seals 3-1, Washington Capitals tied New York Rangers 4-4 and Pittsburgh Penguins tied Montreal Canadiens 3-3.

The Flyers' win put them nine points in front of Atlanta Flames in the Patrick Division while Montreal Canadiens are 1 point ahead of the Kings in the Norris Division.

That left the Canucks with the biggest lead in the league. In their four previous NHL seasons, the Canucks had only once finished 13 points or more in front of anybody. That was in 1970-71 when they finished seventh in the old East Division, 23 points ahead of eighth-place New York Islanders.

Goals by Jerry O'Flaherty and Don Lever in the first minute of the third period gave Vancouver the winning margin over the Sabres after the teams had tied 3-3 in the second period.

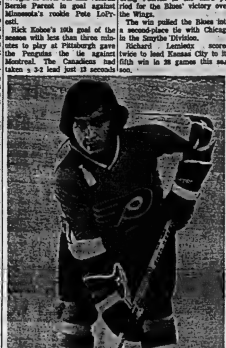
It was a bad night in goal for Sabres' Roger Crozier who made only 14 saves while Vancouver's Gary Smith stopped 28 shots.

The loss ended a Buffalo unbeaten string of 11 games both at home and away and a 13-game unbeaten streak on home ice.

The Kings' string of six wins and five ties over the first two seasons ended when the Bruins outshot Los Angeles 40-16 with Phil Esposito scoring his 56th goal of the season. Bobby Orr hit his 30th and Johnny Bucyk his 31st.

Another lengthy streak ended when Washington rallied for the tie against the Rangers. The Capitals, playing before a home crowd of 9,089, ended a seven-game losing streak.

Rod Gilbert's 13th and 14th goals and assists helped the Rangers to a 6-3 lead at the end of the second period but the Capitals came back with goals from Mike Marson, Steve Atkinson and Jim Hrycuk. The tying goal by Hrycuk came with less than four minutes remaining.



At Philadelphia, Reggie Leach's three goals led the Flyers who managed only a 23-22 margin in shots but had veteran Bernie Parent in goal against Minnesota's rookie Pete LoPresti.

Rick Kehoe's 10th goal of the season with less than three minutes to play at Pittsburgh gave the Penguins the tie against Montreal. The Canadiens had taken a 3-2 lead just 13 seconds earlier on a goal by Yvon Lambert.

At Detroit, Garry Unger scored once and, 51 seconds later, set up another goal by Craig Patrick in the third period for the Blues' victory over the Wings.

The win pulled the Blues into a second-place tie with Chicago in the Smythe Division.

Richard Lemieux scored twice to lead Kansas City to its fifth win in 26 games this season.

Norm Ullman

Communication Leaf Problem

TORONTO (CP) — Norm Ullman, who last month issued a stiff "play-me-or-trade-me" edict, now says Toronto Maple Leafs are overcoming the problem that had left some players unhappy.

Ullman, 39, lost his regular centre spot in George Ferguson earlier this season and was relegated to the bench except for spot duty, but his lack of action irked the veteran forward and he said in one interview that he'd rather be traded than sit on the bench where he felt he was still able to contribute.

The veteran centre also complained that coach Red Kelly did not tell him why he was benched at a time when the club was struggling in the National Hockey League Adams Division.

Ullman regained steady employment two weeks ago when he inked the veteran forward and he said in one interview that Thursday, he said Kelly has begun to overcome the communications problem.

Ullman said the club's problems, which have led to 14 losses in 27 games, started with a player surplus at the beginning of the season.

"Players were benched without anybody telling them why. As many as five guys were sitting each game. The harmony and spirit we had early in the year just wasn't there. Players don't like sitting out and not knowing why."

Adding to the problems was coach Harold Ballard's public outburst last month when he said the team was fat and flat and Kelly wasn't being hard enough on them.

"You have to feel wanted," said Ullman. "Things like that don't help team spirit.

"Maybe that tactic would have worked 15 or 20 years ago but not now."

Recently, said Ullman, Kelly has begun to talk more with the players and the team is much happier for it.

"Kelly now knows that this has been a big problem. The players have been discussing it with him and he's beginning to change.

"If there's a problem now, he'll take somebody aside and talks about it with him. He's been meeting with many of us and talking things over freely.

"He's beginning to realize you can't deal with people like cattle or machines. It's too bad it hasn't happened until now."

Guite Sparks Stags

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Michigan Stags appear to have made a big find in left winger Pierre Guite and seem to have found some fans at the same time.

The Stags just acquired Guite in a trade with Quebec Nordiques last weekend. Thursday night, he came through with three goals to lead the Stags to a 5-3 World Hockey Association victory over Winnipeg Jets.

Guite's performance apparently was catching as teammate Guy Trottier scored the other two Stag goals.

In other WHA games, Phoenix Roadrunners beat Vancouver Blazers 4-2 and Quebec defeated Cleveland Crusaders 6-2.

Said Stags coach Johnny Wilson of Guite: "He was just fantastic. Next to Bobby Hull I don't see any better on the left side around the league.

"I liked what I saw tonight. That's the kind of hockey I've been waiting for since training camp," he said.

The crowd of nearly 4,000, up from less than 2,000 for many earlier games, was especially encouraging in view of the fact that the National Hockey League Detroit Red Wings were also playing at home.

After Winnipeg lunged out to a 1-0 lead on Ulf Nilsson's goal, Trottier scored once and Guite found the range twice to shoot Michigan into a 3-1 advantage. Guite's 17th goal of the season and third of the night came at 6:01 of the third period and Trottier finished the Stags' victory with a shot into an empty net.

Nilsson, with his second, and Bobby Hull had the other goals for Jets.

The Nordiques broke up a 2-2 tie in the third period to beat Cleveland, moving Quebec to within one point of the Canadian Division-leading Toronto Toros. Christian Bordeleau, Serge Bernier and Marc Tardif scored in the final period for the Nordiques after Cleveland had taken an early lead.

Bernier also scored in the second period while Quebec's other goal was scored by Pierre Roy in the opening period.

Paul Shmyr and Grant Erickson scored for Cleveland.

Two goals by John Gary led Phoenix over Vancouver.

Ralph Harris, traded by Phoenix to Vancouver a week ago, got the Blazers' first goal on a power play in the first period. After that, however, it was mostly the Roadrunners as Dennis Sobchuk and Bob Howat joined Gary in the scoring column.

Johnny McKenzie scored Vancouver's final goal.

Two-way Effort Produces Wins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Peterborough Petes and Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds each came up with strong two-way efforts in the final period of their respective games Thursday in home-ice victories in Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A play.

The Petes scored four quiet, severed goals in the third period for a 6-2 win over Kingston Canadians while the Greyhounds made the only two goals of the period in their 2-1 victory over St. Catharines Black Hawks.

Red Laurence scored twice for the Petes, who beat the Canadians for the first time in three meetings this season. Tony Cassolato, Doug Jarvis, Stan Smeltzer and Paul Evans got the others, the latter two coming during a 38-second span in the third period.

Mike O'Connell and Brad Rhinehart scored for Kingston which led 3-1 after the first period.

Kingston outshot Peterborough 37-35 with the Petes getting two of the game's seven minor penalties.

Bruce O'Grady scored the winning goal for the Sault at 5:37 of the first period and Cary Farrell, with his third of the night, iced the victory with an empty-net score at 19:38.

Gary Gill and Ed Smith had the other Greyhound goals.

Greg Craig scored twice for the Black Hawks while Gary McAdam and Rick Addison got getting the others.

Spitfires Explode

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — John Havelda scored three goals Thursday to lead Windsor Spitfires to a 13-4 victory over Guelph Biltmores in the only Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League game.

The victory before 2,460 spectators lifted Windsor to within one point of league-leading Welland Sabres with the two clubs meeting at Welland in one of two games tonight. Guelph plays host to Sudbury Junior Wings in the other contest.

Selects Whip Bruins

VANCOUVER (CP) — The men took on the boys Thursday night and had little trouble as Moscow Selects soundly defeated New Westminster Bruins 9-3 in an exhibition international hockey game.

The Selects, who averaged 23 years of age, took command early in the game against the Western Canada Hockey League club. All the Bruins are under 20.

Moscow went ahead less than seven minutes into the first period and never looked back. Moscow was up 3-1 after the first period and led 5-1 after the second.

Sergei Kotov led the Selects with three goals and Vladimir Orlov added two while Konstantin Klimov, Victor Zhuktov, Zelmut Bakirov and Vladimir Devlyov added singles.

Rick Blight, Peter Morris and Brian Propp scored for New Westminster.

The Bruins bolstered their lineup for the game with players from junior B Victoria Cubs. Blight plays for Brandon Wheat Kings, Morris for Victoria Cougars and Trotter for Lethbridge Broncos.

Despite heavy beaten on these three Moscow goals in the first period, Lavtan turned aside several excellent scoring opportunities.

Penalty-slay opportunities are seldom wasted by teams from the Soviet Union and there was no exception Thursday. Four of Moscow's goals came while they had a man advantage.

In the second period, New Westminster found itself two men short. It took the Selects only 23 seconds before Balderis beat Larry Hendrick who replaced Laxton midway through the second period.

The Selects opened their exhibition tour in Montreal, losing to a strengthened Junior Canadiens squad Tuesday night. they beat Edmonton's WCHL-strengthened team by one goal.

The Selects outshot New Westminster 41-34 before 6,254 fans.

Moscow Team Not Ready To Play Pros Says Coach

VANCOUVER (CP) — Moscow Selects are not yet ready to play Canada's top professional hockey teams, the senior coach of Russia's national second team said Thursday night.

The Selects, who finished unbeaten New Westminster Bruins for a 9-3 international hockey victory.

"It'll be cherished dream of all our players to play the pros-sionals," said Victor Tikhonov, "but it's too early."

The coach, who has called this Canadian tour a learning experience, said through an interpreter it is too soon to decide what his team has learned.

Tikhonov said his team showed more of the cohesion he expected Thursday night in their game against the Bruins. strengthened with 12 stars of Western Canada Hockey League teams.

The Selects also skated better than they had in their first two previous Canadian matches.

Coach Ernie McLean said his team appeared overanxious.

Asked if he would like an NHL team with the Selects, who on the average were two or three years older than his juniors, McLean said: "I'd always take a shot at them."

Asked what he would like his NHL team to learn, McLean said he wishes they would follow the Russian method of throwing the puck in a hole and having a player skate for it, rather than settling for someone to be in perfect position for a pass.

The Russian coach expects stronger competition as the tours continues. Opposition will include minor pro talent from the American Hockey League.

Ed Chynoweth, president of the WCHL, said it was the general feeling of league members that they need it to their players to tire them alone against the Selects and not strengthen their pros.

Old Home Week Is Here

Over the years, some of the top weightlifters in the country have appeared at meets in Belleville.

The city has seen most of the great ones at one time or another.

Ken Carr-Braint and the Apollo Barbell Club here have made a practice of turning out champions themselves.

It will be like old home week of Sir Mackenzie Bowell Public School on Leland Drive, Saturday.

That's the day the Apollo Club plays host to the 30th Weightlifting Championships.

Fifty-two lifters from across the province will be matching strength and skill in the competition.

There will be events in all nine weight divisions with the action set to start at 12:15 in the afternoon.

Why the "old home week" flavor?

Glad you asked.

Some lifters who have gone on to big things in the sport after taking part in the teenage competition, will be attending the event here to help mark the 25th year of its existence.

One of the better known names in weightlifting, Hamilton's Russ Prior is planning to attend.

In the recent Ottawa Invitational, Prior smashed Canadian and Canuguenwatch records in the 242-pound and under class with a 782.75 total for the snatch and clean and jerk.

Of course, the local club will be well represented in the lifting extravaganza.

That's Saturday, 12:15 p.m., at Sir Mackenzie Bowell.

SLICES — Holiday time may mean rest and peace and quiet for some but for those involved in sports, it usually means busy, busy, busy.

In the case of hockey, a school break means heavier meet time is here.

No doubt many of Belleville Minor Hockey Association's representative teams in the Ontario Minor Hockey Association will be traveling here and there to compete in tourney titles.

One of our teams, the McIlroy Construction Bantam Minors, is entered in the Trenton Minor Hockey Association's annual Silver Puck Tournament.

Coached by Ted Soale, the McIlroy skaters will be hooking up with teams from Trenton, Oshawa and Kingston Township in the minor division of the two-division event.

McIlroy makes its first start in the Dec. 29 series against the host team, at 8 a.m. and follows up with afternoon and evening contests.

In the major classification, it's Lindsay, Napanee, Kingston Township and Trenton.

Championship games in both series are scheduled for the evening of Dec. 30.

Pete Crawford of Belleville continues to rack up the points while leading his talents to the Frankford Steelers of the Central Ontario Junior C League.

Crawford picked up three assists in Steelers' 9-5 Wednesday game in league leading Lindsay Muskies. Pete now has a point total of 12-20-32 and a tie for second place in the OJC scoring race with the seven-team grouping.

Sharing the No. 2 spot with Crawford are Thomasville Eagles' Dave Tabb who has 12-20-32 and 17 assists. Eagles' Rory Gibbs is the leader with 43 points (14-29).

Muskies are in fifth place in their standings with 15 points, 13 off the pace being set by the Muskies.

Stirling is showing the way in the bantam division of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association's Trent Valley League.

The Stirling team has five wins and a tie in six starts for 11 points, one more than first place Bancroft.

Campbellford and Marmora are next in line at the nine-point level while Brighton has seven; Colborne and Tweed, six each; Madoc, four; Wellington, two; Frankford, one and Warkworth, none.

Colborne's Pete Williams is the top point-man with 17 goals and four assists for 21. Second place belongs to Bancroft's Steve Charbonneau with 18 (8-11); third is Cleo Brown of Madoc, 18 (13-5) and fourth, Dan Murdock, Brighton, 16 (5-11).

Scott Samis Meets Etobicoke Goalie

Rookie Fits in with Bobcats

"This is a big step for me," said 17-year-old Scott Samis of his spot on the Belleville Bobcats. Samis has been playing organized hockey since age five, but this is the first time he's ever been involved in higher class competition.

Last season Scott played for Bancroft midgets and was up for part of the season with the Junior D club in that town.

"The competition is a lot stiffer," said Samis, "you really have to work up here."

He was referring to the change from Junior D to Junior B.

Whether Samis says the work load is tough or not, the speedy right-winger makes it look easy. He's one of the leading Kid Line comprised of Samis, Jeffery and Eric Powell. All three are under 18-year-of-age.

"I really like it here," said Scott, "the team is great and the attitude is fantastic."

In 15 games so far this season Samis has seven goals and seven assists giving him 14 points and sixth spot in the Cats' scoring statistics.

Scott has ambitions of making the pros and with his skating ability should have no trouble.

Tonight new hockey career is more important than my education," he said.

Samis is getting his Grade 12 at Moira Secondary School. He hasn't really thought about it much, but off the cuff he prefers to make it to the pros through Junior A.

"I suppose if I was offered a scholarship I'd go through college," he said, "but for right now I'd rather go through junior and, take my chances on being drafted."

Scott turned down invitations from the Markham Royals and Peterborough Lions to play in Belleville.

"I've seen them play before and I guess I just liked what I saw," was his reason for choosing the Cats.

During the off season Samis is one of the instructors at Harriston Summer Hockey School just north of Kitchener. He feels his stay with the Cats is a major step in his walk to the big leagues.

KINGSTON (Special) — It may be hard to believe, but Belleville did not lose in Ontario Minor Hockey Association action in Kingston.

The Shell Juveniles tied Kingston 6-6 on the Home Club Midgets beat the home team 7-5.

The Juveniles held a 1-0 lead at the end of the first period and a 3-2 lead at the end of the second. The locals were in front 4-3 for most of the third, but Kingston managed to pull it out of the fire with a late score.

John Murphy, Ross Laurenson, Mark Foster and Rick Growden each tallied for the Shells.

Sandy Waterson scored three to lead the Lions to their second win in a row. Other Belleville marksmen were Clint Rinsdens, Pat McGinn, Rob Chase and Randy Farrar.

Hunter Leader In Reid's Win

Reid's Dairy got some help from Belvedere Hotel in Hockey League action. Reid's dumped Hilman Construction 9-3 in the first of two OHL games and Belvedere earned a 4-3-2 draw with Cornerstone Builders.

The tie helped Reid's gain a little ground on the league leading Cornerstone. The Builders now have 13 points and Reid's has 10.

Moe Hunter was the big gun for the Dairymen as he counted four goals and added an assist. Hughes went to Carl Boomhower, Al Ray, Brian Smith, Bob Boyle and Jim McKay. Ralph Plate added to his points total as he drew three assists.

Kevin Allen and BH and Don Goodfellow repiled for Hilmen's.

Cornerstone and Belvedere got their goals from one player each.

For the Holstmen Johnny Baker scored twice and Reggie Lambert drew a pair of assists.

The Builders got two goals

Barry Sinks 41

Warriors Romp

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"The only thing that could have saved us tonight was if Rick Barry to run into a door coming out of the dressing room," said Atlanta Hawks coach Cotton Fitzsimmons.

Barry collected 41 points Thursday night to lead Golden State Warriors to a 139-108 National Basketball Association victory over the Hawks.

In other NBA games, Kansas City-Omaha Kings beat Milwaukee Bucks 113-105 and Buffalo Braves beat Houston Rockets 126-115. In the American, Spirits of St. Louis defeated Utah Stars 96-91 and San Antonio Spurs beat San Diego Conquistadors 117-98.

Golden State's triumph snapped a two-game losing streak for the Pacific Division leaders. Barry connected on his first eight shots and had 17 points in the opening quarter as Golden State took a 32-33 edge before exploding to a 69-49 halftime margin.

Jeff Mullins came off the bench to score 22 second-period points while Barry's backup Clifford Ray led the contest out of reach.

McAdoo, who did not play in the fourth quarter, led all scorers with 32 points. Smith added 29.

DICK ALLEN

Leading Slugger

NEW YORK (AP) — Atlanta Braves would like to see Dick Allen hit National League pitchers for them in 1975 the way he assaulted American League hurlers for Chicago White Sox in 1974.

Allen's batting average of .301 gave him a tie for seventh in the AL in 1974 But he led the league in slugging with a .563 percentage, well ahead of the .514 by runnerup Reggie Jackson of Oakland A's.

AL Most Valuable Player Jeff Burroughs of Texas Rangers was third at .504, followed by the A's Joe Rudi at .494. Rod Carew of Minnesota, who led the league in batting at .364, was 11th in slugging with a .448 percentage.

In 128 games, Allen batted 361 times and had 139 hits including 23 doubles, one triple and 32 home runs for 309 total bases. The 33-year-old first baseman was dealt to the Braves during baseball's recent winter meetings — but he sent them a telegram saying he didn't plan to report.

World Sport Briefs

READ SHARP

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (AP) — Ken Read, 19, of Cranbury was among the fastest in Thursday's training runs for the men's World Cup downhill race here Saturday. His time was two minutes, 6.36 seconds on the first run. Rene Berthod of Switzerland had the best time of 2:05.93 on the second run.

WINS TWO MORE

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Jockey Chris McCarron rode winners in both halves of the daily double Thursday at Laurel race course, increasing his victory total for the year to 502 or 13 short of the world record for one season set in 1973 by Sandy Hawley of Minnisauga, Ont. McCarron won the first race with Pawe Genie, $27.30, and came back to take the second aboard Johora Wild, $8.10, for a $72.90 double.

EXPOS SIGN CANADIAN

MONTREAL (CP) — Pitcher Mike Finlayson of Vancouver has been signed by Montreal Expos, the National League baseball team announced Thursday. Finlayson, a 30-year-old right-hander, played with Canada's team in the recent world amateur baseball tournament in St. Petersburg, Fla.

PALMER ENTERS OPEN

MONTREAL (CP) — Arnold Palmer, who won the Canadian open golf championship at Weston, Ont., in 1955 for his first major professional victory, will celebrate the 30th anniversary of the win by playing in the 1975 event at the Royal Montreal Golf Club July 25-26. Palmer, expected here for a sports celebrities dinner Friday, has confirmed his entry with tournament chairman Bob Erickson.

Mini Mack Has Shot at Record

Herron Only 5-foot-5 But Man Alive!

NEW YORK (CP) — When he was 12, Mack Herron stopped growing taller in the Chicago ghetties where he was raised. For the rest of his life he would be a 5-foot-5 guy who learned to survive despite his size.

"You learn how to handle what society gives you," says Herron, 28, the 179-pound running back of New England Patriots and the second - smallest player in the National Football League.

Canada gave, and then took away, what Herron always treasured—a boy's role in football.

In Winnipeg, Mighty Mac was a star, scoring 16 touchdowns, more than anybody else in Canadian pro football in 1972. A few months later, his football career was in ashes over something every ghetto kid knows about—making the drug scene.

Red Herron bounced back and now the accolades comes from fans in Foxboro, Mass., home of the Patriots.

This season Herron has been a powerhouse for the Patriots, scoring 11 touchdowns in 13 games—seven rushing. He is tied with team-mate Sam Cunningham for third place in the American Football Conference scoring race among running backs with 66 points.

The Patriots, 7-6, are out of the playoffs but the season is far from over for Herron.

Sunday, he has a chance at the all-time combined yardage record for one season when the Patriots meet Miami Dolphins in the window of the regular schedule.

Herron leads the NFL in overall yardage with 2,230 yards and needs only 143 yards to break the mark of 2,400 set by Gale Sayers of Chicago Bears in 1968. He has 788 rushing, 672 on punt returns, 613 on kickoff returns and 406 on pass receptions.

In the NFL, only running back Howard Stevens (5-5, 165) of New Orleans Saints is smaller than Herron.

A pretty fair weightlifter Herron has the well-muscled body of a light heavyweight and the strength to match.

He went from junior college in Hutchinson, Kan., to Kansas State for two years, starring in his senior year in 1969. Atlanta Falcons of the NFL drafted him sixth but Herron got such a poor offer from coach Norm Van Brocklin that he decided to go with the 1970 season.

Herron's speed is his bread and butter. So he looked to Canadian football with its wider field. Just before the 1971 season, he signed with Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League.

He made the CFL West all-star team in 1971 and 1972, all-Canadian in 1972 and was runner-up for most outstanding player in the CFL in 1972 when he rushed for 1,257 net yards.

Herron's bright career in Canada ended when the 1973 training camp was opening. On May 26, police raided his Winnipeg apartment and arrested him and former Bomber running back Anno Van Pelt on charges of possession of illicit drugs.

The CFL wanted no part of Herron after that and he was waived out of the league.

Herron pleaded not guilty to the charges of possession of marijuana and cocaine. He received a suspended sentence and was fined $1,000.

Wild Animals Improve Returns from Farming

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (CP) — A farmer here believes he will increase the productivity of his cattle ranch by introducing wild animals.

Fritz Meyer is one of an increasing number of farmers who believe game conservation can be mixed with cattle production.

"The way I see it a population of domestic animals will be supplemented by wildlife," he said. "In this way you are going to make the fullest use of the vegetation. There will be more competition, but over-all you are going to be carrying a far bigger line with a mixed animal population plus cattle, for example, than you will if you have only cattle."

Meyer believes the mixture is dictated by simply evolutionary reasons.

He said the indigenous game population evolved with the vegetation and it stands to reason there is an interdependence between the vegetation and the animals.

"It's my opinion that if we want a healthy and productive range we must adapt this range to the animals that evolved with it. We are going to have a healthy range and we're going to have higher productivity and we're going to have much more stability."

Meyer said there has been a fantastic vegetation deterioration in Rhodesia. This might be due to climate, but it might conceivably be due to the fact that the land is not getting the benefit of utilization by those animals that evolved with it.

"This is something I can't substantiate, but one thing I'm absolutely convinced about is that if you have a mixed game population with cattle you are going to produce far more beef. From this point alone it's worth investigating.

"I see farmers initially heading after the animals they already have, but I also see them reintroducing those species that did occur on their farms but no longer exist, and then I see them stabilizing these animals on a sustained yield basis—either cropping them for meat or selling trophies to safari hunters from overseas."

Meyer's farm covers 33,880 acres, but he said the idea of the farm doesn't matter—even the smallest farm is big enough to carry some form of wildlife.

On his farm Meyer has introduced eland, tsessbe, wildebeests, sable, zebra, impala and warthog. There have always been kudu, duiker and sprinbok.

"What I'm aiming at is to bring back every single species that existed here. I've seen a fantastic increase in the game population here. Every animal will fill a little niche and begin a new cycle."

Meyer said the scheme will not detract from the country's national parks.

"I think what strikes most people when they come to Rhodesia is that they hardly see any game on the sides of the roads. I think they would want to travel through Rhodesia and see game on the parks and I don't think this will stop people from visiting the parks because there's really no substitute for going into the parks."

Meyer says he doesn't see one wild animal taking preference over another.

"We want total conservation, and the idea with this scheme is to start small and build up slowly. A herd of impala can double itself in size in three years."

Those that believe in this scheme see a place for the trophy hunter.

Safari hunters would take the older animals because of their trophy value, leaving the healthy younger animals to continue the herd.

For the farmer there is also money in the meat from the culled animals as well as in cheaper supplies of meat for the workers on the farm.

Ridgetown Marks Birthday With 1875 Fashion Revue

RIDGETOWN, Ont.– A store-window Victorian fashion display, created through the Festival Ontario program of the ministry of colleges and universities, is inspiring Ridgetown residents to consider dressing period costume for their 1975 centennial celebrations.

The display was created by Royal Ontario Museum (ROM) designers. The museum is one of 12 provincial government-supported agencies participating in Festival Ontario, a program designed to offer some of the province's cultural resources to Ontario community festivals.

Focus of the Ridgetown exhibit is a Brooks Bowman of a fashion engraving from the ROM collection, and a revealing carnest of local "attic" artifacts of the period, an antique quilt serves as backdrop.

All articles displayed were provided by residents of this small southwestern Ontario community and authenticated against samples loaned by the ROM.

The Victorian fashions include: ladies' walking suits in fine silk and wool; fans of ivory and feathers; high bottom shoes; a night-dress of cotton and lace; an infant's christening dress and gentleman's vest, top hat, lisle and cane. The display is located in a clothing store on Ridgetown's main street, being restored to Victorian elegance for the year-long anniversary festivities ahead.

To encourage townspeople to make period costumes, the ROM has supplied copies of vintage dress patterns and nearby St. Clair College is planning a winter-long Victorian dressmaking course.

Now in its second year, Festival Ontario has also contributed to festivals in Sault Ste. Marie, Owen Sound, Barrie, Guelph, Kingston, Sudbury, Port Frances, Petrolia, Simcoe, Chatham, Cobalt, Peterborough and Pemberton.

Agencies participating in the Festival Ontario program are the Royal Ontario Museum, Art Gallery of Ontario, Ontario Science Centre, The Archives of Ontario, Royal Botanical Gardens, The McMichael Canadian Collection, Ontario Film Theatre, Ontario Heritage Foundation, Ontario Historical Society and museums branch of the ministry of colleges and universities and a number of organizations under the auspices of the Ontario Arts Council.

Besides coordinating the provision of exhibits, Festival Ontario is prepared to assist in the organizing and planning of festivals.

"Our degree of involvement varies from community to community; depending on what the organizers want," explains Festival Ontario coordinator, Andrew Shapiro. "Ridgetown is an example of how one community benefitted from the resources available through the Festival Ontario program. We hope to encourage more communities to make use of them."

Showbiz Shorts

OTTAWA (CP) — The Royal Winnipeg Ballet opened a five-day run of its version of the National Arts Centre Tuesday night and received four curtain calls.

The production choreographed by John Neumeier starred David Moroni, director of the Royal Winnipeg's professional school, as Drosselmeyer, a ballet master who teaches young Maria to dance in her dream.

The traditional Nutcracker danced by the National Ballet of Canada and by Grands Ballets Canadiens tells the story of Clara, who is given a nutcracker-soldier Christmas eve and dreams of sugar plums and fairy princes.

The Royal Winnipeg version gives the girl her original name, Maria, and has as its story her dream of going to ballet school.

Bonnie Wyckoff, one of the company's principals, danced a beguiling Maria.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Weeping with joy, Australian-born singer Helen Reddy became a naturalized citizen of the United States and declared: "It's the best country in the world."

Miss Reddy, whose hit I Am Woman became an anthem for the women's liberation movement, took the oath Tuesday at a ceremony attended by her husband Jeff Wald, daughter Traci, 11, and Mayor Thomas Bradley.

Miss Reddy came from Australia in 1966.

LONON (CP) — A world appeal for funds to save the Shakespeare theatre at Stratford Upon Avon was launched Wednesday.

The management of the theatre in William Shakespeare's home town hopes to raise £1 million ($2,230,000) by April 23.

DENVER, Colo. (Reuter) — Former actress Ina Lynn, who starred in the film Lolita, is looking for a job after being fired as a cocktail waitress.

Miss Lynn, 28, said she was dismissed because of a jealous wife.

But Inn manager Michael Murphy said she created friction between other employees by insisting on special treatment as a former movie actress.

She also had been the subject of customer complaints of poor service, he said.

Miss Lynn filed for divorce last month from Gary Cotton Anderson, serving a life sentence for murder and robbery.

She says she still loves her husband but is divorcing him because she cannot get Him to work while he is married to a convicted criminal.

She and Anderson were married while he was in prison.

Vaccination Opinions Vary

By G.C. THOMPSON, MD

Dear Dr. Thompson: My doctor told me that the danger posed by smallpox vaccinations because this disease appears to be wiped out in the U.S. However hearing about the recent small-pox epidemic in India scares me.

Is it possible for a child to get smallpox from someone coming into the U.S.? They say people need to be vaccinated before coming into the country but there are some who enter illegally. What is to prevent them from bringing the disease? What are your feelings? I am wondering about having my daughter vaccinated.—E.T.S.

Your doctor is not alone in his attitude. Some prestigious groups such as the American Academy of Pediatrics take the same view.

Frankly I do not agree with their view. At the same time I cannot deny that they have some logic on their side. Here is their argument: smallpox has been almost totally eliminated from the U.S. (and Canada).

This was accomplished first by compulsory vaccination, plus insisting that everyone coming into the country be vaccinated for smallpox first, so they can't bring the germs in.

On the other side of the picture, some children have violent allergic reactions to smallpox vaccine. Perhaps not many out of the millions we have had so vaccinating, but half a dozen or so have died each year.

Therefore, the logic goes, if we stop vaccinating, we will save those few children and next year—and why not do so when smallpox isn't killing even a year? Here, that is.

I see no immediate danger from stopping vaccinations. But I am afraid that in many he is inviting a future risk. I don't want to do that.

At this moment even if some one brought smallpox into this country, enough people are still sufficiently immunized so there would likely be only a few person here and there might develop smallpox, but not many.

But what I'm thinking about is a more distant future. Small pox, where I'm still hoping appears to be at an all-time low, is not over yet. And I am very much afraid that we cannot for practical reasons to come manage to stamp out the disease entirely in the world.

Let's say the plan works out beautifully. Then, one day, it breaks. Confess that long enough and we will do what mankind has a knack of doing: become overly secure, and let down our guard.

If we finally reach a point at which very few of us are vaccinated, then it can require only a single spark—one person coming down with smallpox—to touch off a raging epidemic.

I'm sure I won't be alive to see it, but just the same I don't like it's happening.

So what would I do? Personally I favor continuing the vaccination, but taking care to avoid vaccinating children who show signs of being highly allergic, or who have a skin eruption such as eczema. That way I think we can avoid deaths from the vaccine but at the same time keep enough of us protected that it's highly epidemic for possible.

Dear Dr. Thompson: Does cod liver oil contain cholesterol? Sunflower seeds? Soy beans? Peanuts? All nuts?—A.C.

Cholesterol is found in foods of animal origin; therefore cod liver oil does have some. But sunflower seeds, soy beans, peanuts and nuts are all vegetable products and have no cholesterol.

Knee Joint Transplant Is Success

TORONTO (CP) — Althea Schafhauser is back on her feet, thanks to a novel transplant operation.

Mrs. Schafhauser injured her arthritic right knee five years ago when she fell off a ladder in New York. Scarcely able to walk and forced to give up her work as a housekeeper, she came here to live with her daughter.

"I had to go upstairs like a dog on all fours," she said. "And I came down by sitting on every step and lowering myself to the next."

Mrs. Schafhauser's painful situation continued until she was referred to Mount Sinai Hospital to see Dr. Allan Gross about a knee joint transplant.

Joint transplants are not new but preserved bone and cartilage—dead tissue—generally is used.

Dr. Gross and his team use joints made up of living cells which are removed from donors shortly after their death. But Dr. Gross speaks cautiously about the new method even though it has been successful in the treatment of 14 patients. It failed with two others.

"You must realize the operation is still in the research stage," said Dr. Gross. "It isn't suitable for everyone. We have to choose patients carefully."

For example, this type of transplant is not used in persons who suffer from rheumatoid arthritis.

Good candidates for the operation have osteoarthritis of the knee sufficiently severe that the joint is unsuitable for simple realignment, but not so severe that an artificial joint is the sign when she fell off a ladder.

The Mount Sinai team grafts about an inch of bone to each side of the joint to provide a new smooth bearing surface.

In most cases, the operation has alleviated pain, straightened the patient's leg and made it more stable.

Mrs. Schafhauser speaks about it enthusiastically. "It was hard, but it was worth it," she said.

She added that she now climbs ladders to clean windows "not carefully."

Rhodesia Experiences Influx of Tourists

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (CP) — Rhodesia is pushing hard—and successfully—to grab the South African tourist traffic from Mozambique.

With the uncertain situation in the neighboring Portuguese territory tourist figures here are climbing.

Package tours bringing South Africans to Rhodesia have been a big increase and the Rhodesian national tourist board has launched an advertising campaign in Natal, the Orange Free State and the Transvaal.

The increased business each month has passed the 30,000 figure in terms of bed-nights.

The tourism revival follows a relatively lean period since the beginning of last year which saw a three-year low set in January of this year when only 11,826 visitors came to Rhodesia.

The tourism industry is also benefiting from Rhodesians' uncertainty about conditions in Mozambique.

Mike Gardiner, director of the tourist board, said more Rhodesians are vacationing in their own country.

The increase in package tours has been be high as 90 per cent on comparable figures for the previous year. Because of the extra business Air Rhodesia has decided to add two extra flights to Lake Kariba, starting next month.

There is no record kept of the number of South Africans visiting the border, but their large amount is noticeable, particularly in the main resort areas.

The manager of the largest hotel chain in Rhodesia, Mike Rentzidge, said there has definitely been an upswing in tourism throughout the country.

"The hotel in Bulawayo, which is a major gateway from South Africa, showed a 14-per cent occupancy increase in August," he said.

"Kariba has gone through the roof with the casino bed sales up 49 per cent. The increase at Victoria Falls was 27 per cent."

But although the tourist figures have recovered from the January low they are still well below the boom period in 1972.

This boom ended with an upsurge in terrorism, closure of the border with Zambia, devaluation of the rand in South Africa and the introduction of gasoline rationing here.

MANY CHEQUES

The American Bankers Association says more than 23 million personal cheques will be written this year in the United States.

Wine Gets Best Break In Federal Tax Setup

OTTAWA (CP) — The domestic wine industry's lament that it is unfairly victimized by federal tax policies soared in the Commons Wednesday when Finance Minister John Turner produced figures indicating wine gets the best tax break of all alcohol products.

Under questioning by Progressive Conservatives Marcel Lambert (Edmonton West) and George Whittaker (Okanagan Boundary), he said the wine industry is treated favorably.

Mr. Turner then said that federal tax on the gallon of pure alcohol contained in 26 25-ounce bottles of fortified wine yields $5.25 for the public coffers. In 31 similar bottles of table wine, which has a lower alcoholic content, the gallon of pure alcohol yields $7.87.

"The world 'bring' is $8.40 in tax on the gallon of alcohol in 25 13-ounce bottles. It takes 16 normal-size bottles of distilled spirits, about 25 ounces each, to make up a gallon of alcohol, and this would bring $23.86 to the government.

"So there is still favorable treatment given to the wine industry."

Japan's Inflation Controlled But Hard Days May Be Ahead

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese seemed to be getting inflation under control in late 1974, but a number of experts indicated hard times ahead for the once-booming economy.

The Japanese got over the direct effects of the quadrupled petroleum prices better than expected but the fight against inflation knocked the economy into a recession.

The fiscal year ending in March, 1975, was expected to be Japan's first post-war year of economic contraction.

Inflation had been gaining power for some time before the oil crisis kicked but the annual rate of consumer price increases to nearly 25 per cent for march of 1974.

It took a long time before the government's tight-money policy began to show results. By late in the year it looked as though the inflation rate finally was headed downward toward a comparatively moderate 15 per cent annual gain.

Import prices had begun to decline. Also, domestic wholesale prices steadied in early autumn, which should lead to a decline in consumer price increases.

The government's anti-inflation drive forced banks to limit loans and in other ways all excess money was squeezed out of businesses to cool the economy.

Concern about the future apparently frightened consumers who cut their spending and caused a further decline in business. Consumer spending accounts for about half of the gross national product.

The combination of tight money and lowered consumer spending resulted in a decline in industrial output. Unemployment reached about two per cent by late in the year, an unusually high figure in Japan where labor tradition ally is scarce.

The business slump did aid Japan's international payments. The flow turned from deficit to surplus in September as import demand declined and companies pushed exports to make up for slumping domestic sales.

Most experts predicted the Japanese economy would soon become a growth economy again, although some said the stagnation ~~~y continues well into the next year.

Nearly all agreed the days of a 10 per cent annual growth rate were over. Most predictions said growth over the next decade would average five to seven per cent.

Some economists have been doubtful as to how well Japanese firms can manage with the relatively slow growth.

They say major companies are unhappy growth-oriented because of their huge debts which are best handled with sharply rising output.

Japanese firms also are facing stiffer international competition and their exports may be hurt by rising costs at home, says the Mitsubishi Research Institute.

The Institute said inflation and growing labor costs ~~ shen the Japanese businessman's ability to sell abroad in 12 important industrial areas. Exports were likely to remain strong in the immediate future but would weaken during the coming two years.

"The Japanese industries will lose their traditional edge of price competition over the United States and West Germany," said another study by the Sumitomo Bank.

"In 1975, Japan will see its competitive position deteriorate in all sectors of world trade except basic industrial materials as a result of the decreased competitiveness in the machinery markets, increased competition from the developing countries in textiles and sundry goods and the high wage increases in Japan."

Wages have been going up sharply for a number of years and last April most workers received increases of more than 21 per cent.

This average Japanese worker now makes the equivalent of about $1.25 an hour plus substantial fringe benefits.

Flint Knife Dates Back To 3100 BC

LONDON (CP) — The British Museum has acquired an antiquity of the late prehistoric period of Egypt. It is a flint knife dating from at least 3100 BC.

The knife, a masterpiece of the flint-knapper's craft, is fitted with an ivory handle, it is said, and without flaw or damage.

The handle is richly decorated with carved scenes of animals, reptiles and birds. It is thought to have had a magical significance.

The knife was originally acquired by Rev. Greville Chester at Sheikh Hamada in Upper Egypt in 1895 and was until recently in a private collection.

Fingerprints Are Easily Reproduced

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fingerprints found on such substances as plastics or cars can be reproduced within minutes under a process developed by a member of the National Harbors Board police force.

The process was invented by Sgt. M. G. Toddington, head of the picture-taking and fingerprinting department of the board's Vancouver office.

It eliminates the need to photograph fingerprints found at the scene of a crime and its quality of reproduction is comparable with existing fingerprinting methods.

"The fastest we can do a fingerprint reproduction under the standard method is about 40 minutes," Sgt. Toddington said.

The key to the new process, which has been in use for several months at the board police office, is a stabilization processor—an instant printing machine—which raises the latent fingerprint.

Under the standard procedure, fingerprints have to be dusted with a colored powder and photographed twice.

Sgt. Toddington's method is used to help fight smog but, a perennial waterfront problem.

Fingerprints found on plastic commonly used in the packaging of cargo are cut away from the rest of the plastic and used as a photographic negative would be in processing through an enlarger.

The fingerprint is reversed by putting it face to face with a piece of treated paper in a contact printer unit which produces a positive print when processed through the instant printing machine.

"As far as we know, the process has not been tried anywhere else," Sgt. Toddington said.

The idea of reproducing fingerprints without using the lengthy photographing process came to him after he attended an RCMP college course in Ottawa earlier this year.

He outlined the process to harbor board officials in Montreal, who forwarded it to the RCMP.

Blood-stained Gloves Found

Army Asked to Hunt Missing Constables

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — A search resumed today for two city policemen who disappeared Thursday night while working on a kidnapping case.

Up to 400 searchers were combing farms and woods along the banks of the Petitcodiac River, 30 miles west of Moncton.

Gloves stained with human blood were found Friday in a car seized in connection with the disappearance of Cpl. Arthur Bourgeois, 47, and Constable Michael O'Leary, 33. The revelation Friday night that the blood had been identified as human deepened fears for the lives of the two men.

Chief C. M. Weldon of the 115-man Moncton force asked through Mayor Gary Wheeler Friday night that troops from Canadian Forces Base Gagetown and local militia units be available for renewed searching today of woods and back roads in the west of Moncton.

Police got dozens of offers from the public to join the search but turned them most because of the "armament" involved. They welcomed assistance from other police forces in the area.

Searchers, using police dogs and a helicopter Friday, carried hand guns, rifles and shotguns. Small-bore boats were to be employed today in the Petitcodiac Lake area.

Raymond Slein, 14, the son of restaurateur Cy Stein, was kidnapped from his home around midnight Thursday and released unharmed four hours later, after a ransom was paid. Two hooded, armed men were reported using his home when he entered with his gasoline truck. The youngster was unharmed, was bound but freed herself to report the abduction.

Police, after ransom was soon demanded, dropped $15,000 in a ditch and followed up his car further down a road in suburban Riverview.

About this time, Cpl. Bourgeois and Constable O'Leary reported by radio they were going to check out a suspicious car in the area of the ransom drop. They have not been heard from since.

Their car, a private one borrowed from another officer, was found about 9 a.m. containing a shovel and the case for the two-way radio. The radio, the officers sidearms and a shotgun were missing.

Near noon, RCMP stopped a car at Magnetic Hill and arrested the driver, reported to have a criminal record.

Police sources said between $8,000 and $10,000 was confiscated, as well as keys fitting the car used by the two officers.

A few hours later, a second man was arrested on a parole violation and held for questioning in the kidnapping case.

Police were looking for a third suspect, who is not believed to have a car nor to have left the province. They dont think he has the two missing officers with him.

Friday night Chief Weldon began regular public appeals by radio for information regarding the two missing policemen. The city and the local policemen's union offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to the discovery of the two men.

About 50 civic leaders, including the mayor and the chairman of the Moncton Public Safety Committee, met Friday night at the police station as heavily armed officers came and went.

No member of the police force here has been killed on duty in this century.

Deputy Chief Clarence Richard said the two missing men were experienced police officers.

"I just don't see how anything could have happened to them. They were two very fine officers. O'Leary was cautious and a very strong, powerful man. So was Cpl. Bourgeois. I can't see the two of them going up to a car at the same time."

Cpl. Bourgeois has four children aged from 11 to 22 and has been with the force 18 years.

Constable O'Leary, a five year veteran, has two children.

Turkey Prices Falling

TORONTO (CP) — If you haven't bought your Christmas turkey yet, hold off for a few days. That's the advice from wholesalers, who say a price war is knocking the stuffing out of prices of the bird. They say the battle now is concentrated in Montreal and Ottawa — where prices have gone down to 53 cents a pound — but is expected to spread to the west.

Deportation May Cut Off Mexican Help

LEAMINGTON, Ont. (CP) — A farmer said Friday he and other farmers may have trouble finding workers to help with the 1975 harvest because of what happened recently to 14 members of a Mexican Mennonite family who were farm help.

Federal government officials put 14 members of a Mexican Mennonite family on a chartered plane back to Mexico a week ago, forcing the family to leave behind about $2,000 worth of possessions.

Rudy Tiessen of Wheatley, Ont., who brought the family to Canada with a permit, said Friday the 30 to 40 per cent of farm laborers in the area in the past have been Mexican. He and fellow farmers are worried that Mexican workers may have difficulty getting permits in the future to come to Canada, he said.

Ontario Rejects CSAO Demand

TORONTO (CP) — Representatives for the Ontario government and the Civil Service Association of Ontario (CSAO) are to meet today following the government's rejection Friday of the CSAO's demand for a 41-per-cent pay raise in a one-year contract.

Matti Vanhanen, the government's chief negotiator, said the new demand was "totally unreasonable" and refused to make a new offer until the union does, which has threatened an illegal strike Jan. 3 by its 39,000 members, lovers it demands.

Erie Winkler, chairman of the management board, said at a news conference Friday that the new demand by the CSAO would cost taxpayers an additional $85.6 million in 1975.

The association originally asked for a 61-per-cent increase. The province countered with an offer of 20 per cent which would cost taxpayers an additional $23.7 million in 1975.

The civil servants involved are those in the operational category including snow plow operators, food inspectors, stationary engineers, workers at provincially-operated psychiatric hospitals and jail employees.

Jake Norman CSAO chief negotiator, said the drop in wage demands at a news conference Friday night and the strike will go on as scheduled if the government's final offer is rejected in a vote by union members at mass meetings the CSAO has called for Dec. 29 in nine cities.

Tom Traver, CSAO chief negotiator, said there will be a strike if the statement stands.

He said he doubted the union would make any immediate move for a 61-per-cent demand. The union proposal also calls for additional cost-of-living protection for 1975.

Strikes by civil servants are forbidden under the Crown Employees Collective Bargaining Act. Mr. Winkler said it would be the government's decision whether to apply for an injunction to stop a strike.

Mr. Winkler said in his announcement: "The government could not in the name of fiscal responsibility place this additional burden ($85.6 million) upon the taxpayers of Ontario nor can it accede to unreasonable wage demands while asking others to practise financial moderation."

His statement came after a session with CSAO negotiators. He said if the CSAO did not want to put the government's present offer to a vote, it should "make the government a proposal for arbitration as provided in the Crown Employees Collective Bargaining Act.

Although new amendments to the act have not been passed yet, the government would agree to a arbitration board if one member approved by the union, one by the government and one who was mutually acceptable, Mr. Winkler said.

He said if there is a strike, the province has a contingency plan to provide essential services. Roads might be kept clear of snow by superintendents and operators and veterinarians would inspect food.

If 40,000 additional civil servants refuse to cross picket lines in the event of a strike, it was the government's duty to ensure that doors of government buildings remain open and that those who wish to report for work can, Mr. Winkler said.

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Security Council extended Friday until June 30 the mission of the UN peacekeeping force in Cyprus for another six months, ending next June 15. The vote was 14 to 0, with China not participating.

Quebec Bill 22 Tested

Bilingual Girl Wins Right To Attend English Classes

ST. HYACINTHE, Que. (CP) — A bilingual seven-year-old girl has won a ruling in an English-language Grade 1 class Friday after her parents' successful challenge of the St. Hyacinthe district school board's decision to enroll her in an English-language school because her mother tongue is French.

Both parents said they wanted Carol to remain bilingual and insisted the attend English school while living with her French-speaking mother in primarily French-speaking St. Hyacinthe.

The "Brophy case" is significant because the Quebec government now has declared in principle that bilingual youngsters should be able to attend classes in either French or English.

"Her parents are very happy," said Fernand Baralecu, director of Davignon school board, which worked out details of Carol's acceptance in the bilingual Argile Bleu district. "It's like a situation that wasn't straightened out earlier."

The youngster will be bused daily to Ecole Notre-Dame Hyacinthe, where she lives with her divorced mother. Transport and school fees have been waived.

Mr. Baralecu said missing nearly the whole first semester is not "all that serious in Grade 1" and Carol should not have any trouble catching up to her classmates.

St. Hyacinthe school commissioners dropped a demand that Carol attend a French school following a meeting with Education Minister Francois Cloutier.

Man Says He Fought Police Because Jailors Beat Him

TORONTO (CP) — A former Toronto jail prisoner testified Friday that he was so badly beaten by guards there that he later stood off police with a starter's pistol rather than go back to the institution.

James Frost, 22, told the Shapiro royal commission into brutality at the jail that he was once beaten so severely by guards there that his face "swelled over my eyes."

He said he was later transferred to Penetang assessment at a psychiatric hospital and escaped for fear he would be returned to the jail.

Frost said he held police at bay with a decoy starter's pistol before letting himself be arrested and returned to the jail.

He said he was once beaten severely May 25 after a guard found him sleeping on the jail floor with a blanket.

He said that when he protested verbally, the guard began to strike his head. But he sidestepped and the guard's fist smashed into a grill.

Frost testified that another guard arrived and the two grabbed his arms and kept pulling him to the floor.

"I was kicked in the stomach, I screamed and tried to cover my face with my hands. I heard the buzzer (to summon guards) and then there were boots flying all over the place."

Frost's testimony is the first the commission has heard from a former prisoner. The commission was appointed Oct. 9 after reports of beatings alleged by former guard Gary Dassy.

Oil Exporters Will Get Extra 38 Cents a Barrel

VIENNA (AP) — The world's leading oil-exporting nations have adopted a new price system to bring them an extra 38 cents a barrel — an increase of 3.9 per cent.

Oil ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) approved the price increase Friday at the end of a two-day meeting.

OPEC officials said the move is aimed at reducing "unjustified" profits by the Western oil companies.

However, the companies indicated they might pass the higher prices on to the consumer. A spokesman for Gulf Oil Co. said the OPEC action could result in an increase not exceeding one cent a gallon for all oil products at the consumer level.

In Washington, Interior Secretary Rogers Morton, chairman of President Ford's Energy Resources Council, said the OPEC price means "all nations will pay an additional $4 billion for imported oil and further depress their economic activity.

OPEC announced that the new price will take effect Jan. 1, and continue for at least nine months. Previous quarterly increases have quadrupled oil prices in the last 18 months.

Pollution Control Bill Under Attack

OTTAWA (CP) — The government was accused Friday of dragging its feet on environmental matters as opposition members demanded restarting of a pollution control bill.

Opposition party spokesmen rejected the Commons environment view that the bill, which would impose strict controls over chemical compounds, is a preventative measure.

"Most of the things that we do are reactions rather than actions," Arnold Peters (ND—Timiskaming) said during debate of a Progressive Conservative amendment to send the bill to committee for reworking.

The bill would give the environment department power to order companies to disclose confidential information about potentially-dangerous chemicals and metals.

"We are saying that when these problems develop, only the companies are in the position to tell us what the pollution will be," Mr. Peters said. "We are not ahead of the development, we are always following the development."

Opposition spokesmen said they support the intent of the bill, but want it toughened.

In-town Trailer Camp Not Major Priority

By AL XARAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Establishing a permanent trailer camp site in Centennial Park, or any other town-owned property should be considered by town council in both unnecessary and too costly.

Talk has been heard in council chambers in the past few months that lands one to Sidlers, councillors if not discouraged, might push for creation of a permanent park in Trenton.

As far as this writer is concerned, Trenton does not need an in-town camp ground for either trailers or tents. Such sites are plentiful with in a short distance of town boundaries.

The primary argument for a town site appears to be the assumption that trailer-owners bring money into Trenton Therefore such a site is to the town's benefit.

Undoubtedly, that assumption is correct. But when will those dollars benefit Sandy, not the town as a whole, but the comparatively few shop owners and their employees. By no means a vast majority of Trenton residents.

It appears supporters of a permanent trailer site fail to realize that Trenton is already in a geographically advantageous position. It sits at the mouth of the Trent River, and although this area is not as heavily travelled as areas further up the Trent Canal, boaters do leave that sought after dollar.

Further, the immediate area is littered with trailer parks. Since Trenton is the largest community within a 10-mile radius of its town hall, would not campers come here to do their shopping?

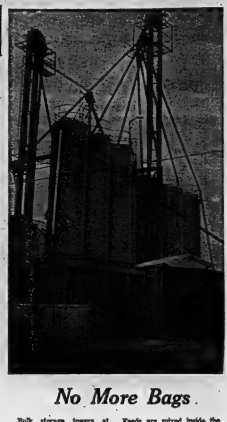
The town also sits on the most direct route to Sandbanks and Outlet provincial parks, it appears logical to assume campers would stop in Trenton on their way there to stock their mini-cupboard.

Trenton is far from the recreational haven of communities in Muskoka or the Kawartha's. It need not provide similar services.

A more persuasive argument exists. Establishing a trailer site in Centennial Park could cost Trenton taxpayers as much as $200,000.

Constituents working on a concept plan for the park have estimated there is only room for 40 lots. Per unit, the cost would run between $4-5,000.

It's an overly-healthy expenditure. Although some owners could be cut in the city of any resulting development would be poorer.



An alternative to a permanent site, at this park exists. Through both town council and the parks board, special arrangements could be made for organized groups of trailer-owners to make use of Centennial Park.

Whereas a parks board by-law presently bans overnight camping in all town parks, the situation could be changed several weeks ago. A bedding battle between the two organizations was slipped when the board agreed to pass a bylaw to permit trailer caravans in the Centennial.

The move allows for a caravan of an estimated 75 air-stream trailers to use the park for four days in May.

In 1970, more than 300 trailers camped in the park for close to a week. Special arrangements, outside the normal bylaw, were made at that time.

Such caravans bring to Trenton concentrated money. And such action does not unsufficient to satisfy the appetites of the trailer conscious, thereby ending any need for a permanent camp site.

No More Bags

Bulk storage towers at Thrasher's Feeds, Coleman and Harriett streets, allow mixed feed to be delivered directly into trucks, eliminating bagging and handling.

Feeds are mixed inside the building and conveyed to the towers for dispensing to farmers' orders. Dump truck is dwarfed by towering structure.

Test Feed Often For Best Results

No one feed supplies the correct amount of all the nutrients your animals need. "For the most economical production, have the feed you use in the largest quantity tested regularly so that you can add the necessary nutrients in the right amounts," says R. E. Kennetsey, Ontario ministry of agriculture and food livestock specialist.

Good managers have their feed tested frequently. Since different fields produce feed with different nutrient levels, nutritional values vary considerably from one feed to the next.

The ministry's feed analysis laboratory charges $5 for a dry matter and protein test, phosphorus, potassium, calcium, magnesium test costs $11.50. The one including manganese, copper and zinc as well, costs $14.50.

Your feed sample kit, made up of an information sheet, a plastic bag for your feed sample and a mailing envelope, can be obtained from your district or county agricultural office. Mail your sample to the Feed Analysis Laboratory, Department of Animal and Poultry Science, University of Guelph, Guelph Ontario N1G 2W1.

Feed Sales Reflect Slump

District feed dealers notice a decline in the number of hobby farm operators that are buying from them this year. They attribute the flurry of cattle waiting to be slaughtered at Quinte-area slaughterhouses to part-time farmers who are selling out when beef is low and feed is high in price.

Bruce Thompson, of Thompson Farm Supplies, said the man who has a job and is fogging a few head on the side is "where the problem lies. After all, they're not making a living out of it. The professional feed lot operator is carrying on as usual." Mr. Thompson estimates feed prices are about one-third higher than they were last year at this time.

Don Thrasher, of Thrasher Feeds, said that feed prices this year started at about where they finished last spring and, subject to government controls, under grain markets in Chicago, and Winnipeg, labor disputes and other factors, could be expected to go higher.

"The hobby farmers have rocked the boat," he said "The farmer who is in bed for his livelihood has no choice but to keep going and hope the situation improves."

Parade Lacked Participation

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Santa Claus came to town last Saturday but Picton merchants did not join the welcoming party.

Frank Wright, president of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce and chairman for the parade, expressed disappointment with the lack of participation by Picton's men on Main St.

Schools, service clubs, sometimes a group and community organizations saluted the Christmas season by joining the parade. The merchants, who benefit directly from the crowds of shoppers attracted downtown generally made no effort to support their floats.

Merchants should consider the Santa Claus parade their Christmas card to customers who shop with them the year round. By participating in this annual event they could assist in making it truly "bigger and better that ever."

Financial contribution to the Chamber of Commerce to offset costs of the parade certainly must be considered but cash isn't Christmas.

If Picton merchants, independent or in groups readied a dozen floats the annual parade would reflect greater community participation.

School children service clubs and church groups can find time to decorate floats — why not Main St. merchants, too?

If the businessmen were to participate in a group effort rather than a small number of floats cost and labor would be minimal. Well-built scenery and miscellaneous props could be stored from year to year making future participation cheaper and easier.

Picton merchants certainly benefit from the parade more than most of its frozen-fingered customers.

By joining the welcoming committee for Santa, businessmen could display appreciation to customers for their trade.

Several merchants did make time to ready a float last week end and Santa said his he be saw from the basement of a Main Street hardware store.

This participation is just a fraction of the potential on Main St. However, Merchants should increase their support of the Christmas parade, not just through cash contribution but by participation.

Last Saturday's Santa parade indicates the Christmas spirit is not strong among local businessmen but it has not yet reached epidemic proportions.

Sleeper Syndrome Can Kill Feeders

Early diagnosis is vital to the successful treatment of sleeper syndrome, a relatively new problem in Ontario's feedlots.

"This infectious disease, called thromboembolic meningoencephalitis or TEME to scientists, can kill feeder cattle within 24 hours after the first symptoms appear," says Dr. A. A. van Drunen, veterinary specialist with the Guelph veterinary services branch of the Ontario ministry of agriculture and food. "It usually strikes shortly after cattle arrive at the feedlot, and sometimes develops so quickly that infected animals die before anyone knows they are sick."

The symptoms of sleeper syndrome resemble those of polio and shipping fever. High fever is the first sign, and shortly after the infected animal begins to look sleepy and severely depressed. It walks with its head down, is reluctant to move, and has a vacant appearance, and off its feed. Later, it becomes still and walks with a swaying, unsteady gait. Complete paralysis soon develops and just before death the animal lapses into a coma.

A veterinarian should be called immediately any of these symptoms appear, since injections of common antibiotics usually stop the disease if they are given while the animal is still on its feet. However, once the animal is down, it is likely to die even if treated. "Take dead animals that may have had sleeper syndrome to a veterinarian or a veterinary services laboratory for post-mortem to confirm the diagnosis," advises Dr. van Drunen.

ROTARY MUSIC FESTIVAL
Entries Close December 31. Get Your Entry In Now!
Rotary Answers Questions Asked By Many Would-Be Entrants
Q. I don't think I'm good enough to participate in the Festival.
A. The Festival is for all calibre of musicians. The Festival adjudicators will be constructive and help you in become more confident, point out weaknesses you might have and suggestions on how to overcome or improve them.
Q. Can I enter more than one class in my one category?
A. Yes. You may enter your own age class and any one class above it. You may also enter the open class in that category.
Q. My own age category is not challenging enough. Do I have to enter it?
A. No. You may enter any one class above your own age class or the open class in that category.
Q. How many people usually are watching and listening while I perform?
A. Usually there are very few in the hall during adjudication. During the day hours (you might be approximately 15 to 30 and in the evenings up to 100. Also these people are reciting for the participants.
Q. I am not as good as someone I know who is entering the same class; so why should I enter?
A. Winning is nice, but that is not the main point of the Festival. Trying to perform to the best of your ability to improve yourself is the Festival's real purpose.
Q. I am an adult and/or a professional but would like adjudication. Is there any class for me?
A. Yes. This year for the first time we are planning an adult and professional day. You are asked to perform 2 contrasting numbers of your choice and then you will be adjudicated. There will be no prizes but it should be like receiving a $25.00 lesson for $5.00.
Q. Even though I earn more than $750.00 a year, with one instrument, can I enter if I play a different kind of instrument?
A. Yes. The qualification applies only to the kind of instrument with which you earn the money. Of course a professional instrumentalist could enter the voice class.
Q. One choir would like to enter, but we know we cannot compete with the big church down the street, is there any problem?
A. Adjudicators understand these differences of size and calibre. They adjudicate, keeping in mind the size of your group and give mark on your performance only.
Q. I think the adjudicators will be too strict and I'm not ready.
A. The adjudicators are there to mark you, but also to help you; you will receive their comments in private later and give you many good tips on how to become better.
Q. Why should I enter? There is nothing challenging enough for me.
A. If you are very good, then there is a possibility the adjudicators will recommend you go on to the Provincial Finals and if you win that — on to the national finals. Financially there are very rewarding, but you must enter the local festival first. For more information phone the Chairman - W. A. Campbell - Day 962-4651, evenings 962-2125.
Q. There is no class listed for my musical talents. What should I do?
A. Phone Robert Johnson (968-2721) or Bill Campbell (962-2125) and we will make sure a class is opened so you can enter.
Q. There is no class listed for our group. What should we do?
A. See answer above.
Q. I came first in my class; but I was not asked to be in the Festival of Stars. Why?
A. Since we have about 70 finals during the festival and we can only accommodate 25 participants in the Festival of Stars and since a varied program is required, many performers who we would like to have, cannot be worked in. This year, however, we will be having two Festival of Stars — one in Belleville on Saturday afternoon, March 1 and one in Trenton on Sunday evening, March 2. This will allow you to use twice as many numbers.
Q. I would like to attend some of the adjudication sessions. How much do they cost?
A. Buying one program on Pre-Sale or at the door will let you enter any adjudication any time and as often as you want.

Energy Problems

The subject of fuel supplies continues to dominate the inflationary economics of this country and beyond at this Christmas season.

Just how fickle the overall fuel situation can be is demonstrated by Ontario Energy Minister McKeough's forecast that natural gas supplies will fall short of demand in 1975, and his comment that "it seems strange to move from a surplus in February to an apparent and increasingly-acknowledged shortage in December."

This does not mean that consumers will feel the pinch immediately. The supply situation locally is satisfactory. However, it is likely will mean curtailment of exports while awaiting completion of the Mackenzie Valley pipeline for delivery of Arctic gas, and while production at existing fields is expanded.

McKeough contends that the situation has been aggravated by the federal government handling, a point which in light of government bickering and the prevailing economic circumstances few would dispute.

The minister suggests for example that the "competing appetites of the federal and provincial treasuries" have left the petroleum industry in disarray." He confirms that a major effect of government interference has been to discourage necessary exploration.

Canadians are now reaping the consequences of all the varied factors that have contributed to energy "shortage — war in the Middle East, rip-offs by the suppliers in that region, depletion of resources at home, as evidenced by the predicted exhaustion of the Alberta oil fields by 1982, and of course the federal-provincial in-fighting of past months.

British Cutbacks

In Britain meanwhile, U.S.-style economies are being introduced to ease the situation there. The government is introducing speed limits for vehicles and is encouraging Britons — those who do have central heating as least — to turn down their thermostats. Outdoor advertising will be restricted and other measures taken to economize.

Oddly enough, Britain's long-term prospects could be better even than Canada's. On that score there is the prospect of self-sufficiency when North Sea oil starts producing in quantity, while here in Canada there seems to be little enthusiasm, let alone policy, where development of the Athabasca tar sands is concerned.

Political Memories

Ottawa correspondent Richard Jackson was talking the other day about the turnover among members of parliament and the press since the heady times of 1956 and the pipeline debate, and the election of the following year.

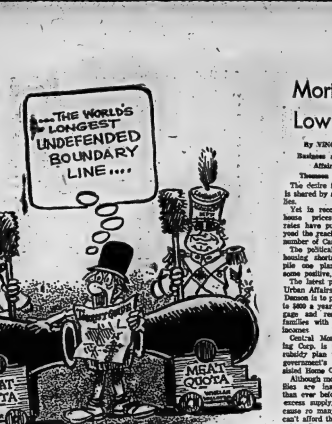
He notes that John Diefenbaker and George Hees are veterans of that period and recalls the power and personality of C. D. Howe, the Liberal government's Minister of Everything and What's-a-Million fame.

The period also holds memories for a member of this staff who recalls the rout of the Liberals and the return of a Conservative government.

He recalls in particular the quiet drama behind the defeat of C. D. Howe in what was then Hastings.

Election rooms were on Cumberland Street, downtown near the Prince Arthur hotel.

C. D. Howe, in a well-worn raincoat and hat, awaited the results. For him it was defeat — by New Democratic Party candidate Douglas Fisher, a teacher and today a leading observer of the political scene in Canada.



The newsman recalls too a cap ride to Fort William with Tommy Douglas who was to address a rally there. Douglas is another veteran of those days.

A lot of water has flowed under the bridges since then.

Comeback

Dutch clogs are making a comeback as footwear, largely on the strength of their popularity among young people who see them as an item of healthy footwear. Whether footwear or medical specialists would agree about this is debatable, but the fact is that local Netherlands production this year is expected to hit three million pairs.

Mortgage and Rent Subsidy For Low or Moderate Income Earners

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Economy Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The decline for decent housing is shared by an Canadian family. Yet in recent years soaring house prices and mortgage rates have put that dream beyond the reach of an increasing number of Canadian families.

The problem struck to the housing shortage has been to pile on the prices even somesome positive, some negative.

The latest proposal of federal Urban Affairs Minister Barnett Danson is to pay subsidies of up to $600 a year toward the mortgage and rental payments of families with low or moderate incomes.

Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. is to administer the subsidy plan under the federal government's $400-million Assisted Home Ownership Plan.

Although more Canadian families are knowledgeable housed than ever before, houses are in excess relative to balance because no many potential buyers can't afford them.

Mr. Danson's proposed subsidies may help builders to reduce their inventory, suggests T. F. Eidner, president-elect of the Canadian Real Estate Board, and thus encourage builders to start construction on more new houses.

(The annual rate of Canadian housing starts has fallen to about 172,000 recently. Last year's starts totalled almost 249,000).

The main thrust of government housing policy has been to make it easier for families to buy. (Naturally. That's where the votes are).

Among other generous measures, the government has introduced $500 grants to couples buying their first house, a registered homeownership savings plan to cancel income tax on up to $20,000 of earnings that a couple might put aside to buy a home, and new mortgage and rental subsidies for families earning up to $18,000 a year in certain areas.

On the supply side, however, the government has done little except to cut the federal sales tax on building materials to five per cent from 11 per cent.

But it's worth remembering that they had traditionally been cheap money years, and that government revenues from that tax in the twenty-month period have exceeded the grants and subsidies for public housing that Ottawa has provided.

A housing policy designed to help first-time buyers of course would place more emphasis on incentives to construction-at, for example, a streamlining of the bureaucratic muddlement that forces developers to hang land in expensive limboes for up to five years while awaiting countless approvals.

In the final analysis, the housing crisis is inseparably linked to the inflation crisis.

The entire industry runs on borrowed capital—from the money the developer borrows to hold raw land for years before he can be allowed to build, through to the mortgage that the ultimate purchaser must assume.

It's surprising that anyone is prepared to lend money at current rates of just under 12 per cent, while inflation is reducing the real value of that money at an annual rate of 12 per cent.

Lenders might foresee some "true" return on their capital in the long run, if they believed that the government had any effective counter-inflationary policy.

Year after year, however, our leaders continue to put their faith in the King Canute tax-cutting concept, as the tide of inflation to recede, meanwhile herding their flock, CAIL administration will find a solution.

As long as the tide of inflation continues to gather strength, almost everybody concerned with housing—lenders, developers, builders, buyers—are its helpless victims.

While Canada and Others Clamp Down...

S. Africa Still Open to Migrants And in Increasing Numbers Today

The South African Financial Gazette

The international trade union campaign against South Africa's settler intake seems at last to be losing its thrust, and immigration figures are actually beginning to boom - so fast that net present levels the Republic should this year close in with its full "economic requirement" of 30,000 settlers.

Reasons behind South Africa's new popularity are not hard to find:

Britain, always our main settler source, is suffering an economic holocaust which is expected to continue its disastrous course till mid-1975. Official estimates are that 1975 will see inflation run at 17 per cent, unemployment at 600,000.

Unofficial estimates are that the true inflation rate will be nearer 25 per cent and unemployment possibly as high as 2 million by the winter of 1975-6.

Ally this with the fact that February is likely to see the worst coal crunch in Britain's history as a result of depleted stocks and renewed strikes, and all the ingredients for a "get-out-and-go" situation are there.

Since the Second World War Australia has traditionally been the "most favoured" nation for British migrants. Gough Whitlam's floundering Socialist Government is rewriting that. Australian unemployment is running at its highest since 1945, while the rate of inflation stands at 21.6 per cent and is rising fast.

Canada, which has always vied with South Africa for second place in British settler intake, today has an oversupply of skills and is maintaining a very low immigration profile.

In almost universally grim pre-xmas conditions, then, South Africa shines out as one of the very few developed nations able and willing to absorb high-skill settlers.

The South African Bread casting Corporation's experience is typical of the fast changing settler scene.

In mid - year it advertised extensively in the British Press for TV announcers. The response was so great that Mr. Dan Esterhuyzen, head of Personnel Administration, extended the scope to include vision mixers, senior camera-men, sound, lighting and set designers, film laboratory technicians and others. He wanted 80 men. They arrived in droves - 1,200 of us, although the last advertisement appeared in September, the SABC is still getting about 25 applications a week.

The standard of applicant, he says, was a "real eye opener - we've never had a reaction like it".

Because of the switchover to computers, official figures on settler arrivals this year are not yet available. Mr. A.P. Ellis, Secretary for Immigration confirms however that all his European offices — London, Glasgow, Paris, The Hague, Berne, Brussels, Cologne, Munich, Hamburg, Rome, Milan Lisbon, and Athens are doing good business, with London and Glasgow showing exceptionally heavy applications.

Last year South Africa received a total of 24,800 settlers, one of the lowest returns for years.

Surveys by the London Evening Standard and other British papers indicate that more than a million Britons are now "firmly determined" to leave the UK. - "while a further 2.5 million are thinking of it". Most of these people are those the U.K. can least afford to lose - the young, the better educated, startling numbers of those qualified indicated that they considered South Africa the most favourable "escape-hatch-lagoon" for their purposes.

The British Medical Association also reports that doctors are showing "an unusual interest in emigrating."

Democrats Mid-term Convention Improves Party's Flagging Image

By JOHN D. HARERON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

The Democrats mid-term convention in Kansas City was the brainchild of Robert S. Strauss, the national chairman of the Democratic party, an innovative and concerned Democrat.

The Democratic party apparatus helped him set up the convention and choose the site. It was up to rank-and-file Democrats to make their views known to the world.

The meeting views now include the newer elements of urban blacks and impoverished American ethnic communities, the party's middle-of-the-roaders, well-meaning liberals and the trade union movement.

The near takeover of the 1972 Democratic convention, (which George McGovern won by the skin of his eyeteeth) exacerbated, by the blacks, student groups, women's and liberal groups of enfranchised ethnics, scared Americans.

Republicans of course were more scared than the mass of Democrats in the White House would mean anarchy. Hence their cautious differences which went hot and heavy for a lawyer-President, Nixon.

But the Democrats in the Democratic party, the labor unions and trade union leaders as well as lingering Democratic civic organizations, such as the old Tammany Hall, were just as worried about the style of McGovern's campaign and the kind of support he got from the "amateurs".

Nor did the revelations of Watergate necessarily bring these various groups together within the Democratic party. What they did was to take the risk last week in Kansas City, this kind of convention with a new charter, and a new order within the party.

What the delegates call "the new charter" though not a rigid one, is the Democrats' new constitution.

Democrats, nevertheless represent different views as well as retreats on all sides.

The "new charter" embodies both the older reforms of the

But this is really nit-picking. Watergate was the issue in the 1972 convention and several figures in it.

What he brings the tension of this convention very much alive.

Then also he was a principal figure in the 1968 Democratic Hydro building affairs and Watergate, the details of these which we have not had before.

The book is not written as history, but it is a fascinating, fast part of our historical record.

But above all it is readable.

And then it is revealing.

It gives a picture of Inside politics in the Province of Ontario which he probably can't find in any other source.

Mr. Rowe has had a tremendous amount of effort into his work. And it has proven worthwhile.

New Book About Ontario Politics Features Rise of Premier Davis

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Reporter
Thomson News Service

TORONTO — We now have a book on current Ontario politics on the market.

The Power and The Stories, published by Macmillan, now is on the book-store shelves at a price of $12.95 a copy.

The book is written by Jonathan Manthorpe, an English-trained newspaper man, who for the last several years has been assigned to cover Queen's Park and provincial affairs by the Globe and Mail.

Power is essentially a good book.

Its title is a bit misleading in that it claims to include Pre-Bill Rices 1943 to the Present.

This is hardly accurate.

Here precisely it is the story of the rise of Bill Davis, the intrigue in the background of putting him into office, and how he fails he has met since.

There are chapters and references to the Progressive Conservatives since 1943, but they are essentially filler material as well as points are questionable even as to that.

For example even some of the dates are wrong.

But the story is a stirring one and it is admirably told.

Some of the assessments may be questioned.

(One of these is that as educationist Bill Davis was a good deputy administrator. He wasn't. He was a good builder and creator. But the administration of the education department under his regime was atrocious).

John Turner's Staccato Style

Montreal Gazette

When Finance Minister John Turner sticks his thumbs in his waistcoat pockets, juts out his jaw and says he is going to be frank with the Canadian people, most of us these days have learned to remain a fair way back from the edge of the cliff. But as the minister raps out those clipped phrases, we may even wonder whether he is going to lead us into a new generation's Pearl Harbor, or into starvation and the like, best of them.

Mr. Turner has discovered a new word for public debate and deliberation. It is "confrontation". And he has had. Therefore the wish of the provinces to have open sessions of the federal-provincial finance conference must be vetoed by Ottawa. From confrontation and things that go bump in the night - Good Lord spare poor Canada!

And spare him, too, from trotting, galloping and, most especially, running inflation. Do not ask him to lead us. Let him stick with the Canadian pastures of single-digit price rises.

Mr. Turner says that if we - we the businessmen, we the employees, we the farmers, we the consumers - are in a hurry very hard and come up with guidelines for restraint, he will suffer more than double-digit inflation, why he will compensate us. Out of our not-quite-inflation - indexed taxes, presumably.

As we get together to limit our inflation problem, Mr. Turner is sure to offer us other assistance - meeting places, simultaneous translation and that sort of thing. And he figures it will be time enough if we come up with something for him by the idea of March. Not a pushy or dynamic fellow at all, Mr. Turner. Why either that hardy aspidistra of a politician dwells a shrinking violet crying to be let out.

Bible Digest

by H. S. DEAN

"Giving thanks unto the Father ... who hath delivered us from the power of darkness, and hath translated us into the kingdom of his dear Son." Colossians 1:12, 13.

Every redeemed soul is responsible for a world yet in darkness. We ought to share the light speedily.

Short Buses and Speed Limits

Kitchener - Waterloo Record.

Ontario law now requires motorists to stop their cars when a school bus is taking on or letting off pupils, but only under certain conditions. Cars are forbidden to pass a school bus only if the bus's flasher lights are working, and only if the bus is stopped where the posted speed limit is more than 35 miles an hour.

The obvious wrinkle in the law is dangerously unrealistic. It calls for many sudden judgements that motorists are often fail to make. Who can remember, in a split second, whether the last speed-limit sign he saw said 35 or 40? The complexity of the law makes it both hard to obey and hard to enforce.

The government has recognized the flaw and has announced plans to improve it. Legislation is expected to simplify the rule, and make it applicable to another section to pass any school bus, on any road that is leading or including passengers.

Objections to this sensible intention comes from a surprising source. A convention of Western Ontario chiefs of police, at Goderich, has passed a resolution urging the government not to extend the stopping requirement. Among those in support of this resolution was Goderich Chief Bob Gray, who argued that requiring motorists to stop in any area where cars at 35 or less would create traffic problems.

Point Edward Chief J.H. Clarke went farther than Chief Cook, with the claim that cars have a better system if stopping for pedestrians than a majority of his colleagues at the Goderich meeting.

At conventions some resolutions tend to get passed with great speed and small thought. Whatever traffic hazard is created does not match the hazard of letting traffic pass by while small children's lives are put at risk.

Waterloo Region, unfortunately, was not represented at Goderich when this resolution was passed. If it had been there, no doubt it would not have passed as easily. Regional Police Chief Wilfred Heurlich supports Ontario's plan to make it a simple rule for all motorists to stop wherever a school bus is loading or unloading pupils.

"You can't provide too much safety for kids," says Chief Heurlich, showing a better sense of priorities than a majority of his colleagues at the Goderich meeting.

We Need to Feel Guilty Whenever We Really Are

By DR. GORDON C. SMITH

The most central to Christmas was not an uncommon name for Jewish children. They often received it in admiration of the boy who succeeded in it.

However, the true heir of the great Law-Giver was not "Joshua the son of Nun", who took Canaan by force of arms, but Johoshua ben Miriam", Jesus of Nazareth, born of Mary, who was conceived by the Holy Spirit, who came to win the world by the peaceful love. "You shall call by name Jesus, for he will save his people from their sins" (Matthew 1:21).

The popular attitude in recent years is that sin is an old-fashioned, dangerous doctrine, which produces unnecessary guilt. It inhibits. It should be got rid of by any means, including psychiatric help.

Some have succeeded only too well. By confusing abnormal guilt and normal guilt, a moral laxity has been producing bitter fruit.

If somebody deserts his family, cheats at every opportunity, seduces, perverts, exploits the economy, ignores the plight of the poor or bludgeons in the deepest sense of the word, he should feel guilty until he has a genuine change of heart. Sometimes we all need to stand before a mirror and face up to how rotten we are.

In his autobiography, E. Stanley Jones tells of a time in youth when he evangelist, Robert J. Bateman, came to his church. Dr. Jones recounts the significance of watching and listening to "a converted alcoholic, on fire with God's love":

"I said to myself, 'I want what he has'. One night I prayed, 'O Jesus, save me tonight.' And he did! The centre of being was changed from self to Saviour."

Christmas is pregnant with hope over redeemed lives and mankind's redemption. Arnold Toynbee, one of the greatest historians having reviewed the disintegrating societies of humanity, continues:

"But now, as we stand and gaze with our eyes fixed on the farther shore, a single figure detaches itself from the flood and straightway fills the whole horizon. That figure is the Savior."

Meanwhile, if we try to handle the tumor of sin by ourselves, the death of Christ has no possibility to God and others afflicted by it. When we admit our powerlessness and turn to Jesus, we are open to ourselves and, thank God that we have been loved by One who "will save his people from their sins."

Turkey's Largest Mosque Two Years Behind Schedule

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkey's largest mosque is under construction here two years behind schedule and $5 million over the estimated cost.

The Kocatepe Mosque can handle 20,000 worshippers at a time, 10,000 on the floor and 5,000 each in a gallery and a lower floor.

Its architects, Fatin Uluengin and Hayrey Tayla, said the interior is nearly 100 feet by 220 feet with a dome about 160 feet high.

Originally the cost was estimated at $3 million plus. The present estimate is more than $7 million. The mosque was to have been completed in 1976. The most optimistic date now is 1977.

Construction of a mosque of radically modern design with minarets like rocket ships was started on this site in 1963.

In 1967 it was demolished as experts said the foundation was unsafe and the design unfeasible. Conservative Moslems had criticized its modern form.

That year the foundation was dug for the present mosque, a copy of Ottoman-style architecture of the 16th and 17th centuries when the Turkish empire was at its peak.

The expert workmen, who in the past have learned skills passed down over generations, live on the construction site.

Semih Ucar is making and laying the "lapis" lazuli which will cover the central dome. 80 feet in diameter, and eight turbe when the job is done. It will handle 1.5 tons of lead a day and finished 44 tons of lead plating for the central dome in June 1973. He is plating the tips of the four minarets which rise 300 feet high.

Inside the mosque will be a library, school, offices of Turkey's religious affairs department, a museum, clinic and soup kitchen for the poor; a covered hall for prominent visitors, tourist shops and an underground parking lot which can also be used as a bomb shelter.

The central dome sits on four "legs" which support 1,000 tons of concrete.

Construction has been slowed by lack of funds. Response to a public fund-raising campaign has been steady but insufficient. One of the largest individual gifts was $7,000 from the government of Saudi Arabia.

The Turkish government has been the main donor.

The mosque is nearly twice the size of Istanbul's famous Blue Mosque and slightly larger than the stately mosque of Selleyman the magnificent in old Turkey's largest.

Modern worshippers will protrate themselves on what will be perhaps the world's largest wall-to-wall carpets, covering the 30,000 square feet of main floor.

Carols' End Forecast Almost 100 Years Ago

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — In 1862, a writer named William Hesse predicted that Christmas carols would soon be an extinct form of music.

Hesse's prediction couldn't have been more off-key. For in 1974, millions of Americans will again celebrate Christmas with carols.

They will be perpetuating a tradition that has been in existence for many centuries, says the American Music Conference, headquartered here.

While was the first Christmas carol is sung.

Some observers say it was Gloria, the song attributed to the angels when they first saw the Christ child. The formal caroling tradition is said to date back to the time of Telephorus, the first Bishop of Rome, decreed that Gloria be sung in the early days of Christmas day.

Others trace the formal birth of caroling to 12th-century Italy when St. Francis of Assisi invited friends to sing nativity songs around his creation of the manger scene.

Yet as early as the fifth century in France, holiday celebrants were gathering in village squares to sing carols accompanied by rubs and lyres. In the 14th century, choirs whose were used to accompany caroling minstrels when they entertained nobility during the Christmas season.

The dawning of the Renaissance lifted the blanket of austerity that dominated church music through the Dark Ages. Wassail a mass joyous expression for their religious views, peoples linked their Christmas songs with dance-oriented community circle dances. However, in some areas of Europe, churches associated circle dances with witchcraft and banned caroling.

The caroling custom was also considered out of harmony with the times in mid-19th century England. The Puritans there, frowning on the joyous nature of many carols, made it a crime to print or sing carols of any kind.

Since many of the early carols weren't written down but were passed along by wandering minstrels and folk singers, they were thought to be many word and melody changes that their creators probably wouldn't recognize them today.

Joy to the World, for example, caused many cultures before evolving into its present form.

The words were probably written by an ancient Hebrew. Converted later, in 1719, the words were paraphrased by Isaac Watts, who wrote some 52 volumes of published carols. The current music was adapted from Handel in 1741. In 1836, American composer Lowell Mason rewrote the carol as we know it today.

A sizable number of carols have been written or sung against a backdrop of war or slavery.

When the English besieged the French in 1428 at Orleans, a truce was set for the duration of the Christmas holidays. The English requested and obtained for a night the services of Jeanne d'Arc minstrels who played Christmas music on trumpets and clarions.

In 1863, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow expressed war-weary sentiments in his "Christmas Bells". I heard the Bells on Christmas Day. In the poem he compared the peace and stillness of a Christmas morning to the war sounds around him.

Jesus is Born, said to be the first North American carol, told the story of the nativity in Indian dialect. It was written around 1645 by French missionary Jean de Brebeuf, who sang it in the Huron tongue for his Indian converts.

A number of carols were written in the southern United States in the 18th century. Two such songs, Rise up Shepherd and Follow and Mary Had a Baby were composed by slaves.

Whether their origin or form, Christmas carols have historically been a mainstay for people of all races and nationalities who expressed the Yule spirit through song.

Seat Belt Facts For Non-Wearers

If you're one of those people who don't - won't wear seat belts, here are some things you won't want to know.

At the recent annual American Association for Automotive Medicine conference in Toronto, Dr. L.S. Harris, chief medical examiner for the state of Vermont, described the case of a woman who was killed - almost cut in two, he said - by an improperly worn seat belt. A seat-belt buster, she would have survived as did three other persons in the car, had she been wearing her seat belt properly adjusted.

Dr. Harris also said that of 127 persons who died in traffic accidents in a two year period, only one was wearing a seat belts in rear - end collisions or in accidents in which the car rolled over.

In fact, fatalities among belt-users amounted to less than one per cent compared with 8.3 per cent among non-users involved in accidents.

Another study presented at the conference revealed that occupants within a car caused 22 per cent of the injuries when their bodies collided. The study showed that 13 per cent of these body collisions were severe or fatal.

It proves that persons who don't wear safety belts endanger the lives of other occupants, not just themselves.

When you're towing your snowmobiles around on the highways this winter, remember that drivers towing trailers are four times as unsafe as those driving cars. A trailer out of control has its own momentum which affects the car's acceleration, manoeuvrability and braking.

You can buy liquid shampoos in at least 45 different sizes — a wasteful kind of packaging promotion that only adds to consumer confusion. That — and a lot of other things will be rectified with new consumer packaging and labelling legislation which will cut that number by about 20 per cent. The legislation takes effect in March, 1976.

Ann Landers

Mom and Dad — They're Greatest

Dear Ann Landers: I am forty 3 years old and have been reading your column for about four years. I'm glad to see that letter from the 15-year-old boy who wanted to start a 4-H's Lib. May I answer him by writing an open letter to my parents?

Dear Mom and Dad:

I love you for making me do my fair share of the work around the house.

I love you for talking to me — and for listening to me.

I love you for being strict enough to keep me in line, yet lenient enough to allow me to make some decisions for myself.

I love you for making me take the consequences when my own decisions don't turn out so good.

Thank you for all the quiet sacrifices you've made for me. I'm sure you often even thought you don't think I do. You are the greatest.—Blessed

Dear Blessed: I'm not giving any hint as to whether you are a boy or a girl—or what city your letter came from. Millions of parents would like to believe this letter was written by their child. Let them.

Dear Ann Landers: I saw myself in your column recently and was glad you gave the advice you did. It was the letter from the bride whose parents died within a short time of each other and she felt a moral obligation to make a home for her 14-year-old sister.

That sister gave her stomach ulcers and nearly ruined my marriage. She was lazy, incon siderate, dishonest, and a true troublemaker. Your advice was to find a foster home for the girl and "everyone will be better off."

I had the same trouble—only it was my brother. My husband couldn't stand him and the fact was too much for me to handle. He was 15 and incorrigible. I had to get him out of my home and the kid for two solid years and spent my taking so many tranquilizers I was like a zombie.

Finally we found a foster home for my brother and I only wish we had done it two years earlier. I know now that his life was miserable and we weren't doing him any favors.

Please keep telling your readers that when a man and a woman marry, their first obligation is to each other.—Older And a Lot Wiser

Dear O. and W.: Thanks for your letter. I received several clobbers when I printed it. I thought my advice was cruel and heartless. But I'm glad the others got support, are greatly appreciated.

Dear Ann Landers: I especially liked that letter from the 15-year-old whose dad's friend died in an accident. The teenager who wrote regretted the way she and others had treated the girl.

You suggested that she clip the column and "let it serve as a reminder." I'm a reader also and we should never pass up a chance to be kind to a friend or relative who's spending the last.

Your answer was beautiful, Ann. And now I'd like to share a quote by Ralph Waldo Emerson that said the same thing—only better. Here it is: "You cannot do a kindness too soon, for you never know how soon it will be too late."—A Reader Who Wayne Reader

Dear Feel Wayne: I don't mind being one-upped by Ralph Waldo Emerson. He is one of my favorites. And if you have not read his essay on Compensation, I recommend it.

Unique Danish College Open to All Nations

Lena Ambrose left part of her heart at the International People's College in Denmark when she spent a seven-month session there two years ago. Last month she went back for a visit. Lena Nelsen, one of the senior teachers (as well as president of the World Federalists) was so glad to see her he put his arms around her in a great bear hug — and so did his wife.

Lena was an unusual student. She went to Denmark to learn, but ended up teaching as well as learning. She was older than most, and students in the various classes felt comfortable with Lena. She was one of them, and yet she had the experience and personality of a wise mother, too. She made for herself a spot in the hearts of both students and teachers.

At the International People's College — a unique "folk high school" — she specialized in the humanities — psychology, politics, international affairs. Her great interest was in people and their well-being. At the time she was there, there was no academic room for a nation and it was thrilling to get a world view. Lena doesn't think we would have wars if people understood each other more.

One thing that students at I.P.C. are told is "You are here to learn, not to criticize." You don't say to an African native, "You shouldn't live like that". People have their own way of life. They may not even know it if they are poor; and they are happy.

Last year the International People's College had 13 Canadian students — a record. My sister and I visited there in 1970, and Lena is sure that most of them learned about this unique residential school through what I wrote about it afterwards.

You can go for three months. The tuition is still reasonable, since the college is subsidized by the government. Students help by most some of the cost by giving about six hours of their time weekly to helping with the chores — in office or library or dining room or by doing some of the gardening and outside work. This is actually an advantage, because it provides informal mixing with people from many lands — an important reason the student has come.

When Lena was there last month, a delegation of 11 Danish agriculturists, two of them women, were spending two weeks at the college and interviewing around Denmark looking at individual and collective farms.

Then there was a panel-of-eight meeting, to exchange ideas about life in Newfoundland. Lena was on the panel; others were from such countries like Ethiopia, El Salvador, Japan, Norway, with one enlightening discussion, followed by a nice old-fashioned dance".

Lena loved the Polish practice of kissing the back of the dance partner's hand before commencing dancing. When they could not speak English they managed with signs.

When Lena heard comments about her age, her response was, "I'm no older than you are; I've just lived longer". Think about it! Lena is willing to tell more about the college to anyone who might like to write to Box 111, asking to tell more about how to be in touch with the college is anyone who would like to write to me. It will be the experience of a lifetime for anyone who can take it as for a three-month course.

Useful Gifts You Can Make Yourself

Has the Yuletide panic got to you yet? Are you worrying about how you're going to manage to buy all the presents you're expected to give?

Make your own Christmas gifts!" recommends a homemaking magazine.

Sure, but are you the sort of person who can whip up a fantastic fruit cake or crochet veils and bonnets?

Did you think about Christmas in September and make orange-and-clove pomanders and potpourri?

Depressing, isn't it? Well, cheer up. Here are at least a few quick and easy things to do, that will brighten the lives of the people who get them.

PEN AND PENCIL HOLDER

Get yourself an empty can. The kind that holds filter coffee is just the right shape. Wash it well, dry it, and paint the inside in pretty color if you have paint. Otherwise, just leave the inside alone, except for placing a thick round (yes-folded) sponge in the bottom of the can.

Go through all your old magazines and newspapers, looking for pictures and words that you associate with the person for whom you're making this gift. Then, clip out letters from headlines, in order to spell out the person's name over and over again.

When you've finished your collection, glue the pieces of paper in random fashion all over the outside of the can. When your collage is finished, let it dry, and then shellac the whole surface thoroughly several times until the can is quite glossy.

Fill it up with colored felt-tip pens and pencils.

BEADS

A string of beads for a friend can come from your kitchen, not the jeweller.

You'll need one cup of cornstarch, two cups of baking soda, one and one-quarter cups of cold water, plus powdered dye in the two or three colors of your choosing.

Combine soda and corn starch in a saucepan. Stir in water. Heat over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture reaches a slightly moist, mashed potato consistency. Turn out of pan and cover with a damp cloth. Let cool completely. Knead the mixture and divide into two or three segments. Add a couple of teaspoons of dry powder to each segment and knead in to make a solid color.

Form balls, of dough about ½ inch in diameter and insert a large pin or wire through centre to form hole. Allow beads to dry overnight.

String together with button thread.

If desired, the beads can be covered with a protective plastic finish like polyurethane.

GAMES

An ideal stocking stuffer for children who'll be doing post-Christmas travelling with their parents: a roll-up game board. Buy a 12-inch felt square and extra felt to make the details. Cut the stripes of felt — in a contrasting color — and mark off one side of the felt square for tic-tac-toe. Firmly glue on the strips with white all-purpose glue. Cut out circle of felt and squares of felt in the appropriate colors to symbolize "Xs and Os".

Then for the inside of the 4 foot long ribbon in the middle of one edge. When thoroughly dry, roll up with pieces inside. You can adapt the same idea for a checkerboard, cutting squares of contrasting color to make the alternating red and black squares on the large felt piece.

DOLLHOUSE

Although ready-made dollhouses are tempting, if you resist the urge to buy, you can make one just as lovely for only pennies.

Trek down to the supermarket and get two wooden orange crates. Take one apart so you have separate slats to make floors for three equally-divided storeys in the other intact crate laid on its side.

With bits of carpet remnants, paper, fabric ends and a little ingenuity, you can create two different rooms on each floor.

Glue or two ceramic tiles, a pocket mirror, and some cardboard furniture can fill a room out nicely. You can make a bed by stuffing a well-rinsed sardine can with a cotton-batten mattress.

Birthday cake candles will serve nicely as decoration on a soapdust table, and rummaging through child-drawers should provide you with corks, lids and empty plastic pill vials for other inventive interior decorating.

Stick some little dried flowers in an old perfume bottle for a floor ornament, and paste some Christmas cards on the "walls" as paintings.

RING TOSS

Cut the end off a worn out broom or rake. Paint it a bright color with enamel paint and glue it to the centre of a heavy piece of wood, which should also be painted. Cut two or three rubber rings together to give each ring good tossing weight, and coat them with a little more glue, then roll in "sparkle dust".

Make at least six of these rings, and wrap the ring toss game in a box with directions for play pasted on bright paper.

Wrap the parcel in the colored comics section of a newspaper, pasted together sprinkle more sparkle dust on the glue-dampened surface. Let it dry, and you've another candy cane for each of your children on top.

Students Pick Gifts for Aged

If there's a person on your Christmas list who lives in a nursing home, try Health Care Aids students have some suggestions for you.

The students, who graduate from the Loyalist College course Friday, say the fall and doing their clinical practice in area nursing homes.

As a result, their concern prompted them to compile this list of useful gifts.

The students are Mary Drake, Cathy Vanmaander, Maureen Nolan, Theresa Stanborough, Marie Myatt, Eunice Glenn, Audrey Cole, Donalda Van Camp, Shirley Cox and Gail Harvey.

Here's their list: portable hair dryer; large body powder puff; non-skid slippers with good arch support; kids bone with elastic stretch tops; washable sleeper or housecoats, buttoned down front; small square or rectangle pillow; flat with washable rip-on covers; large type books and playing cards; extra thick, medium sized jigsaw puzzles; chair bumper pads, washable covers; cotton under-vests and panties; sewing elastic; lipstick; powder and deodorant.

More suggestions: electric razor; eyelia or cushion foot socks; soft light hair brush; styling combs; manicure set; compact sewing kit; large dial watch or clock; large print calendar; translator radio; ceramic flowers cup; small hand mirrors; large hand magnifying glass; washable afghans; drawer organizer.

Other good ideas: pant hangers; note paper with stamps; soft hair rollers; hair clips for the elderly; invisible hair nets; flannel night gowns, open at back; material for crocheting, knitting & quilting; quilted robes; crewel woven name tags; tin of English fruit drops for diet allows.

Useful, too are suspenders for mens trousers; shoe organizer; reversible bib aprons; lightly scented soap; small foot stools (washable finish); song records with song sheets.

The students add that the best gift of all is a visit.

Toys for the Very Young

The Canada Safety Council warns that toys for very young children and infants should be chosen with extra care.

For example, be sure that the toy is too large to swallow and that it does not have detachable small parts that can lodge in windpipe, ears or nostrils. Be sure it is not apt to break easily into small pieces or have jagged edges.

The toy should not have sharp edges or points and is not constructed with straight wire, sharp wire, nails or the like that might be easily exposed. Glass and brittle plastic are not suitable materials. Be sure toys are labelled non-toxic and non-inflammable.

Youngsters who put things in their mouths habitually should not be given painted toys.

Toys with cords or strings more than 12 inches long or parts that might pinch fingers or toes or catch hair should also be avoided.

Equal Shares Proposed In Matrimonial Home

TORONTO (CP) - A man and woman seeking divorce should be entitled to equal shares in their matrimonial home, the Ontario status of women council said Thursday.

The proposal, among several adopted by the council during a full-day meeting, endorses one of 125 recommendations contained in an Ontario law reform commission report on family property law.

Under legislation proposed by the council, the matrimonial home would be considered the principal family residence with both husband and wife guaranteed equal shares, regardless of which spouse held registered title.

The proposal is aimed at supporting a view of marriage as an equal social and economic partnership and at recognizing contributions made by both partners in a union, including the contributions of wives who do not work outside the home.

Such legislation would apply unless a couple jointly agreed to some other arrangement.

"We believe that government should not regulate the economic affairs of an on-going marriage, nor impose a universal regime which must be applied to every married couple regardless of their wishes," says a draft report, which is to form the basis of council policy on family property law. The policy likely will be presented later this month to Ontario Attorney-General Robert Welch.

"Legislation should be confined to providing a fair, simple, known regime which will apply to those couples who have not made their own property arrangements."

A husband and wife would be free to draw up their own contract governing distribution of property but only after each had "availed themselves of independent legal advice." Such agreements also would be subject to judicial review if either spouse so requested.

The council rejected as too rigid another proposal by the law reform commission which would allow "deferred community regime." That recommendation would allow separate ownership of property during marriage but, in the event of divorce, would require couples to divide equally their combined assets.

Such a regulation likely would be extremely unfair to one spouse, the council said. It plans to call instead for a set of guides and a system of judicial discretion which would determine the division of assets at the dissolution of marriage.

Report Urges $3.50-increase For City's Crossing Guards

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A recommendation to Bellevile city council next week suggests the $34 weekly pay of school crossing guards be raised to $3.50.

But that still isn't enough, claims Albert Barker, 72, who recently protested to city hall the wages allotted himself and other crossing attendants.

The proposal — on the agenda for Monday's council meeting — is contained in a report requested by councillors from city manager Wilbur Purcell.

In his report, Mr. Purcell reminds council that the $34 now paid the guards just exceeds the minimum hourly wage of $2.25.

Following a recent contract with recreation-arena employees it appears in order to pay crossing attendants $3.50 an hour, he said.

Crossing guards, he notes, work four daily shifts that total 13 hours a week.

But, said Mr. Barker Fri-

50-per-cent Increase?

day, what with travelling to and from duty, time involved is closer to 20 hours.

Based on a minimum wage this means guards should receive about $45 a week.

Rising transportation and clothing costs are hitting the guards, most of whom are fixed-income pensioners, Mr. Barker wrote in his earlier report.

The proposed increase isn't "much help," Mr. Barker said.

"I hope some of the councillors will have a better idea," he said.

Ellis Says Pay Boost 'Not Unreasonable'

There is a consensus of agreement among federal politicians on a bill expected to give them a 50-per-cent pay increase, Jack Ellis, MP Hastings, said today.

Terms of the bill have not yet been seen by Opposition MPs and "frankly, the increase is higher than many of us had anticipated," said Mr. Ellis.

"But my understanding is that there are only about five or six members in the whole Commons that are upset."

The long-awaited bill will be introduced in the Commons next week, House Leader Mitchell Sharp said Friday.

It follows a report to the government from an informal MPs committee which is believed to have recommended salaries be increased to $27,000 an dallowances to $12,000.

At present, MPs receive a basic $18,000 a year, plus $8,000 in tax-free allowances. Last parliamentary increase was in 1971.

Mr. Ellis said he has heard nothing about the bill being introduced up to the weekend adjournment of the Commons Friday.

But Mr. Sharp is expected to hold a news conference on Monday to discuss the issue. There were reports Friday in Ottawa that the bill will be on the Commons order paper for Monday and that the government hopes to see it passed before Christmas recess next Friday.

While the reported size of the increase is greater than he expected, Mr. Ellis said he didn't find it "unreasonable."

It equalled about six per cent a year since the last increase. Contrasted to pay raises in other sectors "that doesn't sound unreasonable," he said.

Costs Won't Stop

City council has a recommendation that school crossing guards get a $3.50 weekly pay raise. But, Albert Parker, 72, who raised the issue, thinks that's too small a boost to $34 now paid guards who can't keep up with the rate of inflation.

Health Care Graduates Offer Needed Service

Ten Loyalist students in the health care aide program received their graduation pins and certificates in an 11-minute ceremony at the college Friday.

Two of the graduates Mary Druker and Catherine Wannamaker, are Belleville residents. The others are Donalda Drennan and Maureen Nolan of Trenton, Audrey Cole of Havelock, Esmie Glenn of RR 2, Hastings, Gail Harvey of Roslin, Marie Myatt of Picton, Shirley Oke of Odessa and Theresa Stanborough of Bancroft.

Certificates were presented by P. H. King, dean of faculty, while the pins were handed out by Jean Woods, course instructor. Congratulations were extended by W. F. Rockley, director of the school of health sciences and community studies, and June Rickard, chairwoman of the allied health programs.

Graduates are hired in homes for the aged and by some hospitals with chronic care areas, said Mrs. Rickard.

"In the course) is the first real effort to standardize preparation for the aides."

The new course was set up in 1971-72 by the provincial government. Loyalist was one of the first community colleges to offer the course when it began here in September, 1972.

She explained employers can now be assured of long-term full-time employees with college training who like their work and wish to continue.

Bigger Cars Making Comeback

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The gas-guzzling big car is on its way back.

Sales managers of three of Belleville's largest new car dealerships all said during interviews this week the big car is springing back from the energy crisis-licking it took last year.

Glen Cowieson of Trudeau Motors, said this past October was the biggest October in the company's 50-year history.

"Luxury cars are strong," he said, "I don't think there is an energy crisis in Canada."

Mr. Cowieson drew reference to the statistics which show U.S. sales slumping by 25 per cent last year while Canadian sales climbed by about 10 per cent.

"Canadians are more stable than the Americans — not as trendy and excitebable," he said.

Because of the strong downward sales trend in the U.S., the big three manufacturers, Ford, General Motors and Chrysler, have been laying off thousands of workers in recent weeks.

Bruce Lyons said business is strong but that delivery in the early portion of the new year might be affected by the layoffs.

Mr. Lyons agreed big cars are on their way back. When the gas scare came along dealers swung over to small cars anticipating an economy conscious motorist.

"Big cars started coming back by July and August," said Mr. Lyons.

"If anything, small cars are not as strong as they could be," said Mr. Cowieson.

If there has been any reluctance on the part of the consumer it has not been affecting the type of car bought but how often it is driven, he added.

"We all knew the price of gas was going to go up," said Mr.Cowieson. "They (motorists) might think twice about a needless Sunday drive."

Dustie Fact, a Belleville Ford dealership sales manager, said large and small are "running neck and neck."

"The small cars are holding their own but the large cars are increasing," he said. He said his sales are up from last year and that layoffs are not affecting his service.

'Police State Act'

Queen's Park Controls Annoy Travel Agent

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

A Belleville travel agent has charged new provincial legislation designed to regulate the travel industry is "so dictatorial and so arbitrary that it virtually is a police state act."

Anthony D. Warren, a director of Davies and Harvies Travel at 185 Front St., made the comment in an interview Friday on the bill, passed last week, which gives a government-appointed registrar power to licence all agents, tour operators and carriers who provide accommodation.

Future regulations will require an industry-paid, it-millions compensation fund to ensure stranded travellers get their money back. In several years time, most of the fees received in fares will be held in trust funds until trips are completed successfully.

Mr. Warren, a member of the Canadian Institute of Travel Counsellors (CITC) board of governors, and the American Society of Travel Agents (ASTA), said the industry is upset the legislation was rushed through without a chance for comment and suggestions from travel agents.

He said he attended an ASTA meeting in Montreal Sunday to discuss the bill, and to plan future action to push for changes. MPP Frank Drea, parliamentary assistant now is moving into its final debates.

Monday's council meeting will be one of the final sessions for 1973-74 city council.

The meeting's agenda calls for council action on a wide range of topics — from bylaws on barbed wire in a change in location of a trunk storm sewer proposed for northeast Belleville.

Also scheduled: — traffic committee recommendation for concrete sidewalks on the east side of Avondale Rd. from West Dundas St. north to the city limits.

— A motion from Alderman Sid Meeks that the city petition for a change in the date of municipal elections from December to the warmer weather of October.

GRANT RETIRES

A 50-year-old Belleville resident will retire this month from Canadian National after over 33 years as engineer. George A. Grant, father of five children, of 377 Dufferin St., began his career as a fireman in September, 1941. A member of this community for the last 19 years, Mr. Grant was born in the village of Baptiste Lake and formerly lived in Bancroft. His retirement becomes effective Dec. 22.

Students Dash for Cash In 'Chariot-a-thon'

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Trenton High School students injected some fun into fund-raising Friday with the school's first annual Chariot-a-thon to raise money for the Cheshire Home in Belleville.

Although everyone said it was fun, some of the contestants might not agree.

Take Trenton High School teacher Vince Skinner for example.

The entire high school, including principal Jack Sisson, turned out for the races. The principal's chariot, Jack the Ripper, was the class favourite, but was the one which attracted the least view of the day's numerous spills.

Upon completing the race, he waved his white stetson to the crowd and said: "I guess we won, there's none in sight."

The reason? His 10-foot high chariot, which included a plush red leather armchair, was so slow that the other two contestants had already crossed the finish line.

Mr. Warren said he feels "the act will interfere with the agent's ability to function efficiently as a qualified businessman." It will prevent honest agents from making a living and still allow crooked practices to continue, he said.

"It will not prevent theft," he elaborated. "It just makes it possible to punish them if you catch them."

Some Agents Approve Of Government Action

Two city travel agents are pleased with provincial government legislation to require licensing of their industry, but are dubious of total provincial control, feeling the government knows little of the complexities of the business.

"I'm all for it," said Irene Drew, owner of Rokel's Travel Centre at 227 Front St., of the bill passed last week. "I think people should be protected ... it's something they should have had a long time ago."

"So many people have opened up travel agencies that know nothing about it," she explained. "It's just like having a business registered."

However, Mrs. Drew warned the travel industry is a "complex business," and said she felt a government registrar, appointed under the bill, with power over the industry, would know little of it.

"They should have rules," she pointed out. "But I think when we're licensed, the government should not be able to rule on."

John Rawson, owner of Rawson Travel Service Ltd. in the Belleville Plaza, said, "I'm for the idea of licensing ... it gives us more credibility with our clients."

He said, however, he is unhappy with the idea of complete government control, and is concerned over the bill's odds-and-passage without government consultations with the travel industry.

"I'm just upset that they pushed this through without letting us comment," said Mr. Rawson. "I thought we were going to have a lot of co-operation but we didn't. We were just put on."

He noted the bill will mean additional costs to agents, about $100 for a license, plus whatever will have to paid into a future $1-million compensation fund and trust funds.

City Police Consider Centre for Drinkers

The city's police department is looking into the possibility of setting up a centre to help alcoholics and problem-drinkers.

At a police commission meeting Thursday Police Chief Douglas Crosbie outlined some of the operations of Friendship House in Cornwall.

It was suggested at the meeting by Mayor Robin Jeffrey that the ministry of health be contacted to provide a look into the feasibility of a project.

Chief Crosbie said he would report further on the matter at the next police commission meeting in January.

Blaze Damages Hotel

TWEED — A fire that partly gutted the kitchen area of the Sloco Lake Hotel Friday caused over $10,000 damage, says Tweed Fire Chief Ross McNaught.

The chief said smoke and water damage in the hotel, five miles east of Tweed, is extensive.

The blaze started in the deep frier in the kitchen and spread to the various appliances, he said. An explosion above the kitchen area, in which hotel owner Robert Bancroft lived, was also damaged.

No one was injured in the blaze, which started about noon Friday.

Pedestrian Injured

IVANHOE — Marie Hogg, of RR 3 Madoc, is in fair condition in Belleville hospital today with a fractured right hip after being struck by a car while crossing Highway 62, a mile south of here Friday.

Police say the woman was crossing the highway accompanied by 15-year-old Catherine Haggerty, also of RR 3 Madoc, when the accident occurred. The girl was unharmed.

She was stuck by a vehicle driven by David Brady, 22, of Madoc.

People-powered Racers

Trenton High School Tigers football team members rushed down the oval track at the school Friday in an effort to pull their chariot and their fullback Steve Beecroft across the finish line for a victory. Over 15 student-made chariots competed to raise money for the Cheshire Home for the Handicapped Young Adults in the school's first Chariot-a-thon fun and fund raising drive. The Tigers, despite their collective strength and pulling power, failed to earn their second after victory.

Savage Scores Easy Victories

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — Paul Savage of Toronto Avenue, winner of the 1974 Ontario curling championship, scored two victories Friday in his opening in the Ontario Curling Association's challenge round.

The double knockout competition ends Sunday with two rinks advancing to the provincial final Feb. 15-23 in Cambridge.

Savage opened with a 15-4 win over Rick Allen of London after scoring six on the first end, and then downed Murray MacGregor of Guelph 11-8 in second round play.

Also winning twice in the A bracket, which will declare a winner Saturday night, were the rinks skipped by Bill Lovelin of the host Sarnia Golf and Curling Club, Ken Watt of Pickering Annandale, Doug Palmer of St. Catharines, Wayne Matthewson of Toronto Royal Canadian, Jim Watts of St. Thomas, Bruce Munro of Toronto St. George and Ken Bochan of Lo-don Ivanhoe.

Play also opened in the B bracket with the 72 rinks beaut with eight-rinks staying alive by eliminating eight others. Three winning rinks were skipped by Ron Gorrell of Dicks, winner of the 1973 challenge round, Ross Davis of Ottawa Rideau, Bob Shields of Toronto Humber Highland, Glen Corner of Brighton, Earle Morris of Ottawa Navy and Ken Rowan of Richmond Hill.

First round losers, who were to begin play at noon today in the B bracket, are: Jim Mitchell, Humber Highland; Craig Harris, East York; Steve Thomas, Toronto Cricket, Skating and Curling Club; Bill Crerar, Toronto Terrace; Don Gilbert, St. Thomas; Barry Coleman, Bond Cataract; Mac White, Burlington, and MacGregor.

The B bracket winner will be declared Sunday night.

Kiick, Csonka, Warfield Look To Retirement

MIAMI (AP) — Even if the World Football League doesn't meet its financial problems, Sunday's National Football League game with New-England Patriots may be the last home game for Larry Csonka, Paul Warfield and Jim Kiick of Miami Dolphins.

All three have talked of retiring if their contracts to play next year with Memphis Southmen in the WFL are wiped out by a league collapse.

Kiick likely will be the only member of the threesome

Ottawa scored first as Larry Ashby suffered a concussion and was taken to hospital early in the second period after a slapshot by Hamilton's Bruce Selling. Bob Daily replaced Ashby.

The Fincups outshot fourth-place Vets 45-35.

Leafs Getting it Together ?

Flames Burned in Late Going

By ROSS HOPKINS
The Canadian Press

Atlanta Flames came within 40 seconds Friday night of sending a five-game losing streak into Buffalo.

Rick MacLeish burst the Atlanta bubble 17 seconds in the Sabres's slap shot at 18:37 of the final period to give Philadelphia Flyers a 3-2 home-ice victory over the Flames in the only National Hockey League game scheduled.

The win stretched the Flyers' unbeaten string to seven games—six victories and a tie, ironically, their last loss came Nov. 28 in Philadelphia at the hands of the Flames—a 4-3 decision.

It was the 11th goal of the season for MacLeish, a 25-year-old native of Cunnington, Ont.-It came with Atlanta defenceman Ed Kea in the penalty box. Bob Kelly and Reggie Leach were the other Philadelphia scorers.

Curt Bennett and Buster Harvey were the Atlanta marksmen.

Bennett had put the Flames in front 1-0 in the first period by converting a rebound while the Flyers were a man short. But Leach's goal, his 12th in the Flyers' last 10 games, tied it before the period ended.

The game was less than nine minutes old when Philadelphia's Dave Schultz tangled with Jean Landry of Atlanta. Schultz, who had piled up 19 minutes in penalties for the Philadelphia police with Lemieux was ejected from the contest at 8:32.

Harvey backhanded a shot past Philadelphia goaltender Bernie Parent with only 9:40 seconds gone in the second period to put the Flames back in front. But Kelly tied it later in the period with a shot from directly in front of Atlanta goalie Phil Myre, setting the stage for MacLeish's game winner.

The Flames get a chance to get a halt in their skid tonight against the Maple Leafs in Toronto in one of eight games scheduled in the National Hockey League. Leaf goalie Jacques Plante is the Flames' 40-year-old former goaltender.

Other games scheduled Saturday include Pittsburgh at Buffalo, Montreal at Vancouver, Toronto at Washington, Detroit at Boston, Minnesota at Los Angeles, Chicago at Pittsburgh, New York Rangers at Kansas City, Buffalo at Minnesota.

Games Sunday

Los Angeles at NY Rangers, NY Islanders at Boston, St. Louis at Philadelphia, Atlanta at Montreal, California at Montreal (second game), Vancouver at Chicago at Pittsburgh, Toronto at Washington, Pittsburgh at Detroit, Vancouver at Chicago, California at Buffalo

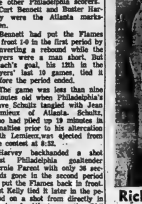
Rangers, the Islanders in Boston, St. Louis at Philadelphia, Washington entertaining Toronto, Pittsburgh at Detroit, Chicago playing host to Vancouver and California in Buffalo.

The Flames will be meeting a Leaf club which apparently has cleared up a communications problem between coach Red Kelly and the players.

In an interview Wednesday, Leaf centre Norm Ullman said Kelly's inability to communicate had resulted in a lack of team spirit and togetherness.

However, he has since said the situation is beginning to improve.

"He (Kelly) is beginning to realize you just don't treat people like cattle or machines," Ullman said.



Leaf general manager Jim Gregory said Friday "he's a third party to it."

"I don't see how commenting on this recent thing is going to help anything," he added.

The North Stars will be without veteran Lou Nanne who has a broken right wrist and will be out of the lineup for an indefinite period. A club spokesman said he apparently suffered the injury at Philadelphia Thursday night as he attempted to break a fall.

REDMOND SIDELINED

DETROIT (AP) — Right winger Mickey Redmond of British Red Wings will undergo knee surgery and will be laid up the National Hockey League team indefinitely, a spokesman said Friday. Doctors said that Redmond has a ruptured disc in his spinal column and that the injury has hampered the 28-year-old star for a month.

Toros Pull Out Home Victory

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Toros were beginning to wonder if they would ever win another game at home.

Tom Martin's second goal of the season at 2:11 of overtime Friday gave the Toros a 7-6 victory over Cleveland Crusaders. Edmonton Oilers signed Minnesota Fighting Saints 5-4 in the other World Hockey Association game.

The win broke a six-game losing streak on Maple Leaf Gardens ice and moved the Toros three points ahead of second-place Quebec Nordiques in the Canadian division.

Paul Henderson scored twice for Toronto, Tony Featherstone, Vaclav Nedomansky, Pat Hickey and Rick Cunningham got the other Toros goals.

Skip Krake, Russ Walker, Gary Jarrett, Terry Holmes, Jim Harrison and Rich Leduc were for Cleveland marksmen.

Henderson's second goal tied the game with less than five minutes remaining to force the overtime period.

Cleveland goaltender Gerry Cheevers faced 46 shots while Toronto's Cillon Graziosi faced 29.

A loss would have tied the Toros with Indianapolis Pacers for the most consecutive home-ice losses.

At St. Paul, Minn., Rusty Rutmanis put a 10-foot shot into the Minnesota goal at 19:16 of the final period with Saints goaltender John Garrett out of position to give Edmonton the victory.

Garrett moved to block a shot by Bobby Sheehan which ricocheted off the goal post and onto Rutmanis's stick. The Edmonton player then collected his 10th goal of the season to break a 4-4 deadlock.

Mike Rogers scored twice for the Oilers and Blair MacDonald and Doug Barrie added singles. Kevin O'Shea, Mike Walton, and Rick Smith replied for the Fighting Saints.

Mittermaier Wins By Wide Margin

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP — Rosi Mittermaier of West Germany made two spectacular runs down Tofane Peaks for an overwhelming triumph in the first special slalom of the women's World Cup ski races Friday.

She had a two-second margin over runner-up Fabienne Serrat of France, a remarkable time spread in international skiing.

Miss Mittermaier, the only skier to have competed in all nine editions of the World Cup, was clocked in one minute, 31.73 seconds for her two runs, both over sharp drops with 54 gates.

Christa Zechmeister of West Germany finished third in 1:34.87, just behind Miss Serrat's 1:33.72. Annemarie Proell-Moser of Austria came in fourth.

Friday the 13th Not So Unfortunate As Belleville Wins Fourth Straight

By MARK BRETT
Sports Staff

-The Belleville Bobcats appeared to get a break from bad-luck Friday the 13th as that as often accompanies Friday 13. The Cats skated to a 6-3 home ice victory over the North York Rangers in last night's Metro Junior B game at the Memorial Arena.

Bobcat coach Bob Boyle went as far as to call the win a "lucky one."

"Three of the goals we scored were awfully flukey," Boyle mused after the Cat's sixth win in seven starts.

The entire sixty minutes lacked the enthusiasm and spirit of most games, partly because the ice was "extremely slow" according to referee Don Coodridge and partly due to the fact that both teams were checking very closely.

By the end of the first 20 minutes of play Belleville held a 3-0 lead over the Rangers on goals by Andy Ricketts this first of two and Scott Santin. Santin got the only "real" goal of the period as his centering pass from the corner hit a Rangers defenceman's skate and deflected by a surprised Steve Jones.

The Cats got some steady work from the boys on the blue line as the defence consisted three of the six goals and layed some heavy body checks on the visitors.

The locals outscored the Rangers in the middle frame, 3-1. Ricketts netted his second and defenceman Harold Roberts picked up the first of his two.

Steve Delnotte got the only North York goal of the period as he had Cats' netminder Bob Moore at his mercy.

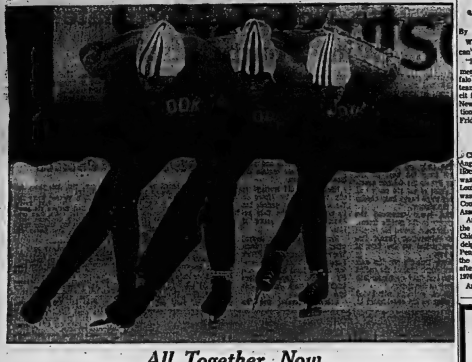
Moore, although not tested as often as his counterpart at the other end of the ice was extremely sharp when called upon.

The third period was a frustrating one for the visitors as they could do little but stand by and watch pucks roll within inches of open corners and shots rattle off goal posts.

The home team held an insurmountable 4-1 lead going into the final period and were able to effectively contain the hustling Rangers.

North York did manage to slip two goals by Moore in the middle of the period, but to no avail as the Cats responded with two more of their own.

Roberts scored his second after tabling a pass from Wayne Chesney and Rick Langstaff finished up the scoring as his hard shot bounced off several players before trickling through Jones' pads and into the net.



Delnotte rounded out the night for the visitors scoring his second and assisting on the other goal.

The game was a relatively "clean" one with referee Goodridge handing out a total of 36 minutes in penalties.

Belleville had 21 minutes to sit out while the visitors had p.m. encounter.

NFL Season Winds Up This Weekend

Not Much Left to Be Decided

By BRUCE LOWITT
The Associated Press

Except for St. Louis Cardinals and Washington Redskins, there is pride weekend in the National Football League.

The Cardinals and Redskins are vying for the one remaining division championship, the National Conference East, with the loser of the duet settling for the NFC's wild-card playoff berth.

But for the rest of the league, nothing is riding on the 14th week of action except perhaps a winning or break-even season, a slightly better position in the final standings, a push toward next year's salary negotiations and a lot of pride.

St. Louis and Washington are tied atop the NFC East, each at 9-4. Now it comes down to Sunday's two major games—the Cardinals at home to New York Giants and the Redskins entertaining Chicago Bears.

If the Cardinals, seven-point favorites, win, they will take the title no matter what Washington does since they beat the Redskins in both meetings this year.

But if St. Louis ties or loses and the Redskins, 10-point favorites, whip Chicago, Washington will take the title.

Whichever team wins the NFC East will open the playoffs Saturday, Dec. 21, in Minnesota against the Vikings, champs of the Central Division. The wild-card team will play in Los Angeles Sunday, Dec. 22, against the Rams, who took the Western crown.

The American Conference playoff setup was decided last weekend when Miami Dolphins took the Eastern title and Pittsburgh Steelers won the Central Division.

The Dolphins, seeking an unprecedented third consecutive Super Bowl title, play in Oakland, Dec. 21, against the Raiders—the AFC West winners.

Buffalo Bills, wild-card winners in the conference, are at Pittsburgh the following day.

In games today, Cincinnati Bengals were at Pittsburgh and Minnesota met the Chiefs in Kansas City. Tonight, Dallas Cowboys were at Oakland.

Along with the Giants-Cards and Bears-Redskins games Sunday, season wrapups have Green Bay Packers at Atlanta Falcons, New England Patriots at Miami, Detroit Lions at Philadelphia Eagles, New York Jets at Baltimore Colts, Cleveland Browns at Houston Oilers, Buffalo at Los Angeles, Denver Broncos at San Diego Chargers, and New Orleans Saints at San Francisco 49ers.

Houston takes a 6-7 record into the game against Cleveland—a team the Oilers never have beaten and a team which, until this year, had never finished last.

A victory by the Oilers and a loss by Cincinnati would put Houston and the Bengals in an AFC Central Division second-place tie at 7-7, but Houston would technically end up in second since it whipped Cincinnati in both games this year between the two clubs.

Denver has captured second place in the AFC West, but the Broncos—6-7 after up their best season ever by beating San Diego. They take a 7-5-1 record into the finale. Last year they finished at 5-8-1, and that was their first winning season ever.

And for the Giants, the Colts and the Falcons, tied for the league's worst record at 3-11 apiece, the only thing left is the No. 1 selection in next January's college draft and the Giants don't even have that. They traded away the pick in midseason to get quarterback Craig Morton from Dallas.

Jack Ramsay's Boys Got the Poise

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When it comes to poise, you can't beat Jack Ramsay's boys.

"I thought it was a tremendous comeback," the Buffalo Braves coach said after his team overcame an 11-point deficit in the fourth period and beat New York Knicks 103-101 in National Basketball Association Friday night.

The Braves drew into a 101-91 lead and Bob McAdoo, their big gun with 41 points and 20 rebounds, later sank two free throws for Buffalo's winning points.

In the other NBA games, Washington Bullets stopped Boston Celtics 108-99, Chicago Bulls rigged New Orleans Jazz Kings turned back Detroit Pistons' 88-84, Phoenix Suns ripped Cleveland Cavaliers 86-84, Philadelphia 76ers trimmed Milwaukee Bucks 88-82 and Los Angeles Lakers whipped Seattle SuperSonics 108-93.

Cougars Get Angotti

CHICAGO (AP — Centre Lou Angotti, a 13-year National Hockey League veteran who was dismissed as coach of St. Louis Blues earlier this season, was signed Friday by Chicago Cougars of the World Hockey Association.

Angotti, who also played for the NHL's New York Rangers, Chicago Black Hawks, Philadelphia Flyers and Pittsburgh Penguins, was named coach of the Blues last Feb. 15 and fired after the first nine games of the 1976-75 season.

Angotti, with 300 NHL career points on 125 goals and 186 assists, was given a one-year Cougar playing contract and joins the club here tonight against Michigan Stags.

McCARRON WINS ONE

LAUREL, Md. (CP) — Apprentice jockey Chris McCarron won one race Friday at Laurel race course to give him 203 victories this season. He is 12 short of the single-season world record of 215 set last year by Sandy Hawley of Minolaseaga, Ont.

THANK YOU...

I would like to thank all those who supported me at the polls, with a special thanks to those who worked so hard and made such a good showing possible. My congratulations to the successful Aldermanic candidates — the next two years will be challenging and I wish you well. To all the citizens of Belleville may the Peace and Happiness of Christmas be yours today and every day throughout the coming New Year.

IN MEMORIAM

SCHNEIDER, Sandra — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Sandra who passed away Dec. 14, 1973.

We cannot bring the old days back, Times we were all together, But happy years and loving memories Will be with us forever.

Remembered always by husband Glenn, daughter Lisa and son Mark.

SCHNEIDER, Sandi — In loving memory of a special daughter, who passed away Dec. 14, 1973.

Sadly missed by Mom and Dad.

The love and love we shared,
Memories to hold forever.
Cherished by we who cares,
Never take away the days of grief.

Sad, fond memory turns back the years,
Remembered with love by Shirley, Doug and Lydia.

CODE — In loving memory of our mother and grandmother Mrs. Jessie Code, who passed away December 14, 1973.

God looked around His garden, And found an empty space. He then looked down upon this earth,
And saw your tired face.
He put his arms around you,
And lifted you in rest.
He took you home, God's beautiful, He only takes the best.
He knew that you were suffering,
He knew there were in pain.
He knew that you would never,
Be happy here again.
He saw the road was getting rough,
And the hills were hard to climb,
So he closed your weary eyes,
And whispered "Peace be Thine."
It broke our hearts to lose you,
But you did not go alone.
For part of us went with you,
The day God called you home.

—Sadly missed by her son-in-law Raymond and grandson Robert.

VERCOE — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Thomas Thomas who passed away Dec. 14, 1972.

Dear Lord, look him home, it was His will.
But in our hearts we love him still.
Memory is a book we turn to often,
As in the here he passed away,
We write in our book of love,
When we are all alone,
We turn the pages to each friend.
That grief can not atone.

—Mourn forever by son Albert and Hilda and family.

CHRISTOPHER — In loving memory of our mother, Margaret Lucy Christopher who passed away December 14, 1973.

Peace be with you a precious Gift, a loved one laid to rest.
Remembered years to keep in memory.

Because she was the best.

—Ever remembered by daughter Barbara and son-in-law Don.

GREEN — In loving memory of a dear mother, Thereon Green who passed away December 14, 1973.

There is a and but sweet remembrance,
There is a token of affection, There is a heart that still loves you,
And a heartache still for you.

—Ever remembered and very sadly missed by daughter Gertrude and son-in-law Vernon.

PARKE — In loving memory of a dear father Norman Parke, who passed away Dec. 14, 1973.

Dearest father, you left us so soon,
And your hand we cannot touch,
But in our heart you remember,
Of the one we loved so much.

Sadly missed by son Norman and family.

Those we love don't go away,
God has you in His keeping,
We have you in our memory,
Forever remembered and loved.
Mother, Marion and Children.

SCHNEIDER — In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister Sandra Lee (Sandra), who passed away Dec. 14, 1973.

Asleep in God's tender care,
Sleep on dear sister and rest.
Heaven is a sweeter place because Sandy is safe.

We shall all be together again,
Lovingly remembered by Dad, Mom and family.

THE UNEXPLAINED

by Allen Spraggett

Stories of the walking dead we've all heard — but the swimming dead?

Well, on Dec. 4, 1923, the oil tanker S.S. Waterdown, owned by the Chloe Service Co., was in the ocean off a burial at sea. Two crewmen, Jensen T. Courtney and Michael Meehan, were suffocated by gasoline fumes while the ship was en route from San Pedro, California, to Vancouver. Their bodies were consigned to the deep off the west coast of Mexico.

Then, early the next day that the ship's first mate reported spotting the two men — the two dead men — in the water off the port rail. By the time the tanker reached the Panama Canal, virtually every crew member had seen the weird apparitions.

Some of the witnesses, which without exception agreed were definitely the figures of Courtney and Meehan, appeared daily in early evening. They were always about 40 feet from the ship, and they were swimming steadily after it.

The ghastly hands disappeared as soon as the tanker left the Pacific and entered the canal. Before the return voyage, the ship's skipper, Capt. Keith Tracy, bought a camera. If the dead re-appeared he meant to photograph them.

And they did re-appear. Once the Waterdown was in the Pacific again, the spectres were seen, swimming after the ship.

Capt. Tracy took six exposures and locked the film in his cabin safe.

The film was developed in New York by a professional photographer. Five of the shots showed nothing unusual. The sixth revealed two images — one hazy, the other sharply detailed and all.

James S. Patton, an officer of the Cities Service Co., had the negative and print of the eerie photograph examined by experts at New York's Burns Detective Agency. No evidence of hanky-panky was found.

A crazy story?

Or a fake?

Unbelievable?

Well, maybe and maybe not.

Here's a fact: For some years picture was displayed in the offices of the Cities Service Co., at 70 Pine St., New York.

There, thousands of people saw the two crewmen who had died in a fiery gale beads rising the crest of the waves. One of the men had starred features but showed a definite resemblance to James Courtney. The other man was easily recognizable to any who knew Michael Meehan.

Was the picture some sort of optical freak? A bizarre natural phenomenon? It may! As an eerily wild coincidence? Or two ghosts?

That's part of the mystery.

Opening lead—Q♣

By Oswald and James Jacoby

One of the expressions invented by bridge writer is "rectifying the count." What it boils down to is this: If you have a certain number of sure winners and want one more, the way to develop a squeeze is to lose enough tricks to come down to that one extra.

South counts 11 winners. The 12 will be there if clubs break or the club jack behaves nicely. There are also lots of squeeze possibilities. When this hand appeared in an old bridge book, South ducked a diamond at trick two and wrapped up the slam.

We have charged the East-West hands somewhat: just enough so that the count rectifier would go down, but not enough so that a really top expert would not make the contract.

Our really top expert wins the spade in dummy and cashes two hearts. West shows out and now our man cashes two clubs; West shows out again and East is marked with 13 hearts and clubs and has shown a spade.

The way to bring home the bacon is now a spade-diamond squeeze against West and South knows how to develop it by ducking a club to East's jack.

Now South discards two diamonds on dummy's long heart and long clubs and squeezes West in spades and diamonds.

CP Rail Wants Higher Passenger Fares

MONTREAL (CP) — CP Rail filed Friday a new rate schedule with the Canadian transport commission to increase its inter-city and transcontinental passenger fares and sleeping car charges, effective Jan. 15.

Inter-city and transcontinental passenger fares would increase an average of 15 per cent, said a company statement.

Sleeping car fares will be increased by about 21 per cent and a 50-per-cent surcharge will apply on all sleeping accommodations on transcontinental services between Jan. 1 and Sept. 15.

The company said the increases are designed to help offset losses on passenger trains and rising labor, material and maintenance costs.

For inter-city services, fares will increase to $52.80 from $52.80 between Montreal and Saint John, N.B., to $8.80 from $7.30 between Montreal and Ottawa and to $12.65 from $10.45 between Calgary and Edmonton.

For transcontinental services on economy days, fares will increase to $387 from $60.10 between Montreal and Vancouver, and Regina and $70 from $54.95 between Winnipeg and Calgary.

Egg Import Controls Favored

OTTAWA (CP) — The special Commons egg committee will report to the House Monday, with recommendations that ministerial control over egg marketing in the country and a mechanism to control egg imports.

Informants said Friday that the majority of MPs on the 16-member committee have agreed with suggestions by Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan and provincial farm ministers that the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency (CEMA) be run by a strong, five-member executive committee.

Three members of the committee would be appointed by the minister. The other two would be the chairman and vice-chairman of the agency.

As well, the report will recommend that CEMA exercise more control over powers handed out to the agency's 4,800 producers, a function now fulfilled by provincial boards.

The import-control mechanism will allow the agency to limit the number of eggs entering the country in the event that imports threaten to disrupt normal domestic trade.

Progressive Conservatives on the committee, however, intend to supplement the majority report with one of their own.

Their major fear is the committee did not hear critical witnesses—provincial farm ministers and CEMA's auditors—and that evidence submitted by the auditors had been delayed.

Get Cards

OTTAWA (CP) — Health Minister Marc Lalonde announced Friday that all recipients of old age security benefits will get federal identification cards.

The cards will contain such information as the pensioners' old age security number as well as a "tamperproof" signature strip.

Jury Protests

TORONTO (CP) — A York County grand jury has urged the courts to impose the stiffest sentences possible upon persons convicted of rape or indecent assault.

"We have heard cases involving rape and indecent assault which appear to bring more shame and disgrace upon the accused," the report stated Friday.

Alberta Invests

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta government will invest between $5 million and $6 million in the Urban Transportation Development Corp. established by the Ontario government, Industry Minister Fred Peacock announced Friday.

Firms Fined

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Eight of the largest chemical firms in the United States, including E. I. duPont de Nemours and Co., were handed fines ranging from $30,000 Friday on price-fixing charges.

DuPont and the Verona Corp. were fined $30,000, the maximum under current antitrust laws, by U.S. District Judge Lawrence Whipple.

Canada Tired

BRUSSELS (CP) — Suggesting Friday that Canada be tired of fielding an endless peacekeeping force in Cyprus, External Affairs Minister Allen MacEachen has pressed NATO partners to solve the island's conflict.

OUR OUR WAY — by Neg Cochran

Known Spy Not so Bad

OTTAWA (CP) — Better a spy you know than one you don't know?

Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp suggested this in the Commons Friday when he said the government prefers to know the identities of foreign agents operating in Canada.

Replying to Otto Jelinek (PC—Toronto High Park-Humber) Mr. Sharp said that when he was external affairs minister he "knew there were certain agents in offices in Canada." But he felt that because their names were known, they were not a threat to national security.

Present Brief

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Bar Association presented Justice Minister Otto Lang with 13 resolutions Friday calling for changes such as compulsory reporting of child abuse and law courses in high school.

Among recommendations was a request that the federal government provide financial assistance toward a legal aid program for divorce cases. The association also recommended controlled medical distribution of heroin to addicts by approved institutions.

May Close

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — A brief from Laurentian University warned the Ontario Council on University Affairs Friday that deficits will force the university to close unless provincial government financial support is increased.

No Solution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Friday discounted claims that the experimental La Face automobile engine can solve the United States' fuel shortage and air pollution problems.

The La Face car that has received so much attention in the past few weeks is neither a new nor important development," said Dr. Eric Stork, EPA deputy assistant administrator.

Cow Prices Subsidized

Low-grade Beef To Be Given Away

OTTAWA (CP) — The government stepped in Friday to help cattlemen cope with the current slump in cow prices, announcing a new $20-25 million subsidy program and pledging to buy up to 60 million of grade beef for food aid.

At the same time, the trade department said it would be stepping new export controls on shipments of cattle, beef, pork and swine to the United States to make sure Canada's best markets in that country are supplied despite tough U.S. trade restrictions on imports.

The subsidy program is designed to keep prices for low grade cow beef up at a time when cattlemen are selling breeding stock in record numbers.

Reason for the heavy selling is a beef glut—the country's cattle herd has reached a record 15 million head, 6.1 per cent higher than last year, which has driven down the farm price for beef at a time when feed and protein costs are soaring.

Farmers are attempting to correct the situation by selling cows, hoping that prices will rise when the cattle population drops during the next two years.

Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan told a news conference that the government would help cattlemen by setting a support price of $2.21 cents a pound on D1, D2, D3 and D4—low-grade cow beef—sold between Nov. 15 this year and April 30, 1975.

All cows sold between Nov. 15 and Friday will qualify for subsidy payments if average prices during the November-April period are less than $2.21 cents a pound.

Beginning Monday until April 30, however, farmers will only be eligible for payments on cows sold at the rate of two per cent of a herd per month up to a maximum of five per cent of a herd.

The National Farmers' Union immediately criticized the support price level as inadequate, arguing in a statement that the price should be higher to reflect inflated production costs. The $2.21 cents-a-pound price is the average cow price during the last five years.

But in Toronto, Charles Grody, manager of the Canadian Cattlemen's Association, welcomed the news.

"What they have done is about all they could do at this time," said Mr. Gracey...

Oil Price May Rise Six Cents a Gallon

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oil industry spokesmen said Friday that oil may cost Canadians as much as six cents a gallon more next spring when Alberta raises its price of oil.

At the same time, Great Northern Alberta New Democratic Party leader said that the $2 incentive was unnecessary. Thursday by Premier Peter Lougheed will cost Alberta taxpayers $400 million next year.

Oil specialists in Toronto agreed that, as a rule of thumb, retail gasoline prices rise about three cents for each 10 increase in the wellhead cost of crude.

Premier Peter Lougheed gave no figure in his announcement but there is speculation he will increase the price of each barrel of crude after the winter by $2 at the wellhead to $8.25. The world price is about $11.

If $8.25 is the price, Canadian consumers can expect to pay a minimum of 71 cents a gallon.

In Ottawa, Finance Minister John Turner said Friday the federal government would not follow Alberta's lead and reduce the taxes on the oil industry.

He told the Commons that federal resources taxation policies were modified in his Nov. 18 budget and that these measures, coupled with Alberta's move, removed both the oil and gas industry to a healthy financial position.

SONGS FOR Christmas

Shepherds In The Field Abiding

Shepherds in the field abiding,
Tell us, when the seraph bright
Greeting you with wondrous tidings
What you saw and heard that night.

Gloria, in excelsis Deo.
Gloria, in excelsis Deo.

We behold (it is no fable)
God incarnate, King of bliss,
Soothed and cradled in a stable,
And the angel strain was this:

Gloria, in excelsis Deo
Gloria, in excelsis Deo
Choristers on high were singing,
Jesus and His Virgin-birth,
Heavenly bells the while a-ringing;
"Peace, good-will to men on earth."
Gloria, in excelsis Deo
Gloria, in excelsisDeo
Thanks, good herdsmen, true your story,
Here with you to Bethelem;
Angels hymn the King of glory,
Carol we with you and them
Gloria, in excelsis Deo.

Angels We Have Heard On High

(Key of G)

Angels we have heard on high,
Sweetly singing o'er the plains
And the mountains in reply
Echoing their joyous strains.

Chorus:

Gloria in excelsis Deo,
Gloria in excelsis Deo,

Shepherds, why this jubilee?
Why your joyous strains prolong?
What shall the gladsome tidings be
Which inspire your heavenly song?

Come to Bethlehem and see
Him whose birth the angels sing,
Come adore on bended knee
Christ the Lord, the newborn King.

The First Noel

(Key of D)

The First Noel the angel did say

Was to certain poor shepherds in fields as they lay;

Fields where they lay a-keeping their sheep

On a cold winter's night that was so deep.

Refrain:

Noel, Noel, Noel, Noel,
Born is the King of Israel.

They looked up and saw a star,
Shining in the east, beyond them far

And to the earth it gave great light,

And so it continued both day and night.

And by the light of that same star

Three wise men came from country far;

To seek for a King was their intent,

And to follow the star wherever it went.

This star drew nigh to the northwest,

Near Bethelehem it took its rest.
And there it did both stop and stay,

Right over the place where Jesus lay.

Then entered in those wise men three,

Fell reverently upon their knee,
And offered there in His presence
Their gold and myrrh and frankincense.

Then let us all with one accord
Sing praises to our heavenly Lord,
That hath made heaven and earth of 'nought,
And with His blood mankind hath bought.

God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen

(Key of G)

God rest you merry gentlemen,
Let nothing you dismay,
Remember Christ our Saviour
Was born on Christmas day,
To save us all from Satan's power
When we are gone astray!

Refrain:
O tidings of comfort and joy,
comfort and joy,
O tidings of comfort and joy.

In Bethlehem, in Jewry,
This blessed Babe was born,
And laid within a manger,
Upon this blessed morn;
The which His mother Mary
Did nothing take in scorn.

From God, our heavenly Father,
A blessed angel came;
And unto certain shepherds
Brought tiding of the same;
How that in Bethlehem was born
The Son of God by Name.

"Fear not then," said the angel,
"Let nothing you affright,
This day is born a Saviour
Of a pure virgin bright,
To free all those who trust in Him
From Satan's power and might."

Now to the Lord sing praises,
All you within this place,
And with true love and brotherhood
Each other now embrace;
This holy tide of Christmas
All other doth deface.

Jingle Bells

(Key of G)

Dashing through the snow
In a one-horse open sleigh,
O'er the fields we go,
Laughing all the way,
Bells on bobtail ring,
Making spirits bright,
What fun it is to ride and sing
A sleighing song tonight!

Chorus:

Jingle bells, jingle bells, jingle all the way!
Oh, what fun it is to ride in a one-horse open sleigh!

Jingle bells, jingle bells, jingle all the way!
Oh what fun it is to ride in a one-horse open sleigh!

Now the ground is white,
Go it while you're young,
Take the girls tonight,
And sing this sleighing song,
Just get a bob tailed bay,
Two forty for his speed,
Then hitch him to an open sleigh
And crack, you'll take the lead!

The Virgin Mary and Christ were there
On Christmas Day, on Christmas Day
The Virgin Mary and Christ were there;
On Christmas Day in the morning.

Hark, The Herald Angels Sing

(Key of G)

Hark the herald angels sing,
"Glory to the new-born King,
Peace on earth and mercy mild,
God and sinners reconciled!"
Joyful, all ye nations, rise
Join the triumph of the skies,
With the angelic host, proclaim,
"Christ is born in Bethlehem."

Refrain:
Hark, the herald angels sing,
"Glory to the new-born King."

Christ, by highest heaven adored,
Christ, the everlasting Lord,
Late in time behold Him come
Offspring of a virgin's womb,
Veiled in flesh the Godhead see:
Hail, the incarnate Deity,
Pleased as Man with man to dwell,
Jesus, our Emmanuel!

Hail the heaven-born Prince of Peace!
Hail, the Son of Righteousness!
Light and life to all He brings,
Risen with healing in His wings,
Mild He lays His glory by
Born that man no more may die,
Born to raise the sons of earth
Born to give them second birth.

The Christmas Song

(Key of E Flat)

Chestnuts roasting on an open fire,
Jack Frost nipping at your nose,
Yuletide carols being sung by a choir
And folks dressed up like Eskimos.
Ev'rybody knows a turky and some mistletoe
Help to make the season bright,
Tiny tots with their eyes all aglow,
Will find it hard to sleep tonight.
They know that Santa's on his way,
He's loaded lots of toys and goodies on his sleigh
And ev'ry mother's child is gonna spy
To see if reindeer really know how to fly.
And so, I'm offering this simple phrase,
To kids from one to ninety two
Altho' it's been said many times, many ways,
"Merry Christmas to you."

Winds Through The Olive Trees

(Key of Bb)

Winds through the olive trees,
Softly did blow
Round little Bethlehem,
Long, long ago.
Sheep on the hillside lay
Whiter than snow,
Shepherds were watching them,
Long, long ago.
Then from the happy skies
Angels bent low,
Singing their songs of joy;
Long, long ago.
For in a manger bed,
Cradled we know,
Christ came to Bethlehem;
Long, long ago.

I Believe In Santa Claus

I believe in Santa Claus,
I believe in him because
Ev'ry Christmas he'll appear, with all his love and Christmas cheer
Leaving lots of Christmas toys for good little girls and boys
I believe in Santa Claus,
I believe in him because
With his reindeer and his sled,
His snow white beard, and suit of red
He makes ev'ry Christmas day
So beautiful bright and gay
Now don't be a doubting Thomas, and ridicule his name,
Or he may take you off his list and that would be a shame.
So withChristmas on the way,
What a thrill it is to say
I believe in Santa Claus,
And the joys of Christmas day.

The Holly And The Ivy

(Key of F)

The holly and the ivy when they are both fully grown,
Of all the trees that are in the wood,
The holly bears the crown.

Chorus:

The rising of the sun, the running of the deer,
The playing of the merry organ,
Sweet singing in the choir.

The holly bears a berry, as red as any blood,
And Mary bore sweet Jesus Christ,
To do poor sinners good.

The holly bears a prickle, as sharp as any thorn,
And Mary bore sweet Jesus Christ,
On Christmas Day in the morn.

As With Gladness

(Key of A)

As with gladness men of old
Did the guiding star behold;
As with joy they hailed its light,
Leading onward, beaming bright;
So most gracious Lord, may we

Evermore be led to Thee.
As with joyful steps they sped,
Saviour, to Thy lowly bed,
There to bend the knee before
Thee, to whom heaven and earth adore;
So may we with willing feet
Ever seek Thy mercy seat.

While Shepherds Watched

(Key of F)

While Shepherds watched their flocks by night,
All seated on the ground,
The Angel of the Lord came down
And glory shone around.
"Fear not," said he (for mighty dread
Had seized their troubled minds);
"Glad tidings of great joy I bring
To you and all mankind.

"To you in David's town this day
Is born of David's line
A Saviour, who is Christ the Lord;
And this shall be the sign;
The heavenly Babe you there shall find
To human view displayed,
All meanly wrapped in swathing bands,
And in a manger laid."
Thus spake the Seraph; and forthwith
Appeared a shining throng
Of angels praising God who thus Addressed their joyful song:
"All glory be to God on high,
And to the earth be peace;
Goodwill henceforth from heaven to men
Begin and never cease."

Up and down,
Up and down,
He dances thru the snow,
All covered with leaves from his head to toe.

And you ask him to dance, just see him go!

Mine will be the shortest one,
You'll be sure to know.

CANTIQUE E NOEL

(O HOLY NIGHT)

(Key of D Flat)

O holy night! The stars are brightly shining,
It is the night of the dear Saviour's birth;
Long lay the world in sin and error pining,
Till He appeared and the soul felt its worth
A thrill of hope, the weary soul rejoices,
For yonder breaks a new and glorious morn;

Fall on your knees. Oh hear the angels voices!
Oh night divine, Oh night when Christ was born!
Oh night, O holy night, Oh night divine!

Led by the light of faith serenely beaming,
With glowing hearts by his cradle we stand;
So led by light of a star sweetly gleaming,
Here came the wise men from Orient land.
The King of kings lay thus in lowly manger
In all our trials born to be our friend;

He knows our need; to our weakness is no stranger,
Behold yong king, before Him lowly bend
Behold yong king, before Him lowly bend

Truly He taught us to love one another;
His law is love, and His gospel is peace;
Chains shall He break, for the slave is our brother,
And in His name oppression shall cease.
Sweet hymns of joy in grateful chorus raise we,
Let all within us praise His holy name
Christ is the Lord, Oh praise His name forever!
His pow'r and glory ever more proclaim!
His pow'r and glory ever more proclaim!

Sleep Holy Babe

Sleep holy Babe,
Upon Thy mother's breast.
Great Lord of earth and sea and sky,
How sweet it is to see Thee lie,
In such a place of rest!
In such a place of rest!
Sleep, holy Babe.

Thine angels watch around,
All bending low with folded wings
Before the incarnate King of kings,
In rev'rent awe profound.
In rev'rent awe profound.
Sleep holy Babe,

Ah, take Thy brief repose.
Too quickly will Thy slumbers break
And Thou to lengthened pains awake
That death alone shall close
That death alone shall close.

O Little Town of Bethlehem

(Key of G)

O little town of Bethlehem,
How still we see thee lie!
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep
The silent stars go by;
Yet in thy dark streets shineth
The everlasting Light;
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee tonight.

For Christ is born of Mary;
And gathering all above,
While mortals sleep, the angels keep
Their watch of wondering love.
O morning stars, together
Proclaim the holy birth,
And praises sing to God the King,
And peace to men on earth.

How silently, how silently,
The wondrous gift is given!
So God imparts to human hearts
The blessing of His heaven.
No ear may hear His coming;
But in this world of sin,
Where meek souls will receive Him, still
The dear Christ enters in.

O Holy Child of Bethlehem,
Descend to us, we pray;
Cast out our sin, and enter in;
Be born in us today.
We hear the Christmas angels
The great glad tidings tell;
O come to us, abide, with us,
Our Lord Emmanuel.

SEASON'S GREETINGS
ELLIOTT MOTORS ('70) Ltd.
366 NORTH FRONT STREET — BELLEVILLE

It Came Upon The Midnight Clear

(Key of B Flat)

It came upon a midnight clear,
That glorious song of old,
From angels bending near the earth
To touch their harps of gold:—
"Peace on the earth, goodwill to men,
From Heaven's all-gracious King"
The world in solemn stillness lay,
To hear the angels sing.

Still through the cloven skies they come
With peaceful wings unfurled
And still their heavenly music floats
O'er all the weary world;

Above its sad and lowly plains
They bend on hovering wings,
And ever o'er its Babel sounds
The blessed angels sing.

But with the woes of sin and strife
The world has suffered long;
Beneath the angel strain have rolled
Two thousand years of wrong;
And man, at war with man hears not
The love song which they bring;
O hush the noise, ye men of strife,
And hear the angels sing.

And ye, beneath life's crushing load,
Whose forms are bending low,
Who toil along the climbing way
With painful steps and slow:
Look now! for glad and golden hours
Come swiftly on the wing;
O rest beside the weary road,
And hear the angels sing.

For lo! the days are hastening on,
By prophet bards foretold,
When with the ever-circling years
Comes round the Age of Gold,
When peace shall over all the earth
Its ancient splendors fling,
And the whole world give back the song
Which now the angels sing.

Likewise the mistress, too;
And all the little children

Hail! Redemption's happy dawn;

Lo, within a manger lies
He Who built the starry skies
He Who throned in height sublime
Sits amids the cherubim!

Hail! Thou ever, and e.

Sacred Infant, all divine,
What a tender love was Thine:
Thus to come from highest bliss
Down to such a world as this.

Hail! Thou ever, and e.

Teach, O teach us, Holy Child,
By Thy face so meek and mild,
Teach us to resemble Thee
In Thy sweet humility!
Hail! Thou ever, and e.

Once In Royal David's City

Once in royal David's city
Stood a lowly cattle shed,
Where a mother laid her baby
In a manger for His bed.

Mary was that mother mild,
Jesus Christ her little child.

He came down to earth from heaven,
Who is God and Lord of all,
And His shelter was a stable,
And His cradle was a stall.

With the poor, the meek and lowly
Lived on earth our Saviour holy.

And through all his wondrous childhood,
He would honor and obey,
Love and watch the lowly mother
In whose gentle arms He lay.

Christian children all must be Mild, obedient, good as He.

For He is our childhood's pattern,
Day by day, like us He grew;
He was little, weak and helpless,
Tears and smiles like us He knew.

And He feeleth for our sadness,
And He shareth in our gladness.

And our eyes at last shall see Him,
Through His own redeeming love,
For that Child, so dear and gentle,
Is our Lord in heaven above;

And He leads His children on
To the place where He is gone.

Not in that poor lowly stable,
With the oxen standing by,
We shall see Him, but in heaven
Set at God's right hand on high.

When like stars His children crowned
All in white shall walk around.

Don't hurry back,
Mister Santa, we've been so good
We've washed the dishes and done what we should Made up the beds and scrubbed up our loosie.

The Birthday of a King

(Key of A Flat)

In the little village of Bethlehem,
There lay a Child one day,
And the sky was bright with a holy light
O'er the place where Jesus lay.
Chorus:
Alleluia, O how the angels sang!
Alleluia, how it rang!
And the sky was bright with a holy light,
'Twas the birthday of a King:

'Twas a humble birthplace,
But, O, how much God gave to us that day!
From the manger bed what a path has led
What a perfect holy way!

Hark The Glad Sound

(Key of G)

Hark the glad sound! The Saviour comes,
The Saviour promised long:
Let every heart prepare a throne
And every voice a song.

He comes the broken heart to bind,
The bleeding soul to cure,
And with the treasures of His grace
To enrich the humble poor.

Our glad hosannas, Prince of Peace,
Thy welcome shall proclaim
And heaven's eternal arches ring
With Thy beloved name.

Away in a manger
No crib for a bed,
The little Lord Jesus
Laid down His sweet head.
The stars in the bright sky
Looked down where He lay,
The little Lord Jesus
Asleep in the hay.

The cattle are lowing,
The baby awakes,
But little Lord Jesus
No crying He makes.
I love thee, Lord Jesus;
Look down from the sky,
And stay by my side
Until morning is nigh.

Be near me, Lord Jesus,
I ask Thee to stay
Close by me forever,
And love me, I pray.

We Three Kings

(Key of G)

We three kings of Orient are,
Bearing gifts we traverse afar,
Field and fountain, moor and mountain,
Following yonder Star.

Refrain:
O star of wonder, star of night,
Star with royal beauty bright;
Westward leading, still proceeding,
Guide us to thai perfect light,

Born a King on Bethlehem's plain,
Gold I bring to crown Him again,
King for ever, ceasing never,
Over us all to reign.

Frankincense to offer have I,
Incense owns a Deity nigh,
Prayer and praising, all men raising,
Worship Him, God most high.

Myrrh is mine, its bitter perfume
Breathes a life of gathering gloom;
Sorrowing, sighing, bleeding dying,
Sealed in the stone-cold tomb.

Glorious now behold Him arise,
King and God and Sacrifice!
Alleluia! Alleluia!
Earth to the heavens replies.

Good King Wenceslas

(Key of A)

Good King Wenceslas looked out
On the Feast of Stephen;
When the snow lay round about,
Deep and crisp and even.

Brightly shone the moon that night,
Though the frost was cruel,
When a poor man came in sight,
Gathering winter fuel.

"Hither page, and stand by me,
If thou know'st it, telling,
Yonder peasant, who is he?
Where and what his dwelling.
"Sire, he lives a good league
hence,
Underneath the mountain,
Right against the forest-fence,
By Saint Agnes' Fountain."
"Bring me flesh and bring me wine,
Bring me pine-logs hither,
Thou and I will see him dine,
When we bear him thither."

Page and monarch, forth they went,
Forth they went together;
Through the rude wind'r wild lament,
And the bitter weather.
"Sire, the night is darker now,
And the wind blows stronger;
Fai'n my heart, I know not how;
I can go no longer."
"Mark my footsteps, my good page,
Tread thou in them boldly;
Thou shalt find the winter's rage
Freeze thy blood less coldly."
In his m'st'r's steps he trod,
Where the snow lay dinted,
Heat was in the very sod
Which the Saint had printed.
Therefore, Christian men, be sure,
Wealth or rank possessing,
Ye who now will bless the poor,
Shall yourselves find blessing.

Is Born Unto Us A Boy

Unto us a Boy is born!
King of all creation;
Came He to the world forlorn,
The Lord of every nation.

Cradled in a stall was He
With sleepy cows and asses.
But the very beasts could see
That He all men surpasses.

Herod then with fear was filled;
"A prince," he said, "in Jewry!"
All the little boys he killed
At Bethlehem in his fury.

Now may Mary's Son, who came
So long ago to love us,
Lead us all with hearts aflame
Unto the joys above us.

He the Source and He the End,
Lead us all with hearts a flame
While our happy voices rend
The jocund air asunder!

Joy to the World

While fields and floods, rocks, hills and plains
Repeat the sounding joy.

No more let sins and sorrows grow
Nor thorns infest the ground
He comes, to make His blessings flow
Far as the curse is found.

He rules the earth with truth and grace,
And makes the nations prove
The glories of His righteousness,
And wonders of His love.

Civil Servants Will Renew Talks

TORONTO (CP) — Talks between the Civil Service Association of Ontario (CSAO) and the Ontario government are scheduled to resume Tuesday in an effort to avert a threatened strike Jan. 1 by 19,000 operational employees.

Talks between the two sides broke down Saturday with no indication a settlement was near.

The workers are prohibited by law from striking.

The union is asking for a 41-per-cent wage increase for one year, although it has said that figure is negotiable. Originally, it asked for a 51-per-cent raise.

The government has termed the union's latest demand "totally unreasonable" and is standing on its offer of an average increase of 30 per cent.

Satire's provisions touched on publicity surrounding the negotiations.

Chris Crocker, chief negotiator for CSAO, said if there is to be any progress, both the parties will have to guarantee that the bargaining will be confidential.

He said he told the government he agrees the bargaining is of public concern, but the public is entitled to know whether progress is being made, but it should not be able to watch the negotiations on a "blow by blow" basis.

Rangoon Soldiers Clip Youths' Hair

RANGOON (AP) — Army trucks filled with soldiers armed guarded by armed troops rumbled through the streets of Rangoon today in search of unfashionably long-haired youths.

Otherwise, life in the Burmese capital city appeared to have returned to normal following the third major flareup of violent opposition to Premier Ne Win's rule in 13 years.

Burmese sources said at least 4,000 to 5,000 persons have been arrested since government forces took the body of U Thant from the Rangoon University campus early Wednesday, setting off two days of street violence.

A special military tribunal was reported preparing to try a second group of prisoners. The first session sentenced 28 persons to five years in jail and nine to three years. Rangoon radio reported.

The government said nine persons were killed and more than 70 wounded in the riots. But other sources said the number was probably much greater. Martial law remained in effect today, and newspapers were warned not to publish casualty lists.

The body of the former Unified Saloon secretary-general lay under tons of concrete in a shady park in the shadow of the Shwedagon Pagoda. The government moved bricks, sand and some construction equipment to the graveside but by late Sunday work had not begun on the mausoleum promised by the government.

One downtown barbershop reported giving 250 haircuts in two days as youngsters flocked to avoid the military tonsures. The price of a haircut tripled at some shops, to 60 from 22 cents.

Results of Canadian Plan Studied

U.S. Midwest Could Lack Heating Oil

WASHINGTON (AP) — Families in the upper Midwest could find themselves with a severe shortage of home heating oil as the result of Canada's plan to end oil exports, Minnesota and Wisconsin would be hit particularly hard.

Within the same period, motorists in the area might find themselves in long lines at gasoline stations, reminiscent of the gasoline shortages of 1973.

Elsewhere in the country, home heating oil might cost two to four cents a gallon more and gasoline prices might be higher as crude oil is shifted to ease the upper Midwest's shortages.

Those are some of the possible consequences of the Canada-Ford administration proposal to halt oil exports to the United States after 1982, says, Bill Horne of the Interior Department conference. Horne is directing a study of alternatives in response to the Canadian decision.

The study is being done for Republican representatives John Anderson of Illinois, Philip Ruppe of Michigan and Bill Frenzel of Minnesota; and Democrats Bob Bergland and John Blatnik of Minnesota.

The Canadian oil is vital to the upper Midwest, particularly Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan. To a lesser degree, Iowa, North and South Dakota and Indiana would feel the effects of a cutoff.

Of 800,000 barrels of Canadian oil exported daily to the U.S., 600,000 go to the region. Of that, 150,000 barrels are shipped in five refineries in Minnesota and Wisconsin that do not obtain crude oil from any other source because a Canadian pipeline is the only transportation system into the area.

The conference is studying five possible alternatives to the Canadian cutoff.

One is to take a hard line with the Canadians, including economic sanctions such as a tax on Canadian oil that is piped from midwestern Canada through the U.S. and back into Eastern Canada.

Two other alternatives envisage a swap of excess oil from the Alaskan pipeline for Canadian oil that normally would be used in western and midwestern Canadian provinces. The Canadian oil not sent to this area then would be used to continue to supply the midwestern U.S.

A fourth alternative would be to use Alaskan pipeline oil in southern California, freeing that area's locally-produced oil for shipment to West Texas for use in the south-central U.S. Oil locally produced there then would be freed for shipment northward into the Midwest.

Under that plan, consumers in each area would find themselves paying from two to four cents more per gallon of home heating oil. Higher shipping charges would make gasoline more expensive.

A fifth alternative appears to be a stopgap. Because the northern midwestern refineries have no access to any oil other than Canadian, one idea is to supply these refineries first with oil to meet their needs, as Canada begins to eliminate its exports. Only then would refineries in the Chicago and Hammond, Ind., areas, which supply much of the rest of the Midwest, receive Canadian oil.

The Stein was released after his father paid a $15,000 ransom.

This city of 28,000 was shocked Sunday by the discovery of the bodies of the two city policemen, Cpl. Aurele Bourgeois, 47, a father of four, and Constable Michael O'Leary, 31, a father of two.

The two policemen disappeared early Friday while investigating the Stein kidnapping.

Their bodies were discovered Sunday in shallow graves in a sparsely populated district about 15 miles northeast of here. Both had been shot in the head.

Police and police associations in the Maritimes have contributed to a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for the deaths.

"It certainly was a big blow to our department and has quite an effect on the men," said Chief C. M. Weldon.

Mayor Gary Wheeler said the slayings, the first violent deaths of on-duty Maritime policemen this century, has saddened Christmas in the city.

The city administration is considering special financial aid for the families of the two officers in addition to the pensions which they will receive, but details of the amounts involved were not known. Some citizens have raised the possibility of a special fund for the families.

Discovery of the bodies in the isolated Shelbiac River area followed an exhaustive search.

A police portable radio and two revolvers were found in the area. Both the bodies were discovered less than a mile away. Sgt. Cahoon told reporters it appears the two officers were shot at the site where the bodies were found.

There also is the possibility the two policemen were ordered to dig their own graves.

Police cars, a private vehicle being used in the investigation of the kidnapping, was found in Salisbury, about 20 miles west of Moncton, a few hours after they disappeared.

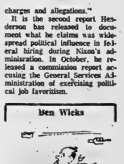
Nixon's Housing Agency Said Patronage-ridden

WASHINGTON (AP) — Political favoritism played a major role in hiring practices of the department's housing and urban development during former president Richard Nixon's administration, a government study says.



A Civil Service Commission study says department officials violated civil service regulations by keeping extensive political files on employees and job seekers.

The study also says the patronage unit was set up in the agency for the sole apparent purpose of making sure persons with the right political connections got department posts.

The report is based on a commission investigation made in late 1972 and early 1974. As a result of the study, the commission initiated removal proceedings against three top department officials and suspension actions against six others.

The report was released today by the House subcommittee on manpower and civil service. Subcommittee chairman David N. Henderson (Dem., N.C.) said the report contains "serious charges and allegations."

It is the second report Henderson has released to document what he claims was widespread political influence in federal hiring during Nixon's administration. In October, he released a commission report accusing the General Services Administration of exercising political job favoritism.

Geese Becoming Popular Fare

Goose long ago was a centrepiece of the Christmas feast.

Then, it had the stuffing knocked out of it by turkey.

Yet, lingering, select demand remains for the once-traditional dish.

What's why you find Donald Wilson taking orders for geese weeks before Christmas arrives.

It started a couple of years ago when Mr. Wilson, a beekeeper, began raising a small flock of geese at his apiary on Huntingdon Township's fourth concession. The demand has been growing since.

Mr. Wilson doesn't supply a big market and his output is no production-line process.

His operation concentrates on Belleville farmers' market where he begins taking orders around Thanksgiving. This year, he estimates about 100 requests have been placed by consumers.

But, what he offers, he says, is fresh geese — compared to the frozen product available in the big chain operations.

As a result, his prices are higher than the big stores — about $1.35 a pound, dressed. But, because he raises them longer — about five months — they are also bigger, he believes, running eight to 12 pounds.

As such prices it won't easily overtake turkey, now among the most popular meats which has made its demand year-round.

Nonetheless goose can still cost less than some other meats, he notes.

The fact turkey consumption no longer centres strictly on Christmas or Thanksgiving may be one reason people buy geese, he surmises.

His customers are mixed — older people who evidently recall that goose was once popular Christmas fare and are prompted to use it again; younger people who see it as a novelty. Enormous appeal among the consumers. It was in Europe that goose had its festive primacy — before America's wild turkeys became a staple with settlers and eventually part of the Christmas scene.

But goose still is superior to the turkey, believes Mr. Wilson. For one thing, the meat is more moist.

He dismisses one belief that has lingered about the dish — that it's greasier than turkey.

"A lot of people complained about geese being fat. But I don't think that's true now," he said. "Maybe it happened because once they raised them too long — which meant a lot of feeding."

For the present, geese also are easier to raise.

For one thing, they're grazers. They don't need richer — and, these days, more expensive — feed like corn until several weeks before it's time for market, he says.

Some Dish

Gonzalo Wilson holds big goose that's being readied for market on Huntingdon Township farm owned by Don Wilson. Although long ago pre-empted by turkey as Christmas table centrepiece, there's still a demand for goose.

Travel Agents Tackle Bill

Ontario's travel agents have banded together to tackle a new provincial bill which regulates the business of selling and dealing in travel services.

Anthony Warren, a director of Davison and Davison Travel here, said today a Sunday meeting in Toronto of travel agents decided to form the Ontario Travel Industry Action Fund, which will assess the implications of the act on all people who deal with travel of any kind.

Areas to be covered include travel sales staff, airlines, railway companies, bus companies, hotel representative companies, travel agents, tour operators and tour wholesalers.

Under the act, a registrar will be appointed by the government, who will have control over licensing travel agents. Future regulations will require establishment of a $1-million compensation fund and trust funds where fares will be held until trips have been completed satisfactorily.

Mr. Warren said the fund will survey the entire industry to determine the effect of the legislation, with the information conveyed to the government "in a way that will be heard".

It will also seek the best legal talent "to tackle the difficulties . . . from the aspects of civil rights, criminality, and relationships between the industry and government," he said.

In addition, political lobbying will be undertaken, as well as a public relations campaign to assess the public of the industry's position and reliability, he added.

Mr. Warren said the fund was set up "because what the bill seems to be saying and what it actually means seems to be saying are not the same at all. They are told the bill seems to mean this, and then they say that's not what they mean at all."

"We've decided at this point the bill should be not headon," he commented. The industry will go to the courts if necessary to effect changes in the bill, he explained.

Mr. Warren said he noted what the industry feels are deficiencies in the bill. "The act does nothing to ensure an agent licensed by the province is a competent enough to advise you," he pointed out.

The industry is also dubious about the abilities of a government-appointed registrar with power to license and control agents. "The person is going to be registrar must have a degree of responsibility . . . and compassion, which cannot be found in any one man," he said.

Escapee Nabbed After Brief Search

NAPANEE — Provincial police said a prisoner escaped from the Quinte Region at Detention Centre here Sunday night after he was let outside to clean a rug.

Ricardo Fred Nicholls, 27 of Toronto, was arrested later on a Napanee street.

Police said Nicholls was in custody awaiting trial on charges of uttering forged cheques in the area.

He had been assigned to clean the foyer of the detention centre and was allowed outside to shake-an rug when he ran for freedom, said police.

The escape occurred at 8.25 p.m. Nicholls was arrested about 11 p.m.

Snow Snarls Traffic

The Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police report no injuries or serious accidents due to the three inches of snow that blanketed the city overnight.

Police said today two cars left Highway 401 near the Wallbridge Rd. about 11:30 p.m., Sunday in separate incidents.

Police also said they investigated three accidents earlier today, none of them serious. One occurred near the Belleville airport, another in Frankford while a third occurred on Highway 62, on the fifth concession of Thurlow Township.

Poem Missing

Keith Martin, Loyalist College information officer, studies a copy of the college's literary magazine, Grass Roots, which was released Friday, and wonders what his poem would have looked like in print. Mr. Martin's work, a satire of "student suicidal poetry", was not allowed to be published in the magazine by public relations director Ernst Kneisel because it contained an obscenity.

Trash Bins Misused

SOPHIASBURG — Sophiasburg township reeve George Foster has cautioned ratepayers costs of garbage disposal probably will rise unless they observe rules for the deposit of wastes more carefully.

At a ratepayers' meeting shortly before the recent election, reeve Foster noted the township garbage disposal system had been abused by offenders who have crammed containers with wood and metal.

In one instance township employees had to cut up tree limbs stashed in one of the bins.

The garbage collection service is operated by Dominion Waste Management of Kingston and Belleville.

A number of metal containers have been placed throughout the township for ratepayers' convenience and are emptied regularly by the disposal company.

The new system was introduced last winter and has been in operation in Sophiasburg for almost a year.

Tennis Popular Year-round

Tennis has scored with the city's recreation department.

The impact hasn't been lessened by winter.

Tennis weather may be months away. But, reasons the department, like "long wait shouldn't be wasted.

The result: Weekly indoor instruction courses. A beginner can go in the door of Ben Hiescher Auditorium and come out with the summer's sun — a playing participant in one of the community's most popular recreations.

"In the last two or three years," says Robin Heggie, the department's program supervisor, "tennis is an individual recreation has picked up more than any other pursuit."

So much is the interest, the department found itself operating tennis courts at six outdoor sites around the city — plus the indoor Ben Hiescher facilities.

At Zwicki's Island — site of one of the first city-operated tennis courts — the rush for playing space starts on the mid-April opening day and doesn't slacken until cold fall weather arrives, says Mr. Heggie.

With popularity clearly defined, the department launched Ben Hiescher last year.

The courses are programmed in three phases — from September to May — through which the student moves progressively.

Mr. Heggie says the program can handle a maximum of 60 students — 10 to a class.

There's one surprise to date, for the department. No beginners have shown up at the Saturday morning classes. The eight students so far enrolled are people brushing up on technique and boosting in practice, says Mr. Hiseggie.

Loyalist Magazine Off the Presses

The third edition of the Grass Roots, Loyalist's literary magazine was officially released during an artistic display at the college Friday.

"This year, we hope to make it twice a year, because we've had enough interest," announced published Doug Barnett. "Up to now, it's been once a year."

Grass Roots did not publish in 1973-73 due to lack of quality submissions. "One thing we try not to do is publish for the sake of publishing," explained Mr. Barnett.

About 1,000 copies of the newest edition will be distributed, primarily to libraries in the Quinte area.

All of the contributions are from college people. "The only thing that is required is that they (contributors) be associated with Loyalist College," said Mr. Barnett.

Mr. Barnett said he hopes the magazine can be sold in bookstores at some future time. "Up to now, we weren't in the position to sell the magazine," he noted. If the public accepts it, it might be sold and the circulation increased, he said.

"I personally would like to see it as a literary and artistic publication of the Quinte area," he remarked. He expressed appreciation of assistance from the arts council. "They have expertise we don't have."

Grass Rotts may be unique in the provincial college system. "As far as I know, this is the only literary magazine published by a community college in Ontario," he said.

Rare Pencil Sketches Reflect Artist's Career

Doris Campbell believes she has something unique in art in the Quinte area, and perhaps even in the art world.

The 300 Farley Ave. resident has six Indis ink sketches and six pencil pictures, drawn by her late artist husband, Gilbert Campbell, and while she does not know their value, she thinks they might have importance.

"You never hear tell of India ink today," she said in an interview Sunday. "I don't think it even exists."

The scene might hold true for the pencils, noted Mrs. Campbell. "They don't do the detail work anymore," she said. "You notice most of the pencils look like photographs. They don't do that today."

Two of the pencils are Nova Scotian scenes, one at Peggy's Cove and one titled A Misty Day on the waterfront at Chester, here is also one of Oliver Cromwell standing before his fireplace, in which "the detail is something else," said Mrs. Campbell.

A photograph copy of another portrait of former Canadian National president Donald Gordon has been loaned to the Belleville Yachmen. The original, done by Mr. Campbell when he worked for the railroad, is ripped and Mrs. Campbell hopes to find someone who can restore it.

Mr. Campbell, who was 39 when he died five years ago, began his career at the age of nine. He was a former head of an art department for a large railroad firm, and turned down an offer to go to New York to continue his work, switching to the railroad business, although "his heart was still in art", related Mrs. Campbell.

The Human Dilemma

Anyone with a knowledge of even the basics of psychology is aware of the problems that can arise when two people are on a different wavelength so to speak.

It happens all the time, between individuals, between labor and management, and between governments.

Betterlife Rotarians got into the subject a little deeper recently, through the medium of a two-part address by probation officer Bill Groten. They obtained some insight also into the contemporary vernacular, when it comes to discussing the neuroses, or should we say hangups, of homo sapiens.

It all boils down to what one psychologist identifies, in a technique of his own creation, as "Transactional Analysis."

More specifically, as summed up by club bulletin writer Denton Taylor, it contains these major elements: parent-ego state (inherited from parents and their culture and a fixture throughout our lives); adult ego state; child ego state (freedom to laugh, to smile, to joke, to prank).

All three states are at work within human personality, and if one is lacking there is a problem.

Mr. Groten defined the human psyche further, according to the following permutations, basic problems affecting everyone: I am not. OK — You are OK (this person tends to feel inferior and lacks confidence; I am OK — You are not OK (this arises in a short person who has been abused in early childhood, and can lead to trouble with the law; I am not OK — You are not OK (these people need help and may end up in mental institutions; I am OK — You are OK (the ideal state: these are the people who are normal — from a standpoint of faith in others).

In short, different ego states can spell trouble, or misunderstandings at least. Where the Rotarians are concerned, their code of ethics discourages unfriendliness; but talking to delegates at the annual fall meeting president Bob Graham had everyone on his feet, each to shake hands with the member on his left and repeat: "I'm OK — You're OK."

A question of course is, will nations ever be able to attain such rapport? And, isn't a little friction also necessary to progress at every level? Nevertheless, we could all do with a little more of I'm OK — You're OK.

Success Story

Despite inflation and robber Middle East sheikhs, the United States remains the supreme example of free enterprise and success on an individual basis. There is more wealth per capita in the U.S. than anywhere else on earth, and more opportunities too for others to strike it rich.

Take Spiro Agnew. Before his political downfall and resignation as vice-president Mr. Agnew was a demonstrably active and politically astute personality. He had been Governor of Maryland for years until tax difficulties ended his career in politics, his future in that sphere seemed assured with the prospect even of becoming president.

That is not the path Agnew has taken. The energetic businessman, Mr. Agnew was not long in picking up the pieces. Indeed, he is no average executive. His business partner, Walter J. Sachs, has appraised their dealing: "He's opened up more doors than I need. There's no doubt our joint venture will make millions. We've already made a lot of money."

No doubt either, says Dilbeck (who reportedly operates on a grand scale) that Agnew himself will become a millionaire.

Their business includes building million-dollar deals in Kentucky, one for development of homes and apartments with Mid-East oil money and the other inviving sale of a coal mine to Japanese interests with potential land deals in half-a-dozen states.

As Dr. Morton Shulman points out in a book of the same name: "Anyone Can Make a Million." Mr. Agnew is doing it in short order. And where else but the United States are there to be found colorful characters like partner Dilbeck? The latter sports rings with huge jewels, drops names of politicians and show business stars, runs an 8,500-acre farm in Kentucky, and buys 15 new cars every year for his family?

As Oscar Wilde put it; "Nothing succeeds like success."

U.S. Scientist's Study

Russia Has Energy Shortage Too

Detroit News.

Marianna Slocum, a scientist who spends her time compiling information from Russian journals and newspapers, has concluded that the Soviet Union is in the midst of a full-blown energy crisis. This may come as a rude surprise to many who believe that Russia is self-sufficient in energy resources.

This conclusion appears in Technology Review, a national journal published by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Credentials of the publication are of the highest.

The author has culled a lot of evidence disclosed by Soviet writers inside Russia - facts not ordinarily discussed outside the country. Soviet citizens are taught adherence to conserve energy. Stockpiling measures have been taken. An overhaul of the coal industry has been going on since 1963.

Russia has been engaging in research on harnessing tidal power and geothermal resources. A country does not normally go after such esoteric resources unless the need is great.

Expensive forms of oil and gas exploration have been stepped up in the European regions, where discovery probabilities are low. The Soviets also are sending funds and technology out to the underdeveloped nations to search there for fossil fuels.

The author concludes the Soviet Union will be forced to increase imports of gas and oil from the Middle East in industrialization and farm mechanization increase. Although it may be farfetched, the author suggests oil demands have gone up because the Soviet has been phasing out the use of firewood in factories and communes.

The article brings into question the real nature of the oil and gas deposits in Siberia. The West has been led to believe Siberia is a raft floating on rich fossil fuel resources. Russian domestic activity might indicate the Siberian resource is smaller than supposed. Reports of Russia have faith in the Siberian resources, but they aren't putting their money on it.

Several American companies are seeking government approval in Washington to invest heavily in development of Siberian gas properties. The contracts would involve $7 billion U.S. government loans and guarantees. Theoretically, American companies would provide capital and technology and would get gas that could be shipped in liquefied form to the West Coast of the United States.

Why would the Soviet Union seek American help for the Siberian projects? The Wall Journal suggests Russia is attempting to fob off on American taxpayers the enormous risk of developing resources where a bottle climate makes the odds very poor indeed. In the meantime, she laments her own resources where the chances of a good strike are better.

Technology Review also suggests that the Soviet may have long-range strategic considerations in mind, seeking to conserve her "easy" oil and energy for the future.

Marianna Slocum has concluded that American investment in Siberia ought to be examined carefully and with a somewhat cynical approach. If that is done, we might even conclude that capital which would flow into Siberia would be better kept at home to solve America's problem.

Snowmobile Legislation Updated

The Globe and Mail

Lumbering aimlessly over the snow to the rescue, like an overdue St. Bernard, comes an amendment to Ontario's snowmobile legislation. And yet, bless it, we are pleased to see it approach and if it can arrive before we succumb to midsummer heatstroke - so much the better.

It is comfort to be drawn from the prospect that registration, licencing and testing of drivers will bring some kind of order to a sport that has thoroughly, and literally - over the sensitivities of many people, littered its path. To be made compulsory and to minimum age for driving snowmobiles on public trails will be the biggest single step of it would offer more protection, but at least a start has been made.

The bill would ban snowmobiles from all provincial highways and secondary roads except those exempted by resolutions and would require drivers to cross serviced roads at a right angle. Snowmobiles would be banned from all serviced roads, except those where drivers are specifically permitted by municipal bylaws. These are the provisions most vitally needed, and it is sad clearly the ones that might be most effective for life, death and injury from car-snowmobile collisions on the roads of the province have been appalling and, winter after winter, have given renewed emphasis to the folly of continued shared use. Our welcome to the bill is tempered by the thought that municipal bylaws may still bring these incompatible vehicles together. We assume this is intended to accommodate the special needs and circumstances of communities - mostly in the north of the province - for whom the snowmobile has special importance in the winter months.

If the exercise of municipal option is found to be irresponsible, the province should not hesitate to amend the legislation once more to restore the safeguards that must be there.

Changes In Life Expectancy

Financial Post

A Canadian boy born in 1921 had, almost exactly, a 60-year life expectancy, while a girl had slightly more. Children born in 1971 had a quite different prospect: the boy could count on just under 70 years and the girl, while the girl was looking for close to 77 years.

In 1971 more than 40 out of every 100,000 men died of cancer-related lung cancer. But, despite the very real worry about cancer, it is a fact that no fewer than 300 out of every 100,000 males died of heart disease directly related to smoking.

Then there is suicide. The suicide rate reaches a peak for Canadian men when they are in their early 80s - almost 40 out of every 100,000. With women, the peak of self-destruction comes earlier, in their late 60s, when some 15 out of 100,000 do themselves in. From then on, the female suicide rate drops steadily, while that for men zigzags along at a high level until they are 70, when it is almost six times as high as the female rate.

These are just a handful of the thousands of facts and figures about Canadians that have been brought together by Statistics Canada in a new report called Perspective Canada. It is one of a slew of ourselves that we have never had before.

Perspective Canada is not without its faults. Sylvia Ostry, chief statistician of Canada, took over during the project was about half done. She pushed it hard and well. "It has drawbacks," she admits. "For instance, in many cases, perhaps we should compare these results with people in other countries so we can tell how we stand. But I am very happy with what has been produced."

And she should be...While it may take some courage to start reading the report - there are 1,200 detailed pages - it is a fascinating document.

LOOKING BACKWARD

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

December 16, 1944.

A two month police investigation relating to the theft of copper wire and other junk articles, was resulted in a local youth being sentenced.

The lad is alleged to have broken into the old Intelligencer building on Victoria Avenue, and stolen a large coil of copper wire. The police allege that the boy took the wire to a small island in the Moira River and hid it, later building a fire and burning the insulation off and then selling the copper to a local junk dealer.

Price Drop In Pocket Calculator Boosts Popularity with Consumers

By VINCENT EGAN EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs
Thomson News Service

Even in this age of super-inflation, there remains one item every once in a while a popular new product that comes getting cheaper and better.

In recent years, that description applied to certain cameras and to cassette tape records. But 1974 seems to be the year of the pocket calculator.

As the ingenious technical wizardry of the little machines (which would fit easily into a standard-sized small envelope) has improved, prices have fallen dramatically.

A simple four-function calculator—one that adds, subtracts, multiplies and divides, with eight-digit display, floating decimal, constant and clear-entry keys—has a current Canadian list price of about $25. It can sometimes be found in catalogue showrooms or discount stores at less than $20. The 1972 price was $100.

In the biggest U.S. market, the lowest current list price is $17, if mail-order firms generally advertised a name-brand calculator at $9.95 for a limited period.

One reason for the price decline has been the wider distribution of the machines. Traditionally, office calculators have been handled by specialty firms who had little reason to cut prices.

Today, pocket calculators greet the shopper at almost every turn—department stores, drug stores, camera and sound equipment shops and so on.

The competition and price cutting may have been a boon to consumers, but have been hard on retailers, distributors and manufacturers.

Shopkeepers have grown leary to stock big inventories, since they could find themselves with merchandise that cost them more than the going retail price.

The most prominent Canadian manufacturer, Commodore Business Machines (Canada) Ltd., of Toronto, has reported a sales gain but a net loss in both the April-June and July-September quarters of this year, because of the necessity of "writing down" the value of its inventory.

Intermodore and some other large manufacturers, who formerly bought specialized components from outside suppliers, have been making their own integrated-circuit chips, which is the heart of any calculator.

Some other manufacturers in the U.S. lacking that self-sufficiency, have been finding the business too competitive. Industry people think that dumping of inventories by such failing firms has contributed to the current downward trend on prices of pocket calculators.

What does 1975 hold for the calculator makers and their customers?

Part of the answer will be provided at the annual Consumer Electronics Show in Chicago in January. New models to be shown there will almost certainly be priced lower than their current equivalents.

Jack Tramiel, president of Commodore, forecasts that his company will sell more calculators than ever, but that its sales revenue will be more or less steady because of price reductions.

Although the pocket calculator market probably won't reach its saturation point for a few years, the industry is expected in 1975 to start swinging toward the production of digital clocks and watches—which use the calculator basic technology.

"We think that before many months has gone by there is going to be a $24.95 or $19.95 item," says Mr. Gould of Commodore. "When it has reached that stage, we will go into it."

Other industry executives, he expects the digital watch to be the best-selling item for the 1975 Christmas retail season.

Growing Numbers Of Elderly Folk Forecast By Bank Publication

Brockville Recorder and Times

Viewed through the eyes of a young-anyone under 30—Canada is becoming a nation of "old people." In other words, the largest single age group in the population, over 50 percent, will be 30 or older, by 1981.

This bit of good news? comes from the latest edition of the Toronto Dominion Bank Business Review." Based on data compiled by Statistics Canada, the Review notes that changes in the composition of the population will feature a growing proportion of elderly people and significantly fewer in the under-20 group. By 1986 only 22 percent of the population will be under 20 compared with 39 percent today. This is the result of smaller families.

Looked at from a strictly economic viewpoint, the Review sees the decline in the number of young people changing the expenditure patterns of the population. This could mean a shift away from goods and services primarily for the young, and a growing market in demand for education. As the number of elderly people grows, working members of the population may have to bear ever greater costs to support the elderly, especially as the purchasing power of pensions and savings are eroded by inflation.

But there will continue to be a strong demand for cars and other durables as well as a higher standard of housing as the number of young adults. And all this will be accompanied by the slowest population growth since the period 1871 - 1891.

According to the Review, statistics seem to indicate that Canadians are choosing a family of two children. Within the past decade social attitudes, particularly among women, towards family size, have undergone a considerable alteration. Improved birth control methods and a much greater acceptance of foregoing child-bearing altogether, are cited as two of the reasons contributing against high average birth rates. And while they may be reflected in the latest batch of figures compiled by Statistics Canada, this too early, really to conclude that is a lasting trend. People are evidently want to have larger families.

Indeed the graphs and charts accompanying the article indicate a slightly increased birth rate over the next 10 years from 2.0 today to 2.1 children per family.

Immigration has to be another factor considered in population trends as one item in the possible economic effects of declining birth rates. There is a statistic and shows up as accounting for 40% of newcomers to Canada each year since 1945.

But in today's population statistics there is no sign that that could also change the trend. Canadians are becoming quite still high, better than 16 percent per thousand births. That's among the top 20 percent in Sweden, Diagonist and treatment of cancer could also vastly change the accuracy of projections.

Of interest - too is the indication that the movement of Canada's population toward faster-growing economic regions will continue. Thus Ontario will continue to increase its population significantly while Atlantic provinces and Quebec will decline. The country's non-urban population is projected at 28,250,000 by 1986.

One Professor's War To Correct Functional Illiteracy In Business

Kingston Whig - Standard

Consumers should awaken to the significance of "functional illiteracy" in their dealings with sloppy, time-wasting retail and other business practices.

This is the word which has just gone out to Kingston's hundred-headed professor David Klein who is fed up with "arrogant" and "unsolicited" telephone calls from organizations and institutions. The computer, he says, "screwed you up in the first place" and these expect you to take time to help unscrew the situation. He gets a special call like that he asks the clerk to phone the firm and have it paid by his company to make the call.The reply of course, must be "yes". The ripsale is to the point and unanswerable:

"Well, I'm not, so you will understand why I am not motivated to continue it. Sorry."

But that's not all. Professor Klein has his own charge system. he charges by the time he spends clearing up errors made by them, and orders or account. His present bill is for a letter a reasonable fee for mistakes, in view of expenses such as photocopying, dictating and correcting plus his time. He also bills organizations for the time he spends clearing up errors. He simply deducts the amount from a monthly charge account bill".

As for retaliation, there are three things "they" can do: "fill me with lead, sue me, fine me. If they want to cancel my subscription, fine. They did and they want to cancel my debt and give me back a zero balance, fine. They have no choice". So far, "they" give in and write off the charges from the bill.

This is one way of refusing to be victimized by incompetence. As Professor Klein points out; if everybody took the same action, there would soon be considerable changes made. The result would be that prices would drop because at present they are added on at the upkeep of the departments now handling going about incorrectly their errors at our expense.

Realities Of Fighting Inflation

The Trentonian

George Hees has been like a national conscience for several years, saying in the House of Commons that if we want to prosper we must produce more. Now a bank president has warned that unless we do, inflation will get the better of us.

It always has been the case that if you wanted to make money you had to do something more helpful to do if you wanted to sell your goods competitively, you had to turn out good quality, and more of it. In the present period, to that your cost was related to your production.

That philosophy has been abandoned in favor of getting more money in a hurry, even without producing any more to pay for it. At some point that becomes certain to catch up with us.

It is perfectly illustrated in the tactics adopted by oil producers to get outrageous prices for their product. Others are doing it with sugar. Some are in agriculture. Others are everyone doing it with food, telling us we must have the price drop and get it sold.

There is a philosophy to which there is a return if we are to save ourselves from the final ruin of inflation. But the change must do enough to warrant what he is being paid That goes for wages, prices, or anything else.

Land Speculation Tax A Failure

Ottawa Journal

For the most successful failure of the year, we nominate Ontario's land speculation tax which was supposed to produce $25 million in revenue in the first year but has managed only $250,000 in the first six months of its operation.

Not only that, but the provincial government is now reducing the rate of the tax from 50 per cent of land value increases since April to only 20 per cent for corporations. The move follows the federal government's refusal to allow the provincial tax to be deducted as a business expense before computing federal income tax - a situation that would have created 100 per cent taxation for some companies.

So as a revenue-raiser, the tax is about as dismal a failure as could have been invented. But the beauty of it is that the miniscule amount of revenue indicates the pace of speculative land sales has slackened along with land trading activity. To credit the tax with all of that result would be unrealistic, but it has clearly helped to cool off the insane period in Ontario land prices of the-past few years.

Some interests still consider the land speculation tax highly offensive, but on the basis of its early working that seems a wrong description. It is more of a defensive measure. Perhaps its taxation as well as default, a good defence wins more games even if it doesn't excite the spectators.

Clown Curious

Debbie Fox, four, and her six-year-old sister, Angela, show curiosity about one of the numerous clowns in the annual Brighton Santa Claus Parade Saturday. The two children were among thousands that lined streets in this village of 2,000 people.

Trent Attracts Fewer Boaters

TRENTON — A decrease in the movement of boats through the Trent Canal this year compared to 1973 is in line with a drop in traffic in the seven canal systems under Parks Canada control.

Parks Canada figures show boat traffic in all canals has dropped marginally from a record high of 314,439 in 1973.

The Trent Canal Canada's largest with 43 locks and 125 dams stretching across central Ontario, was used by 276,494 boaters this year, down 964 from last year.

However the number of different vessels using the canal has increased, slightly over 1972. This year, 25,555 boats used the canal, up by 125. More than 2,000 of the vessels were from the United States, American - registered vessels recorded in the canal system were slightly lower this year over 1973.

The drop in traffic in the Trent Canal has been attributed to several factors by officials.

The canal opened several weeks later than usual this year due to high water levels. Uncertain weather and the higher price of gasoline also reduced traffic officials said.

Hicks Resigns

Ken Hicks, a provincial government appointee from Prince Edward County to the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit, has resigned his position after nine year's service. Mr. Hicks, who won the deputy-reeveship in North Marysburgh Township in the Dec. 2 municipal elections, cited expanded duties in his new post as the reason for his resignation. He was a member of the original unit board when the counties' health service amalgamated in 1936.

Good Crowd for Brighton Parade

BRIGHTON — An overcast sky and cold weather greeted several thousand parents and children lining downtown streets in this village for the annual Santa Claus parade Saturday.

The temperature remained constant at 39 degrees for the red-suited gentleman's arrival in mid-afternoon.

However, it didn't discourage crowds, said Bill Pettingill, parade chairman. This year's parade saw one of the largest crowd turnouts in the last 10 years, he said.

It was also one of the largest as far as the number of entries was concerned, he added.

There were 45 entries of which 38 were floats. Three bands and two majorette groups also took part.

Trenton entries won two of the five major awards handed out by judges. The Trenton Public Works Department won the best float prize with one built around the Wizard of Oz theme. The recreation and parks majorette group also took top honors.

Other awards were handed out for best school and best comic floats.

Santa Steals Show

STIRLING — The Stirling High Steppers finally came home this weekend. On Saturday the 88 majorettes showed this community what they can really do. They have taken first spot in other cities' and towns' Santa Claus parades, but other than appearing at fashion shows and a two-mile walk on the main street last year, the girls have never performed before a big hometown audience.

There were 42 entries in a parade which took over half an hour to pass by. The Stirling Girl Guides took top honors with their entry, and the High Steppers came second. Mrs. Carrol Clements' Grade 3 class depicted Santa's workshop, and captured third prize.

Altogether, about 350 people participated in the gala event. But the main attraction was one man .... Santa Claus. He rode in a horse-drawn cutter owned and driven by Roy Tokley.

King Centennial

William Lyon Mackenzie King, who was Canada's prime minister for 22 years, was born on Dec. 17, 1874. Tomorrow is the centennial of his birth.

King Complex Figure Beyond Understanding

Written for CP
By CHARLOTTE O'LEARY

The posthumous life of Mackenzie King is an extraordinary thing in our political story.

Canada is celebrating his centennial. But when did we celebrate the centennial of Laurier, or of Borden, not to mention King's two antagonists, Bennett and Meighen?

I, around Parliament close to forever, cannot recall anything like this.

There is a Parliament Hill monument of King, but none of Bennett and Meighen, nor of Sir Laurier.

More books have been written about Mackenzie King than about any of the Fathers of Confederation.

George Ignatieff, Conrad Black and Peter Newman and others are writing about him, mainly in pursuit of praise, often hysterically.

Why?

I know Mackenzie King less before he became leader of the Liberal party and prime minister; knew him when he was getting out the publication Canadian Liberal for his party; sat through the 1919 Liberal convention which made him leader, and watched and heard him from the press gallery as Opposition leader and prime minister during years of his reign. The years when he gave Conservatives a new meaning of eternity.

He was not a great parliamentarian, not an orator, not even a great debater. He was without scientific armament of words. Indeed, Laurier's "proud full sail" and Bourassa's "sombre sarcasm" and Borden's "granite integrity" and Meighen's "scornful invective and glittering impromptus."

Only mine, as I remember, did he ever use. Between the year 1909, when Canso the Bradley campaign over the Byng incident, he became the grandson of the old rebel and spoke with a degree of passion and power. In vain did we plead with Meighen to answer him, but Meighen, who underestimated him, and sincerely thought of him as an unfathomable fraud, ignored his charges—to his sorrow, King won that election on the platform.

Why did he keep on winning?

Acton's answer of collective mediocrity, applied to the long reign of Lord Liverpool, "he was successful not despite his mediocrity, because of it," is too easy. Greatness is not easily defined. Nor craft. Great or not, some men become leaders, some do not, and among those who do, there are qualitative differences. Mackenzie King had these differences. He could neither read, write nor speak a word of French, yet held Quebec in the palm of his hand for years. To Norman Lambert, president of the Liberal Federation, he would say: "Lambert, keep your hands off Quebec; leave Quebec to Lapointe, Cardin and Chubby Power." They were good hands; wouldn't let the sun go down on the wrath of conscription, which meant victory. Thus leadership said.

He was good at a wedding or a joke, and had a cell of friendships among Conservatives, plus a complete mastery over his ministers.

For myself, who wrote of him often in attack, sometimes more vigorously than sensible, he had nothing but courtesy and kindness.

He knew I was a friend of Meighen's, but never once in conversation with him did he say one word missing in the warm, no one wrote me more moving letters. Once, when he mentioned Meighen's name, nor words of politics. And when was at the Chateau Frontenac with Churchill and Roosevelt, he called my home at mid-night to offer condolences.

Three things one remembered, and explained a lot. Bruce Hutchison summed him up well when he called him the "incredible Canadian." He was purely complex figure in our political tale. Beyond full understanding.

King Hoped to Be Remembered For What He Did for Canada

Written for CP
By DOUGLAS ABBOTT

It was Mackenzie King's ambition to go down in history as the prime minister who had done the most for his country.

He identified the fortunes of the Liberal party with the future of Canada, which is understandable. But his was a perfectly laudable ambition. And the farther you get from Mr. King's era, the better his record looks.

I have never been too keen on superlatives and I wouldn't want to pin down what was his greatest contribution. But certainly one of the greatest things was to get us through the Second World War without the sort of lasting bitterness and political disruption that had been caused by the first conscription crisis in 1917.

The second crisis, in 1944, came very close to breaking up the government, a development that Mr. King believed would have damaged the war effort.

He may have succeeded because of waiting, and having a plebiscite, and never trying to find quick, easy solutions. If I had to put a label on what I think was his greatest contribution, I would put it on his handling of the second conscription issue.

Mackenzie King could be charming, and wrote innumerable gracious notes.

He visited us a couple of times for dinner and he invariably wrote my wife a note expressing appreciation—a page and a half in his little handwriting.

Mackenzie King was a very complex person. I don't think anyone, particularly of my generation, ever got to know him very well.

But I was personally very fond of Mr. King.

The first time I talked to him at all was in the election of 1940. I had been nominated in Westmount riding—where I was elected—and he came down to a rally at The Forum in Montreal.

He was very particular about his relationship with members of Parliament, insisting sure that anything they did that deserved recognition was recognized. I always remember that when I made my maiden speech he took the trouble to come in and listen to it and he wrote me a little note afterward.

Mr. King was very careful of other members' feelings, anxious to see that their nose was never put out of joint—and that it had to be.

I remember when Brooke Claxton, who was elected to Parliament at the same time as I was in an adjoining constituency, was appointing minister of national health and welfare in November of 1944.

I had just got home to Montreal one weekend when I got a telephone call from Mr. King. He said I may have heard about Brooke becoming minister and "I just want you to know that this will not hurt your prospects of becoming a minister in the cabinet."

It was rather revealing about how Mr. King handled these things.

Soon afterwards, he asked me to take charge of putting the army spending estimates through the House at a very tense and difficult time during the conscription crisis.

When I said that of course I would do it, Mr. King said: "Abbott, I'll never forget this."

Mind you, I took that with a grain of salt because I knew perfectly well that if he had to forget it he would, and rightly so.

Mr. King was a delightful host. A dinner at Laurier House, where he lived for almost 30 years, was quite an event.

It was something quite out of the ordinary for a person like myself, something out of the Victorian era. The candles on the table all had parchment shades and the dinner service was superb. The food was very good.

He enjoyed his food. He wasn't a drinking man. He had wine at meals. I don't think he particularly liked alcohol, but he knew good food and I think he enjoyed good wine with it.

He invited me to join the cabinet in his study on the top floor of Laurier House. His mother's picture was at one end of the room, the proclamation offering a reward for the arrest of his grandfather Mackenzie King was never one to underestimate the force of public opinion.

One of the great criticisms of him was that he tended to follow public opinion rather than lead it. That may be partly true, but not entirely so. When Mr. King had to take a stand, he could do it.

I remember in the conscription debate when the decision had finally been made to go through with the dispatch of conscripted men overseas.

It was one of those dramatic days. He turned his back to the opposition. He paid no attention to the conscriptionists. He talked to his own followers, and he carried it off.

Although Mackenzie King was a bachelor and had few close relations with friends, he was good with young people.

I remember once when my youngest son—he was eight or nine at the time—came up from Montreal and I arranged for him to see the prime minister.

He went into the little room that Mr. King used to use before the Commons chamber. It was a perfectly charming conversation. Mr. King didn't talk down at all.

I have always thought Mr. King made a leave-taking as well done. He seemed to know when it was time to go, though he hummed and hawed a bit towards the end.

He had chosen his successor, of course, in Louis St. Laurent. He was a great admirer of Mr. St. Laurent. He saw him more often, for example, than he did C. D. Howe.

DOUGLAS ABBOTT

Although he had decided upon Mr. St. Laurent, he lined up a group of leadership candidates on the eve of the convention in 1948.

He spoke to me and said: "Abbott, you step in."

But I said, "Mr. King, I announced publicly some months ago that I was supporting Mr. St. Laurent."

"Oh, I know, Abbott," he came back, "but you might want to stand for the leadership some day and you should let your name go forward in the convention. I resume that you will probably withdraw, but I think you should do this."

I said, "Well, Mr. King, if that's what you think should be done." Then I had to scrounge around and get someone to nominate me.

So, at the convention, there we were—Lionel Chevrier, Brooke Claxton, Paul Martin and me—three or four of us were kind of phoney candidates in the sense we were not serious candidates. We were window-dressing, but legitimate window-dressing, there because Mr. King wanted it.

It was characteristic of Mr. King. He was a very subtle man, very complex.

Record Bankruptcies

LONDON (AP) — The High Court listed a record number of 628 companies waiting for winding-up petitions to be heard. Many companies failed because they borrowed at high interest rates and then could not sell their product. Property and building development companies and travel firms accounted for sizable sectors of the bankruptcies.

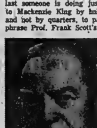
Zolf Views Canada's Finest Fixer

Pepsi and Geritol Generations Both Honor Uriah Heep-King

Written for CP
By LARRY ZOLF



As I sit and write these words, the University of Waterloo is preparing the Mackenzie King Centennial Collection.

Ah, the majesty of the event. Canada's Heep, Heep, heaped with the praises of what Mitzi Jean Brodie in her prime would call Canada's creme de la creme.

Lined up for the colloquium are both the Geritol and Pepsi generations of King affectionados, loathers, loathees, blogbrothers, haggiographers, critics, neutrals and political caitiffs. Just share with me the names: [illegible] Knowles, Saxon, Neatby, Granatstein and the Official Mackenzie King Memory Banks, Hon. D. C. Abbott, Hon. Paul Martin, Hon. Jack Pickersgill and His Excellency the Honorable Hughes Lapointe.

I suppose what makes me chuckle at the official tributes of Canada's aphorism on our premier's prime minister-to wit, "From Philosopher King to Mackenzie King"—is that the 100th birthday anniversary of his birthday a colloquium is doing the King thing and transforming Mackenzie King into a philosopher king.

Well hurrah to you, old U, of W., gloriously situated in The former Berlin homeland of Canada's Finest Fixer. At last someone is doing justice to Mackenzie King by knives and not by quarters, to paraphrase Prof. Frank Scott's famous aphorism about King's caution: "Why do things by halves when you can do them by quarters?"?

As a son of a Jewish immigrant, I know that Mackenzie King was not a lover of my people or any other Strangers Within Our Gates whose presence was too visible. King knew that French-Canadians believed immigrants would swamp their culture and he knew that Tory-Bolshie-Protestants and Orange Ontario wanted immigrants to do the dirty work and keep their noses clean in a low profile, if you'll pardon a mixed metaphor.

For Canadian immigrants there had to be the delights of the mosaic, not the American melting pot.

The politics of the mosaic was good Canadian politics and so was the politics of appeasement. If French-Canadians didn't really believe the Second World War was a necessary fight against forces of fascism and nazism, it wasn't all their fault. It was Mackenzie King, who visited Nazi Germany two years before war and found Adolf Hitler to be "a simple soul and a peasant."

And it was King who viewed the Second World War in a single light—"is this good or bad for national unity"—without ever at any time during the 1939-45 period ask for the Armageddon that lay inevitably ahead in 1944, 1944, when it was too late and the damage to national unity already done, it was King who had to conjure up the myth of a military coup before conscription if necessary be a myth necessarily conscription. Out of mosaic and appeasement, too, came the world's most astonishing immigration policy towards Jewish and political refugees from Nazi Germany.

And out of King's social and political theories came one of the most successful political machines in the world.

I remember David Lewis telling me once how Mackenzie King danced with his wife, Sophie, and King kept telling her that if David gave up his socialism and became a Liberal he'd soon be in the cabinet. Well, if David Lewis had done that he'd have been the first Jewish cabinet minister in Canadian history. Instead, Canada got Flamboyant Herb-Gray.

Guts King never had, but charm, oh boy! Maybe he danced with Mrs. Tom Crerar before he sucked the Farmers' Revolt into the Liberal party in the 1930s. Perhaps he danced with Mrs. Frank Hall as he sucked the railway unions into the Liberal party in the 1930s.

King was smart enough to persuade big business that labor unions were their best guarantee of a smoothly flowing, efficient system, and he was also smart enough to persuade the Canadian workers that if they wanted their fair share of the pie they'd better vote Liberal.

I always admired Mackenzie King's theory of eternal social harmony, even though the pearls of wisdom were obscured by the turgid prose of his 1918 book Industry and Humanity. A country that was to be run in a quadruple partnership—the state, labor, capital, and management—would always be a safe country. Capital could always get management, and, with a little bowl of matzoh ball soup.

King also knew that if the French-Canadians could never get economic power—and they can't in this century—then you can piece them off by giving them political power-cabinet posts, diplomatic posts, commercial posts.

The only trouble with a country put together by a series of piece-offs is that it's a country composed of pieces that can always come unstuck. And the trouble with a Mackenzie King Country is that it's always second rate and timorous, too clever by half if not by quarters.

I think the Canada I live in today is better than the Mackenzie King era I was born in on that hot July day 40 years ago in Winnipeg's St. Joseph's Polish Roman Catholic Hospital.

Forty years later we've got a prime minister who doesn't cringe, wince, scrape and shuffle—a proud Quebecer and a proud Canadian. We have a leader of the Opposition who is dismembered in the flames of bigotry that sometimes pop up around him. And we have as a prime minister, whose Prairie brand of methe-pot egalitarianism I find awfully hard to quarrel with. Today the German Catholic Ed Schreyer and the Jew Dave Barrett are premiers of their provinces not because anyone pieced them off but because they deserve it.

Lapointe Recalls Warmth King Showed to His Father

As told to CP
By HON. HUGHES LAPOINTE
Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec

Mackenzie King gave the impression of being a detached, cold personality, but I remember his human side, the warmth he showed towards my father.

The association between Mackenzie King and Ernest Lapointe began at the Liberal leadership convention in August, 1919, that picked Mr. King to succeed Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The close friendship never faltered in any serious way in all the years to my father's death in 1941, even though their views sometimes differed.

Mackenzie King went to see my father in hospital two days before he died, and he knew he was dying. My family told me about the visit.

Before he left my father, he kissed him and he said, "Ernest, I have loved you like a brother."

Although I had been elected to Parliament in 1940, I was overseas in the army when my father died.

When I came back to Canada, Mackenzie King asked to see me and he invited me to walk home with him from the Commons. He used to walk home practically every evening, with the car following down Elgin Street, over the Laurier Bridge across the canal and along Laurier Avenue to Laurier House.

All the way down from Parliament Hill, he talked about my father and about me, involving him.

He told me that I should not hesitate to come to him any time I wanted and he would try to give me the same good advice my father would have done, I found, I did a lot of asking.

I first encountered Mackenzie King when I was a boy. We lived on Chapel Street in Ottawa, right near Laurier House, from the time I was around 12.

He would come to our home, but it was generally on some occasion. He was not the sort who dropped in for dinner on Sunday, or that you invited to take pot luck. As far as I can recall, he had a very limited social life.

He also visited our home in Riviere du Loup a few times, but that was a little later on. He was not a very easy person to entertain. I can recall in St. Patrick, down in the country he always went up there for days. He didn't play golf. He had no sports whatever except walking, and he kept pretty regular hours even on holidays, reading for a few hours, and he and my father invited a cousin, who was parish priest at Masson and was very scholastic, to keep company with Mr. King. They would go out a lot in the afternoons for walks and talk together. That was his idea of holidays.

Mackenzie King never learned to speak French, though I know he took French lessons long ago from a religious order of French nuns who gave private tutoring in the language.

Every time he opened a campaign in Quebec it was in my father's constituency, Quebec East. Those were the days of the big meetings. He would have to start off with two or three speeches in French. But only he and God knew what he said.

On his visits to our home, Mackenzie King was kind to the children, but a kindly prime minister, a kindly elder statesman. He was an aloof person.

He liked to talk. He was easy in that way. You didn't have to do much talking with him. Actually, this trait he kept throughout his life and very often it was a political advantage to him.

I remember, for example, the way he talked when I once sought an interview with him.

You were eventually ushered into the presence in the little room behind the Speaker's chair, which he used as an office. He would get up from behind his desk and seat you on a chesterfield.

You would go in 10 minutes before the bell rang for the start of the session. When it rang, he had spoken all the time and you had no chance. He would tell you how very pleased he was to see you. It was a favorite trick of his to get out of awkward situations.

In dealing with French Canada, Mackenzie King depended partly on his own understanding and partly on Quebec colleagues.

He definitely would not take on his own a decision that affected Quebec in a serious way without consultation. He would not do it in effect on initiative.

I don't know of any case where he went against the advice of French-Canadian colleagues.

Of course, during the war there was the conscription issue, which he managed—I put that in such a nebulous situation that he got away with it.

Undoubtedly at that time the Quebec deputation in the party was split. But his advisers at the time—St. Laurent and a few others in the cabinet—I think advised him and he followed their advice.

Mackenzie King had a streak of vindictiveness in that came out when he wanted things done. And he never forgot. If he felt someone had acted improperly towards him, he never forgot. He never wanted to be proved wrong about anything.

In the Commons, his sure of authority was like that of a schoolmaster presiding over a pupils in class.

Nothing of Mackenzie King's activities in spiritualism ever revealed my part while he was alive.

But I did know then about his great devotion to his mother. He had a large portrait of her in Laurier House.

He told my father that he would—I think on Sunday—sit in front of the painting and meditate, practically speak to her, and think even in terms of her presence.

I recall one Sunday when I was 15 or so I heard my father, upset because of some political decision had to be taken promptly, say in an exasperated way to my mother that "all this time Mackenzie King is in front of your mother's picture meditating," and unapproachable.

I believe, all in all, that history is being fair and just to Mackenzie King.

He was accused during his time in effect of compromising on every issue. But I think now, as historians begin looking at various periods of his prime ministership, they come to the conclusion that the decisions he took were the logical ones to take at that time and were not necessarily compromise.

Mackenzie King Father Of Social Security

Written for CP
By LIONEL CHEVRIER

History has tended to be unkind to Mackenzie King, considering the magnitude of his accomplishments as prime minister for 22 years.

He was the father of our social security system.

The transformation of the British Empire into the Commonwealth in the 1920s was a great triumph for him.

He was the architect of national unity because his government included representation from all parts of Canada and because of his association with Ernest Lapointe.

And what I think is more significant than anything else was the fact that he succeeded in maintaining national unity during the Second World War.

On the whole, I think he was a phenomenal personality with amazing talents for his time—and he also seemed to have luck on his side.

Mr. King was perhaps two persons within himself. He could be extremely kind and generous, but he could also be tough.

I have seen examples of his kindness and also of his toughness, on many occasions when he became displeased by an individual. Then an attack was made on him openly or surreptitiously.

He had the capacity for reconciling opposing ideas.

He had great experience in labor negotiations and I think he used them in good stead in solving many of the problems brought before him.

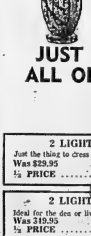
I would not call them communism, but successful solutions at the time. For instance, I think of the decision on conscription at one which did not satisfy everyone, of course, but having regard to the circumstances as they existed at the time that time.

Mr. King succeeded in getting the right people around him. I can speak of this with greater ease because I was a member of the cabinet before 1945. During the war years 1939 to 1945 in particular Mr. King had a very strong cabinet.

Like Ernest Lapointe, C. D. Howe, Louis St. Laurent, J. L. Ilsley, Angus Ralston, to mention only some, represented all parts of Canada and were responsible in no small measure for the success of Mr. King.

Mr. Lapointe's position as the prime minister's lieutenant was especially significant in the context of national unity.

I am sure Mackenzie King understood French, Canada. For a start, his understanding was based because his rebel grandfather led a rebellion in



LIONEL CHEVRIER

Ontario at the same time as the 1837 insurrection in Quebec.

Without an understanding of Quebec, Mr. King would not have been able to act as he did during the conscription crisis.

There will always be serious discussion as to what transpired during those years. But no one can gainsay the fact because of his attitude and conduct during the Second World War, Mackenzie King maintained the unity of the country and was re-elected with strong Quebec support after the war, when most of the world leaders went down to defeat.

Marcella Svoboda and her sons like this hot nourishing dish after outdoor winter sports activities. She says the boys — Karl, Paul, Tony, John and Ed — look forward to the chowder at this time of year, especially after a hockey game. six slices bacon ½ cup diced onion
two cups raw cubed potatoes two cups boiling water three cups milk
two cans (10 oz.) baby clams
¼ cup flour
parsley

Cut bacon in one inch pieces and saute with onions. Drain off excess fat. Add raw potatoes and saute an additional two minutes. Add boiling water and simmer until tender. Add three cups milk. Russell Merifield receives a gift from Jean MacLeod

Gift Marks Church Birthday

The first official gift to the Presbyterian Church in Canada to mark theone hundredth anniversary of the Church's formation was presented at St. Columba Sunday.

Jean MacLeod, treasurer of the St. Columba Presbyterian Women, presented 100 dollar bills to Russell Merifield, treasurer of the national church.

A^ cake, with dollar bill candles, marked the occasion.

The gift was made to the general budget for outreach programs to be undertaken during centennial year, 1975.

Mr. Merifield told the congregation that St. Columba was recognized for its contributions to the church and that it was fitting that this was the first group to make a presentation.

In two other presentations, Margaret Taylor and Jean Murphy made birthday gifts to the church to mark the occasions of their own birthdays, one way members of congregation across the country will be contributing to the church in a special way this year.

Fashions in Face Cream

NEW YORK (AP) — There are fashions in face creams, says long-time cosmetics chemist Robert L. Goldenberg who was explaining some of the newer ingredients in formulations used by his wife in her recent book, The Complete Book of Natural Cosmetics.

"Creams are much lighter now. In the trade when we speak of heavy creams, we are talking about the '30s and '40s.

The book is a second effort for the two. The first one, put together and researched by his wife using the name Beatrice Traven, was Heres Egg on Your Face.

But now with newer ingredients available to the average shopper, he agreed to co-operate and provide the "natural" formulations for the second book.

"49 first I said absolutely no when she asked me. I thought it would be impossible to emulsify the creams at home, but then I thought of ordinary soap and such things as lanolin and lecithin and I became intrigued," said Goldenberg, president of the Society of Cosmetics Chemists.

In doing the research, Mrs. Goldenberg said she was surprised "that many of the ingredients had been used for healing. Emollients, the oils, baldness and so on for hundreds of years."

She decided to include a glossary of the many facts she had dug up.

Brewing your own beauty potions does give you the satisfaction of knowing what is in them, said Goldenberg, who has made some popular formulations for the industry. But the trade has used many natural ingredients in their products. They just haven't wanted to reveal their formulas.

And women may not know much more when the industry complies with the new U.S. government regulations to reveal all on their labels, he said. Much of it will not be understood, although it will be a great help to doctors in treating allergies.

Revealing the natural formulas will not cut into his livelihood, insisted Goldenberg, who has been in the business for 34 years. "It is a different type of thing.

"A great many of the 40 formulas in the book couldn't be used by the trade anyway," he continued. Every must think in terms of shelf life. For example, a cucumber can go sour, but at least it can be used in a formula that can be made in small quantities and used promptly," promptly."

Making Your Own

A chance to make your own baked ornaments was one of the highlights of the Hastings County Historical Society's Christmas party held Saturday night at Glanmore House. Participating in the cookie-making are Barbara Folwarczny, Rick Folwarczny, Robert Morton, Kyerion Boyce, Mary Cotter O'Reily Monaghan and Thomas Boyce.

Christmas at Glanmore— Cider, 1877 Pound Cake

A party for Historical Society members culminated a week of Christmas celebrations at the Hastings County Museum Saturday night.

Hot mulled cider, pound cake and a chance to make old-fashioned baking ornaments were highlights of the evening at Glanmore.

During the week's activities everything from a violin quartet to a music lantern display entertained hundreds of guests.

Curator Marion Lewis explained why Christmas was such a festive event at the museum.

"The Isle Victorians made so much of Christmas, this is an ideal opportunity to make ourselves more available than even to the public," he said.

"It's the Historical Society's present to the community it works in ... and there was a different present every night."

Mr. Lewis said that work was begun in September by the "Christmas Committee" headed by Margaret Wiggins.

Glanmore's Golden decorated trees in the museum, history students at Centennial Secondary School made wreaths and Harry J. Clark student make pomanders and paper chains.

Members of the Christmas Committee were Mary Greig, Shirley Manery, Dorothy Foley, Queenie Maldrun, Kay Cryer, Helen Vandervoort, Frao Knudsen and Eleanor Stewart.

At the party the pound cake served was prepared from an 1877 recipe by Centennial Grade nine student who also served to guests in Mrs. Simpson's kitchen.

1877 Pound Cake

one cup butter
one cup sugar
four eggs
1½ cups sifted flour

Cream butter and sugar together. Separate eggs and lightly beat yolks. Beat whites stiffly. Add egg yolks to butter and sugar mixture. Stir in flour thoroughly, then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake at 325 degrees in a small loaf pan for about 45 minutes or until top splits and cake tests done.

Hot Mulled Cider

½ gallon apple cider one cup brown sugar
a few cloves grated nutmeg
one cinnamon stick

Simmer ingredients together for 15 minutes. Serve hot topped with a little nutmeg.

While grown-ups were enjoying cider and cake, many children were making Christmas tree ornaments from "Baker's Clay".

Baker's Clay

four cups flour
one cup salt
1½ cups water

Mix salt and flour, gradually add water. Knead together, then roll out ¼ inch thick. Cut or mold into desired shapes — suns, moons, snowmen, wreaths and the like — and bake about 30 minutes at 250 degrees. Paint with acrylics or tempera if desired, seal with polyurethane.

Festive Season Adds Fashion Glamor

TORONTO (CP) — The festive season adds extra glamor to the many formal and at-home occasions. Winter styling includes wrap skirts, halter necklines and trims of feathers or fur. Miss Sun Valley of Toronto likes a printed brocade with a plunging halter neckline. Or for holidays at ski resorts over Christmas and the New Year, it's a floor-length metallic knit with turtle neck and long sleeves.

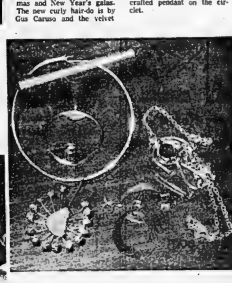
Hair-do and accessories are all important. "Curls and more curls," internationally known Gus Caruso explains the new trend. Evening handbags are in luxury fabrics with velvet and brocade the most popular.

Evening shoes are mostly soft kids, according to Mavis Grey of Simpson's. The heels are slightly higher and the toes are slightly rounded.

In jewelry, hand-crafted neck circlets with free-form pendants add drama to any evening gown. The new look is that of jewelry pieces and not just the costume variety.

Festive Fashions

Printed brocade in a plunging halter neckline by Miss Sun Valley of Toronto is ideal for festive Christmas and New Year's galas. The new curly hair-do is by Gus Caruso and the velvet clutch by Classic of Toronto. The acrit kid evening T-strap slippers are from Simpson's, as is the imported handcrafted pendant on the circlet.



Holiday Dress Up

Suitable for holiday ski resorts is this blue metallic printed knit from Miss Sun Valley of Toronto. The new curls-and-curls hair-do is by Gus Caruso and the handbag by Classic of Toronto. The unpolished silver-plated pendant with synthetic red cornelian and sterling silver earrings from Simpson's.

Soft Kid

Evening shoes for the festive season are mostly soft kids, according to Mavis Grey of Simpson's. The heels are higher and toes slightly rounded.

Jewelry

Hand-crafted look in jewelry is very important this winter and here Simpson's show their latest Canadian and imported pieces. Most popular is the silver-plated, hand-crafted in Denmark, circlet with amethyst quartz at the centre of the sunburst and matching sterling silver bracelet. Others are the unpolished silver chain with pendant and sterling silver free-form earrings.

Ann Landers

One Wife's Solution

Dear Ann Landers: How do you like this? An acquaintance of mine who has been a successful attorney here in Oakland for several years started fooling around with a friend of his wife. Before long they were meeting every Thursday at a motel near the airport. He told his wife he had to leave town for a weekly business meeting.

Someone put a bug in Wife's ear and she decided to handle the matter in her own way. Last Thursday night she got in her car and followed her husband and his lady friend to the motel. She watched them check in, return to the car and drive to their room. They emerged nine after and she assumed they were going to dinner, so she walled till they returned two hours later—drunk as a pair of skunks. In about 30 minutes the lights went out.

The wife waited one full hour, then tapped lightly on the door. The woman, half-asleep, opened the door and nearly fainted. Her lover was snoring loudly in the background. The wife said quietly: "Unless you want real trouble, you'll get dressed and drive yourself home right now."

The other woman, scared out of her wits, scrammed in record time. The wife undressed and slipped into bed next to her husband. When he woke up the following morning and found her next to him he was too terrified to ask any questions.

This story is all over town and I thought I'd share it with you as an example of how ONE woman dealt with the problem in California.—Oakland Reader

Dear Oak: Beautiful. Thank you for sharing.

Dear Ann Landers: Right now my husband isn't speaking to me because of a disagreement we are having in regard to his parents. They sold their home and moved to a small apartment. It is their plan to have Sunday dinner every week with a child or another relative, but they never invite anyone to their place.

My husband says it's okay with him and I should have them over every three or four weeks whether we get invited back or not. I think it's rotten of him to put his parents ahead of me.

Our first argument was over my in-laws and I'll bet our last one will be, too. Please give me your opinion in this matter.—Won't Give In more trouble than you had before you wrote, for which I apologize in advance.

Dear Girl: Your signature tells me more than your letter. And now here's my opinion, which will probably create as graciously as possible.

I agree with your husband. Parents are special people and the same rules that apply to social friends do not apply to them.

Of course it's tacky of your in-laws to embark on a scheduled routine of freeloading without reciprocation. But for your husband's sake, you should agree to have them—and do it which will probably create as graciously as possible.

'Touching Life' At Many Points

She walked in on Uncle Jack, age 90, and saw him sitting there with a tape recorder.

"What are you doing, Uncle Jack?" she asked, and he replied:

"I'm learning French. You never know when it will come in handy."

That's the spirit, Jack. More and more we hear about our senior citizens boning up on something they learned before or tackling a brand new subject. And enjoying it.

The more points at which we are able to touch life on this earth, the happier and more excited we are about life in general.

Dear Doris: Some years ago my husband joined a fraternal organization. At first I was happy for him because he liked it and was readily accepted. Now I feel differently.

He is out at meetings so much now that I am desperately lonely. Now, it's lodge, lodge, lodge. He must be on every committee. We can't even attend church together because of a Sunday meeting. Even at ladies' night socials, he leaves me alone to talk to others.

He says he took vows when he went into this, and gets very angry when I try to discuss the matter. But what about our wedding vows? I'm so depressed.

Am I Selfish?

Dear Am I: You are right. Your marriage vows should come first, but your husband doesn't sound like a man who is about to realize this. But you could try climbing out of your depression by making a new life for yourself - and this might just change his perspective too.

Join some groups that interest you. Turn to activities and new friendships and don't let loneliness and boredom get you down. There's so much to do in this life - and your community needs your enthusiasm just as much as it needs your husband's!

Dear Doris: My sister passed away and we sent cards of thanks to everyone who sent flowers, including her nieces. One of them was upset as she was quite close to this aunt, and acted as if the card of thanks was an insult.

I never intended to hurt anyone. Was I—

Wrong?

Dear Wrong?: Probably the young niece felt she was one of those whose heart was broken - a person who might well be receiving the sympathy card or doing the thanking for flowers.

Surely a heart-to-heart talk to this sensitive person, acknowledging her closeness to your sister, would make her feel better.

Cobourg East Burns Up Fireman's Tourney

By MARK REETT
Sports Staff

"The ability to win in high school wrestling is based on the competitors strength, skill, agility and endurance." The words belong to Larry Pritt, co-ordinator of the Firemen's First Annual Wrestling tournament.

The action, however, belonged entirely to the nearly 200 wrestlers that took part in the high school meet, held at Quinte Secondary School on Saturday.

Bob Fresds-Cumbo, a grade 10 student at Anderson high school near Whitby and competitor in the 98-pound class, summed the day up perfectly. "The tournament was the best one I've ever been in. The people were refereeing, even the trophies are great."

Bob later in the day took top honors in his division with a standout performance.

The winning school in the crowd cheering affair was the over-139 people in attendance. Cobourg East compiled a total of 98 points to take the team championship, more than triple the points of the next closest team, Bayside, who had 23 points.

Trenton High School finished in third place, only two points back of Bayside.

The tournament was not a spur of the moment decision for Pritt, who has been working on this for just about a year now. I consider it a huge success."

The tournament used the bad-pool system — which means that a wrestler could lose his first bout, but still be in the finals for a runner-up position.

There were trophies for the first three positions in each of the 13 weight categories, and a ribbon for a fourth place finish, so most competitors had something to show for their efforts.

Cobourg picked up five first place trophies and four second place medals in the individual standings.

In the 80-pound class Brian Carter of Trenton placed first with Steve Williams of Cobourg East coming second.

In the 85 lb. class Fresds-Cumbo was first, and Mike Young of Centre Hastings, Madoc, was second.

105-pound class went to Richard Fyns of Picton, with Dave Brant of Quinte, placing second.

115-pound class was won by Don Gainforth of Trenton High School. Andy Graham, of Cobourg East was second.

In the 125-pound class, Greg McGaghy, of Madra, was first and Doug Gainforth of Trenton, was second.

130-pound went to Leo Reyes of Cobourg East, with Simon McGregan of Napanee, second.

136-pound — Earl McKnight of Centre Hastings was first; Owen Morris, of Cobourg East, was second.

145-pound — Dirk Varo, of Cobourg East, first, followed by Chris Hennessy of Anderson High School.

168-pound class — Jim McCaw, of Bayside was first; John Hepburn of Picton was second.

157-pound — Ted Jackson, Cobourg East, was first and Skye Toopping, of Napanee, was second.

In 168 pound Sam Eller, Cobourg East, came first and Buddy Clarke of Napanee was second.

178-pound class went to Sam Eller, Cobourg East, followed by Bruce McGillivary of Trenton.

194-pound class was won by Van Der Hyden, Cobourg East and Marc McNamara of Cobourg East was second.

Down for the Count

Dick Varo of Cobourg East High School does his best to keep the pressure on Quinte Secondary School wrestler, Terry Brant in the Firemen's first Annual High School Wrestling Tournament. Varo managed to pin his opponent and go on to place first in the 141-lb. class. Nearly 200 wrestlers competed in the event Saturday, making it one of the larger ones ever held in the Quinte area.

Apollo Lifters Standout in Local Tourney

By MIKE BRADSHAW
Sports Staff

The Apollo Barbell Club celebrated the 20th Annual Eastern Ontario Teen-age Weightlifting Championships in fine fashion Saturday as three of the five local entries placed well up in their classes.

Terry Murphy, an Apollo member in the 132 and under weight class, captured first place as did Ron Hayes in the 148 and under class. Joel Carr-Brainz came third in the 165 pound category.

The tournament, held at Sir Mackenzie Bowell, had the largest turnout in recent years. There were 48 competitors from the province's eastern regions, divided into 10 classes.

"The tournament preached its peak about four years ago," said Apollo Barbell Club coach and director, Ken Carr-Brainz. "After that, things dropped off, but now it appears the sport is gaining in popularity again."

The Bindleville Club has sponsored the event since its inception in 1954. At that time it was the first of its kind in Canada. The Apollo Club has produced some fine teen-age athletes since 1954 and for the last 12 consecutive years has had a Canadian Teen-age Champion in one of the 10 weight classes.

Ron Hayes, who holds Eastern Ontario titles and records in 114, 123 and 132 teen-age weight classes had a real time winning the 148 pound title. The 19-year-old Bellevillian went right to the wire against Hamilton's Gary Bratty.

Both lifters snatched 220 pounds and clean and jerked 270 pounds giving them identical totals of 490 pounds. Hayes won the class however, on body weight. Ron weighed in at 140 and Bratty was right at the limit (148). The closest competition the two lifters had came from Don Settsworth of Peterborough. He had a total lift of 398 pounds.

Despite the fact that Ron only weighed in at 140, his 270 C and J was the third best of the day in over-all categories. His 209 was fourth best as was his 79 total. This showing was him the Top Lifter of the Tournament trophy.

Terry Murphy, the Apollo representative in the 132 weight class, edged out Frank Burchiss of Oshawa, to win his title. Murphy snatched 150 and clean and jerked 198 for a total lift of 358 pounds. That total was 11 pounds better than Buccione's. Third in the class was Len Bowles, of Peterborough with a 308 total.

Joel Carr Brainz finished third out of eight lifters in the 165 weight class. He snatched 165 and clean and jerked 200 for a 365 total. Terry Hadley, of Elliot Lake, won the class with a 405 total. Jim Bisby was second with a 413.

Wayne Cardinal, of Oshawa, established a new Canadian lift. Cardinal weighed for teen-age lifters. He snatched 220 and clean and jerked 290, for a 510 total. Cardinal pounds better than the previous mark.

In the 99 and under class, Dave McLeod, of Woodstock, snatched 87 and clean and jerked 116 pounds for a 192 total and top honors in the class. Gerry Bedard, of Stoney Creek, was second with a 184 total and Ron Stepan, of Sarnia was third with a 180.

The 114 and under went to Nick Pilon, of Elliot Lake. He had a snatch of 126 and a clean and jerk of 163 to total 270 pounds. Next was John Brayley, of Stoney Creek with a 252 and third was Woodstock's Dale Holman.

Greg Echlin, of Stoney Crock, snatched 99 pounds and clean and jerked 126 for a 225 total and first place in the 123 and under class. His lift was 28 pounds better than Woodstock's Mike Gilchrist.

Rick Nelson outlifted his home town opposition by over 100 pounds in the 181 and under class. Nelson snatched 147 and clean and jerked 264 for a 411 total. His nearest competito was Art Shrock with a 326 total. Both boys are from Stoney Creek.

Les Williams outdid his closest competition in the 198 and under class by over 130 pounds. Williams, of Lambeth, snatched 198 and added a C and J of 283 for a 353 total lift. George Penske was William's closest rival and all the Woodstock native could muster was a 230 total.

In 242, Bob Davidson, of Ottawa, walked away with top honors after totalling 512 pounds. He snatched 215 and added a 297 C and J. Mike Haines was second with a 396 total.

All together there were five Belleville lifters in the competition and it was announced yesterday that all five had qualified for the Ontario Winter Games in Thunder Bay, December 27th.

NCC and BCI Earn Titles In Senior Basketball Action

It was a Grade A weekend for local senior high school teams in tournament action. The Fighting Irish of Nicholson Catholic College won the Consolation title at the Durham College First Annual Senior High School Tournament in Oshawa and the Red and Black of Belleville Collegiate took the Grand Championship in the 20 Invitational Senior Tournament at Kenner Collegiate in Peterborough.

Gary Duggan's squad, from Nicholson, played more than adequately all the way through the Durham competition, but in their first contest just couldn't find a way to defend against Oshawa Eastdale's 6-foot-7 centre, Fred Korpke.

Korpke was a tower of power for Oshawa crew as he scored 30 points to lead his team to a 87-64 win over the Nicks.

Nicholson could just have easily have won the game, but a pair of three-second-in-the-key violations in the final minute wiped out two potential NCC baskets.

Bruce Collins came up with an outstanding effort for the Nicks as he dropped in 20 points — his best so far this season.

Dale Wilson had 15 points for the locals and Dave Holland was next with seven. The loss dropped the Nicholson squad into the Consolation Round.

LARRY WILSON

From there on it was a breeze for Nicholson as they trounced Durham Central 77-43 in the Consolation semi-final and whitewashed Henry Street High, of Whitby, in the final, 71-31.

Wilson and Holland scored 12 points in the semi and Boyle and Mark Cooke right behind them with 10 points each.

Daryl Bolyk was tops for Oshawa. He had 20 points.

Collins had to sit out the semi-final game while recuperating from a knee injury. Bruce was around for the final though, and he made his presence felt as he bagged 12 points. Wilson was tops in the scoring column for the Fighting Irish as he dropped in a big 22. Boyle came next, matching Colins output. Dan Krazewski, Chris Kalnay and Mike Hall had nine points each, Martin Seemonad had four, Seale got two and Mike Gorman rounded things out with a foul shot.

Good rebounding by Wilson, Krazewski and Boyle and an all-round, strong defensive effort kept Henry Street's top scorers to just six points each. They were Bob Brandon and Neil Atkinson.

BCI went unbeaten in three games, as they captured top honors in Peterborough. Included in their victories was a 53-38 win in the championship game over Stayner Secondary. Stayner is the defending AA senior Ontario Champion.

Larry Wilson led the way for BCI throughout the competition. In the locals opening contest he scored, 24 points and hauled down 19 rebounds as his team downed Kenner 69-31.

Wilson was tops again as BCI dumped Cobourg in the Semi final 56-30. He scored 22 and Gary Downie got 10.

In the final against Stayner both he and Wright scored 14 points and Brian Bell added 10 as the BCI squad won 53-38.

Patience Pays Off for Butler

"Slow but sure wins the race", so goes the saying. This time the race was to the provincial roll-offs in Hamilton to qualify for the Canadian championships for the Caring O'Keefe Bowling Open.

After 20 games of bowling and three weeks six area bowlers are going to represent the area in Hamilton, in February.

The qualifying rounds finished up on Sunday with Art Butler, Bill Pettican and George Crabb placing first, second and third, respectively.

In the women's department, Bea Hunt took top honors with Heidi Staschik and Marg Rutter placing second and third.

After the first 10 games, three weeks ago Butler was in 18th position. Then after 30 games has moved to the 4th position.

"I knew after the first three games that the ball was going to work today", said Butler after winning the qualifying tournament with a total pinfall of 2681. His total was only two ahead of second place Pettican.

George Crabb, the leader going into Sunday's round, finished with 2617.

Take 2

Bea Hunt lead from start to finish in the ladies roll-off.

"I certainly didn't walk away with this one," quipped Bea finishing with a 2078 total. Heidi Lea came into the final round only 20 pins ahead of Heidi Staschik. Staschik going into Sunday's round was in second place with 1761 and remained in that position finishing with 2916. Behind her was Ruttan with a final 2813 total pinfall.

The winners of the provincial roll-off in Hamilton will fly to Calgary to compete in the Canadian finals.

Bea Hunt and Bea had high singles in their respective divisions Sunday. Art had a 384 in his first game; Bea's high was a 300.

Rollins Finally Break Slump

Belleville Rollins major Pewees picked up their first point of the regular season, Sunday, tying Oshawa 2-2.

Jim Noble combined with Charlie Dorah to score a shorthanded goal for the Belleville team with Louis Crawford tallying the other.

Toros Turning Things Around

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Toros appear to have finally broken out of their puzzling win-less pattern on the early part of the World Hockey Association season.

The Toros started the season with a string of wins at home but couldn't win on the road. Then, they started losing at home and winning on the road.

Sunday, the Toros continued their winning ways on the road with a 7-3 victory over Michigan Stags at Detroit after having ended their six-game losing streak at home last Friday.

The win pulled the Toros back into a five-point dead in the Canadian Division over second-place Quebec Nordiques who dropped a 6-4 loss to Minnesota Fighting Saints.

In other games Sunday, Edmonton Oilers beat Indianapolis Racers 5-1, San Diego Mariners defeated Houston Aeros 4-3, New England Whalers edged Winnipeg Jets 4-3 and Vancouver Blazers defeated Cleveland Crusaders 8-3.

Saturday, New England whipped Quebec 8-4, Chicago Cougars banked Michigan 6-4, Houston defeated Winnipeg 5-3, Phoenix Roadrunners edged Minnesota Fighting Saints 4-3 and San Diego shut out Indianapolis 3-0.

Tom Simpson scored three goals to lead the Toros who outshot the Stags 43-27.

Simpson, pushing his season goal total to 24, got assists on all three goals from Wayne Dillon who also scored once.

Paul Shmyr moved from defence to left wing, scored his first goal of the season and had a 1-1 tie in the second period, lifting the Blazers over Cleveland in Vancouver.

Two goals by Mike Byers in the second period led New England against the Jets at Winnipeg.

Ken Baird's goal at 19:16 of the second period broke a 3-3 tie and the Oilers hung on for the victory over the Racers at Indianapolis. Bruce MacGregor added the final goal into an empty net.

Goals by Fran Black, George Morrison, Mike Antonovich and Wayne Connelly gave Minnesota a 4-4 lead late in the first period and the Saints stayed even with the Nordiques the rest of the way.

Quebec's Serge Bernier scored twice late in the third period.

At Houston, a goal by Andre Lacroix late in the third period, broke a 3-3 tie and gave the Mariners their third win in four games against Houston.

The win pulled San Diego to within nine points of the leading Aeros in the West Division.

Tough Sledding for Canucks, Sabres in Weekend Action

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Sabres and Vancouver Canucks, two of the top three teams on points going into weekend National Hockey League action, have suddenly hit the skids.

Buffalo, tops in the league with 27 points, has dropped two to Minnesota North Stars and then had to come from behind to tie 5-5 Sunday with California who have won only six of 22 games.

Vancouver, third in the league with 21 points, managed only a 3-3 tie against the expansion Kansas City Scouts Saturday and then lost 4-3 to Chicago Black Hawks Sunday. The Hawks, 6-2 losers to Pittsburgh Penguins Saturday, still are 14 points back of leading Vancouver in the Smythe Division.

In other games Sunday, Boston Bruins beat New York Islanders 5-3, Philadelphia Flyers defeated St. Louis Blues 7-2, Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1, Pittsburgh edged Detroit Red Wings 5-2, and New York Rangers tied Los Angeles Kings 3-3.

California was led by Al MacAdam's hat trick. The Canucks, frustrated by goalie Gerry Simmons, gained the tie on Rene Robert's 22nd goal of the season. The Sabres outshot California 46-17.

Chicago outshot Vancouver 43-34 in a fight-filled game.

"A lot of people might consider that we spent too much time fighting if like a game where there's a little feuding," said Hawks coach Billy Reay.

Al Secord, Phil Esposito, Don Luce and Jim Pappin scored his 25th goal of the season and set up two others while Bobby Orr scored his 38th goal to lead the Bruins over the Islanders.

A goal by Ivy Apps with less than two minutes remaining at Detroit gave Pittsburgh the win over the Red Wings.

Referee Dave Newchuk threw Detroit's Brian Watson and the Penguins' Dennis Owchar out of the game early in the third period when they kicked at each other.

Ron Ellis, who scored three times in Toronto's victory Saturday, started the Leafs off with his 19th goal of the season against Washington but the Capitals tied it in the second period and added two more goals in the third.

Scoring only their third win of the season, the Capitals had their largest home crowd of the year—11,528.

JOSE NAPOLES

Napoles Retains Crown

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Jose Napoles of Mexico retained his world welterweight boxing crown by knocking out challenger Horacio Saldana of Argentina in the third round of their title fight Saturday night.

It was the 13th successful defence of the title by Napoles, who scored his knockout at the 1:55 mark.

Napoles was in control of the fight from the start, punishing the challenger, who is at least a decade younger at 27 than the champion, with rocket right, combinations and stinging lefts to the body.

The end came with a clean right cross that set Saldana on his seat after a combination sent Saldana's mouthpiece flying into the crowd.

Napoles, whose official age is 34, is thought to be at least 37. The Cuban-born fighter weighed 146¾ pounds to 143 for the Argentine challenger.

Cardinals Rebound to Grab Division Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It took less than 30 minutes for St. Louis Cardinals to wake up and set the 30 minutes in which they'd gotten shoved aground.

"Nobody said much at half time," said Terry Metcalf, describing the silence in the Cards' dressing room, when they trailed New York Giants 14-0.

"Without saying anything, we all knew we had to do a better job. We'd given up too much and weren't about to give up more."

What St. Louis gave in the second half was a brilliant comeback performance that resulted in a 28-14 victory.

That gave the Cardinals their first National Football League divisional title in 26 years, and St. Louis' first ever. When the Cards won the NFL's Western Division title in 1948, they called Chicago their home.

Washington's Redskins, who had charged into a tie with the Cards atop the National Conference East, beat Chicago Bears 42-0 and finished tied with St. Louis, each with 10-4 records.

But the Cards got the title by virtue of their two regular-season victories over Washington.

The Redskins had to settle for the NFC's wild-card playoff berth.

In Sunday's other games, it was Miami 34, New England 27; Los Angeles 19, Buffalo 14; Houston 28, Cleveland 24; New York Jets 45, Baltimore 35; San Diego 20, Denver 6; Philadelphia 26, Detroit 17, and Atlanta 18, Green Bay 3.

On Saturday, it was Pittsburgh 27, Cincinnati 3, Minnesota 33, Kansas City 15, and Oakland 37, Dallas 23.

Veteran Sonny Jurgensen, who started in place of No. 1 quarterback Billy Kilmer, connected on 14 of 22 passes for 205 first-half yards to lead Washington over Chicago.

In the second half, quarterback Joe Theismann took over threw a 15-yard third-quarter touchdown pass to Taylor. Duane Thomas and Charley Evans ran for the final Washington touchdowns in the last quarter.

"I would rather have had the win," said New England's Mack Herron, who set an NFL record for most single-season total yards in the Patriots' loss to Miami.

Herron, former speedster with Winnipeg in the Canadian Football League, gained 185 yards on rushes, receptions and kick returns to finish with 2,441 for the year, four more than Gale Sayers got with the 1966 Chicago Bears.

Child, Aged 2, Is Given Atomic Pacer for Heart

TORONTO (CP) — Doctors at the Hospital for Sick Children have implanted an atomic heart pacer in a 2½-year-old child from Hagersville, Ont., in the first such implantation at the hospital.

Michael Helder, born with a defect in his heart, received his first heart pacer when he was five months old. When it had to be replaced, doctors decided to use an atomic-powered pacer that will last 10 years.

The pacer responds to the body's needs, speeding up and slowing down as required, rather than making it conform to a pre-set beat.

GM Chairman T. Murphy Thinks Inflation Tamed

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors says the cost of raw materials used in its automobiles is levelling off.

An indicator of material costs rose 12 per cent between August, 1973, and August, 1974, but has hardly risen at all in the three months, said GM Chairman Thomas Murphy.

Murphy said he believes inflation has been tamed.

"I don't mean that it will suddenly go down to zero, but it is coming down, and it will continue to come down. I think that is going to give people ... confidence that will bring them back into a buying frame of mind."

U.S. Oil Firms Cancel Plans for New Refineries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oil firms in the United States are sharply curtailing their plans to build new refining facilities because of industry concern over economic conditions and government policies.

Increased domestic refining capacity is considered a key to any strategy aimed at energy self-sufficiency, but in recent weeks a number of oil companies have cancelled plans.

Harrison Concert Lively Event

TORONTO (CP) — A news release on George Harrison's current 36-city North American tour quotes him as saying the biggest breaks of his career was leaving the Beatles.

The remark took on credibility during Harrison's two concerts at Maple Leaf Gardens Friday night, when he seemed to be doing his utmost to change his image as one of the now-defunct Beatles.

What the singer-songwriter-composer lost in the process was the response from the audience that used to accompany every appearance by the group.

A few songs Harrison included from the Beatles era were noticeably changed.

Some of the lyrics were revised, but the main difference was a new sound to the familiar tunes, resulting from the revamped backup arrangements from the eight-piece band working with him on tour.

His only three numbers in the first set had him straining an already heavy voice—evidence that more than 35 performances in just more than a month is too much for him.

During the tour Harrison is sharing the stage with Billy Preston on keyboards, Tom Scott on reed instruments and the East Indian ensemble, Shankar Family and Friends.

The show, however, was not as bad as some of the media in the 18 concert cities preceding Toronto would have one believe Or, perhaps the fact that the Toronto appearances were being filmed had something to do with the performers pushing themselves to the limit.

The three solo numbers by singer-pianist Preston—Will It Go 'Round in Circles, Nothing From Nothing and Outta Space—were the liveliest spots of the evening.

Outta Space was the third-last number of the show—including encore—but it was the first to draw audience participation, with most of the crowd rising to their feet and clapping in time with the beat.

That number kept the crowds up for Harrison's finale.

The Shankar group, in the absence of its sitar-playing leader Ravi Shankar, added a new dimension to Harrison's rock format.

Shankar entered hospital in Detroit several days ago. Depending on your source, he is suffering from a virus, fatigue or a slight heart murmur.

A duet between T. V. Gopalkrishnan on mridangam—a horizontal conga drum—and Alla-rakha on the tabla—a smaller bongo-type drum, earned loud and long applause.

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The Star-News says there are indications that political pressure by former members of the Nixon administration played a role in efforts to deport ex-Beatle John Lennon.

The newspaper says that although the United States immigration service said Lennon was unable to remain in the country because of a minor drug offence, records showed that 116 other offenders with more serious narcotics backgrounds had been allowed to live in the U.S.

Lennon, who lives in New York, has been involved in a legal battle against deportation for nearly three years.

The report says sources close to the case suggested that the immigration department's unusual interest in Lennon developed when former Nixon administration officials were informed that Lennon planned to appear at a leftist rally at the 1972 Republican convention.

CASSELBERRY, Fla. (AP) — Fanne Foxe, the Argentine stripper whose career flourished after her friendship with United States Representative Wilbur Mills became known, announced her retirement Friday night.

Miss Foxe, billed as the Tidal Basin Bombshell after her relationship with Mills (Dem. Ark.) was disclosed, made the announcement about 250 patrons at the Club Juana in the central Florida city.

"I don't want to bring any more bad publicity to Mills, patrons quoted her as saying. She was nude from the waist up when she made the announcement, reports said.

Mills, who appeared on stage with Miss Foxe in Boston two weeks ago, has since entered a hospital and said he is retiring as chairman of the influencial house ways and means committee.

Miss Foxe's real name is Annabel Battistella.

MUNICH (Reuter) — Rock star Mick Jagger said Friday that guitarist Mick Taylor has decided to leave the Rolling Stones rock group.

"Mick wants a change of scene—wants the opportunity to try out some new initiatives," Jagger said.

Taylor joined the group in 1969 to replace Brian Jones, who was found dead in his swimming pool.

LONDON (Reuter) — The romance between actor Richard Burton and Princess Elizabeth of Yugoslavia is over, says the Daily Mail.

In an article, the newspaper says the breakup was caused by the heavy drinking of the 49-year-old actor, former husband of Elizabeth Taylor.

The newspaper published a picture of the 38-year-old princess arriving back at the home of her banker husband, Noel Balfour, in London's fashionable King's Road.

The couple plan to give their marriage a new try, the newspaper says.

It says Burton was believed to be at his villa in Switerland.

In October Burton announced that he planned to marry the princess, whose first husband was New York clothing millionaire Howard Oxenberg.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The U.S. debut of Galina and Valery Panov, the Soviet ballet team that defected from their native land two years ago, has been postponed.

The husband-and-wife team was scheduled to appear here Tuesday night at the Spectrum, accompanied by the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

However, a spokesman for the arena said Sunday night that Valery Panov had suffered a muscle injury during practice earlier in the day, causing an indefinite suspension of the performance.

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Former Beatle George Harrison came to the White House for lunch Friday and a meeting with President Ford, saying: "I feel good today."

He was among a group of rock stars performed in Washington who were invited to lunch by Jack Ford, 22, the president's son.

Harrison was wearing orange trousers, red tinted shoes, a yellow shirt open at the neck, and a brown plaid jacket with pop art buttons attached.

With him were Ravi Shankar, the world-famous sitarist, and Billy Preston and Tom Scott, United States musicians.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
Tuesday, December 17

Aries (March 21-April 19) Learn well enough alone now. If you add too many last-minute touches, you'll undo all the good you've done.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Be careful of one whom you are not in accord with yours. This person's influence will throw you off course.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Make an extra effort to carry out, to the letter, agreements you now make. Don't promise one thing, then do another.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) A business situation is not locked down as securely as you may think. Be prepared for unexpected contingencies.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 23) Don't make plans or commitments without checking with your partner. Be sure the date and time you agree to is open.

Virgo (Aug. 24-Sep. 22) There is an opportunity about you of a material nature. You're not doing as much as you should to make the most of it.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're likely to gamble today. Be wise in spite of what your better judgment tells you. This could be a costly mistake.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'd be wise to consider advice from those with your best interests at heart before jumping into anything.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Impulsiveness is your worst enemy today. You'll be tempted to act accordingly, but it is doesn't work on the first try.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Keep a close friend of yours out of your business affairs, for the present, as unforeseen complications will result.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Goals you set now are likely to remain so, as you have a much greater determination and resolve.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) You function best during the earlier part of the day. Later you tend to scatter your forces to much to be efficient.

Henri Duvillard

Frenchman Tops

ASPEN, Colo. (CP-AP) — Frenchman Henri Duvillard bolstered his lead over American Hank Kashiwa in the world professional ski standings Sunday, beating Kashiwa by a combined time of .516 seconds in slalom competition.

Duvillard, a pro rookie who starred on the French amateur team downed Kashiwa by .289 seconds on their first run of the slalom finals, then narrowly won the rematch by .817 seconds.

Duvillard, 27, also beat Kashiwa in the giant slalom finals Saturday, making him only the third racer in pro skiing ever to win both events in one weekend.

Parseghian Bows Out

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Ara Parseghian announced his resignation Sunday as head football coach at Notre Dame and said he would take a one-year vacation from coaching.

Parseghian, who took the Fighting Irish to 94 victories, 17 losses and four ties as head coach in 11 seasons, declared emotional and physical strain had become too much for himself and his family.

He will make his final appearance as head coach New Year's night when the eighth-ranked Irish play No. 3 Alabama in the Orange Bowl.

Arbitration Ruling Makes Catfish Hunter Free Agent

NEW YORK (AP) — The American League's top pitcher, Jim (Catfish) Hunter, was expected to become a free agent today in an historic arbitration ruling.

The formal announcement was scheduled to be made in New York today, but unnamed sources revealed the arbitrator's decision Sunday.

Hunter's attorney during the arbitration hearing, Jerry Kapstein, said Saturday that would be nor Hunter knew of the decision, although both have felt all along that they would win.

Arbitrator Peter Seitz refused to confirm the report, but said the decision could be expected today. It was learned his signed decision had been forwarded to the Major League Baseball Players Association as well as to commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office.

Earlier Sunday, a Westerly, R.I., radio station, WHJY, said that Hunter's lawyer told them Hunter probably would sign with either New York Yankees or Boston Red Sox.

Hunter, the 1974 AL Cy Young winner who pitched Oakland A's to three consecutive World Series championships, sought to become a free agent because the A's failed to live up to the terms of his existing contract.

As a free agent, the right-handed pitcher, is free to offer his services to any of the 24 major league clubs, including the A's.

The 28-year-old pitcher signed a two-year $200,000 contract with the A's last season. He was to get $50,000 a year in salary and $50,000 a year was to be paid to some deferment plan of Hunter's choosing.

The salary part was paid routinely, but the deferred payments were not made. Hunter said the deferred payment was to be made to a North Carolina insurance company for investment purposes.

"He never gave it to me or to the insurance company," Hunter said of A's owner Charles Finley.

Mark Napier's Spree Sparks Marlies

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Mark Napier scored five goals, three in a 39-second span of the third period, to lead Toronto Marlboros to a 10-7 win over Oshawa Generals Sunday in Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A action.

Toronto has reclaimed sole possession of first place over Hamilton Flamps and have six games in hand and two points over the nearest rivals.

Toronto trailed 3-3 after the first period but the teams were tied 5-5 entering the final period.

Mike McEwen scored twice for Toronto while John Anderson Lynn Jorgenson, and John Smrke added singles.

Ken Morden and Glenn Kirkham each scored a pair for the Generals and Brian Drumm, Greg Malone and Paul Gardner got the others.

Playing at home, Toronto drew 17 of 30 penalty minutes.

In other league action Sunday, Kitchener Rangers dumped Hamilton 7-5, London Knights defeated St. Catharines Black Hawks 8-4, Peterborough Petes outscored Kingston Canadians 8-4 and Sudbury Wolves downed Ottawa 67s 10-4.

On Saturday, Ottawa edged Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 6-4 and Oshawa beat London 7-4.

League play resumes Tuesday with Toronto travelling to London, Kingston visiting Hamilton and Oshawa at Ottawa.

Stottlemyre's Career Ended

NEW YORK (CP- — A shoulder injury suffered early in the 1974 baseball season has apparently ended the career of pitcher Mel Stottlemyre, who has spent 11 seasons with New York Yankees.

He may become the team's pitching coach if Whitey Ford decides not to return.

"The decision isn't final but it's beginning to look that way," president Gabe Paul said Saturday, referring to speculation regarding Stottlemyre's retirement.

The 32-year-old right-hander posted a 149-126 record in his American League career, all with the Yankees, nd did not miss a pitching turn for more than eight years. He had three 20-victory seasons in that span and finished with 2,289 innings pitched, third on the Yankees' all-time list behind Ford and Red Ruffing.

He suffered what was called a torn radiator cuff in his right shoulder last season, spent a month on the disabled list and tried again to pitch in mid-season but felt severe pain and was sidelined the rest of the year.

Court Wins Crown

PERTH, Australia (AP) — Margaret Court, 32, playing in her second tournament since taking a 13-month break from tennis competition for the birth of her second child, captured her eighth West Australian women's singles crown Sunday with a 6-4, 7-5 victory over Russia's Olga Morozova. Saturday, Australian Ross Case beat countryman Geoff Masters 6-4, 7-6, 4-6, 7-6 for the men's title.

We're joining these carolers in their heartfelt refrain: Peace on earth . . . good will toward men. Season's best to all. To all, our special thanks.

41 Horses Die in Fire

BRAMPTON (CP) — An early-morning fire raced through a stable full of horses Saturday at a racing farm in the town's east end, killing 41 of the animals, including six thoroughbreds.

A 15-year-old Toronto boy, Chris Balla, who works weekends at the farm, rescued three horses. Three others escaped but had to be destroyed because of injuries.

John MacKenzie owner of Le-Mac Stock Farms Ltd., estimated the damage will exceed $100,000.

Mr. MacKenzie trains, buys, sells and boards horses. He also gives riding lessons. He said 18 of the dead horses were his own and the rest boarders.

Sharp Taking MPs to England

OTTAWA (CP) — Mitchell Sharp, who plans to make the Commons a vibrant arena where understanding will emerge from political clashes, has more work to do after the Commons adjourns Friday for a one-month Christmas recess.

The government House leader, responsible for piloting legislation through the 264-seat chamber, is taking 15 MPs to England for a 12-day working visit. They will pick the brains of British parliamentarians in the hope of improving the Canadian parliamentary system.

'Keep It Open' Welch's Orders

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Robert Welch said Saturday that all Ontario Crown attorneys have been told to publicly record plea-bargaining negotiations with defence lawyers.

He was speaking at Osgoode Hall Law School during taping of the television program Under Attack for Hamilton television station CHCH.

However, criminal lawyer Clayton Ruby said in an interview that the instructions are not being carried out.

"I have never had plea discussions in open court, nor do I know anyone who has ever had these discussions in open court," he said. "If Mr. Welch thinks that plea discussions take place in open court, then his department has been hoodwinking him wrapped in cotton batting since he became attorney-general."

Bills Fakes

TORONTO (CP) — Customers should not be surprised during the Christmas buying spree if merchants refuse to accept $20 or $100 bills, say Toronto police, who have been warning store owners to watch for counterfeit bills now deluging the market. Some stores have been refusing to accept large bills or else requiring identification. Any suspicious currency should be turned over to police, a spokesman said.

Pray for Peace

BELFAST (AP) — Prayers for peace in Northern Ireland were said Sunday in more than 4,000 churches in Ulster but the killing continued.

In Newry, John Mallen, 21, died from wounds received in an explosion at a tavern 14 days ago. Fifty persons were injured in the explosion at Hughes's Bar.

Boy Killed

HAMILTON (CP) — Police have issued a province-wide alert for a vehicle that struck Joey Xellenis, 7, of Hamilton on Friday night and dragged him almost 800 feet before he was run over by another car.

The boy was dead on arrival at hospital.

A witness said he heard screaming and saw a boy under a car. A man got out of the car, looked and then drove off, the witness said.

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Major Latin American coffee-producing countries, including Brazil, Colombia and Mexico, will join a plan to withhold 20 per cent of their coffee crop in an effort to halt a drop in prices, informed sources said Sunday.

Costa Rica, Honduras, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Guatemala and Panama had already agreed to the plan at a summit meeting which ended here Saturday, the sources said.

Watergate Trial Nears Conclusion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Watergate cover-up trial is entering its final week of testimony with the jury verdicts for five former Nixon administration and campaign aides not expected until after Christmas.

Former assistant attorney-general Robert Mardian is testifying in his own defence and the prosecutors are expected to cross-examine him today.

Only one more defendant, Kenneth Parkinson, former lawyer for the Nixon re-election committee, is waiting to present his case.

Mardian and Parkinson often seemed like spectators in the crowded courtroom during the last 11 weeks of the trial when attention centred on their three co-defendants—former attorney-general John Mitchell and ex-Nixon White House aides H. R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman.

All five are charged with conspiring to obstruct the investigation of the Watergate break-in.

Except for Mardian, the other defendants are charged also with obstruction of justice, and Mitchell, Haldeman and Ehrlichman with lying under oath.

The charge against Mardian includes the allegation that he called Gordon Liddy from California June 17, 1972—the day of the break-in—and told him to try to reach then attorney-general Richard Kleindienst and ask him to get one or more of the Watergate burglars out of jail.

On the stand Friday, Mardian denied that and other allegations. He also described his career as an official of the Nixon re-election committee.

Mardian had served under Mitchell in the justice department and said he was ready to return to private life in California when Mitchell talked him into joining the campaign.

Qualified Franchise Insisted on by Smith

Salisbury (Reuter) — Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith offered to resign Sunday if his leadership impedes settlement of the three-year-old Rhodesian independence dispute.

In an interview broadcast on Rhodesian radio, Smith said he would not want to be remembered as a Prime Minister who "lingered on like an unloved guest."

But the Rhodesian leader emphasized his government is still opposed to black-majority rule on a one-man, one-vote basis and will only accept African participation based on a qualified franchise.

His statement contrasted sharply with African nationalist demands for immediate majority rule.

"I believe in majority rule with the qualification, of course, that we have a qualified franchise," the Prime Minister said. "But if it (majority rule) means the casting of heads like the counting of sheep then, of course, I am opposed to that."

Smith said he would resign if he stands in the way of a settlement.

One question which still divides the two sides is the time and place for a constitutional conference.

Smith said he would like to see the conference held in Rhodesia in January or February.

However, the Rhodesian Black Nationalists, now united under the African National Council (ANC), want the conference held in March or later to give them time to organize African support and consolidate their new unity.

They also insist that the conference be held on neutral ground, either in Britain or Africa.

Decision About SIU Not Made

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Otto Lang said Saturday the government hasn't decided whether a federal inquiry is needed into activities of the Seafarers' International Union (SIU).

The minister said in an interview that information now before him includes alleged charges of violence in the union come under provincial jurisdiction.

Opposition MPs and the Ontario government have called for a federal inquiry into the union. But Mr. Lang said Saturday information from Ontario Solicitor-General George Kerr indicates a federal inquiry isn't needed at this time.

The minister said published reports saying that he said Mr. Kerr rallied to justify a federal inquiry were possibly misleading because further information might arise.

He said he has received a letter from Mr. Kerr calling for an inquiry, but hasn't yet studied Mr. Kerr's arguments in detail.

The minister said the letter "surprised" there was no new evidence. But he made it clear that a federal inquiry would be called if circumstances changed.

The Ontario government has said the responsibility of investigating the SIU falls under federal jurisdiction.

Ottawa Intends to Pay More To Smaller Defence Force

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is going to give more money next year to a military with fewer personnel than this year.

But present indications are that the additional money, while appearing large on paper, will not provide much of a push toward Defence Minister James Richardson's goal of a smaller but highly modern force.

In fact, announced budget levels for the fiscal year starting next April that increase defence spending by 11.3 per cent—about $280 million—indicate the armed forces will be doing little more than holding their own against inflation.

Mr. Richardson said recently the increase will bring the defence budget to $2.78 billion, compared with the original estimate of $2.86 billion for this year and $2.5 billion now estimated.

With that $2.78 billion, the forces will start returning to normal April 1 with tasks scaled down to fit the personnel reduction, ending six months of severe financial and operating constraints.

The cabinet now agonizing how and where the scaling down is to be done, is expected to announce its decisions within a month, in time for the forces to start preparations for a return to work.

The deliberations have made some progress. Last week the cabinet decided to allow the Canadian Middle East peacekeeping forces to remain at about 1,100 men for another six months.

Mr. Richardson has announced there will be no cuts in NATO commitments. The Cyprus UN contribution has been cut to 729 men from 958.

Prime Minister Trudeau has indicated that the North American Air Defence Agreement will be renewed although he has given no indication of levels of the Canadian contribution.

But all this indicates is that operational cuts will come in Canada, not overseas.

The reductions are necessary because the forces have been allowed to drop by about 2,500 to an effective strength of about 79,000 and the defence department has announced they will continue at that lower level.

The number of men and women dropped because inflation knocked this year's defence budget of $2.36 billion to $2.28 billion.

Gunmen Spray London Hotel

LONDON (AP) — Unknown gunmen sprayed one of London's prestige hotels with automatic gunfire late Saturday, and a United States couple and a Swedish man were wounded, police said.

Scotland Yard said there was no apparent motive for the shooting, but speculated it might have been the work of the Irish Republican Army, which has staged bombings in London as part of a terrorist war against British control of Northern Ireland.

That Flat Feeling

With Monday's day-long snow and wind blow, drivers had enough problems with the weather. Mechanical problems just added to the frustrations. But few had to tackle a problem of this dimension. Repairman Charles Miller was called out in the middle of the night's snow-clearing operations when this backhoe ground to a halt. One of the machine's outsize tires had gone flat.

NDPers Opposed but Will Accept Raise

MPs Likely to Up Pay Despite Embarrassment

OTTAWA (CP) — Members of Parliament are expected to overcome the twin handicaps of public opposition and their own embarrassment to vote themselves a 38 per cent pay raise in a Commons salary debate that starts today.

Legislation to increase their pay and tax-free expense allowances to $29,500-a-year from $18,000 and raise the pay and allowances of Senators to $31,000 from $22,000 is not expected to encounter serious opposition as it goes straight to the top of the Liberal government's list of legislative priorities.

The pay proposal, introduced in the Commons Monday by Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp who said he found the step awkward and distasteful, would add 54.9 million-a-year to the $8.8 million annual cost of paying the country's 264 MPs and 88 senators.

Besides the big jump in the basic MP's pay, the first since 1970, the bill also includes additional increases for Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, his 23-member cabinet, Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield, other opposition party leaders in the Commons and Senate Speakers and a host of lesser elected officials with extra duties.

Specifically, the proposal would increase the basic pay of MPs and senators to $27,000-a-year from $18,000. In addition, MPs would receive $12,500 for most ridings in tax-free expense allowances (the "amount is higher in some remote ridings"), an increase from $8,000. Expense allowances for senators would be increased to $8,000 from $4,000.

Some opposition MPs questioned the wisdom of the proposed increase during the Commons question period Monday and the 16-member New Democratic Party caucus agreed Monday that it will seek to turn the whole question over to an independent, non-parliamentary commission.

The increases would be retroactive to July 8, election day, and give every MP a lump sum payment of back salary.

NDP House Leader Mr. Broadbent said the NDP will oppose the increase after deciding at a special Monday morning caucus to demand that pay levels be set by an independent commission.

However he conceded there was little chance of the NDP proposal succeeding and that he, personally, would accept the pay raise.

In the Commons Mr. Trudeau protested that the government was not trying to "slave anything down Parliament's throat," after being questioned on the wisdom of a big pay raise amid government appeals for restraint. The MPs are free to accept or reject the proposals, he said.

Mr. Stanfield told reporters he would accept the money though "it doesn't mean much to me." He plans to quit federal politics before the next election.

He said the increase was "within acceptable limits." If the government assessment is followed and the pay raise is averaged at about 6% per cent annually over eight years—the time span between the last raise and the next one.

Moncton in Mourning For Slain Policemen

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — This eastern New Brunswick city planned a tribute to two slain police officers while police took the initial steps in court hearings against their accused killers.

Ben Wicks

R.C.M. Sgt. A.T.D.T. Dupont, I.S.M.

Mayor Gary Wheeler announced a four-hour period of civic mourning Wednesday, from 4 p.m. until noon.

"It is intended that all businesses will close so that the people of Moncton can all reflect on the tragedy we have experienced over the past week-end," said the mayor.

A civic funeral will be held at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday, at the Roman Catholic Assumption Cathedral for Cpl. Aurele Bourgeois, a 47-year-old father of four, and Constable Michael O'Leary, a 33-year-old father of two.

The bodies of the two policemen were found in shallow graves more than 48 hours after they disappeared Friday while investigating the kidnaping of a 14-year-old boy who was released unharmed.

James Lawrence Hutchison, 40, and Richard Ambrose, 22, were charged Monday with kidnapping and with murder punishable by death. They are to appear in court again Dec. 23.

A move to have city council petition the Ontario government for earlier civic elections was deferred Monday night.

The reason: The Association of Municipalities of Ontario (AMO) already is studying the issue in detail and should produce a similar request next month for support by all local governments, said Mayor Robin Jeffrey.

The resolution — calling for elections in October instead of December was initiated two weeks ago by Ald. Stu Meeks. It was prompted by storm-struck civic elections that saw poor polling results Dec. 2.

But there is another concern in any yielded of election dates. New councils take office Jan. 1 — the same time the new fiscal year starts for municipal governments.

Some civic spokesmen have pondered whether earlier elections would result in lamer political administrations. The waiting period between changes of councils and the start of the financial year would be lengthened.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey indicated AMO also had this factor under consideration.

AMO will also study what effect earlier elections would have on the fiscal year before it introduces its resolutions, expected in January.

Ald. Meeks said he had not included such consideration in his resolution since he had hoped other councillors would have covered other aspects in debating his proposal.

However, he added, he had no objection to waiting for AMO's proposal.

Belleville is among communities in the Great Lakes basin where drinking water shows asbestos fibres described in the legislature Monday as a possible cause of cancer.

The legislature statement — from the New Democratic Party's Dr. Morton Shulman — was based on a report for the International Joint Commission (IJC).

Dr. Shulman said the report — completed in June but not made public "for fear of scaring people to death" — shows asbestos from a mining company on Lake Superior is not properly removed by Ontario filtration systems.

Contamination counts are based on millions of fibre particles per litre of water.

On this scale, said Dr. Shulman, Sarnia had the highest count — 3.87 particles per litre. Sarnia is prepared to install a filtering system.

Belleville's reading is given as .531.

Other counts in east-central Ontario included: Ottawa .126; Peterborough 1.86; Oshawa.127; Brockville .481; Cornwall 2.11.

The report states Toronto has the third highest level among locations with water filtration systems with 1.89 fibres per litre.

The highest filtered level was at Niagara Falls with 2.58 million fibres. Pembroke, a city without a filtration system on the Ottawa River, had a reading of 2.85.

In an interview Dr. Shulman described the situation as "like sitting on a time bomb. It takes 15 to 20 years for cancers to develop from asbestos fibres".

In the legislature he asked Environment Minister William Newman about the report. Mr. Newman said he has not seen it "but all my technical people tell me our water is absolutely safe for drinking".

Dr. Shulman added that, although there is a link between asbestos inhalation and lung cancer, there is no conclusive study showing a link between asbestos ingestion and stomach and digestive tract cancer. He said this may be because cancer takes so long to show up after exposure.

Biochemist Robert Legge, who gave the IJC draft report to Dr. Shulman, wrote in an article to be published in a science fiction journal that other unpublished research shows six of seven rats developed cancerous tumors after swallowing asbestos fibres.

Mr. Legge added, however, that the research by two federal department of health and welfare scientists was considered too small and a new study involving 100 rats is in progress.

Dr. C. R. Lenk, public health officer for Hastings and Prince Edward counties, said his department would not be involved in such tests.

But he agreed with biochemist Legge that more scientific studies would be necessary before any definite results could be pronounced.

The number of rats tested was too small and rats do not always show the same reactions as humans to certain drugs and chemicals.

"Nevertheless, we cannot eliminate any substance (from study) that may show it may be cancerogenic," he said.

Action, however should await scientific proof from further studies, he said.

"Caution we must be, but over-cautiousness can be just as harmful," said Dr. Lenk.

Over-reaction could lead to "ridiculous removal of everything we eat and drink".

Ross Clark, Metropolitan Toronto works commissioner, said his officials are given no guidelines on asbestos levels. He said municipalities are not equipped to test for asbestos, but regularly send samples to the environment ministry for analysis.

Mr. Clark said he is confident no hazard exists in Metropolitan Toronto from asbestos fibres.

Garnet Kay, supervisor of the ministry of the Ontario environment's sanitary engineering branch waterworks, said all samples of Ontario drinking water in 1972 for asbestos were low — readings quoted above were taken from the results of this study.

That Flat Feeling

With Monday's day-long snow and wind blow, drivers had enough problems with the weather. Mechanical problems just added to the frustrations. But few had to tackle a problem of this dimension. Repairman Charles Miller was called out in the middle of the night's snow-clearing operations when this backhoe ground to a halt. One of the machine's outsize tires had gone flat.

Russia Gives Syria Jets, Tanks, Missiles

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel said today the Kremlin has supplied Syria with more than 200 fighter planes and 1,000 tanks and missiles since the October 1973 war and that the number of Soviet advisers in Syria "is now greater than ever prior to the war."

In Beirut, Premier Rashid Solh said Lebanon has asked the Arab countries for speedy supplies of arms to repel Israeli attacks similar to those on Palestinian camps on the edge of Beirut last Thursday.

Defence Minister Shimon Peres told the Israeli parliament in Jerusalem there are about 1,000 Soviet military men in Syria, including surface-to-air missiles and electronic systems.

He said the Soviets have given the Syrians advanced MIG-23s, Scud surface-to-air missiles and hundreds of armored troop carriers and anti-tank guns.

Vorster's Plan for Rhodesia Would Give Africans Power

SALISBURY (AFP) — Political sources here claim Prime Minister John Vorster of South Africa has devised a plan acceptable to Rhodesian African nationalist that would result in African majority rule within five years.

The plan, the sources said, was received enthusiastically by Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda, who successfully urged Rhodesian nationalists to enter new negotiations on the Rhodesian problem.

The sources said the nationalists accepted the plan with reservations, but agreed to adopt it as a basis for negotiations at the constitutional conference in London.

Under the plan, Rhodesian voting qualifications would be dropped to seven years primary education plus one year in high school. This would immediately bring between 130,000 and 300,000 Africans on to a common voters roll.

The plan would not result in immediate majority rule, the sources said, because most Africans with the "one-man-one-vote" qualification lived in urban areas where they would be outnumbered by white voters, now numbering 278,000.

Depending on the way constituencies were drawn up, whites would retain control for the lifetime of one Parliament—five years. But, with the increase in African voting strength during that time, control of the country would pass into black hands at the next general election in five years.

Rhodesian government sources have rejected the suggestion that such a plan could, or will, form the basis of discussion at a constitutional conference.

"This is pure speculation", they said.

They said that no such plan had emerged from recent negotiations and pointed to Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith's pledge that he will not accept a lowering of standards.

Hospital Will Fight To Save Obstetric Ward

By AL XANAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Trenton Memorial Hospital officials will fight any provincial government move to close the hospital's pediatric and obstetric wards and centralize the services at Belleville General Hospital, Albert Ward, hospital board chairman said here Monday.

Mr. Ward spoke at a press conference specifically called to dispel what hospital authorities believe is public misinformation regarding the future of the two wards in Trenton's hospital.

The chairman said its battle will be waged with caution since the hospital does not want to get the province's back up. After all he said, the ministry of health holds the purse strings.

Within the last year, two public outcries have arisen over the possibility the wards would disappear here.

The first occurred when the hospital was considering its 1974 budget, and again, most recently, upon the release of a report by Dr. Peter Gordon, preventive medicine department head at Dalhousie University.

The report, commissioned by the province, outlines a study of health care needs in Hastings County. Among its recommendations is to centralize the pediatric and obstetric services in Trenton be centralized in Belleville's hospital.

At the time the 1974 budget was being considered, the hospital warned Queen's Park it would be forced to close the two wards to stay within provincial budget guidelines.

The board's statements were used as a bargaining position from which to convince the ministry of health of the severity of the budget limitation.

Referring to the Gordon report recommendations, Mr. Ward said Monday, the hospital will "make sure they (the province) don't close the services".

He declined comment on what position the hospital will take on the reports recommendations.

The report now is under consideration by the hospital's administrative staff. Staff comments and those of the board itself are expected to be complete within three months.

In an effort to forestall any provincial move toward centralization, hospital staff will consider attracting a pediatrician to Trenton. The town now is without a pediatrician, psychiatrist, and specialists in eye, ear, nose and throat maladies. There is one obstetrician in Trenton.

Several hospital authorities noted Monday it is unknown if a pediatrician would consider settling in Trenton.

The birth rate in the area has fallen from the highs of the early 1960s. At that time, the hospital's obstetric ward of 21 beds handled about 1,000 births a year, it is recalled.

As of December this year, the occupancy rate has dropped to 45 per cent of that total.

A Touch of Paris

There's a touch of Paris in Picton this week with the annual East Central Ontario Art Association display exhibited at Prince Edward County Memorial Museum in Picton.

The exhibition of works by members from the Oshawa, Whitby, Bowmanville, Cobourg, Port Hope, Belleville, Trenton and Picton areas is the largest ever mounted by the association.

Over 200 paintings are on display, ranging from the traditional to the abstract.

Mrs. Ruth Hall, curator of the museum, said the exhibition is the best she has seen in the museum's 10 years.

Mrs. Hall said the exhibition is a tribute to the association's executive and to the artists themselves.

The exhibition will be open to the public until Dec. 31.

Art Exhibition Well Attended

PICTON — There's a touch of Paris in Picton this month with paintings from the 14th annual juried exhibition of the East Central Ontario Art Association on display.

Most of the works have been hung at the Prince Edward County Museum and museum worker Donald MacDermaid says the exhibit has drawn a large crowd.

The exhibitors were enthusiastic about the setting for their displays says Mr. MacDermaid.

It was agreed the museum, formerly the Old Church of St. Mary Magdalene, created atmospherey for the paintings.

Several awards have been announced in connection with the exhibit. The Dora Parden Memorial Award was won by Laurine Sage of Oshawa with her entry, Saturday Morning.

The Whitby Arts Award went to a work titled Carnal by Jake Mol of Agincourt.

The Oshawa and District Art Association Award was won by Robert Creighton with his entry, Sapphe Et Adonis.

The Rose Baker Award went to Enid Grasses painted by Betty Weir of Peterborough.

D'Arcy Proctor of Pontypool was winner of the Totten Sims Hubicki Association Award.

The Atco Laboratories Award was won by Audrey McLean of Oshawa with her entry Children's Children.

Many of the paintings in the exhibit already have been sold but will remain in the display until the tour of the works is finished in late February, 1975.

Mr. MacDermaid notes all of the works are priced for observers but the prizes goal of the show is to promote interest in art rather than to push prices.

A Picton woman Ethel Evans has exhibited a painting titled Bouquet in the exhibit.

Battle Looms

Albert Ward, chairman of the Trenton Memorial Hospital board of director proclaimed Monday the provincial ministry of health will face a battle if it attempts to close the pediatric and obstetric wards at the Hospital. He says he does not agree with a recent report to mong the operations of the two wards to Belleville.

Farm Wife Now Fair Organizer

CHERRY VALLEY — A Canadian Centennial project has become a full-time job for Doris Whiteford, a Cherry Valley farm wife who logs 1,400 miles annually on test.

In 1967 Mrs. Whiteford was appointed chairman of Athol Township's Centennial committee. Through this appointment, she was asked by the Prince Edward Agricultural Society to participate in organizing displays for the fall fair.

Seven years later, Mrs. Whiteford is second vice president of the agricultural society, the first woman to hold this office.

If she continues to move through the executive offices she will become the first woman president of the society in its 125-year history.

In addition to holding a vice-presidency with the Prince Edward fair board, Mrs. Whiteford is completing her first year as representative of District 9, ladies section, Ontario association of Agricultural Societies.

Through this provincial office she visits 15 fairs annually and in 1974 has travelled 1,400 miles.

Her term of office continues until the close of 1975 and involves activities such as organization of the annual district meeting held last month in Belleville.

In February 1975, she will attend a convention of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies in Toronto.

"My fair work started years ago in school fairs," recalls Mrs. Whiteford. She still keeps three certificates she won as a public school student in fairs at Athol SS No. 1. These awards were presented to her for winning the highest number of points on her farm exhibits of fruits and vegetables.

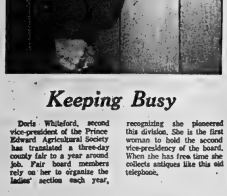
Her involvement with the Prince Edward County fall fair began with the exhibits of some home cooking and continued after she was asked to help with Centennial displays.

Although the county fair did feature exhibits of ladies' work there was no recognized ladies' section.

Mrs. Whiteford pioneered this division and in 1976 was elected to serve her fourth term as its chairman.

Mrs. Whiteford says she feels there is a community pride in Prince Edward County's annual fall fair.

She opposes regional government that might stifle this spirit of participation and enthusiasm.



"The county is full of talent with all of its arts and crafts," she adds.

Mrs. Whiteford says junior exhibits are improving each year and this is important to the future of the fair.

The older members of the directorate retire there must be young persons willing to become their replacements.

Asked if she finds being a woman a handicap in her executive position on the fair board, Mrs. Whiteford answers it definitely is an advantage.

The men seem pleased to have some one to take charge of the ladies' work efficiently and permit her a free hand in this direction.

Keeping Busy

Doris Whiteford, second vice-president of the Prince Edward Agricultural Society has translated a three-day county fair to a year around job. Local Sugar Bush Sought For Student Education

FRANKFORD — Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority officials are currently in the midst of a search for a sugar bush in the Quinte area, resources manager Bryan Boyce says.

Mr. Boyce said the search for a good stand of maple trees was undertaken after the authority received a request from the Northumberland and Newcastle Board of Education.

"School officials want students to see the production of maple syrup, one of eastern Canada's traditional spring activities.

Since the request was made in May, the authority has looked at only one stand of trees. It was found unsuitable.

Mr. Boyce said the authority has been looking for a sugar bush in the Campbellford area, but it has no real preference as to location, other than it be fairly central in its watershed.

The trouble, he said, is that sugar bush stands are hard to find "There aren't as many good stands as there once were."

The authority has enlisted the help of the provincial maple syrup producers' association and the ministry of agriculture and food in an effort to locate a suitable stand of maples.

Ideally 10 acres would be sufficient for authority purposes. Initial plans call for operational displays of both traditional and modern methods of processing the maple sap.

It is still unclear whether the authority will lease the sugar bush or buy it outright.

Mr. Boyce said buying land, once it is found, would reduce costs and make management of the property easier.

In the LTRCA watershed, several sugar bushes are open to school children. However, they are all local operations and not suitable for large school excursions.

Council Debates Chamber Deficit

TRENTON — Town council plans to sit on its municipal purse until it sees the results of a membership drive that is planned by the Trenton Chamber of Commerce to pull itself out of an expected 1975 deficit budget.

The concensus came Monday after a Chamber delegation asked council for an additional $1,000 grant to offset its 1974 anticipated deficit of $2,850.

Gary Birt, Chamber treasurer, requested the additional funds to match the $5,000 the town has given the group in past years. This year, council granted the Chamber $4,000.

In 1974, the Chamber budget stood at $11,106. The deficit was due to payments on its building and cash deficiencies, said Mr. Birt.

He also asked for an increase in the town grant for 1975.

It is difficult to operate a Chamber of our calibre on the size of the grant, said Mr. Birt. He added that Trenton's chamber is the tenth most-active in Ontario, yet is one of the lowest as far as its grant is concerned.

His told council's committee of the whole session the Chamber is making its own efforts to raise funds.

A drive to increase Chamber members from the present 135 is under way. Dues have not been substantially increased.

Council's action will hinge upon the results of the push for new members and higher dues. Both the fate of this year's request for $1,000 and an increase in 1975 grant will further depend on the town's own budget.

During discussion Monday, councillors Ron Price and Robert Wannamaker both questioned the extent of services the Chamber provides for the 35 per cent of its budget the town supplies.

Councillor Price criticized the Chamber's self-centered push for members as inefficient, and said he feels personal approaches should be made.

Part of council's cautious approach to the subject of the grant, said Mayor Robert Patrick, is a result of public criticism of the town's practice of handing out grants to groups such as the Chamber.

Sewer Request Premature

TRENTON — Council termed "premature" Monday a request from a Toronto developer for a town commitment to extend sewer and water services to a proposed 450-500 home subdivision outside Trenton boundaries in Sidney Township.

In a letter to council development engineer Paul Harris of Traders Group Ltd. indicated the subdivision would not start until some time in the future when the official plan for Sidney Township is approved.

However, Mr. Harris states at his firm would need town assurances it will get services prior to purchasing any land.

The 145 acres are located in the east half of lot one, and lot two is the second concession of Sidney.

Council took no action on the firm's letter, agreeing with a report by clerk-administrator Aubrey Sharp that the request was premature.
